This was a suit issued under the Church Discipline Act, 1840, by Mr. Henry Jenkins, of Vivian Terrace, Clifton, against the Rev. Flavell Smith Cook, M.A., Vicar of Christ Church, Clifton, in the diocese of Gloucester and Bristol, for an offence against the laws ecclesiastical in having illegally and without any just cause and reason, and contrary to his duty, refused to administer to him the Holy Sacrament. The case had originally come before a local Commission of Inquiry issued by the Bishop (see Ecclesiastical Gazette, February 1875, p. 108), and it being found by them that there was a prima facie case against the Rev. defendant, the matter was remitted to this Court under letters of request.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., Dr. Tristram, and Mr. Arthur Charles, appeared for the promoter; Mr. Jenkins, Dr. Stephens, Q.C., and Mr. Jeune for the defendant.

The Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, and Mr. Monk, M.P., were present during the proceedings.

Counsel on both sides having been heard, the DEAN of ARCHES pointed out to the learned counsel that the promoter's book only claimed to be a selection from the Bible, and not the whole volume, and that the omissions were marked by asterisks. He suggested, with a view to terminate so painful a dispute, and save any further scandal, that Mr. Jenkins should formally withdraw the perhaps hastily-written letter, in which he described the suppressed passages "as incompatible in their present generally-received sense with religion and decency," and that on that withdrawal the vicar should again admit him to the Holy Communion.

Dr. STEPHENS, for the vicar, intimated his willingness to adopt that course, but Dr. DEANE said he must have time to consider the proposal.

THURSDAY, JUNE 24.

The consideration of this case was resumed and concluded on the arguments.

The Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, who appeared as a witness, wished to state, in a case of such gravity, that he was the friend and well-wisher of both parties.

The DEAN of ARCHES, in the conclusion, said he would take a little time to look into the authorities, and to consider his judgment.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

MONDAY, JUNE 7.

CHURCH PATRONAGE BILL.

On the motion, by the Bishop of Peterborough, that this Bill be read a third time, Viscount PORTMAN expressed a hope that it would not pass the House of Commons. It did no credit to any one, and would depreciate the property of many individuals.

Viscount MIDLETON protested against the unfair attacks which had been made on the principle of the Bill, and on the manner in which it had been presented to Parliament. In bringing the question forward, the Bishop of Peterborough had only given expression to the feelings of the laity.

The Duke of SOMERSET thought that the House had acted well, both towards the principle of the Bill and the Clergy, upon whom accusations might have been retorted.

Lord COLCHESTER spoke in favour of the Bill, and Earl NELSON expressed his belief that the Bill would have the effect of putting a stop to many scandals.

The Archbishop of CANTERBURY said that no Bill had ever been better treated by the House than the present; but to strain the rights of patrons, as some persons seemed disposed to do, would, he believed, be the way to destroy lay patronage.

After some observations from Lords WAVENEY, HOUGHTON, and OVERSTONE, and some concluding remarks by the Bishop of PETERBOROUGH, the Bill was read a third time and passed.

FRIDAY, JUNE 11.

THE EXETER UNION OF BENEFICES BILL.

The Bishop of EXETER moved the second reading of this Bill, making further provision for the union of contiguous benefices within the city of Exeter. He observed that much inconvenience was at present felt in consequence of the small size of many of the parishes in Exeter, and the incomes of the clergy were quite insufficient.

The LORD CHANCELLOR hoped that the Bill would not be farther proceeded with in the present Session. If any measure of the kind were desirable, it should be not a mere local Bill, but a Bill of a more general character.

The Archbishop of CANTERBURY thought that the Bishop of Exeter had done good service in drawing attention to the subject. If the same safeguards were introduced into the Bill as were contained in a similar measure which had been applied to the Metropolis, he was of opinion that the Bill would receive the cordial approbation of the country.

The Earl of DEVON hoped that the Bishop of Exeter would accede to the suggestion of the Lord Chancellor; and Earl POWIS said that in this matter a great deal could be effected under the existing law.

Lord COLERIDGE recommended that the Bill should be postponed for the present, expressing at the same time his opinion that the eventual passing of some such measure would be extremely desirable.

The Bill was then withdrawn.

TUESDAY, JUNE 15.

BISHOPRIC OF ST. ALBAN'S BILL.

Earl BEAUCHAMP moved the second reading of this Bill, which had come up from the Commons.

He observed that, in order to give effect to the proposition to found the new Bishopric of St. Alban's, the Bill provided for the re-arrangement of the dioceses of London, Winchester, and Rochester. After mentioning the Bishop of Winchester's proposal to sell Winchester House, in St. James's Square, and to carry the proceeds to the Bishopric Endowment Fund, he said that an additional endowment was provided by the transfer by the Bishops of Winchester and Rochester of such portion of each of their incomes as would yield 500*l.*, and by the aid of public contributions. He expressed a hope that the House would be of opinion that the Bill was one which it was desirable to pass.

Earl STANHOPE said the principle of the Bill appeared to be excellent, and the details had apparently been carefully considered; but he objected to the proposal that the number of Bishops sitting in Parliament should not be increased.

Viscount MIDLETON believed the Bill was an honest endeavour to add to the real efficiency of the Episcopate, but he regretted that the county of Surrey was to be divided in the way proposed, and he believed that some means might have been devised for keeping that county together as a whole, and preventing the injury likely to be done to it by placing it in two different dioceses.

The Bishop of WINCHESTER pointed out that the diocese of Winchester was extremely large, extending from the Thames to the coast of Normandy. He explained that several schemes had been taken into consideration, and ultimately the present scheme was deemed the best that could be entertained.

The Bishop of ROCHESTER trusted that the measure would work for the good of the Church, but he hoped that it might be made less faulty as regards the distribution of patronage. In his opinion a moderate increase of the Episcopate was necessary for the full development of the Church of England.

After some observations from the Earl of CHICHESTER and Lord DYNEVOR in favour of the Bill,

Lord LYTTELTON expressed a hope that the present Bill would not prevent the passing of the more general measure which he had introduced for the increase of the Episcopate. He believed it would be of great advantage to have a large number of Bishops out of Parliament, who would be able to devote their attention exclusively to their dioceses before taking part in legislative duties.

The Bill was then read a second time.

FRIDAY, JUNE 18.

The Bishop of WINCHESTER, in reply to Lord DYNEVOR, stated that the number of livings to be transferred from the dioceses of Rochester and Winchester to the new bishopric would be thirty-five.

The Bill then passed through Committee.

FRIDAY, JUNE 25.

ECCLESIASTICAL FEES REDISTRIBUTION BILL.

The Archbishop of CANTERBURY moved the second reading of this Bill, and, in explaining its provisions, observed that it is proposed that the Ecclesiastical Commissioners should pay out of the Ecclesiastical Fees Fund a moderate sum, not exceeding 1000*l.* per annum, to the judge appointed under the Public Worship Regulation Act, for certain expenses which he was likely to incur.

The Earl of SHAFTESBURY complained of the delay in making out the returns respecting Ecclesiastical Fees moved by him.

The Archbishop of YORK supported the Bill.

Earl NELSON trusted that time would be allowed to study the Bill before it went into Committee.

The Bishop of CARLISLE pointed out some objections to the Bill, which, after some remarks by the LORD CHANCELLOR and the Archbishop of CANTERBURY, was read a second time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 9.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION (COMPULSORY ATTENDANCE) BILL.

Mr. DIXON moved the second reading of this Bill for compelling the attendance of all children at school, and the establishment of School Boards in every district. Mr. Dixon's chief argument was a statistical one to prove that wherever School Boards are established the attendance of children at school has invariably increased, and that only School Boards could be entrusted with compulsory by-laws. He examined also closely the arguments in opposition to the Bill, particularly that arising from the expense, which, he contended, on an average would be about 1d. in the pound, a mere trifle compared with the advantage to be gained.

Mr. HAMOND moved the rejection of the Bill, chiefly on the ground that it sought to establish compulsory School Boards all over the country, which, he believed, was unnecessary, would introduce discord, and ought only to be undertaken by the Government.

Mr. SCOURFIELD objected altogether to compulsion and to its attendant expenditure.

Mr. MUNDELLA spoke strongly in favour of the measure, and repeated his familiar arguments as to the superiority of Germany and Switzerland in consequence of the existence there of compulsory education.

Mr. NEWDEGATE opposed the Bill because it applied this coercive treatment to the poor.

Mr. FAWCETT, by supporting the Bill, did not pledge himself to the universal establishment of School Boards, but only to the advantage of getting all children to school, and if the Government would undertake next Session to propose some machinery by which this could be done, he was willing to advise the withdrawal of the Bill. He disclaimed all partiality to the Voluntary Schools.

Mr. A. MILLS admitted that in great towns some kind of compulsory power was necessary, but he showed by figures that compulsory by-laws have not been so successful as is represented.

Mr. RAMSAY supported the Bill by reference to the experience of Scotland.

Lord SANDON, in answer to Mr. MUNDELLA's depreciatory remarks on English education, maintained that in the last four years we had gone on as fast as any country. The attendance of children had increased by fifty per cent., and school accommodation in like proportion. Mr. Dixon's assertion that public opinion was growing in favour of School Boards rested on mere theory and assumption, and was not in accordance with the statistics. The Bill would force School Boards on 1280 places which had hitherto shown no intention of adopting them, and would force the compulsory by-law on 842 School Boards, which had hitherto shown no inclination to promulgate it. School Boards at present were indissoluble, but if the promoters of them were willing to admit that the towns which possessed School Boards might vote whether they would retain them or not, he should have much greater faith in the general desire to extend these institutions. On the contrary, he believed that the expense, the turmoil of election, and other considerations had very much cooled public opinion in favour of them. The Government would not lose sight of the importance of getting all the children of the country into the schools; but to pass this Bill would in the long run excite a feeling most dangerous to the progress of education.

Mr. W. E. FORSTER, though favourable to compulsory attendance, was still doubtful whether School Boards were the most effectual means of effecting it. But as the Government did not come forward with any plan of their own to secure general attendance, the House, he conceived, had no choice but to support this Bill.

Mr. MONK thought it was a misnomer to describe this as a Bill for compulsory attendance; its object was to establish universal School Boards.

Mr. DIXON having replied, the House divided, and the numbers were:—

For the second reading ...	164
Against it ...	255

Majority for the rejection of the Bill 91

THURSDAY, JULY 1.

THE EDUCATION VOTE.

On the motion of Viscount SANDON, a vote of 1,040,563l., to make up the sum of 1,548,563l., was, after an interesting debate, agreed to. His Lordship explained that this was an increase of 206,000l. on last year's grant, of which 191,000l. is for increases of annual grants. There are also increases for the salaries of the Privy Council office and for Inspection. Touching next upon the "apparatus of education," Lord Sandon stated, with regard to school buildings, that since 1833 4,500,000l. has been contributed for this purpose from private funds, and 1,700,000l. by the State. The school accommodation was steadily increasing; and in the August of this year it was expected that there would be accommodation for 3,100,000 children. In the numbers both of teachers and pupil-teachers there had been an increase, and also an improvement in quality. The staff of inspectors had also been increased by fifteen inspectors and twelve assistant-inspectors. The annual increment of scholars was now about 300,000, and since 1870 the over-attendance had increased by about half a million. In summing up the result of what had been done for the education of the country by the Act of 1870, Lord Sandon assured the Committee that we are in a fair way towards having good schools. He dwelt upon the importance of allowing the Code to remain undisturbed for a time, and also on the general necessity of caution. With regard to compulsion, the Government watched with considerable interest the progress of the experiment of direct and indirect compulsion, and though they were not yet prepared to give a verdict, they were alive to the inconsistencies and difficulties of the present system.

FRIDAY, JULY 10.

CONSULAR CHAPLAINS.

Mr. HEYGATE called attention to the report of the select committee appointed to inquire into the circumstances attending the withdrawal of the allowances granted to Consular Chaplains, and moved "That in the opinion of the House the withdrawal of the Government grants in aid of the maintenance of Consular Chaplains under the provisions of the Act of George IV., chapter 87, is uncalled for and inexpedient, and should be reconsidered by her Majesty's Government."

This was seconded by Colonel ALEXANDER, but after a discussion, in which Mr. BRESFORD HOPE, Mr. HANKEY, Mr. W. C. CARTWRIGHT, Mr. D. ONSLOW, Mr. A. KINNAIRD, Mr. BOURKE, Sir H. WOLFE, the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER, Sir W. BARTELOT, and Mr. J. G. TALBOT took part, was negatived without a division.

VOTING FOR PARISH CHURCH-WARDEN.

To the Editor of the "Ecclesiastical Gazette." In reply to the inquiries of a "Country Vicar," I beg to state that the points on which he seeks information are settled by 16 & 17 Vict. c. 45, s. 1; (see also 58 Geo. III. c. 69, s. 5; 59 Geo. III. c. 58, s. 3.)

The law is, that no person who shall have refused or neglected to pay any rate for the relief of the poor (except a rate which shall have been made or become due within three calendar months immediately preceding such vestry meeting (16 & 17 Vict. c. 45, s. 1), and shall have been demanded of him, shall be entitled to vote; all others are qualified. All payers of the poor's rate are entitled to vote in vestry, upon any question, and to give a vote according to qualification, i.e. one vote for assessed value (whether in one or in more than one sum or charge) up to 50l.; and one additional vote for every 25l. beyond 50l., provided that no one shall be entitled to more than six votes, whatever his assessed value.

This mode of voting is applicable for every kind of vestry business.

As church-rates are now only voluntary, it would clearly be no disqualification to a ratepayer that he had not contributed to a church-rate.

It is no disqualification to voting at vestry-meetings that the rate-payer is non-resident, but voting by proxy is inadmissible.

I have found "Shaw's Parish Law" (in which is embodied "Archbold's Parish Officer") an invaluable book on questions of parish law—the last edition, by W. Cunningham Glen, and published by Shaw and Sons, Fetter-lane, at 12s., has been of the greatest service to me in several hotly-contested points in this parish during the past year.

The book should find a place in every clergyman's library.

DEDUCTIONS FROM RENT-CHARGES.

To the Editor of the "Ecclesiastical Gazette."

In your issue of May 11, you print an interesting and able letter on the above from a "Rural Rector," in which your correspondent very reasonably complains of an injustice, which presses grievously upon the beneficed clergy, through the mode in which clerical tithe rent-charge is assessed for the purposes of local taxation. The tithe rent-charge in the hands of the incumbent of a parish is liable to be assessed for the relief of the poor and other purposes of local taxation. It is very unequally assessed in comparison with other rateable property, because, instead of being assessed at such a sum as it may reasonably be expected to let for from year to year, it is, in fact, assessed at its utmost commuted annual value less only allowance for collection, losses, and ordinary tenants' rates and taxes; while, under another aspect, the injustice is still more apparent, for it is conceivable that the advowson of a benefice, endowed with 200l. per annum commuted rent-charge, with a house and an acre of land, could be valued by a competent actuary, and sold for 1200l., and in the very same neighbourhood a freehold farm, with a house upon it, rented for 200l. per annum, would be valued in like manner, and sold for 6000l.; and yet both these properties could be rated equally for the purposes of local taxation. The beneficed clergy have patiently sustained this grievance for forty years; but the various additional rates which have been recently imposed upon their tithe rent-charge have rendered the burden almost intolerable; and I for one would cheerfully subscribe to the fund suggested by your correspondent for the purpose of causing the united voices of the beneficed clergy to be heard against an injustice which must eventually be recognized and remedied.

MISCELLANEOUS INTELLIGENCE.

INCREASE OF THE EPISCOPATE IN INDIA.

A CONFERENCE on this subject was held at Lambeth Palace on Friday, 18th ult. There were present the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishops of London and Carlisle, Lord Napier and Ettrick, Sir Charles Hobbhouse, &c. &c., and resolutions to the following effect were passed:—

1. That the present state of the Native Churches in India calls for an increase of the Episcopate, with the view of promoting the good government of these communities, and as likely to lead to an addition to the number of native clergy.

2. That it is desirable to take steps for obtaining the opinion of the authorities, civil and ecclesiastical, as to the possibility of proceeding without loss of time to the appointment of Assistant Bishops in India, who shall stand to the Bishops of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay in a similar relation to that in which Suffragan Bishops consecrated under the Act of Henry VIII. stand to Diocesan Bishops at home.

3. The meeting hears with satisfaction that there is a readiness on the part of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, and the Church Missionary Society to contribute funds towards the increase of the Indian Episcopate.

4. That the Archbishop be requested to communicate with her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, and to ask him to receive a deputation from this meeting.

On Tuesday, 29th ult., a deputation, headed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and several bishops and representatives of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, and the Church Missionary Society, waited upon the Marquis of Salisbury, asking the aid of her Majesty's Government in increasing the Episcopate in India. The Marquis admitted the necessity of increased supervision if the work of the Church in India was to continue; but he did not advise an appeal to Legislation, if the object could be attained without it. The House of Commons always receive proposals of Indian legislation with considerable apathy, and ecclesiastical legislation with considerable repulsion; and when those two were combined in the same proposition, Lord Salisbury feared that there might be some difficulty not in obtaining the assent of the majority of the House of Commons, but in obtaining the time and consideration which would be necessary to enable such a project to pass into law. As far as he had been able to ascertain, he thought it possible, under the existing state of the law, to afford the requisite relief, but he could not pledge himself as to the exact mode in which that should be done. It was of course understood that the new bishops would be supported by voluntary contributions, without any further appeal to the Indian Revenue.

Liability of Rector to repair the Fence or Wall of the Churchyard of a District Church.—At the Lambeth Police Court, the Rev. J. F. Lingham, Rector of the parish of St. Mary, Lambeth, appeared to an adjourned summons that he, as "owner of the structure known as the wall of St. Luke's Churchyard, High-street, Norwood," had, after a survey had been made by the district surveyor, who pronounced the wall to be in a dangerous state, incurred for the said survey fees amounting to 11. 15s., and 38l. 8s. 2d. for erection of hoarding and shoring, which sums he had neglected to pay.—Mr. Biron, on behalf of the Metropolitan Board of Works, appeared to support the summons, and Mr. Meadows White attended on behalf of the Rev. Mr. Lingham.—About twelve months back a summons was taken out, and an order made in this court by Mr. Chance that the necessary work should be carried out, and in default that the Metropolitan Board of Works be empowered to do the work and recover the cost. The work was carried out by the Board, and the amount specified in the summons expended. The summons was taken out against the Rev. defendant on the ground that in law he was the "owner of the churchyard," and responsible for its being kept in proper repair. Mr. Biron quoted from "Cripps on Ecclesiastical Law," where it was laid down that the rector was the person to repair the fence or wall. Although this was not the mother church of the parish yet, he contended, the rector was responsible according to the wording of the 19th and 20th Vict., cap. 104, section 10. The freeholds of district churchyards would be, he contended, vested in those who held the mother church of the parish. The district was created in the 58th year of the reign of George III., under an Act for the building and promoting the building of additional churches in populous parishes.—Mr. Meadows White did not dispute that the amount had been expended by the Board, but the question was whether the reverend gentleman was really in law, the "owner" of the churchyard. He contended he was not, and that the mother church and yard were distinct from the district of St. Luke's, Norwood.—Mr. Ellison said he was of opinion the reverend defendant was not responsible, and dismissed the summons.—An application was made on the part of the reverend defendant for costs, and Mr. Ellison, in dismissing the summons, directed an order for 5l. 5s. costs against the complainants.

Church Congress, 1875.—The arrangements for this year's Congress to be held at Stoke-on-Trent are in progress and nearly completed. The Congress will open with the usual service in Stoke parish church, on Tuesday, the 5th of October, the preacher being the Bishop of Rochester. The general meeting will be held in a spacious wooden building in course of erection adjacent to the Town Hall, in which the sections will meet. Among the subjects for discussion in the Congress Hall will be "The Church of England and the Churches in communion with her: how they may be drawn more closely together;" "Revival Movements and the desire to which they give rise for private guidance and counsel;" "Religious Education in Elementary Schools;" "Missions and Missionary Bishoprics;" "The Popular Arguments of Unbelief, and how to meet them;" "Lay Agency;" "What can the Church do to counteract Drunkenness?" "Recent Explorations and Discoveries in Bible Lands;" "Personal Holiness;" "Religious and Devotional Books;" and "Hymns and Hymn Singing." In the sections there will be discussions on "Women's Work in Church," with a paper by Miss Yonge; "Charity Organization;" "Free and Open Churches;" "Ecclesiastical Dilapidations;" "Funeral Reform;" "Church Work among the Deaf and Dumb, in the Army, and among the Boatmen on Canals;" "How Far Recent Legislation has affected Religious Instruction in our Universities and Higher Schools;" "The Organization of Episcopacy in Large Towns;" "The Supply of Clergy;" "Children's Services;" "Special Preachers;" and "Pastoral Work."

The Oath of Homage taken by the Bishops of the Church of England.—In the postscript of a letter addressed to the Earl of Limerick by the Bishop of Lincoln on the meaning of a clause in the Oath of Homage taken by the Bishops of the Church of England, showing that it has a defensive and negative character against the aggressions and usurpations of the See of Rome, the Right Rev. Prelate says:—"In order to substantiate my assertion, that the oath has 'a defensive and negative character,' and is to be construed accordingly, I beg to subjoin the following paragraphs from it, which are also its preamble:—"I do verily testify and declare that your Majesty is the only supreme governor of this your Majesty's realm, and of all other your Majesty's dominions and countries, as well in spiritual or ecclesiastical things or causes as temporal, and that no foreign prince, prelate, State, or potentate hath, or ought to have, any jurisdiction, power, superiority, pre-eminence, or authority, ecclesiastical or temporal, within this realm, or any other of your Majesty's dominions; and therefore I do utterly renounce and forsake all foreign jurisdictions, powers, superiorities, and authorities."

The National Society.—Voluntary Elementary Schools.—A deputation, headed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishops of Gloucester and Bristol, Carlisle and Rochester, waited upon the Duke of Richmond and Viscount Sandon on Thursday, 8th inst., with reference to the present condition of voluntary schools, and to the measures to be devised to relieve the supporters of the voluntary elementary schools from the competition of the school-boards. The Duke of Richmond, in reply, stated that the subject was one which greatly occupied the attention of himself and his colleagues. Owing to its extreme difficulty, however, an immediate reply could not be given; but in the meantime further information in support of the views stated would be gladly received.

METROPOLIS.

Church Conference on Foreign Missions.—A Conference on Foreign Missions, with the view of gathering up the results of experience, of taking counsel together, and of thus maintaining and stimulating Christian zeal and energy in this department of the Church's work, was held on Tuesday, 22nd ult., in the great hall of the Cannon-street Hotel. The Conference had been inaugurated by an evening service at St. Paul's Cathedral, with a sermon by the Rev. Canon Miller, on Monday, and by an early Communion at St. Martin's, on Tuesday. At the Morning session the Bishop of London presided; and papers—"On a Native Ministry: the best mode of developing it"—were read by the Bishop of Edinburgh, and the Rev. J. B. Good, fifteen years missionary in British Columbia. The afternoon session was under the presidency of the Archbishop of Canterbury, when Professor Monier Williams and Bishop Claughton read papers on "The False Religions of the World—the best ways of dealing with them." An interesting discussion followed, in which the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, Sir Bartle Frere, and several others took part; and papers were then read—"On the Manners and Customs of Western Christianity: how far to be enforced on Converts to the Faith,"—by Rev. R. Caldwell, D.D., and Rev. James Long, both missionaries from India.

Earl Nelson presided over the evening meeting, when papers were read on "The Home Supply and Training of Men and Women for work in Foreign Missions," by the Bishop of Carlisle and the Bishop of Bloemfontein; and a paper on "The best mode of calling out a greater Missionary Spirit among Home Churchmen," by Sir Hugh Birley, M.P.

PROVINCIAL.

Chancellor's Court of Lincoln. The Title of "Reverend."—Mr. WALTER PHILLIMORE, Chancellor of the Diocese of Lincoln, in the case which had been argued in behalf of the petitioner by Dr. STREPHENS, Q.C., and Mr. R. A. BAYFORD, the contention being as to the right of Dissenting Ministers to the prefix "Reverend" (see Ecclesiastical Gazette, May, 1875, p. 153)—said this was an application to the Court to issue the usual citation and intimation in order to obtain a faculty for the erection of a particular tombstone in the churchyard of the parish of Owston Ferry. The petition was filed on behalf of a gentleman who described himself as "the Reverend Henry Keet, Wesleyan Minister," and it stated that he was a resident parishioner at Owston Ferry, that in May, 1874, he lost a daughter, who was buried in the churchyard of the parish, and that he was anxious to erect over the grave a tombstone bearing this inscription—"In loving Memory of Miss Augusta Keet, the youngest daughter of the Rev. H. Keet, Wesleyan Minister, who died at Owston Ferry, May 11, 1874, aged seven years and two months, safe sheltered from the storms of life." The Vicar refused to allow him to erect a tombstone bearing such an inscription, on the ground that it included the words "Reverend" and "Wesleyan Minister." The Bishop, on being appealed to, replied that it was the duty of the Incumbent to examine the epitaphs which might be proposed to inscribe on gravestones in the churchyard of his parish, and that he was empowered by law to make objections to anything in them which, in his judgment, was liable to exception. The Archbishop of Canterbury, presuming that the petitioner was a regularly-appointed, permanent Minister of the Wesleyan denomination, did not feel called upon to give a legal opinion as to the action of the Incumbent; but certainly the objections urged by him should not be made. His Grace's letter was addressed to "The Rev. Henry Keet." After an elaborate examination of the several points and circumstances of the case, the Chancellor said, the endeavour of the petitioner seemed to be to obtain for the title "Reverend" an authoritative sanction by the Church. The inscription did not run as if that were a mere claim of the title by that gentleman; it stated his title as a fact. If the inscription had been worded in any way which would show that it was an asserted title, he would have strained point in his favour, and issued a citation. I would do so now in a fresh petition proposing a modified inscription, but as it stood he must refuse the citation.

Mr. Keet's proctor gave formal notice of appeal.

Newly-constituted Archdeaconry of Oakham. The necessary consents having been obtained, a scheme prepared by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England to carry into effect the proposal of the Bishop of Peterborough for the creation of a new archdeaconry in his diocese, taking its title from the town of Oakham, has received the ratification of her Majesty. An endowment of 135l. per annum is secured to the new archdeaconry out of the common fund of the Ecclesiastical Commission, in addition to the customary fees. Benefices formerly within the archdeaconry of Northampton, and now within the archdeaconry of Oakham, are those comprised within the following rural deaneries, being the whole of the curand, and part of the northern division of County of Northampton. Higham first deanery, Higham second deanery, Higham third deanery, Oundle first deanery, Oundle second deanery, Oundle third deanery, Peterborough deanery, Peterborough second deanery,

Peterborough third deanery, Weldon second deanery,
Weldon first deanery, Rutland second deanery,
Rutland third deanery.

COLONIAL.

Establishment in the Colonies.—An inal deputation, comprising several members liament, had an interview with the Earl marvon, at the Colonial Office, on the subject of the ecclesiastical endowments of the Colonial Churches. Several gentlemen having been, his Lordship, in reply, remarked that, daily speaking, there were two very different classes of colonies to which the question of disestablishment and disendowment applied. Having referred at some length the different circumstances of several colonies, his Lordship said, the West India islands the question of disestablishment is intimately bound up with the question of religion; and when you destroy in any of those islands the ecclesiastical system you strike with it a very serious blow to the moral education of the black races. There is in these islands, as every one knows, far less zeal and feeling on all these subjects than in the old country like this; and, in addition to that, there are a great many absentee landlords, the result frequently is that when you have rid of those establishments you have recovered at the same time with it one considerable security at least for the reasonable and humanizing education of the black races. Whilst I take that view, and regret in some respect the policy that has been adopted, I may say that it is one thing to have originated that policy, and quite another thing now to undo it where it has been adopted. A point was raised to which I really cannot give an immediate answer, respecting the conditions, as I understand it, under which the Roman Catholics now receive money as compared with the conditions under which the Protestant denomination receive it; I will look into the question. It seems, without regarding it, to be a reasonable matter, as related to-day, for consideration. I shall be happy to give it my best attention, with the view to making any arrangements which will be the whole satisfactory and fair to all parties.

PUBLIC EDUCATION IN ENGLAND AND WALES.

Calculation of Attendance.

23. Attendance at a morning or afternoon meeting may not be reckoned for any scholar who has been under instruction in secular subjects less than two hours; if above, or one hour and a half if under, seven years of age; nor attendance at an evening meeting for any scholar who has been under similar instruction less than one hour.
24. Attendance of boys at military drill, under competent instructor, for not more than two hours a week, and 40 hours in the year, may, in day school, be counted as school attendance.
25. Attendances may not be reckoned for any scholar above 18, or in a day school under 3, or in an evening school, under 12 years of age.
26. The average number in attendance for any period is found by adding together the attendances of all the scholars for the same period, and dividing the sum by the number of times the school has met within the same period; the quotient is the average number in attendance.
27. In calculating the average number in attendance, the attendances of half-time scholars reckon for no more than those of other scholars.

* Reading will be tested in the ordinary class books, if approved by the Inspector; but these books must be of reasonable length and difficulty, and unmarked. If they are not so, books brought by the Inspector will be used. Every class ought to have two or three sets of reading books. The class examination (Article 19 C.) will be conducted so as to show the intelligence, and not the mere memory of the scholars. The new subjects introduced into Article 28 are mainly taken, with the same object, from the 4th Schedule (specific subjects) in the Code of 1874.

† The "weights and measures" taught in public elementary schools should be only such as are really useful:—such as Avoirdupois Weight, Long Measure, Liquid Measure, Time Table, Square and Cubical Measures, and any measure which is connected with the industrial occupations of the district.

29. Scholars may not be presented a second time for examination—

- (a.) under a lower standard; or,
- (b.) under the same Standard, unless they fail to pass in more than one subject in that Standard (Article 19 B. 3 and 4).

31. After the 31st of December, 1877, no day scholar above 9 years of age, and no evening scholar above 14, will be examined in Standard II.

Reduction of Grant.

32. The amount which may be claimed by the managers under Articles 19 and 22 is reduced,—

- (a.) By its excess above,—
  1. The income of the school from fees, rates, and subscriptions; and
  2. One half the expenditure on the annual maintenance<sup>3</sup> of the school,
- (b.) By not less than one-tenth, nor more than one-half in the whole, upon the inspector's report, for faults of instruction, discipline, or registration, on the part of the teacher, or (after six months' notice) for failure on the part of the managers to remedy any such defect in the premises as seriously interferes with the efficiency of the school, or to provide proper furniture, books, maps, and other apparatus of elementary instruction. If the inspector at a visit without notice (Article 12), not less than six months after intimation has been given of the requirements of the Department, reports that they have not been carried into effect, a deduction may be made from the next grant to the school.

1. If a staff of pupil-teachers is not provided (Article 70 g.), at the rate of one for every 40 (or fraction of 40) scholars in average attendance, after the first 60;

A deduction, at the rate of 1l. for the year will be made on account of each of the first 20 scholars out of every 40 for whom a pupil-teacher is required but not provided.

2. A certificated (Article 43) assistant teacher, or an assistant fulfilling the conditions of Article 79, is equivalent to two pupil-teachers.
3. In mixed and girls' schools a woman (not less than 18 years of age) who is employed during the whole day in the general instruction of the scholars, and in teaching sewing, is, if approved by

- (1) No pupil-teacher is required for the first 60 scholars.
- (2) One pupil-teacher is required for any number of scholars between 61 and 100, inclusive.
- (3) Two pupil-teachers are required for 101 to 140 scholars, and so on.

the inspector, accepted as equivalent to a pupil-teacher.

33. If the excess of scholars has arisen from increased attendance of children since the last settlement of the school staff (Article 39), the amount claimed by the managers is not reduced under Article 32c.

School Diary or Log-Book.

34. In every school receiving annual grants, the managers must provide out of the school funds, besides registers of attendance (Article 17h),—

(a.) A diary or log book.

(b.) A portfolio to contain official letters, which should be numbered (1, 2, 3, &c.) in the order of their receipt.

35. The diary or log-book must be stoutly bound, and contain not less than 300 ruled pages.

36. The principal teacher must make at least once a week in the log-book an entry which will specify ordinary progress, visits of managers, and other facts concerning the school or its teachers, such as the dates of withdrawals, commencements of duty, cautions, illness, &c., which may require to be referred to at a future time, or may otherwise deserve to be recorded.

37. No reflections or opinions of a general character are to be entered in the log-book.

38. No entry once made in the log-book may be removed or altered otherwise than by a subsequent entry.

39. The summary of the inspector's report after his annual visit, or any visit made without notice, and any remarks made upon it by the Department, when communicated to the managers, must be immediately copied verbatim into the log-book, with the names and standing (certificated teacher of the—class, or pupil-teacher of the—year, or assistant teacher) of all teachers to be continued on, or added to, or withdrawn from, the school staff, according to the decision of the Department upon the inspector's report. The correspondent of the managers must sign this entry, which settles the school-staff for the year.

40. The inspector will call for the log-book and portfolio at every visit, and will report whether they appear to have been properly kept. He will specially refer to the entry made pursuant to Article 39, and he will require to see entries accounting for any subsequent change in the school staff. He will also note in the log-book every visit paid without notice (Article 12), making an entry of such particulars as require the attention of the managers.

SECTION II.

TEACHERS REFERRED TO IN THE PRECEDING SECTION.

41. The recognized classes of teachers are,—
(a.) Certificated teachers. (b.) Pupil-teachers.
(c.) Assistant teachers.

42. Lay persons alone can be recognized as teachers in elementary schools.

Certificated Teachers.

43. Teachers in order to obtain certificates, must be examined (Article 44), and must undergo probation by actual service in school (Article 51).

Examination.

44. Examinations are held in December of each year at the several training colleges under inspection (Article 100), and at such other centres as may be necessary.

45. A syllabus of the subjects of examination for male and female candidates respectively, may be had on application to the Department (Article 14).

46. The names of teachers desiring to be examined must be notified by the managers of their schools to the Department before the 1st day of October preceding the examination.

47. The examination for certificates is open to,—

(a.) Students who have resided for at least one year in training colleges under inspection; or

(b.) Candidates who are upwards of 21 years of age, and have either—

1. completed an engagement as pupil-teacher satisfactorily;
2. obtained a favourable report from an inspector; or
3. served as assistants, for at least six months, in schools under certificated teachers.

(c.) Candidates who at the time of the examination are not teachers of schools to which annual grants are or may be made, must be recommended by the authorities of their college, or by the managers of the school in which they last served.

48. Teachers attending the examination may at their option take the papers of the first or second year's students (Article 102.)

49. A list is published showing the successful candidates of each year, whether students or acting teachers, arranged in four divisions in the first, and three divisions in the second, year.

50. The relative proficiency of the candidates according to examination is recorded upon their certificates.

Probation.

51. Candidates for certificates, after successfully passing their examination, must, as teachers continuously engaged in the same schools, obtain two favourable reports from an inspector, with an interval of one year (Article 13) between them; and, if the first of these reports be not preceded by service of three months (at the least) since the examination, a third report, at an interval of one year after the second report, is required. If the second (or third) report is favourable a certificate is issued.

52. Teachers under probation satisfy the conditions which require that schools be kept by certificated teachers.

Certificates.

53. Certificates are of three classes. No certificate is originally issued above the second class. The third (lowest) class includes special certificates for teachers of infants, and of small schools.

Certificates of the First and Second Class.

54. Candidates who are placed by examination in any of the first three divisions (Article 49), receive certificates of the second class, which can be raised to the first class by good service only.

55. Certificates of the second class remain in force for 10 years from the date of their issue, after which interval they are open to revision according to the intermediate reports.

Certificates of the Third Class.

56. Candidates who are placed by examination in the fourth division (Article 49) receive certificates of the third class.

57. Certificates of the third class do not entitle the teachers to have the charge of pupil-teachers.

58. Certificates of the third class can be raised only by examination.

59. Certificates of the third class may be granted without examination, upon the report of an inspector, to acting teachers who satisfy the following conditions:—

(1.) They must, at the date of the inspector's report,—

- (b.) That not less than 20 children, who had been under instruction in their schools during the preceding six months, were individually examined (Article 28); and
- (c.) That at least 15 of the "passes" of these scholars in reading, writing, or arithmetic, were made in the second or some higher Standard.

(3.) No applications for certificates under the Article will be entertained which do not reach the Department (Article 14) on or before the 31st of October, 1875.

The Archbishop of Canterbury requests that during his temporary absence, from this date and until further notice, all letters be sent to his Grace's Secretary, J. B. Lee, Esq., 2, Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

Money Grants recommended by the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Tasmania.—The Rev. Charles B. Brome, Incumbent of the Parish of the Forth and Leven, applied for a grant in aid of the erection of a small church at the River Don Settlement in his parish. It is calculated that a wooden church, with open blackwood roof and wainscot, plastered walls and lead lights, to accommodate from sixty to seventy people, will cost 250*l*. The site will be vested in the Synod Trustees. Of this sum 170*l*. are promised, and for the most part are in hand. Some more may be expected, but not all that is required. The people of the neighbourhood, besides contributing the greater part of the 170*l*. named, have expended 80*l*. in the purchase of a cabinet organ. The number of the population, many of whom are Nonconformists, is not known; but 120 children attend the Public School. Most of the people are mechanics and working men, employed in the various branches of the establishment of Messrs. Cumming, Henry, and Co. The Services of the Church have only been regularly established for about two years and three quarters. They have been hitherto held in the Hall of the Mechanics' Institute, kindly lent for the purpose.

The Bishop of Tasmania, writing from Hobart Town on the 15th of April, forwarded and recommended the application.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 20*l*. in this case, on the usual conditions, viz. that the Society's grant shall be paid when the Bishop shall have certified that the receipt of it will lead to the immediate completion of the building, and to its being free from all liability for debt; and further, that the property has been legally secured as Church property for ever.

Diocese of Christ Church, New Zealand.—The Bishop of Christ Church forwarded and strongly recommended an application from the Rev. B. W. Dudley, Incumbent of Rangiora, for a grant towards rebuilding the church at Rangiora.

Rangiora is an agricultural district, with a tolerably large village centre, with stores and offices. There are scarcely any resident gentry; the population is about 1000. The present church, the site of which is vested in the Bishop, will accommodate 200 persons. It is proposed to add a chancel and transepts, at a cost of from 700*l*. to 800*l*., and thus to provide additional accommodation for 100 persons. Eventually, if more money can be raised, the nave of the old church will be pulled down, and replaced by a larger one. About 400*l*. have been raised, and 150*l*. more are expected, leaving a deficiency of 150*l*. or 250*l*., towards making up which the Society is asked to contribute.

"Canon Dudley has done so much in promoting church building in the neighbourhood which has been more or less under his charge as Rural Dean, that I shall be very thankful if my recommendation of his application to the Society for assistance in a matter in which he is so immediately concerned should meet with favourable consideration."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 20*l*., for the completion of the chancel and transepts, on the usual conditions.

Christ Church, New Zealand.—The Rev. Edward A. Lingard, of St. Luke's, Christ Church, New Zealand, writing from Christ Church, on May 8, 1875, applied for a grant in aid of building a new church in the outskirts of his parish, for the use of those who are unable to attend the services at the parish church. The district is by no means a wealthy one, and Mr. Lingard fears that there will be considerable difficulty in raising funds sufficient for the proposed undertaking.

It is intended, in the first instance, to build a nave of wood with concrete foundations, to seat about 108 persons, at an estimated outlay of 400*l*.; it is hoped that a chancel and transept will be added afterwards to accommodate 140 additional persons. The church is much needed, the population of the district being about 700, and consisting for the most part of the working class.

Mr. Lingard had held a meeting of persons interested in the matter in the week before he wrote, when 91*l*. were subscribed by those who may be looked upon as the well-to-do of the district, and a committee formed to raise further funds. A suitable site has been given by the Dean and Chapter, and the Church Property Trustees have made a grant of 100*l*.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 25*l*. on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Antigua.—The Rev. John Rigaud, Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, and Secretary to the Oxford District Committee of S.P.C.K., applied for a grant in aid of building a school in a poor parish in Antigua. The Rev. C. C. Culpeper, the rector of the parish, is now in England, and is well known to Mr. Rigaud, who wrote as follows: "I am personally aware how warmly Mr. Culpeper is supported by the Bishop of his Diocese." Mr. Rigaud is trustee of the School-building Fund, and acts for the rector in this matter.

Mr. Culpeper is engaged in building two schools for two large parishes in St. Kitts, but the present application is only for one of them—the cost of each of the schools, which are to be of stone, will not be less than 300*l*.; about 200*l*. have, after much and long continued effort, been raised. The population is a coloured one, and both very numerous and very poor. Disestablishment and disendowment, depreciation of property and absenteeism and indifference to compass efforts with the greatest difficulties.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 30*l*. for this school, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Bloemfontein.—The Bishop of this diocese, who is in this country, applied for a grant in aid of building a church in Beaufort Land, a crown colony, in which are about 250 English and 125,000 natives, and where the Bishop has recently planted a new Mission. The English are struggling traders. There is at present no church, parsonage, or school in connexion with the Church of England.

One hundred pounds have been collected for the church, which is to be built of wood, brick, and iron, to accommodate 100 persons, and is vested in the Bishop.

The Standing Committee recommended a grant of 80*l*. for the completion of the church, on the usual conditions. This grant was made.

Diocese of Madras.—The Standing Committee submitted the following extract from a letter recently received from the Rev. Charles Egbert Kennet, Secretary of the Madras District Committee of S.P.C.K., and now in this country.

"The educated and English-reading Hindus of the Madras Presidency, as elsewhere throughout India, can be reached only through English books, and for this purpose evidential works, adapted to the Hindu mind and tastes, may be found useful. It is worthy of consideration if such works can be prepared in England by scholars who have studied Hindu philosophy and religion. I am of opinion that a reprint of Archdeacon Hardwick's 'Hinduism,' in his work, 'Christ and other Masters,' in a separate form and by itself, will gain attention from Hindus from its conciliatory tone, and be useful to candidates for ordination, as being a scholarly introduction to the more enlarged study of the whole subject."

The Committee added that, through the kind consent of Messrs. Macmillan and Co., they could procure 500 copies of the portion of the work referred to, for use in India, at 1*s*. 6*d*. each, bound; and they recommended a grant of 43*l*. 15*s*., the amount required for the purchase of 500 copies, and to put the books at the disposal of the Madras Committee of S.P.C.K. with a request that the proceeds of sale should be returned to the Society as a donation.

The recommendation of the Standing Committee was adopted.

Diocese of British Columbia.—The Rev. J. B. Good, who has been working as a Missionary in this diocese for almost fifteen years in an inland district extending over about 50,000 square miles, applied for a grant of a small printing press and plant, to be kept at the Central Mission Home at Lytton.

The estimated cost of a suitable press, &c. was 56*l*. 17*s*. For paper, &c., including carriage Mr. Good asked for 43*l*. 3*s*., in all 100*l*.

Mr. Good further asked for a liberal grant of books and tracts for distribution, and for land lying amongst the Europeans and others scattered through his vast district. He also asked for grant of books for use of himself and his fellow-labourers in the Mission.

Mr. Good wrote:—

"I have under me some 50 native communicants, 200 confirmed, 300 baptized, 1000 catechumens, and a multitude of hearers, exclusive of children; I also minister to the European population inhabiting some six towns, hundreds of miles apart, in as many settlements. There are also thousands of Chinese spread over this district and the country to the north of us."

Mr. Good had with him a letter of commendation from his bishop, and from Mr. Bullock, of the S.P.G. The Warden of St. Augustine's, Canterbury, had also testified to the devotion of Mr. Good to his work.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 100*l.* for providing the printing-press, type, paper, &c., as applied for by Mr. Good.

For amount of Book Grant, see below.

Diocese of Grahamstown.—The Rev. E. J. Mullins, Principal of the Kaffir College, Grahamstown, and now in this country, addressed a letter to the Secretary, from which the following are extracts:—

"I beg through you to make the following applications to the venerable Society:—

"1st. For a grant towards the purchase of a printing press. I have made inquiry, aided by an expert, and find that such a press as we require can be purchased for about 125*l.*, i. e.,— "(a) Press (Albion) about 45*l.* One smaller than this would, I fancy, be of but little use.

"(b) Type and all the requisite fittings, including the extra type that we should require in order to print in the Kaffir language, about 80*l.*

"There would still remain freight, insurance, and carriage inland, together with custom dues, to be provided for.

"At the Institution I have buildings which could easily be made available for printing offices.

"2ndly. For a grant of books towards a Theological Library for the Institution. We have no such books, except those I have been enabled from time to time to borrow from friends.

"3rdly. For a grant of bibles and prayer books and a few maps and atlases, for the use of the Institution. Our set of maps is not quite complete.

"4thly. For a grant of four sets of bibles and prayer books (small size) for the use of the congregations in the Grahamstown Rural District, at Hilton, Manley's Flats, Fort Brown, and Botha's Hill.

"I have not been able to obtain the Bishop's signature to this application; but letters which he informs me he has written to the Society, will, I hope, be sufficient to enable the Committee to waive this rule."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 125*l.* for the printing press and materials as applied for, also to make grants of S.P.C.K. books.

Book Grants recommended by the Standing Committee.

Book Grants, Special and Ordinary, were agreed to.

Diocese of Canterbury.—The Rev. E. Gilder, Hon. Secretary of the Canterbury Diocesan Board of Education, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 85*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the Diocesan Board; the whole of the books to be given as prizes for Religious Knowledge to Pupil-teachers who shall be placed on the first class of their respective years at an Examination to be held in course of the present month.

The number of Pupil-teachers who were examined last year was 478; the number who gained first-classes was 128.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to make this grant at a cost to the Society of 35*l.*

Diocese of Gloucester and Bristol.—Cheltenham Training College.—The Rev. R. M. Chamney, Principal, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 10*l.*, to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of the college, for the purpose of giving a prize to each student placed in the first class in the Religious Knowledge Examination to be held in October next by the Board of Examiners appointed by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York.

There are ninety male and sixty female students, and Mr. Chamney expects that from twenty-five to thirty will gain first classes.

The grant was made, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, as applied for at a cost of 10*l.* to the Society.

Diocese of London.—The Rev. Canon Cromwell, Principal of St. Mark's College, Chelsea, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 10*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the college, the whole of the books to be given as prizes to students who shall gain first classes in an Examination in Religious Knowledge to be held next October by a Board of Examiners appointed by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York.

Last year fifty-eight first year students were examined, of whom thirty were placed in the first class; sixty-three second year students were examined, of whom twenty-nine were placed in first-class; in all, fifty-nine in first class.

This application was agreed to, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, at a cost to the Society of 10*l.*

Diocese of Oxford.—The Rev. E. Barber, Diocesan Inspector, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 20*l.*, to meet an equal outlay on the part of the Diocesan Board; the whole of the books to be given as prizes for Religious Knowledge to Pupil-teachers who gain first classes at an Annual Examination in Religious Knowledge. Four hundred and fifty Pupil-teachers will be examined on the 24th instant, and, judging from previous years, from ninety to one hundred may be expected to be in the first class.

A grant, at a cost to the Society of 20*l.*, was made on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

British Columbia.—To the Rev. J. B. Good, S.P.C.K. books for use in his extensive Mission, to the value of 50*l.*

Diocese of Grahamstown.—Three grants of S.P.C.K. books were made, on the application of the Rev. R. J. Mullins. One grant of 25*l.* for the Theological Library; another of 20*l.* of bibles, prayer books, and maps for the use of the students in the Institution; another of four sets of 8vo service books for New Churches.

Church of England Scripture Readers' Association.—Mr. Roddam Tate, Secretary of this Association, applied for a further grant of tracts issued by S.P.C.K. for distribution by means of the Readers of the Association.

In July last 50*l.* worth of tracts was granted for this purpose. In reply to a letter from the Secretary, Mr. Tate wrote as follows:—

"Though unable to give individual cases of God's blessing in connexion with former grants of tracts made to this Association by the S.P.C.K., I am quite prepared, after conference with our Readers, to give you the fullest assurance that the tracts selected by this Committee from your list have been most acceptable to those amongst whom they visit; and we may surely hope and expect that where the good seed has been sown fruit will in due time appear to the glory of God."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to make a further grant of S.P.C.K. tracts to the value of 50*l.*

Waterside Church Mission.—The Rev. J. Hewlett, Vicar of St. Luke's, Millwall, wrote as follows, on the 29th of May:—

"For more than eight years I have been actively engaged in building a church for this needy district, and large day and Sunday schools for 700 children, and in organizing the parish; and having been, during the greater portion of that time, single-handed, it has been impossible for me to do much among the great mass of sailors, who will never be properly reached unless brought under the personal influence of the resident clergy of the parishes where the docks are situated.

"Recently, however, to meet this pressing want, I have come to an arrangement with the Rev. J. Scarth, the Vicar of Holy Trinity, Gravesend, and the Hon. Secretary of the St. Andrew's Church Mission, to establish a branch of that mission here, so as to continue the work which is so admirably done at Gravesend; but we sadly need assistance to float the work, especially do we require books to form libraries, hymn-books and Prayer Books for service on board ship, &c.

"I deemed it necessary, before making this application, to communicate with the Secretaries of the two docks which are under my charge, the Millwall and the South West India, so as to put before you the exact figures, in order that your Society may see how important it is that something should be done.

"From the two official letters which are before me, I find that the number of vessels which entered the Millwall Dock during the year 1874 was 1574, with a tonnage of 1,021,516 tons; and the number which entered the South West India—chiefly vessels of great size—was 735, with a capacity to carry 802,005 tons, making a total in the two docks of 2309 ships, with a carrying capacity of 1,823,521 tons.

"If we add to these figures the number of ships anchored along the bank of the Thames (all between the South West India and the Millwall Docks being in this parish), and other ships in the West India Docks, which are near enough to be brought under the influence of this work, the total number will exceed 2500, and the tonnage exceed 2,000,000 of tons. I have mentioned these figures that we may arrive at the number of seamen engaged.

"By the requirements of the Board of Trade a vessel of 500 tons must have six officers, nine able seamen, and five ordinary seamen, and a vessel 1000 tons, seven officers, nineteen able seamen, and nine ordinary seamen, &c. At the very lowest estimate—setting aside passengers and emigrants—the number of men engaged on board these ships in one year is 60,000. We want to do something for all these men on Church of England principles, by providing them with good wholesome reading, seeking after unbaptized children, holding occasional services on board, and getting hold of some suitable man who will promise to conduct a short service, by reading a portion of our English Liturgy, &c., while the ship is on the voyage; and we believe that the British seamen will be all the better for being brought into contact with the Church whose Liturgy breathes a prayer every Sunday for those who 'travel by water.'

"The grants so liberally made by your Society to the parent Institution at Gravesend will of necessity be absorbed there, as there is an increased demand at that port for ship's libraries; we cannot hope, therefore, to receive many books from thence.

"I am sure we could usefully employ 50*l.* of your publications before Christmas; we shall be glad to give an account of our stewardship at that time.

"I have voluntarily taken up this work with the earnest wish of 'sowing beside all waters,' and I commend it as worthy of your kind support."

The Secretary added that he had heard from Mr. Scarth, the Honorary Secretary of the St. Andrew's Waterside Church Mission, who heartily approved of Mr. Hewlett's application, and said that the grants of Books made to his Mission were quite too few to enable him to supply the requirements of Mr. Hewlett.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant Books to Mr. Hewlett, for the purpose named in his letter, to the value of 50*l*.

Missions to Seamen.—Commander Dawson, Secretary to the Mission to Seamen Association, applied for Foreign Tracts, &c., including Norwegian Manuals for Sailors, and two Norwegian Tracts, specially prepared for him, to the value of 145*l*.

Commander Dawson stated that the Society with which he was connected had work going on at thirty-two seaports, in each of which there is a constant flow of fresh strangers, and that he had ascertained from each Chaplain employed how many Tracts in foreign languages he could profitably use during twelve months. Commander Dawson added, We are checking the promiscuous issue of English Tracts, but Foreign Tracts are oftentimes the only mode of speaking to foreigners, and the Chaplains complain that the grants made are wholly inadequate to their wants.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant these foreign tracts, &c., as applied for, to the value of 145*l*.

Diocese of Tasmania.—Port Cygnet.—The Bishop of Tasmania applied for a set of Service Books for this church, towards the erection of which the Society in 1873 voted 25*l*.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant a set of Quarto Service Books.

Grants of which Notice was given at the last Meeting.

Increase of the Episcopate in India.—Mr. Humphry, on behalf of the Standing Committee, rose to propose the Resolution of which notice had been given at the last Monthly Meeting. The Resolution was, after some discussion, put in the following somewhat altered form:—

"That, considering the present state and progress of the Church in India, and the importance of increasing the Episcopal superintendence of the Missionaries in that country, the Board do set aside a sum of 15,000*l*. to assist any well matured scheme for the maintenance of additional bishops in India to promote and superintend the Missionary work in that country; it being understood (1) that the interest of this sum shall be applicable to the payment of assistant bishops; and (2) that at the end of five years so much of the proposed grant shall lapse as shall not have been met by subscriptions of treble the amount from other sources."

The Resolution was carried unanimously.

Prizes for Religious Knowledge to Students on admission to Church of England Training Colleges.—The Standing Committee, in accordance with notice given at the last Meeting, and for reasons set forth in the last Monthly Report, proposed that a sum of 300*l*. be reserved with a view of enabling the Society to grant money prizes of 3*l*. each to those Candidates for admission to Church of England Training Colleges, who shall gain First Classes in an Examination in Religious Knowledge, to be conducted under the auspices of the National Society, and who shall be admitted to some Church of England Training College, on the distinct understanding that the National Society will in future bear half the cost of similar money prizes.

The Secretary added that he had sent a copy of the notice of this Motion to the Secretary of the National Society, who had stated in reply that the understanding respecting the National Society was in strict accordance with the resolutions of that Society.

The proposal was agreed to.

Reports and Notices from the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Melbourne.—The Standing Committee reported that the Bishop of Melbourne, now in this country, had applied for a grant in aid of the education of Mr. Davis, a native of Australia, at Moore College, Sydney, as a theological student. Mr. Davis is twenty-one years of age, and gives promise of being an efficient clergyman at the end of the college course of two years. The cost of a student for board and instruction, independently of travelling expenses and entrance-fees, is 100*l*. a year.

The Standing Committee informed the meeting that they had, out of the money placed at their disposal for the purpose in April, 1873, set aside 100*l*., with a view to enabling them to make grants, at the rate of 50*l*. a year for two years, in aid of Mr. Davis's expenses, subject to the Bishop or Principal of Moore College certifying at the end of each half year that Mr. Davis was going on entirely to his satisfaction, and still giving promise of making an efficient clergyman at the end of his course.

Diocese of Newcastle.—The Standing Committee reported that the Rev. Dr. Currey, as Commissary to the Bishop of Newcastle, had applied for a grant from Canning's Fund, in aid of the passage to Australia of Mr. John Joseph Grimes, with a view to his being immediately ordained.

Mr. Grimes has just finished his course at St. Aidan's, Birkenhead, and has been accepted by the Bishop of Newcastle for ordination; he hopes to sail early in July.

Dr. Currey and Mr. Boodle, as Commissaries of the Bishop, had signed a paper, undertaking, on the part of the Bishop, to return any grant for passage-money which may be made, in case Mr. Grimes should not be ordained within nine months of the payment of the grant. The passage will cost 50*l*.

The Standing Committee reported that they had agreed to grant 50*l*., out of Canning's Fund, for Mr. Grimes's passage.

Diocese of British Columbia.—The Standing Committee reported that the Rev. J. B. Good, S.P.G. Missionary in British Columbia, and now in this country, with letters of commendation from his bishop, had applied for a grant from Canning's Fund in aid of the passage out to British Columbia of the Rev. H. J. Coachafer.

When Mr. Coachafer reaches British Columbia he will be employed as an S.P.G. Missionary, but Mr. Good writes:—

"Mr. Bullock authorizes me to say, his Society cannot make any new grant towards providing Mr. Coachafer with outfit and passage-money to British Columbia, and, consequently, unless your committee aid him out of the fund at its disposal, we shall not know where to look for the help he will need."

The Standing Committee had granted 50*l*. in this case.

Diocese of Worcester.—The Standing Committee reported that they had, out of the money at their disposal for the purpose, granted 20*l*. for the rent for one year of a School Board school for Sunday-school purposes in the parish of St. John, Ladywood, Birmingham, on the application of the Rev. John L. Porter, the Vicar.

Mr. Porter was to be told that he must not in any way depend upon a renewal of this grant.

Grants in aid of Building Rooms to be used as Sunday Schools and Mission Rooms.—The Standing Committee reported that, before they had proceeded to act upon the Resolution on this subject which was passed at the May Monthly General Meeting, they had thought it necessary to lay down the following stipulations respecting the purposes for which the rooms assisted by the Society might or might not be used, and other points.

They had agreed that the rooms must be freehold, and be secured for Church of England purposes; and further, that clauses to the following effect should be inserted in the Trust Deeds of all such rooms:—

(a) Provided always and it is hereby expressly declared, that the premises hereinbefore conveyed shall not, nor shall any portion thereof at any time hereafter, be appropriated for or be used as a School Board school, or as a National School, or as a Public Elementary School of any kind within the meaning of the "Elementary Education Act of 1870," or as a School for imparting secular instruction to children on week-days, during such hours as such instruction is now ordinarily imparted in National or Board Schools.

(b) Provided also that the said premises shall be vested in Trustees, one of whom shall always be the clergyman of the parish; and that with the clergyman of the parish shall rest, so far as is consistent with the general provisions of the deed, the selection of the purposes for which the premises may be used; and that the clergyman of the parish shall, subject to the above limitation, have the sole control and management of the said premises.

(c) Provided further that it shall not be lawful to let the said premises, or any portion thereof for money, nor to sell them without the consent of the S.P.C.K.

The following are the particulars of those in which the Committee had made grants:—

Diocese of Bangor.—The Rev. Henry Parry, Vicar of Llanfairisgaer, applied for a grant in aid of building a Mission Room, which would also be used as a Sunday School, in a district containing 1500 which had been recently added to his parish, thereby doubling the inhabitants. In the added portion there is a group of 1000 quarrymen gathered in an incredibly short space of time, and without any spiritual provision made for them by the Church beyond the renting of a room in which there is a Sunday School on the Sunday evenings and Services on Sunday and Tuesday evenings. This room costs 10*l*. a year, and being part of an inhabited house, is a very unsuitable place for Divine Service. It is proposed forthwith to build a Mission Room, to accommodate 160 persons, at an estimated cost of 600*l*., which shall serve for Sunday Schools and Services. The present school and services are well attended.

A site has been secured, but not yet conveyed. It will be properly secured for Church purposes and probably invested in the Bishop of the diocese. The room will not form a day school at all, but be used on week-days, or rather evenings, for children's services, ordinary services, and communicants' classes. No money is yet in hand, but there are promises which lead Mr. Parry to hope that he will soon be warranted in beginning. No application has been made to the National Society, and Mr. Parry hardly expects help from that quarter. From the Bangor Diocesan Church Extension Society Mr. Parry fully calculates upon receiving a good grant.

The Committee reported that they had agreed, subject to the fulfilment of the general conditions already stated, to grant 50*l*. in this case; the Society's grant to be paid when the Standing Committee shall be satisfied that the receipt of it would lead to the immediate completion of the building and to its being free from all liability for debt.

Diocese of St. David's.—The Rev. Evan Rowland, of Llwyn-y-brain, Whitland, applied for a grant for building a Sunday School and Mission Room. The population is from 1000 to 1200, chiefly agricultural, with a good many shopkeepers and railway officials, small tradesmen, and a few country gentlemen. At present there is no place but the church in which to hold a Sunday School.

A site valued at 100*l.* has been given by a gentleman who has also subscribed 50*l.* in money; there are in addition promises of 150*l.* more, in all 200*l.* The estimated cost is 375*l.* The National Society will help, and also the Diocesan Board if possible, but the amount of their grants is not known.

The Standing Committee had granted 30*l.* in this case, subject to the conditions already stated.

—The Rev. L. Tugwell, Rector of the mother church, Bermondsey, applied for a grant in aid of building a Sunday School and mission hall on the churchyard at the back of the church, which site may be had without payment. Mr. Tugwell estimates the cost of such a building as he proposes to erect at about 500*l.* The population of Mr. Tugwell's parish is 24,239, and there are no wealthy inhabitants.

There are at present no funds in hand, but assistance has been promised.

The building, as about to be erected on the churchyard must be vested either in the Rector, or rector and Churchwardens.

In this case the Standing Committee had granted 50*l.*, subject to the conditions already stated.

"I beg very earnestly to request the Committee of the S.P.C.K. to make a grant towards a building I am endeavouring to raise, to be used for Sunday School, Mission room, and various parochial purposes in my district parish of Emmanuel, Lambeth. The population of my district is 7000, and it is extremely poor, having neither gentry, large employers, nor well-to-do tradesmen, with the exception of literally one or two, and from these the assistance I receive is very small. The district was formed six years ago, and at the time I was thinking of schools, the London School Board came into existence.

"After careful consideration, I came to the conclusion that, under the circumstances, I had better not attempt a day school, and I think I have been justified by events since.

"A building is urgently needed, however, for he uses I have specified; and, with a view to erecting one, I have purchased an excellent site, old to me as a favour, at the price of 520*l.* The rooms, one large and two small, with the and, will cost about 1200*l.*, and of this amount have received in contributions 511*l.*, and I have promises of sums that make about 100*l.* This has been the result of advertisements, many letters, and some personal applications during more than four years. To have secured a freehold site and attached it to my church is an important point gained; but I have very great difficulty in raising money, and as my district contains many of the poorest of the working-classes, labourers, costermongers, cobblers, street-hawkers, needlewomen, and the like, and local assistance is so wanting, I most sincerely hope that this application may be favourably received.

"The site (freehold) has been conveyed to the vicar and Churchwardens of Emmanuel, Lambeth, and their successors.

"The Bishop of Winchester's Fund has not yet helped, and there is no prospect of much being derived from that source. The National Society will probably assist.

"The proposed room is to accommodate 220 children, and is so arranged that Bible-classes for older boys and girls may be going on in separate class-rooms at the same time as the Sunday-school; and the rooms will be most serviceable for religious instruction on week-days."

The Standing Committee had granted 100*l.* in this case, subject to the conditions already stated.

Diocese of Rochester.—All Saints' Church, Hatcham, New Cross Road.—The Rev. Edward Wynne, Vicar of this parish, wrote as follows:—

"My parish, which is a very poor one, was formed out of the parish of St. James, Hatcham, in the year 1871, when the church, which is not completed, was consecrated. I am now anxious to build a schoolroom on a site given by the Haberdashers' Company, which may answer the purposes set forth in the accompanying Appeal, and which we may also use as a parish-room."

The following is the Appeal referred to:—

"This church, which was erected in the year 1869, has now a large and steadily-increasing congregation. The time has come when it is essential to erect a building in connexion with it, which may be used for Sunday-schools, mothers' meetings, Bible-classes, congregational meetings, and also as a British Workman or working-man's club, to be conducted on temperance principles.

"The parish contains a population of nearly 7000 souls, who are, with but few exceptions, mechanics, engine-drivers, railway porters, and day-labourers, for whose moral and spiritual welfare the Vicar is most anxious to make more efficient provision.

"The Sunday-school has hitherto been held in a small temporary iron church, which must shortly be removed, it being altogether inadequate to hold the large numbers of children who are flocking to the school. There is a devoted band of Sunday-school teachers prayerfully labouring amongst these children, and anxiously looking forward to the time when they can assemble them in a more commodious edifice.

"The Bible Classes and Mothers' Meetings are most successful; and, in addition to these, the vicar desires to establish a British Workman, where his poorer parishioners can meet after their day's work to read the newspapers and periodicals, play at chess, draughts, &c., and where they will be supplied with tea and coffee. It is also proposed to give lectures, readings, &c., in connexion with the club, and to establish a Provident Fund and a Lending Library.

"It is estimated that a plain and simple building suitable for these purposes will cost 1500*l.*, and the vicar and his churchwardens and Church Committee earnestly entreat all who are interested in the moral and spiritual welfare of the working classes to assist them in the effort they are making to benefit their poorer neighbours."

Mr. Wynne supplemented this statement as follows:—

"The tenure of the proposed school and parish-room is freehold. At present the land has been conveyed to the Bishop of London's Fund, in trust for the incumbent and churchwardens of All Saints', Hatcham; but before the building is proceeded with, it will be reconveyed, in accordance with the requirements of the National Society. That Society has just made a grant of 155*l.* towards the building, and I have also made application to the Bishop of Rochester's Fund, but it has not yet been laid before their Council.

"The school is to accommodate 400 children. We have not yet sought for estimates from builders, but my architects say it cannot be erected for less than 1850*l.* With the National Society's grant, I have now raised about 450*l.* towards this amount."

The Standing Committee have granted 100*l.* in this case, subject to the conditions already stated.

Diocese of London.—Christ Church, South Hackney.—The Rev. J. C. Egan, Vicar of this parish, applied for a grant in aid of his scheme for building a Sunday School in connexion with his church.

Mr. Egan wrote as follows:—

"Since the consecration of the church, now upwards of three years ago, our parochial organization has been sadly deficient, owing to the want of such a building. The Sunday School, which is a large and increasing one, has ever since been held in the church, which materially interferes with the Sunday ministrations.

"The district comprises a large and necessary quarter of Bethnal Green, and no Sunday School in connexion with the Church of England exists within it, for a population of 7000, with the exception of that attached to Christ Church. . . . There is no other school in the neighbourhood which might be rented. The London School Board is a considerable distance from the church, and is at present rented by Nonconformists. The building which I am now desirous of erecting, and for which I have secured the site, will not be exclusively a Sunday School, but will be used for Bible Classes and other auxiliaries on week-days in connexion with the church. A site has been secured from her Majesty's Commissioners of Woods and Forests. The Committee of the Bishop of London's Fund have granted 500*l.* towards the erection of the proposed building, and the National Society has granted 105*l.* The estimated cost is upwards of 1000*l.*

"The property will be conveyed to the Vicar and Churchwardens for the time being.

"It is at present held on lease for eighty years from the Woods and Forests, at a ground-rent of 18*l.* per annum, with option of purchase.

"The proposed building will contain 300 persons."

The Standing Committee had granted 100*l.* in this case, subject to the conditions already stated, special attention to be drawn to the need for a freehold site.

Objections to certain Publications of the Tract Committee.—In reference to the objections which had been made at the Monthly General Meeting in May, to two of the Society's recent Publications, the Secretary informed the Meeting that the written statement of the objectors had been submitted, in accordance with Rule XXXIV., to the Episcopal Referees, who have recommended that a certain mode of expression in one of the tracts should be altered, and have agreed that the other should remain on the Society's List in its present form.

Notice of Motion for next Meeting by the Standing Committee.

Nestorian Christians.—The Standing Committee informed the Meeting that the Archbishop of Canterbury had expressed to them very strongly his desire, in response to urgent applications which had been addressed to him and his predecessors in the See of Canterbury, to send two well-qualified persons to Assyria, with a view to gain information respecting the present condition of the Nestorian Christians, and as to the way, if any should appear to exist, in which the Church of England could best assist them. The Archbishop is anxious that the Society should compromise itself as little as possible in this matter, and desires that funds, if voted, should be placed at his disposal and that of the Archbishop of York, when their Graces will make selection of the Agents, and give them the necessary instructions.

The Standing Committee gave notice that in October they would recommend that a sum of 500*l.* be put at the disposal of the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Archbishop of York, to assist in a Mission of Inquiry into the state of the Nestorian Church.

Motion, &c., of which Notice was given at the last Meeting.

Social Science Committee.—At the last meeting the Rev. Charles Miller, of Harlow, gave notice that to-day he would call attention to the proceedings of this Committee, established in December, 1872. After some observations, this gentleman gave notice that at the next Monthly General Meeting, to be held on Tuesday, the 5th of October, he would move,—

"That the Resolution appointing the Social Science Committee be discharged, and that the remainder of the 1000*l.* then voted be returned into the General Funds of the Society."

Grants of Books, &c., recommended by the Standing Committee.

Grants were then made to the amount of 104*l.* 14*s.* 1*d.*

For Schools, Lending Libraries, and Distribution, to the amount of 93*l.*

For Churches, or Licensed Rooms, to the amount of 47*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

Donations were announced to the amount of 150*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.*

The following Legacies were announced:—

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMITTEE.

General Committee, June 14th.—Reference having been made to the Minutes of the Committee of Correspondence of June 1st, directing that an appeal for men drawn up by the Secretaries should be circulated, and the Secretaries having presented a proof of the proposed appeal, the Committee, under the deep conviction that true Missionaries are the gift of God, invited the friends of the Society to unite in fervent prayer that God would dispose the hearts of many qualified labourers to respond to the urgent calls from the foreign Mission-field.

The Secretaries having referred to the visit to this country of the Sultan of Zanzibar, as affording an opportunity for laying before him the Society's views and wishes with regard to their Mission in East Africa, the Committee directed the Secretaries to make inquiries for the purpose of arranging, if possible, for a deputation to present an address to the Sultan embodying the Committee's views and wishes with regard to their Mission to East Africa.

A printed Memorandum, dated May 21, 1875, was laid on the table, referring to the circumstances under which the Rev. R. Bruce, having first gone to Persia in 1869, had been led to prolong his stay there, and to the openings which now exist for carrying on Mission work in that country. Mr. Bruce, being in attendance, gave further information upon various points referred to him. After a careful review of all the circumstances bearing upon the question, showing that there are increased, and it may be hoped increasing facilities for carrying on Christian work in Persia, the following resolutions were adopted:—"1. That regard being had to the leadings of Divine Providence, this Committee is of opinion that the time has come to establish a Mission in the Persian-speaking districts of the Persian empire; and, in humble dependence upon the Lord of the Harvest, to make suitable arrangements for rendering its working efficient. 2. That the Committee of Correspondence consider and report to the Committee the arrangements they would propose for the future carrying on of this Mission."

The Secretaries reported that on Wednesday, the 9th of June, a deputation from the Society, consisting of General Clarke, Mr. J. Hoare, Colonel Channer, General Lake, Sir W. Hill, Rev. H. Wright, Rev. W. Gray, and the Lay

Secretary, waited on the Earl of Carnarvon to present a Memorial from the Committee, asking the Government to adopt measures for the protection from attack and ultimate destruction of Abeokuta, in the Yoruba country, adjoining the British port of Lagos; on which district the King of Dahomey had made seven attacks within the last twenty years, destroying the villages and carrying the inhabitants into slavery, or to be killed as human sacrifices, and threatening the existence of the town; and that Lord Carnarvon, in reply, expressed a due sense of the work which the Church Missionary Society had accomplished in the district of Abeokuta, and, without promising any kind of intervention at present, said the subject would not be lost sight of by her Majesty's Government; and that though he could make no definite promise, yet expressed a hope that some opportunity might arise for effectual remonstrance being made to the King of Dahomey, which would probably put an end to the outrages complained of.

Reference was made to the Minutes of the Committee of Correspondence, June 1, 1875, proposing a Conference of friends of the Society acquainted with the working of the Mohammedan Missions, in view of their being more effectively worked. The Secretaries referred to the practical benefits which might result, if the proposed Conference could be attended by the Rev. Dr. Koelle, from Constantinople, the Rev. R. Bruce, from Persia, and the Rev. T. P. Hughes, from Peshawar, all of whom had been engaged in evangelistic labours among Mohammedans; and, further, that the presence at such a Conference was to be desired of Bishop Gobat, of Jerusalem. The Committee, recognizing the advantage of considering fully the plans now carried on for evangelizing Mohammedans in different parts of the world, authorized that steps should be taken for the attendance at the proposed Conference, in October next, of Bishop Gobat, Dr. Koelle, Rev. T. F. Wolters, Rev. R. Bruce, and Rev. T. P. Hughes, with other friends whose presence might be desirable.

Committee of Correspondence, June 22nd.—The Secretaries stated that a Conference had been held on the 18th inst., at Lambeth Palace, by invitation of the Archbishop, to consider the question of the increase of the Indian Episcopate; that, in accordance with the resolution of the Committee of June 14th, it had been attended on the part of the Society by the Rev. C. C. Fenn, the Rev. H. Wright, the Rev. D. Fenn, General Lake, and the Lay Secretary; and that resolutions to the following effect were passed:—

"1. That the present state of the Native Churches in India calls for an increase in the Episcopate, with the view of promoting the good government of these communities, and as likely to lead to an addition to the number of Native clergy.

"2. That it is desirable to take steps for obtaining the opinion of the authorities, civil and ecclesiastical, as to the possibility of proceeding without loss of time to the appointment of assistant bishops in India, who shall stand to the Bishops of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, in a similar relation to that in which suffragan bishops consecrated under the Act of Henry VIII. stand to diocesan bishops at home.

"3. The Meeting hears with satisfaction that there is a readiness on the part of the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and the Church Missionary Society, to contribute funds towards the increase of the Indian Episcopate.

"4. That the Archbishop be requested to communicate with Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, and ask him to receive a deputation from this Meeting."

The Secretaries stated that Mr. A. Schapira, a student at the Islington Institution, was prepared to go forth into the Mission-field; that he had a thorough knowledge of Hebrew, and also a fair acquaintance with Latin, Greek, and German, and with the Arabic vernacular; and that he seemed to possess a true Missionary spirit and to be fond of teaching. The Secretaries having further stated that it was proposed to reopen the Fourah Bay College in the autumn and that European help would be required, the Principal, the Rev. M. Santer; and the Principal and Vice-Principal having borne satisfactory testimony to Mr. Schapira's Christian character and Missionary spirit, the Committee appointed Mr. Schapira for the present to assist at the Fourah Bay College.

Reference was made to the Minutes of the Committee of June 14, 1875, sanctioning the establishment of a Mission in Persia, and calling for a Report from the Committee of Correspondence, as to the arrangements they would recommend for rendering the Mission effective.

A letter was read from the Rev. Dr. Josephant Secretary of the Basle Missionary Society, dated June 3, 1875, expressing their readiness to withdraw from the Mission work they had commenced in Persia, if their agent, Mr. Melcom, could be taken up by the Church Missionary Society.

The Rev. R. Bruce being in attendance, conversation was held with him on the several matters referred to in Dr. Josephant's letter, and on points connected with the future working of a Mission in Persia. After prolonged discussion, Mr. Bruce was encouraged, on his return to Persia, to direct his attention principally, as heretofore, to making known the Gospel of Christ to Mohammedans and other sections of the non-Christian population in Persia; to continue his labours for the spiritual enlightenment of the Armenians, steadily keeping in view the importance of training Native agents who may hereafter carry on evangelistic work in Persia. The Committee also directed that an arrangement be proposed to the Basle Missionary Society for the employment of Mr. Melcom. With regard to Mr. Bruce's translational works, the Committee directed that steps be taken in communication with the British and Foreign Bible Society, to have Mr. Bruce's revised translation of the New Testament carefully examined by competent Persian scholars, and the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge be requested to examine, with a view to publication, the Catechism and Scriptural History which Mr. Bruce had prepared.

Mr. N. Johnson and Mr. J. Coker, Native Catechists in the Yoruba Mission, having been recommended as candidates for Ordination, and the Secretaries having stated that the usual statement had been received from each of them, giving a sketch of their antecedents and the reasons for their desiring to be admitted into Holy Orders, and that satisfactory testimony had been borne to each by Missionaries of the Society acquainted with them, the Committee sanctioned the recommendation of Messrs. Johnson and Coker to the Bishop of Sierra Leone for Ordination.

Committee of Correspondence, June 29th.—The Rev. J. S. Doxey, Curate of Burnley, Lancashire, having offered himself to the Society for Missionary work, and several friends of the Society having borne testimony to his Christian character and Missionary qualifications; Mr. Doxey having been introduced to the Committee, and expressed his full accord with the spiritual principles of the Society, and his readiness to go wherever the Committee might determine, his offer was thankfully accepted by the Committee, and he was appointed to the North Indian Mission, his location to be determined by the Calcutta Corresponding Committee.

A letter was read from the Rev. C. F. Schlenker, formerly a Missionary at Port Lokkoh, and now engaged in translational work in the Timneh language, referring to the proposed reoccupation of Port Lokkoh, and proposing to prepare, in order to facilitate work among the Timneh people, a Vocabulary of English and Timneh. The Committee directed that Mr.

Schlenker should be encouraged to undertake the preparation of a Timneh and English Vocabulary for the use of the Society's Missionaries in the Timneh country, and that he be requested to procure an estimate of the probable cost of the work.

The Secretaries referred to the desirableness of preparing, for use in the West Africa Mission, one or two elementary books in Arabic, and adverted to the publication by the Society, in the year 1840, of Exercises in Arabic and English, which was regarded by Dr. Badger as a most useful work for imparting instruction in Arabic, and proposed that Dr. Sandreczki, who is now engaged in preparing an Arabic and English Dictionary, should be requested to undertake the preparation of the work for the press, and that Dr. Badger should undertake the correction of the proof-sheets. The Secretaries were authorized to make inquiries as to the cost of republishing the Arabic and English Exercises under the direction of Dr. Sandreczki.

The Rev. H. Burnside, having lately returned from Nagasaki on medical certificate, was introduced to the Committee, and gave particulars respecting the progress of his work at that station. He stated that full liberty was granted to carry on Missionary work in the Foreign Commission, and that a Sunday service he held in his own house had been attended by some forty persons, although situated at some distance from the native town; that he had nearly completed a small church before leaving Nagasaki, capable of holding a congregation of about 200, and that he had every expectation that, on its being opened for the preaching of the Gospel, it would be filled with hearers.

Committee of Correspondence, July 6th.—The Rev. T. S. Grace, having returned from the New Zealand Mission, was introduced to the Committee, and conversation held with him respecting the position of matters in the New Zealand Mission. Mr. Grace was requested to put in writing his views on the subject for the consideration of the Committee.

Reference was made to the Minutes of the Committee of October 21, 1873, sanctioning the visit of the Rev. Henry Johnson to Jerusalem, or the purpose of studying the Arabic language. The Secretaries stated that reports had been received from time to time of the progress made by Mr. Johnson in his Arabic studies; and a letter was read from the Rev. F. A. Klein, dated Jerusalem, March 30, 1875, referring to Mr. Johnson's progress, and giving it as his opinion that he was now sufficiently advanced to be able to teach the elements of Arabic, and to continue to make progress in the language; but at another year's study would be necessary to enable him to hold discussions, or to write native tracts in Arabic. The Secretaries having adverted to the character of the work Mr. Johnson could carry on at Fourah Bay, and the desirableness of being there at the reopening of the Institution in the winter, the Committee did not consider it necessary to prolong Mr. Johnson's stay in Palestine, but that arrangements should be made for his return to this country, with a view to his proceeding to Sierra Leone to occupy the post of Lecturer on Arabic at Fourah Bay, and generally to continue such linguistic work as he may be able to carry on, directing his attention more especially to working among the Mohammedans.

Mr. Charles Phillips, a Native Catechist at Lagos, having been recommended as a candidate for Ordination, and the Secretaries having stated that the usual statement had been received from Mr. Phillips, giving a sketch of his antecedents and the reasons for his desiring to be admitted to Holy Orders, and that satisfactory testimony had been borne by Missionaries of the Society acquainted with him, the Committee mentioned the recommendation of Mr. C. Phillips to the Bishop of Sierra Leone for Ordination. Referred to the proceedings of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, May 12, 1875, recommending the Ordination, as an exceptional case, of Babu Ghose, head master of the Anglo-Vernacular School at Narowal, on a title to be given him on his office as Schoolmaster, and the joint recommendation of the Rev. E. Clark and the Rev. R. Bateman. The Committee, upon the recommendation of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, sanctioned the recommendation of Babu Ghose to the Bishop for Ordination, and the continuance to him of his present salary so long as he continues in charge of the school at Narowal.

The Secretaries reported that an influential deputation, headed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, had waited upon Lord Salisbury, in accordance with the Resolutions of the Conference held at Lambeth Palace on the 18th of June, in reference to the increase of the Indian Episcopate; that Lord Salisbury had expressed his warm interest in the subject, but deprecated any appeal to Parliament, except as a last resource; that he laid stress on the fact of funds being forthcoming from voluntary sources, and promised that the subject should have the most careful consideration.

General Committee, July 6th.—A Special Meeting of the Committee was held at the Islington Institution, to take leave of the following Missionaries:—

Rev. M. Sunter,	Returning to the West
Mrs. Caiger,	Africa Mission.
Mr. H. K. Binns,	Proceeding to join the
Mr. A. Schapira,	West Africa Mission.
Mr. J. H. M. Fraser,
Rev. T. P. Hughes,	Returning to the
Rev. J. S. Doxey,	North India Mission.
Rev. J. R. Hodgson,	Proceeding to join the
Rev. W. G. Baker,*	North India Mission.
Rev. R. Palmer,	Returning to the South
Rev. J. Bates,*	India Mission.
Rev. J. C. Hoare,	Returning to the China
Rev. W. S. Brereton,	Mission.
Mr. G. Lanning,	Proceeding to join the China Mission.

The Instructions of the Committee were delivered by the Hon. Clerical Secretary, and were briefly acknowledged by the Missionaries. They were then addressed by the Rev. G. Blisset, Vicar of St. John's, Chichester, and were commended in prayer to the favour and protection of Almighty God by the Rev. W. H. Barlow, the Principal of the Institution.

* Messrs. Baker and Bates were unable to be present.

THE INCORPORATED SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING THE ENLARGEMENT, BUILDING, AND REPAIRING OF CHURCHES AND CHAPELS.

This Society held its last meeting for the present session (to be resumed in November), on Monday, July 20th, at 7, Whitehall, S.W., Archdeacon Harrison in the chair.

Grants of money were made in aid of building four new churches; of rebuilding two churches; and of enlarging or otherwise increasing the accommodation in seventeen churches. Under urgent circumstances the grants formerly made towards building St. Paul's Church, Witton Park, near Darlington, and towards restoring the churches at Broxton, near Dunmow, Essex, and Dysarth, near Rhyl, North Wales, were each increased. Grants were also made from the special school-church and mission-house fund, towards building five new school or mission churches.

This special fund is again entirely exhausted; and, limited as the general resources of the Society now are, it is a subject of regret that, when the want of school-churches is throughout the country more and more urgently felt, no power is given to the committee of rendering the much-required assistance. The Society likewise accepted the trust of a sum of money as a repair fund for Christ Church, Totland Bay, Isle of Wight.

LAW.

ARCHES COURT.

SATURDAY, JULY 24.

(Before the Right Hon. Sir R. J. PHILLIMORE, Dean of Arches.)

REV. E. WYNDHAM v. COLE.

(See Ecclesiastical Gazette, May, 1875, p. 150.)

This was a suit by the Vicar of Yeovil against the organist, Mr. H. Cole, to prohibit him from playing a voluntary both before and after the service.

The DEAN of ARCHES (Sir R. PHILLIMORE) suggested that the facts should be agreed upon, but no agreement had taken place, as the articles were to be admitted.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., was for Mr. Cole; and Mr. Shaw for the other side. That side was willing to submit the case to the Bishop.

Sir R. PHILLIMORE admitted the articles, and recommended the parties to leave the matter to the bishop.

DALE v. SERJEANT AND OTHERS.

(See Ecclesiastical Gazette, July, 1875, p. 4.)

Dr. MIDDLETON moved to dismiss this appeal from the Consistory Court of London for the want of prosecution, arising from some matters in St. Vedast, Foster-lane.

The Court dismissed the appeal, with costs, for the want of prosecution.

THE TITLE OF "REVEREND" CLAIMED BY A WESLEYAN MINISTER.

The arguments on appeal in the case of the Rev. Mr. Keet, as to his right as a Wesleyan minister to use the prefix of "Reverend" to his name, came before the Court this day. The case arose out of a desire on the part of Mr. Keet, a member of the Wesleyan denomination, to have placed on a tombstone in the churchyard of Owston, over the grave of his daughter an inscription stating that she was the daughter of the Rev. J. Keet. To this the Rev. G. E. Smith, the vicar, objected, and his objection was upheld by the Bishop of Lincoln, and also by Mr. Chancellor Phillimore, who delivered a judgment when the case originally came before him, to the effect that Mr. Keet had no legal right to describe himself as he desired.

Dr. Stephens, Q.C., and Mr. Bayford argued the case on behalf of the applicant, but the other side did not appear.

At the conclusion of the argument, the DEAN of ARCHES said he should like to take a little time to consider his judgment. He was much obliged to counsel for their assistance.

The judgment was accordingly deferred.

SATURDAY, JULY 31.

Judgment was delivered this day.

The Dean said:—"This is an appeal from the Consistory Court of Lincoln. (See Ecclesiastical Gazette, July, 1875, p. 10.) The subject of the appeal is the refusal of that Court to grant a faculty for the erection of a tombstone, containing the following inscription:—'In loving memory of Annie Augusta Keet, the younger daughter of the Rev. H. Keet, Wesleyan minister, who died at Owston Ferry, the 11th of May, 1874, aged seven years and nine months. Safe sheltered from the storms of life.' It appeared that the inscription 'Wesleyan minister' was not objected to by the incumbent, and was allowed by the Court. The prefix 'Reverend' was objected to by the incumbent and disallowed by the Court. I must express regret that the petitioner should not have been content with the description 'Wesleyan minister.' It is, strictly speaking, his accurate description, as 'George Edward Smith, clerk or vicar,' would be, strictly speaking, the accurate description of the incumbent. The aspect of the question in this Court is slightly varied from that which it assumed in the Court below. The Chancellor of Lincoln declined to allow the issue of a citation to the incumbent calling upon him to show cause why the faculty prayed should not be granted. In this Court, however, that citation has, according to its usual practice, already issued, and has been served upon the incumbent, and he has not appeared in answer to the citation, but he has not withdrawn his opposition to it. The law as to the rights of the incumbent and parishioners with respect to gravestones in churchyards is often but partially understood and carelessly stated. I will endeavour to lay it down correctly. The churchyard is the freehold of the incumbent, subject to the right of the parishioner or stranger happening to die in the parish to simple interment, but to no more. Indeed, the incumbent has the right to pasture animals which do not injure the bodies interred in the churchyard, and every gravestone, of course, interferes with that pasture. The incumbent for this, as well as for other more important reasons, has a prima-facie right to prohibit altogether the placing of any gravestone, or to permit it upon proper conditions, such as those which relate to the size and character of the stone, the legality or propriety of the inscription upon it, or the payment of a proper fee. Usage, indeed, has much favoured the placing of such stones, and, as a general rule, the incumbent permits them, while the exercise of his right of refusal has become, or perhaps always was, subject to the control of the Ordinary. None of my predecessors was, I think, better acquainted with the mixed law and practice of the Ecclesiastical Courts in cases of this description than Sir Herbert Jenner Fust. In the important case of 'Breeks v. Woolfrey' ('Curteis's Reports,' 880), he drew a clear distinction between the general right of the incumbent to refuse permission to place a gravestone and his right to refuse such permission on the ground that the inscription upon it was contrary to law; and while upon the latter special ground he overruled the refusal of the incumbent, he was careful to show no interference with the right of the incumbent to refuse, according to the general law, his consent. And here I should observe that the two legal positions—namely, that simple interment is a matter of right, and the placing of a gravestone a matter of permission—are in no way affected by the fact to which I have referred, and which is, unfortunately, too true, that inscriptions of an improper, ludicrous, and heathen character are to be found in some of our churches and churchyards. Such a fact only proves the culpable indifference and carelessness in this respect of those who had the control of the church and churchyard at the period when the censurable inscriptions were allowed; not that there was no power in the clergyman or the Ordinary to refuse them. The notion that an incumbent is bound to permit an inscription at variance with religion, morality, or propriety is entirely erroneous, and not the less mischievous because the law holds that tombstones once lawfully erected become in a sense the property of those who erected them. ('Spooner v. Brewster,' 3 'Bingham's Reports,' 139.) Passing, then, from the consideration of the rights of the incumbent and parishioners, I approach the examination of the law with respect to the power and authority of the Ordinary, to whom application for a faculty must be made. With respect to the grant or refusal of a faculty, two distinct considerations occur—first, is the object lawful? secondly, is it expedient? If the former question be answered in the negative, the second, of course, need not be entertained; but if the former question be answered in the affirmative, it may, nevertheless, well be that, having regard to circumstances, the Ordinary may think the grant of the faculty inexpedient, and on that ground alone refuse it. It is a mistake, therefore, to suppose that when the petitioner for a faculty has shown that the object for which he requires it is not illegal he is necessarily entitled to it. The industry of counsel has brought to the attention of the Court a considerable number and variety of instances in which the epithet 'Reverend' has been applied, both by authors generally and occasionally by writers of epitaphs, to distinguish persons of the laity not in Holy Orders, and sometimes to remarkable women. What is the argument built upon this historical fact? It can only be that the title is one which is not peculiar to the ministers of any religious body, and which cannot be claimed by any such ministers as their special designation. The Judge, the statesman, the officer in the army or navy, any ordinary gentleman, or, indeed, gentlewoman, might upon this hypothesis claim to have this prefix to their name, and nobody would be injured thereby. But is this really and honestly the ground upon which the petitioner rests his claim? Is it not obvious that in the present case the title 'Reverend' is not claimed because everybody is entitled to it, but because the claimant is desirous of having it recorded that he is specially entitled to it as being a Wesleyan minister? I have no doubt that the Wesleyan minister in this case would conscientiously and honourably admit it to be so. Instances were also adduced in which Ministers of State had addressed Wesleyan ministers with the superscription of 'Reverend,' and if the question were simply one of social status or general etiquette, this reference would be very pertinent and proper. But the case is surely different when the question relates to the alleged obligation of the clergyman to confer by a permanent inscription in his own churchyard upon another person that peculiar religious title by which he alone has been hitherto designated and known to his own parishioners and his own church. It has been argued, indeed, that there was a time when the clergyman was not addressed by the title of 'Reverend,' but by some other title of distinction. It is not, however, denied that this title has been accorded to them for more than two centuries, whereas I am informed by counsel that previously to the year 1811 the assumption of the title in dispute by a Wesleyan minister was absolutely forbidden by the ruler of the Wesleyan body. I do not, however, think that the Court has simply to decide whether the prefixing the title 'Reverend' to the description 'Wesleyan minister' be so clearly illegal that even if the clergyman consented, the Court ought to prohibit it. I do not pronounce an opinion to that effect, but it is the duty of the Court to consider not only whether it would be lawful in the abstract to allow such an inscription as this, but also whether it would be expedient and proper to do so. This consideration sometimes must, and often may, depend on local circumstances, of which the bishop is, by reason, law, and practice, the fittest judge. I have heard it frequently stated by my immediate and distinguished predecessor in this Court (Dr. Lushington), that in all cases of faculty great weight ought be ascribed to the opinion of the bishop of the diocese. Now, in the present case, the Bishop has deliberately and emphatically expressed an opinion adverse to the prayer of the petitioner. The Bishop, in his letter to the petitioner, says:—

"What title should be given you by your own co-religionists is not the point at issue, and I express no opinion upon it. But the question is whether the title of 'Reverend' should be conceded to you on a tombstone by ministers of the Church of England, who are the responsible guardians of her churchyards. It is not easy to determine what is the exact meaning of the title of Reverend as claimed by a Wesleyan preacher. If the title is to be taken to imply that he is a person in Holy Orders, duly qualified to minister the Word of God and Sacraments in a church, then I am bound to say the law to which I am subject would not allow me to recognize him in that capacity. I hope to have the happiness before long of admitting some Wesleyan preachers to Holy Orders in the Church of England, after due training and trial; but I should be chargeable with equivocation and duplicity towards them, and with dishonesty and treachery towards the Church of England, if I were now to designate them by the title of Reverend, to which they will have a just claim after ordination and by its means. If the title of Reverend, to which you lay claim, and by which you desire to be designated in a consecrated burial place of the Church of England, is intended only to designate that you are appointed to preach in a Wesleyan place of worship, I would venture to remind you of another epitaph, that which was inscribed on the tomb of the founder of Wesleyanism himself. There John Wesley was described as the 'patron and friend of lay preachers.' He regarded his preachers as laymen; he warned them against calling themselves ministers; and after his death the Wesleyan Conference in 1793 and 1794 forbade them to assume the title of Reverend. Any one who gives them that title contravenes the injunctions of John Wesley, for whose memory I entertain sincere respect, and to whose authority I desire to defer in my relations with the members of that important religious community which derives its name from him. A title is a distinctive attribute belonging to a special person or class. If I give a title to a person to whom it does not belong, I am liable to a charge of flattering him, and of wronging those to whom the title does belong. For such reasons as these I have abstained from giving the title of Reverend to Wesleyan preachers, not (I need hardly say) from any feeling of disparagement towards them, but because I honour consistency and truth, and because I am sure they would despise me if I acted against my conscience and were to practise the kind of liberality which courts popularity by giving away what does not belong to it."

I do not think that it would be proper or consonant to practice that this Court should overrule, not only the direct dissent of the incumbent, but also the deliberate judgment and authority of the Bishop in a matter, not of strict law, applicable to all cases, but of discretionary permission, applicable to the particular case; and I think that in refusing to do so, I act in accordance with the spirit both of the general law and of those rubrics in the Book of Common Prayer which relate to the authority of the Ordinary. I decline to issue the faculty as now prayed."

Notice of appeal to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council was at once tendered.

Dr. Stephens, Q.C., and Mr. R. A. Bayfield were the counsel for the petitioner.

PARLIAMENTARY INTELLIGENCE.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 14.

PUBLIC WORSHIP FACILITIES BILL.

THE order for the second reading of this Bill was discharged.

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

The select committee to whom the above-named Bill was referred, and who were empowered to report upon the present facilities for providing additional means of worship in parishes, with or without the consent of the incumbent, and also upon the desirability of extending such facilities, have considered the matters to them referred, and have issued their report, and state, in conclusion, that they are of opinion:—

1. That it is desirable, subject to the control of the bishop, to make provision for additional facilities and opportunities of worship in parishes where—

(a.) The accommodation in the existing churches and chapels is insufficient.

(b.) Where such churches and chapels are inconveniently situated, owing to the shape of the parish or the growth of new classes of population, or (in case of large parishes) to long distances.

(c.) Where weakness, or ill health, or poverty, and consequent inability to procure the help of curates, renders the incumbent unable to provide sufficient ministrations.

(d.) Where persistent and wilful inattention or neglect on the part of the incumbent, not already provided for by existing legislation, calls for the intervention of the diocesan.

(e.) Where a marked divergence of opinion exists between an incumbent and a considerable number of his parishioners with regard to public ministrations in the Church.

2. That such facilities and opportunities should be provided either by way of additional ministrations in existing churches and chapels with the consent of the incumbent, or by the opening of additional temporary places of worship, accompanied by the licensing of additional clergymen to give the necessary ministrations.

3. That the regulation of such provisions should be vested in the bishop of the diocese, under forms of procedure as little onerous and expensive as possible, provided that either the bishop or the parishioners may initiate proceedings.

The Bill referred to your committee has been duly taken by them into consideration, but your committee have thought it better, at this period of the session, not to enter upon the consideration of amendments of this Bill, and therefore report it without amendment to the House.

ECCLESIASTICAL FEES REDISTRIBUTION BILL passed through Committee.

CONVOCAION OF THE PROVINCE OF CANTERBURY.

The following is the result of the deliberations of the Lower House on the Ornaments Rubric and the position of the celebrant during the last group of sessions:—

"In the event of action being taken by legislation or otherwise with respect to the Ornaments Rubric or the rubrics governing the position of the minister during the celebration of the Holy Communion, this House recommends that such action be based upon the following resolutions:—

"That this House, having regard to the fact of the existing widespread diversity of practice with reference to the position of the celebrant in the administration of the Holy Communion, convinced that it will be most for the welfare of the Church that such diversity be not disturbed, provided that in cases where changes are made and disputes arise it be left to the ordinary to determine which practice shall be adopted. [Carried unanimously.]

"And further, this House declares, that by its resolution no sanction is intended to be given to any doctrine other than what is set forth in the Prayer Book and Articles of the Church of England. [Unanimously.]

"That in consideration of the long disuse of certain of the vestures specified in the First

Prayer Book of Edward VI., and referred to in the Ornaments Rubric, this House recommends:

"First. That in celebrating the Holy Communion, as well as at all other times of his ministration, it shall suffice that the minister do wear a surplice with the addition of a stole or scarf, and of the hood of his degree; and that in preaching the minister do wear a surplice, with stole or scarf and the hood of his degree, or, if he think fit, a gown, hood, and scarf.

"Second. That the other vestures specified in the First Prayer Book of King Edward VI. shall not be brought into use in any church, other than a cathedral or collegiate church, without the previous consent of the Bishop. [Carried by 56 to 21.]

"And it is hereby declared, that by this resolution no sanction is intended to be given to any doctrine other than is set forth in the Prayer Book and Articles of the Church of England. [Unanimously.]

"That this House advises, in the event of legislation, that the words suggested in Schedule C be appended to the Ornaments Rubric."

SCHEDULE (C).

The Ornaments Rubric and the Proposed Addition to the same.

"And here it is to be noted that such ornaments of the Church and of the ministers thereof, at all times of their ministrations, shall be retained and be in use, as were in this Church of England by the authority of Parliament in the second year of the reign of King Edward VI., to be supplemented by the following words:—

"Until further order shall be therein taken by the authority of the Queen's Majesty, with the approval of Parliament, upon the recommendation of the Provincial Synods, or Convocations, of Canterbury and York."

This was presented to the Upper House, and taken into consideration, when the Bishop of London moved the following resolution:—

"That this House acknowledges the careful and patient consideration which the Lower House has given the difficult subjects of the Ornaments Rubric and the rubrics governing the position of the minister during the celebration of the Holy Communion, but, believing legislation on these points to be at the present time neither desirable nor practicable, does not deem it expedient now to discuss the course which any such legislation should take, or the principles according to which it should be regulated."

The Bishop of Gloucester seconded the motion, which was supported by the Bishops of Winchester, Llandaff, Rochester, Lincoln, Salisbury, Chichester, Norwich, Ely, St. Asaph, and St. David's.

The Bishop of Lichfield, however, thought it did scant justice to the spirit of the resolutions which had been sent up to them by the Lower House.

In putting the question, the President suggested that if the resolution of the Lower House meant that the Ritualists were to keep all that they now had, the words had been put in by some clever person, and had escaped the observation of the House. The most rev. prelate also took the opportunity of admonishing extreme men to submit to authority.

The motion was then agreed to.

On Wednesday, July 7, the Lower House resumed its revision of the Rubrics, and the first point upon which any discussion arose was as to whether the Exhortation inviting the people to communicate should be read after the Creed or after the sermon?

Lord A. COMPTON, seconded by Prebendary JOYCE, moved that it should be after the sermon, and this proposal was urged on the ground that it would enable the preacher to embody it, if he pleased, in his discourse.

The more usual arrangement was supported by Canon BUTLER and others, on the ground that to read a formal document after an earnest discourse from the pulpit would be somewhat of an anti-climax. In the end it was agreed that the Exhortation should come before the sermon.

Sir G. PREVOST having forborne to press a motion in favour of a distinct recognition of the mixed chalice, a long debate arose as to the proper place for the retirement of the non-communicants. That there should be a pause for that purpose was agreed almost nem. con., but Lord A. COMPTON moved that it should be before the Prayer for the Church Militant. This was seconded by Mr. JOYCE, in a learned speech, the object of which was to show that the place he favoured really answered to the commencement of the Anaphora of the Primitive Liturgies; and Lord ALWYNE COMPTON pointed out that our clergy abroad had often to deal with catechumens and even with persons under censure. The proposal was supported by Dr. FRASER and others; but the Bishop of GUILDFORD said it was enough to make Bishop Blomfield and Bishop Wilberforce turn in their graves; and it was opposed by various members, on the ground that it would interfere with the weekly Offertory which had been established at the expense of so much trouble, and with so much utility.

A motion of Archdeacon ADY, that the pause should be at the end of the Prayer for the Church Militant, was defeated by 22 to 17; after which the Dean of WORCESTER moved to vary the words of the rubric, so as to make it clear that those who did not mean to partake were to withdraw. This was seconded by Archdeacon KAYE, but was lost by so large a majority that it was not thought worth while to count the numbers. In the end the rubric passed in the following form:—

"When there is a communion a pause shall here be made, during which those who so desire may withdraw, and the communicants may be conveniently placed for receiving the Holy Communion. Nevertheless, at the discretion of the minister, the pause may be made before the Offertory sentences are said or sung, or after the Prayer for the Church Militant hath been said."

On Thursday, July 8, a conversation incidentally arose as to the effect of their Lordships' action upon the work in which the House was engaged, but the PROLOCUTOR said he distinctly understood that they were preparing materials for legislation, and that their Lordships' resolution only referred to the two "burning questions" which came before them last Tuesday. A rather long discussion on the longer Exhortation resulted in a provision that it need not be read oftener than on one Sunday in each month; a motion that the rubric should remain unaltered being lost by 25 to 20. A verbal amendment making it clear that the people were to say the Confession audibly was carried by 28 to 17; but one directing the singing of the Sanctus, to commence at the words "Holy, Holy, Holy," was lost. A debate next sprang up respecting the omission of the Ten Commandments and the Collect for the Queen, on occasions to be approved by the Ordinary. The former relaxation of the rubric was carried by 33 to 16, and the latter by 33 to 12. It was then agreed to give leave, where desired, to conclude the morning service with an Offertory sentence, a collect, and the Blessing. In the occasional Offices, the rubrics were altered so as to admit parents to be sponsors to their own children, and to reduce the number, in case of necessity, to two. A note was added stating it to be most expedient that sponsors should be communicants.

An articulus cleri was adopted praying the Upper House to legalize the Third Service for Sundays. The Service for Missions was agreed to, and Convocation was then prorogued till the 9th of August.

VOTING AT VESTRY MEETINGS.

To the Editor of the Ecclesiastical Gazette.

SIR,—Your correspondent J. A. B., in his letter which appears in your last issue, intends your readers to understand that the rules he gives for taking votes at a Vestry Meeting when there is a contested election of Churchwardens apply to proceedings at other Vestry Meetings consequent upon the demand of a poll on any questions coming before them.

No doubt these rules are such as were in force prior to the passing of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act in 1869. Since then, however, they have been somewhat changed.

Before I quote from the Act of 1869, I will mention that in the Elementary Education Act, 1870, Section 3, the term ratepayer is stated to include every person, who, under the provisions of this Assessment Act, is deemed to be duly rated.

I believe it is always the case that at an election of members of a School Board every occupier within the parish or district for which the election is held is entitled to vote for candidates, whether he or she be a ratepayer or not. By Section 7 of the Assessment Act, it is provided, that rates, whether paid by an occupier or owner of a tenement, shall be deemed payments of rates by the occupier for the purpose of any qualification, or franchise, which, as regards rating, depends upon the payment of the poor rate.

By Section 19 of the same Act, it is provided that whether a rate be collected from an owner or occupier, the occupier's name shall be entered in the occupier's column of the Rate Book, who shall be deemed to be duly rated for any qualification or franchise as aforesaid; also, by the same section, it is provided, that any occupier whose name has been omitted from a rate, shall, notwithstanding such omission (and even though no claim to be rated has been made by him), be entitled to every qualification and franchise depending upon rating, in the same manner as if his name had not been so omitted.

Mr. Owen, in his Overseer's Manual, published by Knight and Co. (since 1869), states that any occupier of any rateable hereditament in respect of which the poor rate is collected from the owner, or the owner is liable to the payment of the rate, under the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, even if his name is improperly omitted from the rate, is to be deemed to be duly rated for the purpose of voting in Vestry. As regards the right of voting by owner as well as occupier, Mr. Owen, in page 26 of his book, says: "When the owner has agreed with the overseers to pay the rates instead of the occupier, and is not rated under an order of Vestry, it appears to be clear that as in that case the occupier and not the owner is rated, the occupier alone is entitled to vote at meetings in Vestry." I do not know whether an edition of that very useful work named by J. A. B. (Shaw's Parish Law) has been published since 1869. If one has been published, I take it for granted that the Assessment Act of 1869 is alluded to and quoted from, in that part of the book which relates to the method of taking votes at Vestry Meetings.

J. A. B. is undoubtedly correct in what he says respecting the number of votes which may be given according to assessed value of property.

He does not explain under what circumstances agents for companies can be present at Vestry Meetings, and what authority they are required to show before their votes for the companies they represent can be legally accepted.

You would do a great service to Chairmen of Vestry Meetings if you would print in your Gazette a set of rules to be observed in conducting the various kinds of business brought before Vestry meetings, and the conditions under which votes may be given by occupiers and owners of property, and accepted as valid by those to whom they are tendered.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

A LEICESTERSHIRE INCUMBENT.

VOTING FOR PARISH CHURCHWARDEN.

To the Editor of the Ecclesiastical Gazette.

Your correspondent J. A. B. is quite wrong in stating that the votes of parishioners for a churchwarden are to be taken in plurality, as prescribed by the 58 Geo. III. c. 69. That notion, I know, is very general, and archdeacons in their instructions to churchwardens give directions to that effect. Such directions, however, are entirely erroneous.

The meeting of the minister and parishioners in Easter week to choose churchwardens is not, strictly speaking, a vestry meeting at all. It is an ancient meeting held by immemorial custom for a special purpose. The mode of procedure is also special, and not that of a vestry meeting. The meeting divides itself into two parts. The minister acts separately on his part, and the parishioners act separately on theirs.

This takes it out of the operation of the 58 Geo. III. c. 69, the 8th section of which contains the following proviso:—"Nor shall anything in this Act contained extend to take away, lessen, prejudice, or affect the powers of any vestry or meeting holden in any parish, township, or place, by virtue of any special Act or Acts, of any ancient and special usage or custom, or to change or affect the right or manner of voting in any vestry or meeting so holden."

Many years ago, a question having arisen on this subject in a parish of which I was then the Vicar, I took the opinion of the late Dr. Phillimore. His opinion was that, without doubt, the meeting of the minister and parishioners in Easter week to choose churchwardens was "an ancient and special usage or custom," and came fully under the proviso, and that the votes ought to be taken singly.

No doubt it would be so decided in a court of law.

DEDUCTIONS FROM RENT-CHARGES.

To the Editor of the Ecclesiastical Gazette.

Sir,—In your issue of July 13, a correspondent writes:—

"It is conceivable that the advowson of a benefice, endowed with 200*l.* per annum commuted rent-charge, with a house and an acre of land, could be valued by a competent actuary, and sold for 1200*l.*, and in the very same neighbourhood a freehold farm, with a house upon it, rented for 200*l.* per annum, would be valued in like manner, and sold for 6000*l.*; and yet both these properties could be rated equally for the purposes of local taxation."

This your correspondent thinks is a grievance. It is, however, only simple justice. The purchaser of the farm pays down his 6000*l.*, and is forthwith entitled to his 200*l.* a year, which he may go and spend where he pleases. The purchaser of the advowson pays, it is true, only 1200*l.*; but he is obliged to find an ordained clergyman who will undertake to reside on the spot and discharge certain duties, or else the 200*l.* a year will not be forthcoming. Thus the real price of the advowson is 1200*l.* plus the value of the incumbent's time and services; and if property is to be rated, not according to the yearly income produced by it, but according to what is spent in purchasing it, I fear our friend the incumbent, unless he would be justified in estimating his time and services very modestly indeed, may deserve to have his 200*l.* rated even higher than the other."

One word as to the letter of another correspondent on Voting for Parish Churchwarden. The writer says:—

"As church-rates are now only voluntary, it would clearly be no disqualification to a ratepayer that he had not contributed to a church-rate."

Has he considered what the Compulsory Church-rate Abolition Act says on this point? V.

MISCELLANEOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Oath of Homage. The English Church Union.—The Committee appointed by the President and Council of the English Church Union to consider the "Oath of Homage," have made the following Report:—

"Your committee have to report that they have examined into the meaning of 'spiritualties' as used in the form of oath taken by Bishops when doing homage to the Sovereign."

after Consecration, and have come to the following conclusions:—

"1. The profits, possessions, and civil jurisdiction possessed by Bishops are termed spiritual and temporal.

"2. During the vacancy of any see the spiritualities vest in a 'guardian,' the temporalities in the Sovereign.

"3. The guardian of the spiritualities is by common ecclesiastical law the Dean and chapter of the Cathedral Church, as is still the case with Canterbury and York; but in England the two Archbishops have, by prescription or composition, the guardianship of the spiritualities of their suffragan sees during vacancy.

"4. The Bishop-elect to a see acquires the spiritualities of his see by Confirmation, and the behold of the temporalities by Consecration. In order to acquire restitution of the latter he has all times done homage—anciently before consecration, now afterwards. The restitution the former resulting from Confirmation, and Confirmation being undertaken in obedience to the Royal Mandate addressed to the Archbishop, the Bishop may in some sense be said to hold his spiritualities of the Sovereign, it as a matter of fact they never vest in the own.

"5. The 5th sec. of 25 Henry VIII. c. 20 acts that Bishops shall 'have and take their restitution out of the Kyng's hands, of possessions and proffett, spiritual and temporal.'

"6. Spiritualities are the power to dispense with certain restrictions on marriages, to grant other licences and faculties, to institute to benefices, and formally to administer testate estates and grant probate of wills, and the fees and profits received for the same. Spiritualities do not include the power or right of Consecrating, Ordaining, and Consecrating.

"7. Whether the Oath is objectionable or not upon general grounds the Committee are not prepared to express an opinion, but they are to point out to the Council that inasmuch as spiritualities vest in the Bishop before Consecration, and are administered by persons not necessarily in Episcopal Orders, so things which Bishops profess in this life to hold of the Crown do not flow from the office of a Bishop as Bishop of the Church God.

"8. As to the history of the present form of the Oath the Committee are not able yet to report; but they are aware of the reasons which have led to the Oath properly taken before Consecration (when the freehold of temporalities vests) to be taken after Consecration. The language of the 5th Hen. VIII. c. 20 is ambiguous on this point."

Public Worship Regulation Act, 1874.—An Order in Council (dated 28th June, 1875, and ordered to be printed 6th July, 1875) has been made, approving Rules and Orders for Settling the Procedure and Fees under the Public Worship Regulation Act, 1874. The Order is signed: J. Cantuar, Cairns, C., C. W. Ebor, I. London, J. Zance, A. E. Cockburn.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

THE attention of the Clergy and others is particularly called to the following memorandum, put forth by the Registrar General, relating to the provisions of the Births and Deaths Registration Act, 1874.

On the 1st of January, 1875, an Act of Parliament will come into force which it is important that the public should understand, since any person in England may sooner or later be required to perform duties under its provisions. This Act relates to the registration of Births and Deaths.

The Statute, in the first place, is compulsory. Hitherto persons qualified to give to the Registrar the personal information necessary to enable him to register a birth or death, have not been obliged to do so unless at his request; they could send him notice of the event, whereupon it was his duty to attend at the house to register without a fee. This will now be altered. Qualified informants of Births and Deaths will in future be under legal obligation to give personal information of those events within stated times. If they fail to do so they will become liable to penalties. By "giving information" is in all cases meant personally communicating to the Registrar such full particulars of the Birth or Death as may enable him to register, and signing the Register in his presence.

The public will be enabled to perform the duty thus imposed with but slight trouble. Each Registrar is required to have fixed and advertised hours for registering at his house or office, and, if necessary, to appoint stations, at which he may attend periodically for the same purpose. Every exertion has been made at the Central Office to give effect to these enactments; and the Registrar General has caused such arrangements to be made by Registrars throughout the country as local circumstances, duly considered, appeared to require for the public convenience.

Should informants prefer the Registrar's attendance at their own houses to register, they may send him a written request so to attend. The small fee of one shilling will be payable by them when registration is thus effected. But even this trifling charge will be avoided if personal information is given within the proper time at the house or office, or at a station, of the Registrar. In these circumstances registration will be entirely gratuitous.

On parents will continue to rest primarily the duty of securing the registration of their children's Births. They will be required to give personal information of a Birth, and to sign the register book, within forty-two days, and by failing to do so will incur a penalty of forty shillings. To meet exceptional cases, the Occupier of the house in which a Birth takes place, each person present at the Birth, and the person having charge of the child, will be enabled to give information in the same way. Competent informants will thus be multiplied so as to obviate, as much as possible, inconvenience to the public. If, by default of the above-named informants, registration does not take place within forty-two days, the Registrar may require any one of them to attend personally on him and give information within three months from the Birth. Registration will be gratuitous to the end of that time. Persons not complying with the Registrar's requisition will render themselves liable to a penalty of forty shillings. Registration of a Birth may be effected after three months; but only under restrictions involving some trouble to informants, and on payment of fees.

In thus enforcing the Registration of Births as a public duty, the Legislature has consulted the public interest. The civil register of Births is the only legal register which is evidence of age, and of the place of a Birth; and to all classes it is of great importance to be able to prove when and where they were born. For legal purposes connected with the disposition of property; for Life Insurance; for admission to the Army, Navy, and Civil Service, and to University Examinations; for Apprenticeships, employment in Factories, and for admission to Schools and Charities, the production of a Certificate of Birth is necessary. Enactments designed to provide records of such general utility, should be highly valued and promptly carried out by all whom they concern.

Deaths will in future be registered, as far as possible, on the personal information of Relatives of deceased persons. The new Act provides that the nearest Relatives of a deceased person who were present at the Death, or in attendance during the last illness, shall be the primary informants. Some one of these will be required personally to give information, signing the Register of the Death within five days, or within the same time to give written notice thereof. In all cases a Certificate of the cause of Death from a Registered Medical Practitioner must be delivered to the Registrar, if such a Practitioner attended the deceased. A penalty of forty shillings will be incurred by failure to give information or notice as above mentioned. In default of Relatives present or in attendance, other Relatives in the same Registrar's Sub-district will be admissible informants; in their default each person present at the Death, and the occupier of the house in which the Death occurred; or in default of all the foregoing, then each inmate of the house in which the Death occurred, and the Person causing the body to be buried. This is a considerable extension of the number of Informants, intended to meet exceptional conditions, and to save inconvenience. After fourteen days, from and within twelve months of a Death if by default of Informants registration has not taken place, the Registrar may require any one of them personally to attend on him and give information, signing the register before the end of that time. The penalty for non-compliance with this requisition will be forty shillings. Deaths may be registered after twelve months under special provisions involving the payment of fees.

The public are interested no less in a complete and accurate registration of Deaths than in that of Births, and to a great extent for like reasons; while the persons whom the new Statute selects as the primary informants of a Death are manifestly those to whom a correct record thereof is likely to prove of the highest importance.

A valuable restriction is imposed by the Act in relation to the burial of Still-born children. No Still-born child is in future to be buried without production of a Certificate or declaration of Still-birth. This provision, designed to prevent the burial, as Still-born, of children who have lived, is enforced by a penalty on persons burying, of ten pounds.

CHAPTER 82.

An Act to alter and amend the laws relating to the Appointment of Ministers to Parishes in Scotland.
[7th August, 1874.]

WHEREAS an Act was passed in the tenth year of the reign of her Majesty Queen Anne, chapter twelve, intituled "An Act to restore the Patrons to their Ancient Rights of presenting Ministers to the Churches vacant in that part of Great Britain called Scotland," and another Act was passed in the sixth and seventh years of the reign of her Majesty Queen Victoria, chapter sixty-one, intituled "An Act to remove Doubts respecting the Admission of Ministers to Benefices in that part of the United Kingdom called Scotland," and it is expedient to repeal the same, and to provide otherwise for the appointment of ministers of the Church of Scotland as by law established:

And whereas Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to signify that she has placed at the disposal of Parliament her interest in the several rights of advocation, donation, and patronage of churches and parishes in Scotland belonging to her:

Be it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. Extent of Act.—This Act shall apply to Scotland only.

2. Commencement of Act.—Except in so far as otherwise expressly provided, this Act shall come into operation on the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, which date is herein-after referred to as the commencement of this Act.

3. Repeal of Acts 10 Anne, c. 12, and 6 & 7 Vict. c. 61. Appointment of ministers in future.

—From and after the commencement of this Act, the said Acts of the tenth year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Anne, chapter twelve, and the sixth and seventh years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter sixty-one, shall be repealed, and the right of electing and appointing ministers to vacant churches and parishes in Scotland is hereby declared to be vested in the congregations of such vacant churches and parishes respectively, subject to such regulations in regard to the mode of naming and proposing such ministers by means of a committee chosen by the congregation, and of conducting the election and of making the appointment by the congregation as may from time to time be framed by the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, or which, after the passing of this Act, before the next meeting of the said General Assembly, may be framed by the commission of the last General Assembly duly convened for the purpose of making interim regulations thereanent: Provided always, that, with respect to the admission and settlement of ministers appointed in terms of this Act, nothing herein contained shall affect or prejudice the right of the said Church, in the exercise of its undoubted powers, to try the qualifications of persons appointed to vacant parishes; and the courts of the said Church are hereby declared to have the right to decide finally and conclusively upon the appointment, admission, and settlement in any church and parish of any person as minister thereof. The ministers appointed, admitted, and settled in terms of this Act are hereby declared to have in all respects the same rights, privileges, and duties which now belong to or are incumbent on the ministers of the said Church.

4. Compensation to private patrons.—In all cases in which the patronage of a parish is held either solely or jointly by a private patron, or any guardian or trustee on his behalf, it shall be lawful for him, or for such guardian or trustee, at any time within six months after the passing of this Act, to present a petition to the sheriff of the county (and when the parish is partly in two or more counties, the petition may be presented to the sheriff of any of such counties), praying him to determine the compensation to be paid to such patron in respect of the operation of this Act; but it shall not be incumbent on any such patron, or upon any guardian or trustee for such patron, whether the patronage is held upon a fee simple title or under a deed of entail or other limited title, to present such petition; and if no such petition shall be presented within the said period, it shall be held and taken that the claim for such compensation has been renounced, and no claim therefor shall afterwards be competent in any manner of way. No compensation in respect of the operation of this Act shall be paid to Her Majesty, or to any patron other than a private patron.

5. Procedure before Sheriff.—Upon any petition for the determination of the compensation payable under this Act being presented, the sheriff shall order it to be intimated to the minister of the parish to which the petition relates, and the clerk of the presbytery of the bounds, and, at the expiry of the induciae of twenty-one days, whether with or without answers, shall inquire as to the title of the petitioner, and he shall be satisfied thereof, he shall proceed to determine the amount of such compensation which shall be equal to one year's stipend of the parish to which the petition relates when the petitioner is sole patron, and such proportion thereof as to the sheriff shall seem just when the petitioner is a joint patron; and the sheriff shall pronounce an interlocutor finding and declaring that, on the occurrence of a vacancy in the parish, the petitioner, or those in his right, shall be entitled, unless the sum shall be otherwise provided, to receive from the heritors payment of the amount of compensation found due, by four equal yearly instalments out of the first four years' stipend, which, but for the passing of this Act, would have been wholly payable by them to the minister to be appointed on the occurrence of said vacancy, or his successor in such parish in the case of the appointment of an assistant minister, or his successor out of the first four years' stipend, which, but for the passing of this Act, would have been wholly payable after the date of such appointment to the minister of such parish: and the petitioner, or those in his right, shall have the same or the like remedies for recovery of said compensation which a minister has for the recovery of his stipend: Provided that where the patron is himself an heritor of the parish he shall be entitled to retain and appropriate the sum or sums of stipend which, had he not been himself the patron, would under the operation of his Act have been payable by him to the patron of the parish.

6. Sheriff's judgments final.—The interlocutors or judgments of the sheriff pronounced under this Act shall not be subject to review by any superior court, but where they have been pronounced by the sheriff substitute or steward substitute, they shall be subject to review by the sheriff or steward: Provided always, that it shall be competent for the Court of Session by writ of sedes interventus to regulate the proceedings before the sheriff under this Act.

7. Appointment by presbytery tanquam jure devoluto.—(1.) If on occasion of a vacancy in any parish no appointment of a minister shall be made by the congregation within the space of six months after the vacancy has occurred, the right of appointment shall accrue and belong at that time to the presbytery of the bounds where such parish is, who may proceed to appoint a minister to the said parish tanquam jure devoluto:

(2.) Provision for case of small congregations.—If at any time after the passing of this Act, and prior to the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, it shall appear to the presbytery of the bounds that the number of the communicants of any vacant church and parish to which no presentation had been issued before the passing hereof is less than twenty-five, it shall not be lawful to make any proceedings for the appointment, admission, and settlement of a minister until after the said first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five; the jus devolution in the case of any such vacancy shall not come into operation until after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, although more than six months may have elapsed from the occurrence of such vacancy.

8. Repeal of inconsistent statutes.—All laws, statutes, and usages inconsistent with this Act are hereby repealed; but nothing in this Act contained shall affect or interfere with the pointment of the minister first appointed to the minister of any new parish quoad parochiam, or the right to teind now possessed or competent to any patron or titular, or the right of ann, or the laws now in force in regard to the disposal of vacant stipends; nor shall anything contained in this Act, except the provisions of the second sub-section of section ten, affect or interfere with any proceedings following upon or arising out of a presentation made before the commencement of this Act.

9. Interpretation clause.—The word "minister" shall include assistant and successors; the word "guardian" shall include tutors and curators of pupils or minors or of persons labouring under incapacity or disability, and factors loco parentis and factors loco absentis; the word "heritor" shall include steward, sheriff substitute, and steward substitute; the words "one minister's stipend" shall be construed to mean the stipend which, on an average of the three preceding years, the minister has received in name of stipend out of the teinds of the parish; the words "private patron" shall mean and include all patrons of churches and parishes, whether single or joint, other than her Majesty and her royal successors, and burgh corporations, universities, or trustees constituted commissioners, officers, or persons acting in a public capacity; the word "parish" shall include united parishes, and also parishes ad sacra as well as parishes quoad omnia, where in any church and parish there is more than one benefice, each benefice shall be treated and regarded as if it were a separate parish; the words "vacancy" and "vacant" shall include and refer to the occasion of the death of an assistant and successor, as well as the occasion of an ordinary vacancy;

the word "congregation" shall mean and include communicants and such other adherents of the church as the kirk session under regulations to be framed by the General Assembly or commission thereof, as provided in the third section hereof, may determine to be members of the congregation for the purposes of this Act; "heritors" shall mean heritors liable in payment of stipend.

INDUSTRIAL AND REFORMATORY SCHOOLS ACT.

An Act to extend the Powers of Prison Authorities in relation to Industrial and Reformatory Schools, and for other purposes relating thereto. [30th July, 1874.]

WHEREAS by the Prisons Act, 1865, prison authorities are empowered to borrow money for the purposes of altering, enlarging, new building, or building prisons:

And whereas prison authorities have power by the Industrial Schools Acts, 1866 and 1872, to contribute towards or themselves to undertake the alteration, enlargement, rebuilding, establishment, building, or purchase of the site for any industrial school, and by the Reformatory Schools Acts, 1866 and 1872, to contribute towards or themselves to undertake the alteration, enlargement, rebuilding, establishment, building, or purchase of the site for any reformatory school, but no power is given to prison authorities under the said Acts relating to industrial and reformatory schools to borrow money for the purposes of such schools:

Be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same as follows:

1. Short title. Construction of Act.—This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Prisons Authorities Act, 1874," and shall be construed, as far as is consistent with the tenor thereof, as follows; that is to say, so far as it relates to industrial schools with the Industrial Schools Acts, 1866 and 1872, and so far as it relates to reformatory schools with the Reformatory Schools Acts, 1866 and 1872.

2. Power to borrow money for purposes of industrial and reformatory schools.—Subject to the provisions of "The Elementary Education Act, 1870," any prison authority may, with the approval of one of her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, borrow money for the purpose of defraying or contributing towards the expense of altering, enlarging, rebuilding, establishing, building, or purchasing the site of any industrial or reformatory school under the said Industrial and Reformatory Schools Acts, or any of them.

3. Charge of borrowed moneys.—Any moneys borrowed by a prison authority under this Act may be charged by that authority on any county rate, or rate in the nature of a county rate, borough rate, or other rate applicable to the maintenance of a prison and leviable by that authority, or on any other property belonging to that authority and applicable to the same purpose as the said rates, and shall be repaid, together with the interest due thereon, out of such rates or other property.

4. Certain clauses of 10 & 11 Vict. c. 16, as to borrowing money incorporated.—The clauses of "The Commissioners Clauses Act, 1847," with the exception of the eighty-fourth clause with respect to mortgages to be created by the Commissioners, shall form part of and be incorporated with this Act, and any mortgagee or assignee may enforce payment of his principal and interest by appointment of a receiver.

In the construction of the said clauses "the Commissioners" shall mean "the prison authority."

Where a prison authority borrows any money under this Act they shall charge the rates or property out of which the moneys borrowed are payable, not only with the interest of the moneys so borrowed, but also with the payment of such further sum as will ensure the repayment of the whole sum borrowed within thirty years.

5. Special provision as to the county and city of Worcester.—For the purposes of the said Industrial and Reformatory Schools Acts and this Act, the justices of the county of Worcester in quarter sessions assembled shall be deemed to be the prison authority for the county of Worcester at large, and the council of the city of Worcester shall be deemed to be the prison authority for the city of Worcester, and county of the same city, anything in the Worcester Prison Act, 1867, or any other Act, notwithstanding.

BISHOP OF CALCUTTA (LEAVE OF ABSENCE) ACT.

Be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. Rules as to leave of absence applied to present Bishop of Calcutta.—The rules made by her Majesty as to the leave of absence of Indian bishops on furlough or medical certificate under the power given to her by Section 1 of the said Act shall apply to the present Bishop of Calcutta.

37 & 38 VICT. c. 20.

An Act to provide for the Exemption of Churches and Chapels in Scotland from Local Rates and Assessment. [30th June, 1874.]

WHEREAS by the Act of the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth years of the reign of her present Majesty, chapter sixty-two, it is provided that no person shall be rated or be liable to be rated for or to pay any poor rates for or in respect of any church, chapel, meeting-house, or premises in Scotland exclusively appropriated to public religious worship; and that no person shall be liable to any such rates because such church, chapel, meeting-house, or other premises, or any room belonging thereto, or any part thereof, may be used for Sunday or infant schools, or for the charitable education of the poor:

Be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

PUBLIC EDUCATION IN ENGLAND AND WALES.

59 (a). In schools attended by infants only (under 7 years of age), the conditions of Article 59 (2), (b) and (c) are not required to be fulfilled.

60. Pupil-teachers who have completed their engagement with credit, and who have passed satisfactorily either the examination for the close of their fifth year (Schedule I.) or (Article 94) that referred to in Article 91, may, upon special recommendation by the inspector, be provisionally certificated in the third class for immediate service in charge of schools (Article 4) which have an annual average attendance of less than 60 scholars.<sup>1</sup>

61. After their 25th year of age (completed) their provisional certificates must have been exchanged for permanent certificates (Article 43) or are ipso facto cancelled.

62. The provisional certificate is confined to an entry of the pupil-teacher's name in a register kept by the Department, and does not involve the issue of any certificate to the pupil-teacher.

63. Certificates of the first or second class issued before the 1st of January, 1871, are rated as of the first class.

64. Certificates of the third class, or upper grade of the fourth class, and infant school certificates of the first class, issued before the 1st of January, 1871, are rated as of the second class. Such certificates will be open to revision at the end of 10 years from the date of their issue, or of their last revision.

65. Certificates of the lower grade of the fourth class and infant school certificates of the second class, issued before the 1st of January, 1871, are rated as of the third class.

66. The class of any certificate not yet issued will be fixed by Articles 54 and 56.

Reports of Managers and Inspector.

67. The managers must annually state whether the teacher's character, conduct, and attention to duty have been satisfactory.

68. The inspector reports of each school visited by him whether it is efficient in organization, discipline, and instruction.

69. Certificates may, at any time, be recalled, suspended, or reduced under Articles 67 and 68.

Pupil-teachers.

70. Pupil-teachers are boys or girls employed to serve in a school on the following conditions, namely:—

(a.) That the school is reported by the inspector to be—

1. Under a duly-certificated teacher (Articles 43 and 57).
2. Held in suitable premises.
3. Well furnished and well supplied with books and apparatus.
4. Properly organized and skilfully instructed.
5. Under good discipline.
6. Likely to be maintained during the period of engagement.

(b.) That the pupil-teachers be not less than thirteen years (completed) of age at the date of their engagement.

(c.) Be of the same sex as the certificated teacher under whom they serve; but in a mixed school female pupil-teachers may serve under a master, and may receive instruction from him out of school hours, on condition that some respectable woman, approved by the managers, be invariably present during the whole time that such instruction is being given.

(d.) Be presented to the inspector for examination at the time and place fixed by his notice (Article 11).

(e.) Pass the examinations and produce the certificates specified in Schedule I.

(f.) That the managers enter into an agreement in the terms of the memorandum in the Second Schedule to this Code, a copy of which memorandum is sent to the managers for every candidate approved by the Department.

(g.) That not more than four pupil-teachers are engaged in the school for every certificated teacher serving in it.

71. The Department is not a party to the engagement, and confines itself to ascertaining, on the admission of the pupil-teacher and at the end of each year of the service—

(a.) Whether the prescribed examination is passed before the inspector.

(b.) Whether the prescribed certificates are produced from the managers and teachers.

72. Whatever other questions arise upon the engagement may be referred to the Department (provided that all the parties agree in writing to be bound by the decision of the Department as final), but, otherwise, must be settled as in any other hiring or contract.

73. Vacancies in the office of pupil-teacher which occur in the course of any year (Article 13) must not be filled up until after the next examination by the inspector.

74. The candidate or candidates for such vacancies must be engaged in the meantime by the week only as monitors, and the memorandum of agreement (Article 70f) will not be issued by the Department to the managers until the inspector's report has been examined.

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.

67, Lincoln's Inn Fields.

THE next Monthly General Meeting of the Society will be held on Tuesday, October 5th, at 2 p.m.

THE SOCIETY'S ANNUAL REPORT.

(From The Times.)

"The Annual Report of this Society for 1874-5 has just been issued. It consists of fifty closely-printed pages, and briefly enumerates the multifarious operations performed by the Society. Their variety will surprise those who know the institution only as the great Bible and Prayer Book Society of the Church of England. In the Report the charitable operations of the Society for the direct promotion of Christian knowledge are first dealt with, and it appears that during the past year considerable sums have been granted, with such objects as the following:—To increase the number of Church training-schools, to aid Sunday Schools, and to enable clergymen to rent Board schools for Sunday School purposes, to purchase prizes to be given to students on admission to training colleges, and defray the regular visitation of the emigrants at seaports by clergymen of the Church of England. Within the year the Society gave away books at a charge upon the Charitable Funds of 6963l. 12s., besides granting many hundreds of volumes to schools and parochial libraries at home, and to missions and charities in every colony and dependency of the Empire.

"The grants of money for church purposes abroad have always formed an important item of the expenditure of the Society. It appears that since 1840 it has spent 50,000*l.* upon the endowment of new sees in India. At conferences held in June last at Lambeth Palace, at which were present persons representing not only this Society, but the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and the Church Missionary Society, it was resolved to request the Archbishop of Canterbury to communicate with the Secretary of State for India on the subject of the readiness of the three Societies to contribute funds towards the increase of the Indian Episcopate. In conformity with this resolution, a deputation waited on the Marquis of Salisbury. His Lordship admitted the necessity of increased supervision if the work of the Church in India was to continue; but he did not advise an appeal to the Legislature if the object could be obtained without it. He said the House of Commons always receives proposals of Indian Legislation with considerable apathy, and ecclesiastical legislation with considerable repulsion, and that when the two were combined he feared there might be some difficulty, not of obtaining the assent of the majority of the House of Commons, but in obtaining the time and consideration which would be necessary to enable any project to pass into law. He thought it possible to afford what was required under the existing state of the law, it being understood that the new bishops would be supported by voluntary contributions, without any further appeal to the Indian Revenue. Subsequently, at the July monthly meeting it was resolved to set aside 15,000*l.* to assist any well-matured scheme for the maintenance of additional bishops in India to promote and superintend missionary work in that country. The long enumeration contained in this Report of sums granted to aid in missionary work, to build churches abroad, &c., shows that appeals for assistance are made, and not in vain, from every part of the globe in which Englishmen are settled either as merchants or colonists.

"As booksellers and publishers the Society are successful. Last year, the amount of work accomplished by the several literary committees was above the average. Attention is directed in this Report to several of the works which have been published. The titles and descriptions given of some of them are not unattractive. There are tracts of the usual kind published by religious societies, which the clergy and others will find useful to distribute. The General Literature Committee have published works of a higher class, however, to which it is desirable to call attention. Their elementary science shilling manuals are a useful series of elementary educational books. The volumes published last were 'Botany,' by Professor Bentley, and 'Astronomy,' by W. H. Christie. The committee announce that, recognising the importance of spreading among the people reliable information on the laws of health, they have employed Dr. Parkes, of Netley Abbey Hospital, to prepare a cheap manual on this subject. Another series of books published by the Society, 'Ancient History from the Monuments,' is entitled to still higher praise. They give an account of the results of the latest inquiries of archæologists and scholars into the early history of the East, and thus supply information very much wanted by large classes of intelligent persons, and not readily accessible elsewhere. The volumes which have appeared this year are 'Egypt,' by Dr. Birch, of the British Museum; 'Assyria,' by Mr. George Smith, of the British Museum; and 'Persia,' by Mr. W. S. W. Vaux. 'Sini,' by Major Palmer; and 'Babylonia,' by Mr. S. Smith, are about to appear, and Mr. Vaux has been commissioned to prepare another volume to be added to the series on the Greek Cities and Islands of Asia Minor. It is needless to say that the authors of these books are among the highest authorities on the subjects of which they treat, and that their works will be welcomed by large classes of educated persons, who take no interest whatever in the ordinary publications of religious societies.

"The Society, the Report remarks, is not rich, although it is the oldest association in connexion with the Church of England for carrying on a great variety of charitable work. It is dependent almost exclusively upon the liberality of living churchmen. Its total income for charitable purposes amounted last year to 41,107*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.* During the same period the sale of books below cost price, for the use of the poor, involved an expenditure of 73,895*l.* 11*s.*, while grants of books for a variety of charitable institutions cost 6963*l.* 12*s.* Upwards of 75,000*l.* worth of books were, however, sold last year at a profit of 4000*l.*, which was handed over to the general fund, and will be spent upon the charitable operations of the Society."

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

Committee of Correspondence, July 20th.—The Rev. James Stone, Curate of Halesowen, Birmingham, who, in consequence of having seen the appeal for men recently issued by the Society, and having heard an earnest plea for help at Birmingham from the Rev. T. P. Hughes, had offered himself to the Society for the Mission-field, was introduced to the Committee, and conversation having been held with him in which he expressed his full assent to the principles of the Society, the Committee thankfully accepted his offer to become a Missionary of the Society.

A letter was read from the Rev. G. B. Durrant, B.A., of Oriel College, Oxford, Curate to the Rev. E. H. Bickersteth, eldest son of the late Rev. I. Durrant, of the "Missionaries' Children's Home," offering himself to the Society for Missionary work in India. Letters were read from the Rev. W. Cadman, Rev. E. H. Bickersteth, and the Rev. D. Wilson, bearing high testimony to the Christian character and Missionary qualifications of the Rev. G. B. Durrant. The Secretaries having stated the result of their interviews with Mr. Durrant, and Mr. Durrant having been introduced to the Committee and conversation held with him, the Committee thankfully accepted his offer for Missionary work in India.

The location of the Rev. J. Stone and the Rev. G. B. Durrant was then considered by the Committee. They appointed Mr. Stone to the Telugu Mission, and directed that it should be suggested to the Corresponding Committee at Madras, that while engaged in learning the language he should render assistance to the Rev. J. Sharp in the Noble High School. The Committee appointed Mr. Durrant to North India, his location to be determined by the Calcutta Corresponding Committee.

Letters were read from the Rev. Trevor Bomford, Curate of West Hartlepool, B.A., of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, placing himself at the disposal of the Society after the close of the present year; and adding that the part of the Mission-field to which he felt most drawn was Travancore. Letters were read from several clerical friends of the Society bearing testimony to the Christian character and Missionary qualifications of Mr. Bomford, and a letter having been read from Mr. Bomford stating the difficulty he would have at the present time of leaving West Hartlepool even for two days, the Committee decided to dispense in the present instance with a personal interview, and, provided a favourable medical certificate be obtained, to accept the offer of the Rev. T. Bomford to be a Missionary of the Society, and appointed him to assist in the Cambridge Nicholson Institution, Travancore.

The Rev. J. Rebmman, lately returned from the East Coast of Africa, had an interview with the Committee. He commenced with a devout acknowledgment of the goodness and mercy of God that he had experienced during his twenty-nine years' absence in the Mission. In regard to the work, he expressed his conviction that Christianity had taken root in East Africa. Although the number of Christians were small, only about twenty, he believed they were true and honest ones, had learned to appreciate the Word of God had cheered his heart on leaving them to such expressions as this from those who to bid him farewell: "You have done well in showing us the way to God: we are grateful to you." Three-fourths of the converts belonged to the Giriama tribe of the Waj about thirty miles from Kisulidini, who had brought to God through the instrumental the Native Abbi Sidi, who had formerly been a servant in his employment. Their great desire was to have a teacher stationed among them and to have more Christian books.

Mr. Rebmman expressed his thankfulness to the Committee for their care of him, and reported the entire success of Mr. Soulberg's operation for cataract.

Archdeacon Cowley, under date, July 7, 1875, confirms the sad intelligence of the recent death of the Rev. H. Budd, which event took place about April 3rd; and adds that Mr. Budd's life and labours are so fully known to the Society that any enumeration of them would be unnecessary. He went to form a station among heathen Indians, in 1840, and for many years past has been reaping the fruits of his labour, in providing over a Christian Church as its Native Pastor. He was an excellent manager; and his place a very pattern of neatness and order. He was provident and economical—never starving, but possessed of means to effect whatever his hands found to do; and as to his spirituality of mind and devotion to the cause of Christ and His holy Church, his reports abundantly testify.

The Rev. Canon McClatchie, in a letter dated Shanghai, May 29, 1875, says, "Our 'settlement' is now transformed into a 'city,' and our beautiful church, which cost about Taels 80,000, has been handed over to our bishop as his cathedral. This has been done without the slightest solicitation on the Bishop's part, by the spontaneous act of the trustees and community, simply in consequence of the great and deserved respect and esteem they entertained for him."

Bishop Russell gives the following account of the ordination of the first native in the province of Ningpo; and also of the handing over to him of the Shanghai Church as a Cathedral:—

"You will be glad to hear that we have at last ordained a Native in this province. On June the 6th, our long tried and faithful Catechist, Sing Eng-tek, was set apart for the office of Deacon at our Kwun-ho-we Church, in the district of Sienpoh.

"To me especially it was an occasion of the very deepest interest, when I recalled to mind all the difficulties we experienced in the past, in the formation of the Kwun-ho-we station, and contrasted the state of things then with what I saw before me at this time—a nice church, well filled with attentive and devout worshippers, and a Native minister at their head; and surrounded, too, with a large population of heathen on the whole fairly friendly. What hath God wrought!

"It will be interesting also to you to know that Mr. Sing, before his ordination, passed most creditably a rather searching examination. Mr. Gough examined him in the Thirty-nine Articles. Mr. A. E. Moule in Scripture, both Old and New Testaments, and I on the leading doctrines of Christianity, and their contrast with those of Confucianism, Buddhism, and Taoism. I gave him a paper of twenty-one questions, nearly all of which he answered well and several very ably. To the last his reply was somewhat laconic. It was, 'What is the duty of a Deacon?' His answer was, 'You will see it fully set forth by St. Paul in his epistles to Timothy.'

"You will also have heard, through Mr. Valentine, of our proceedings at Shanghai on Trinity Sunday. I hope I have done the right thing in accepting of the kind offer of our friends ere, of their beautiful church for my cathedral. be remarkable unanimity manifested by all utions, Americans as well as English, Dissenters well as Church people, and their great cordality towards me on the occasion, seem to show that the hand of God has been in the matter, and that He will glorify Himself through the feeble instrumentality of His poor servant. We are longing to hear of reinforcements for North China. The field, as you know, is immense, and at times it strikes me speedily rising to the harvest. May the great Lord of the harvest give us the labourers we need!"

LAW.

CONSISTORY COURT OF LONDON.

(Before Dr. TRISTRAM, Chancellor.)

SERGEANT v. DALE.

St. Vedast, Foster-lane. See Ecclesiastical Gazette, August, 1875, p. 21.)

This case came originally before the Consistory Court as a complaint, resulting from instructions by the parishioners at vestry meetings, against the rector, for having removed the reading-desk, the clerk's desk, the Lord Mayor's pew, &c., for the purpose of providing a choir for surpliced choristers. Dr. Tristram, having heard evidence as to the cause and inspected the church, decided that the removals and alterations were made without any faculty, and that on the necessary accommodation being provided elsewhere in the edifice the church should be restored to its original condition. Against this decision the Rev. Pelham Dale, the rector, appealed to the Court of Arches, and the appeal was dismissed "for want of prosecution." The dispute was then referred back to the Consistory Court, and on Thursday, 12th ult., Dr. Tristram, in presence of the rector, the churchwardens, and such of the parishioners as chose to attend, inspected the church. The result of his inspection was that he ordered a faculty to issue authorizing the churchwardens to remove the choir constructed by the rector's orders, to restore the church to its original condition, and to provide accommodation for choristers in certain parts of the church selected by the learned Judge outside the central aisle.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9.

The case came this day again before the Court on a complaint of the churchwardens of the united parishes of St. Vedast and St. Michael-le-Querne, in the City of London, that the defendant, as the rector, had not complied with an order of the Court which had been made in reference to seats which had been erected, and as to ritualistic practices in the church of St. Vedast, Foster-lane.

Mr. TAYLOR appeared for the churchwardens, three of whom, Mr. Sergeant, Mr. Horwood, and Mr. Morley, were in attendance; Mr. BROOKS appeared as proctor for the rector, who was not present.

A long discussion arose in regard to the alterations made under the faculty in the church. One pew for the boy choristers was said to be sufficient, but there were other pews in which men choristers appeared, and the practices which the churchwardens objected to, and which had led to the differences between the churchwardens and the rector were, in effect, still carried on. On his behalf, Mr. BROOKS expressed his surprise that the matter had been brought before the Court, and that in the midst of the vacation the Chancellor had been desired to hold a Court.

The CHANCELLOR (Dr. Tristram) considered that his directions had not been carried out, and that only one pew (No. 18) should be allowed for the boy choristers. The rector, as promised, would remove these before Saturday by two o'clock, or the churchwardens would be authorized to take them away, so as to prevent the platforms being used on Sunday next.

Mr. BROOKS complained that some seats which had been in the church for thirty years had been removed, and asked that they might be restored. They were necessary for the celebration of the Holy Eucharist.

Mr. HORWOOD, one of the churchwardens, said the seats were used by the clergy, and not by the congregation, and for the repetition of things which had been complained of by the churchwardens. When the congregation required the seats they would be restored. He further complained of the trouble the rector had put the churchwardens to, and he asked for the costs of the present proceedings.

The Court ordered the removal of the platforms except as to pew 18, and gave costs to the churchwardens on the ground that the rector had not complied with the order made. Unless the objectionable seats were removed by two o'clock on Saturday next, the churchwardens would take them away from their present position, so as to prevent them being used next Sunday.

PARLIAMENTARY INTELLIGENCE.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 13.

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT.

THE second Session of the ninth Parliament of Queen Victoria was prorogued this day (in 39th year of her Majesty's reign) by Commission, the Royal Commissioners being—the Lord Chancellor, the Duke of Richmond, the Earl of Shrewsbury, Earl Beauchamp, and the Earl of Hardwicke. The Queen's speech concluded thus:—

"I trust that the Act constituting a new Bishopric at St. Albans may prove advantageous to the vast population of the dioceses affected by the measure.

"In bidding you farewell for the Recess, I pray that the blessing of Providence may fall on your recent labours, and accompany you in the discharge of all your duties."

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 11.

INCREASE OF THE EPISCOPATE BILL.

On the motion of Mr. BERESFORD HOPE, the order of the day for going into Committee on this Bill was read and discharged. The hon. member gave notice that it was his intention to raise the question again next year. A petition signed by between 4000 and 5000 of the clergy had been presented in favour of the Bill, although in consequence of some ignorance of the forms of the House the signatures of only about 1000 could be received. The fact, however, remained that one-fourth of the clergy of England were favourable to the Bill, and next Session he should re-introduce it at the earliest possible moment.

THE BISHOP OF LLANDAFF ON THE "REGULATION OF PUBLIC WORSHIP" ACT.

At his last triennial visitation, in his charge delivered to the clergy at the cathedral, Llandaff, the Bishop of Llandaff made the following observations upon the Act respecting the regulation of Public Worship which came into operation in July last:—

The Public Worship Act, he need not say that to most at least this was a most unwelcome topic. His conscience was his witness that he had always desired the relations subsisting between his clergy and himself to be those, and no other than those, of friendship and mutual forbearance. Authority indeed must exist in every well-constituted society, but it was an evil day for any church when episcopal authority was to be replaced or enforced by episcopal jurisdiction. He ventured to think that appeals to courts of law upon ecclesiastical matters were very deeply to be lamented, though in some cases they might be unavoidable evils, and that the occasions for them should be as watchfully guarded against by those whose position required them to obey as the necessity for them must ever be deplored by those who had to administer the law. But unhappily for them both, circumstances had taken place to prevent him from passing over this matter sub silentio. It was impossible for him not to have some knowledge of a feeling that had lately arisen amongst them, and of facts which had lately transpired; and with a knowledge of those facts it was his imperative duty to himself and to the diocese at large that his opinions in reference to them should be publicly expressed. During the years 1873 and 1874, Ecclesiastical Legislation was not so active as it had been in the three that preceded them. But in 1874, a Bill introduced into the House of Lords by the Archbishop of Canterbury for the better administration of the laws respecting the regulation of public worship, which occasioned a great deal of debate in both Houses of Parliament, and strong expressions of differing opinions without their walls, eventually passed into law. There could be no denying that its primary object was to enable the law effectually to deal with a certain portion of the clergy, numerically small as compared with the whole body, but energetic and resolute in the course which they had adopted; who, having constituted themselves judges of what was Catholic in point of ceremonial, and, therefore, as they affirmed, ought to be, and might legitimately be, introduced into the service of their English branch of the Universal Church. The natural results of this self-assertion had been that the hearts of many faithful members of the Church were grievously disquieted. Painful discords had arisen in congregations in which these novel ministrations had been adopted without their consent, or in spite of their remonstrances, and an intense feeling of dissatisfaction prevailed throughout the land. Who could say how far the individual clergyman of extreme opinions might distress his congregation if once he was allowed to substitute traditional for written law. It was very difficult to understand how any one who had followed the course of events during the last few years could doubt the fact that many congregations of loyal Churchmen had been thus disturbed. Had nothing more been aimed at in the last few years than a wise and judicious correction of deviations from strict rule, it would have been welcomed by all devout and sober-minded Churchmen; the spirit of wholesome reform would have diffused itself gradually through a wider and wider circle, and order and decency become the universal characteristics of their public services. But ceremonial, instead of being kept in its own position, was magnified into a sample of doctrine which it never was intended to be, and from that moment it had been a bone of contention; not so much for its own sake, as on account of the dogma which one party affirmed, and the other denied. The Church of England, it has been well observed by two eminent members of their community—to whom he supposed it would be doing no injustice did they suppose them to differ somewhat in their several opinions as to the value of rites and ceremonials—"has always contained within it two parties, one looking much for outward observance and ceremonial, the other careless or even hostile to them, and these two historical parties represent two classes of mind which always have, and probably always will, exist and proclaim their existence in a free country. If, therefore, the Church is to remain the national establishment of a free country, room for both must be found in it, as far as is consistent with general uniformity in such matters as may be deemed essential. Within such limits a variety and elasticity of outward observance appears to us to be desired." Such an uniformity, he could confidently assert, was never in the contemplation of the framers of the measure now under their consideration. But there were limits to all permitted deviations from fixed laws, and where they were so transgressed as to threaten great public inconvenience, forbearance became impossible—for it was no longer compatible with the welfare of the body corporate. Not to correct irregularities when mischief must necessarily ensue from them, was weakness and not charity. The ritual movement, be it remembered, was not to be confounded with the High Church movement which produced the Oxford Tracts in 1833 and 1834. Nor even if they were identical could their combined influence be credited with being the first motive power that was brought to bear upon the slovenly practices of the last century. The intervening space between 1830 and 1834 had been well occupied by those who were commonly known as the Evangelical clergy. He did not wish to claim for those who bore, and justly bore, that honoured name, any monopoly of the religious feeling of their day. He did not say that their system of instruction was altogether complete—in all respects without defect—but he did rejoice to bear his testimony, feeble as it might be, to the fact that it was to the holiness of their lives as contrasted with the worldly spirit of too many of their brethren—to the boldness and fervour with which they proclaimed the leading doctrines of the Gospel, which had become well-nigh forgotten—and to the abundant blessing which it had pleased God to give to their labours—all which had taken place before what is now called the Ritualistic movement had its birth—that they of the present day were very much indebted to the quickening of their national spiritual life, and amongst other blessings for the greater reverence and respect which was now paid to holy things. As regarded Church parties there had been a greater approximation of Churchmen of diverse opinions, and an almost universal concurrence of principle and practice. It seemed as though they were about to shake hands and forget—or at least not to parade—their differences, willing to make mutual concessions, and learn something each from the other. There was a bright prospect that they would unite their forces and march in God's strength to a holy warfare against irreligion and ungodliness. Unhappily the vision was not realized. Once more their peace was interrupted. The sky again was overclouded, and since then party spirit had been pushed to its extreme of intolerance. It might be that they were beginning to lose their balance, and that God in His wisdom and love saw that they needed His fatherly correction. It might be that they had begun to pride themselves upon the number of their restored or new churches, or been indulging in the feeling, "Master, see what manner of stones or what buildings are here." Their greater attention to decency and order in the conduct of their services, their choral music, their increased number of communicants, their various agencies for promoting education and Christian knowledge at home, and their missionary labours in the colonies and in heathen lands, might have inspired the thought that their mountain was so strong that it could never be moved. If the æstheticism of the day was drawing them away from the simplicity that was in Christ, and they were beginning to forget the admonition, "Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord;" if their zeal for this or that religious body was causing them to substitute self-complacency for the spirit of Christianity, they could not be surprised that their strength unexpectedly had been turned into weakness. He was far from saying that the fault of their present discords lay exclusively at the door of one party in the Church. It was a humiliating reflection that the spark in not a few cases had been blown into a flame by zeal without knowledge, indiscriminate censure, and narrow-minded prejudice. But he could not dissemble his conviction that ultra-Ritualism—he said ultra-Ritualism, because every good Churchman must in a proper sense be a Ritualist—was chiefly responsible for their present disputes, and consequently for the recent enactment. So long as there was a truce between the two parties, or the two were concurrent in the development of healthy progress, so long as those in authority were allowed, according to their judgment, to restrain needless innovations, they were gradually but surely advancing in the right path. But when liberty degenerated into licentiousness, and the lovers of high ceremonial determined, as it would appear, at all hazards to assert their own independence, continued year after year to harass and distract the Church by their unauthorized proceedings, it was all but universally felt that unless she was suffered to fall to pieces through her internal discords the sovereignty of the law must be vindicated, and this self-assertion be eventually put down. Loud complaints had been made as to the hastiness of this recent legislation. Could anything be more unreasonable or unjust than such a charge? So far back as 1860, the "Riots" at St. George's-in-the-East had taken place, the rector having felt himself bound, about three years before, to adopt the eucharistic vestments, these vestments, as we were then told, being used in from fifty to sixty churches in England, and their adoption being extended in other churches, as it was believed, every month. In 1867 a Bill was laid before the House of Lords "for better enforcing uniformity in the clerical vestments and ornaments to be worn in the performance of public worship." In 1869, five years before the passing of the Act, her Majesty had been pleased to issue a commission of inquiry into matters of ritual. During the five years the bishops had manifested the utmost forbearance both in their charges and private intercourse with their clergy, deprecating self-will, and exhorting to moderation and Christian charity. He had been gravely told that the Public Worship Bill was "being hurried through the Lower House with unseemly and panic-stricken haste." None who were acquainted with the late Dr. Jeremie, Dean of Lincoln, and Regius Professor of Divinity in Cambridge, would charge him with being hasty in the direction of change. In the fourth report of the commissioners, published in 1870, he spoke of their deliberations which had then extended over a period of three years, whilst the diversity of public worship had become still greater. With what justice, then, could it be affirmed that sufficient time was not afforded for private reflection, or that public action was taken with unbecoming rapidity? But, after all, what was there in the Act—and this was the real question with which they were now practically concerned—that need trouble or disquiet any one who only wished loyally to discharge his duty? Had it meddled with the doctrines of the Church there had been reasonable ground for suspicion; but inasmuch as it related only to the violation of the actual existing law in reference to two particulars—in the first place the fabrics, furniture, and decorations of the church, including the ornaments of the church or minister; and secondly, the performance of the services, rites, and ceremonies—with regard to the first of these points, moreover, only taking cognizance of alterations or additions made without lawful authority, or absolutely forbidden by law; and, as respects the second, only having reference to any unlawful addition to, alteration or omission from, such services—it was very difficult to see what a clergyman could possibly object to, who simply desired and professed to act according to his own declaration that he would abide by the decision of lawful authority. Unquestionably, if the Act fulfilled the intention of Parliament, it would facilitate the application of the existing laws by removing the obstacles which, up to this time, had almost annulled the law itself. But of that, what conscientious clergyman could complain? To suppose any one to complain under such circumstances would be tantamount to stigmatizing him as an unprincipled person, who, if he could, would leave these obstructions in the way for the very purpose that he might cast his obligations to the winds, and violate the law with impunity, although with solemn words as binding as an oath he had promised to pay it. Theoretical objections were very easily made to any measure of practical utility, and especially was this the case when their own inclinations were adverse to the suggested improvement. Among other arguments that were raised against the Bill when it was under discussion, the circumstance of Convocation not having had the opportunity of considering it before its introduction in Parliament was very strongly insisted upon. It must be very difficult for any one who was not versed in ecclesiastical and statutory law to form an opinion upon a constitutional question of this nature. For his own part he was content to repose on the authority of an eminent lawyer and so excellent a Churchman as Lord Selborne, who had made himself responsible for the statement that "in none of the statutes for enforcing discipline was there the slightest trace of the opinion of Convocation having been at any time sought as to the measure Parliament should use for the purpose of enforcing the existing laws of the Church." It would be seen that the assertion of the noble lord was strictly limited to the enforcement of the existing laws of the Church—the sole object which this Act of Parliament had respect to, and that the terms employed by him were most comprehensive and positive; not the slightest trace at any time of Convocation having been consulted on the point. Whether the Act would produce its desired effect was as yet a matter of uncertainty. The happiest result of its enactment would no doubt be that good sense and Christian charity should make it a dead letter, that no opportunity should be given to put it into operation or test its efficiency. If they could not agree in religious opinions wherever the law of the Church was explicit, let them wait in patience till the difficulty was removed, even if it involved a measure of self-sacrifice, rather than wound the conscience of a weaker brother, or cause strife and division. The body of the Church, the Kingdom of God, was not ceremonial observance any more than it was meat and drink, but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost. He that in these things served Christ was acceptable to God, and approved of man. The page of their ecclesiastical history, which related the circumstances that led to the Public Worship Regulation Act, appeared to him in a very striking manner to illustrate a great principle, which ought to guide the conduct of every clergyman who desired the fulfilment of the oft-repeated prayer that they might live in unity and godly love. It should teach them, he thought, that in every question connected with their public ministrations, their own private opinions, however heartily cherished by themselves, ought to be subordinated to her explicit teaching could be found. Private opinions within certain limits might be asserted in her pulpits, and go for what they were worth. If they went beyond those limits they might subject the propounder of them to censure and condemnation. But from the circumstances of the case a considerable degree of latitude must be allowed. With respect to Ritualism, it was very different. They met for the purpose of uniting in public worship. Their book of devotions was the Book of Common Prayer. The words of devotion were everywhere the same, and so were the portions of the Holy Scripture appointed to be read. Every clergyman gave his pledge that he would use "the form prescribed in the Book of Common Prayer, and none other except so far as shall be ordered by lawful authority." Though a reasonable man would not take offence if he did not find a pedantic uniformity, they all knew that they had a right to expect, and had just ground of complaint, if the universal rule was subordinated to personal caprice or eccentricity. They had a right and just cause to remonstrate if the service were so modified as to become an exhibition of the speculations of an individual. The controversy respecting what was called the Eastern position seemed to him very strikingly to illustrate these remarks. Every one would admit that this, with certain adjuncts, which need not at the moment be farther noticed, had been one principal cause of the agitation and distress which had distracted their Church. To himself and many others it appeared not unfair to speak of it as a departure from the almost universal practice of the Church of England for very many years. He said "almost universal," though he admitted that from the Reformation downwards there might have been not a few exceptions to the rule. If the eastern position were considered merely as a matter of Rubrical Interpretation, it would seem to him to have somewhat more to say for itself than its adversaries were willing to allow; though, upon the whole, he inclined to the opinion that the balance of the argument was against it. Be this, however, as it might, there was indisputably so much ambiguity in the letter of the rubric upon which the question turned, that whatever conclusion they themselves adopted, could be in itself nothing more than a private opinion. It was certain, moreover, that the rubric was of no older date than 1622, and, therefore, that before that date it had formed no part of the written law of the Church. Neither could it be denied that if the letter of the law, and not custom, was to be followed, the table ought still at the administration of the Holy Communion to be removed to the place most convenient for hearing within the church or chancel. How, therefore, the adoption of the position could have been deemed a vital question it was very difficult to conceive. By what mental process this question of position should have been magnified into one of vital principles, so that the power of assuming it should be made a condition of remaining in the ministry, that the feeling of thousands of their Christian brethren should be set at naught and put to pain because their private opinion did not concur with the decision, and that the possible disruption of the Church should not be deemed too high a price to be paid for their having their own way—he was quite at a loss to comprehend. If in the infancy of the Church the eating of things offered to idols, though in itself indifferent, grieved the fellow-Christian, distressed his scrupulous conscience, and made it possible that through the knowledge of the strong, the weak brother should perish for whom Christ died, they could not wonder that St. Paul laid it down as a rule for his own practice, that he would eat no such meat while the world lasted. If a clergyman, free to retain his own opinion that the letter of the law which he had promised to obey permitted him to consecrate the elements on the Lord's table with his face turned to the east, the sacrifice of private opinion seemed to him a very small one, if, for the sake of peace, he should condescend to the supposed uniformity of the feelings of others and forego indulgence of his own liberty. But to this it would of course be replied, "We do not regard the standing before the table as a mere question of position. We hold the doctrine of objective presence, and we adopt this mode of celebration in order to express our belief in that great Catholic truth." He thought he might venture to assume that, although there had been celebrants both in past and modern times who had looked eastward merely because they so understood the rubrical direction, they had not intended thereby to express any dogmatic opinion. It was, in fact, this doctrine of divine presence that lay at the foundation of the present controversy. It was for this very reason that it was so persistently maintained by the one party in the Church, and so violently and determinately opposed by the other. Here then, again, they had to consider the applicability of the principle to which he had called their attention. What right had they to make their private opinions the supreme rule of their public ministrations? If he himself considered this doctrine to be true, and if the Church allowed him to hold it as a private opinion, was there any obligation imposed upon him of expressing his convictions? Did the Church anywhere avow that this was her motive for directing him to stand before the table? Did she anywhere so explicitly teach this doctrine that there could be no possibility of doubting either that she did hold it or that she bid him teach it by word and deed? It had been said that while she asserted the mystery inherent in the holy sacrament, she left the widest range open to the devotional feelings and private meditations of her children with regard to it, apart from the express admission of transubstantiation, or of the grossly carnal notions to which it gave rise. But how different was this from saying that she allowed a wide range for the exhibition of those feelings and meditations in her office for the Holy Communion! As regarded the real presence, it was universally admitted that the phrase was one not found in any of her services. As regarded the reality of His presence, they all, he hoped, admitted that their blessed Lord and Master was present in the Holy Communion, though it was not presumed to define the nature or mode of that presence. Most disingenuous was it, and most untrue to stigmatize, as he was sorry to observe was not unfrequently done, those who did not accept this particular theory of our Lord's presence, as believing in no presence at all, or as Zwinglians—a common reproach now-a-days as it was in the sixteenth century—hurled against the Reformers because they did not accept the transubstantiation of the Church of Rome. With reference again to the word "altar," when they found that the proof of their Church's faith in an altar, properly so called, was made to depend mainly upon the Coronation Service and an Act of Parliament of William IV., and when they found the proof of her looking upon her presbyters and sacrificing priests to the Latin text, not of the 32nd Article, but of the word sacerdos in the title of the Article upon the marriage of priests, though the article included deacons as well as bishops and priests, they were tempted to close the book, and at best could only regard the conclusions that were drawn from such premises—he would use no disdainful language, but only say—as private opinions. Upon the doctrine of eucharistic sacrifices, which was closely connected with the question of standing before the table, the Church left them in no doubt whatever as to the views she really entertained. It might be that her ministers might be loyal in their allegiance, and yet believe more than she had expressed. A very zealous advocate of the doctrine, in a pamphlet published a short time ago, had with ingenuous simplicity printed a kind note which his pamphlet had brought him from a southern prelate of whom he could only think and speak with respectful affection. It was presumable that this right reverend prelate, to say the least, was not a partisan of the opposite side of the question. What his opinions might be on the controversial point, of course he (the bishop) did not pretend to know. But, at any rate, his words respecting the Eucharistic sacrifice were very pertinent to their present purpose. "I am familiar," he said, "with most of your arguments, but they fail to convince me that our Church admits of any other sacrifice in the Eucharist in the strict, literal, metaphorical use of the word than the offering of our alms and oblations, and of our own souls and bodies, or that our Church allows of any presence of our Lord's body and blood in the Holy Communion external to the inner man of the communicant." Whatever liberty of opinion they might claim to form their own conclusions, they had no right to make the services of the Church instrumental in their hands to inculcate as a dogma of hers what she could not be proved to maintain. Neither, as was before intimated, could it be consistent with the paramount obligations of Christian charity to do so. There was one other point, not indeed directly bearing upon the celebration of public worship, but so illustrative of the duty of surrendering their private opinions to the mind and spirit of the Church that although he had taken another opportunity of expressing his opinions upon it, and might therefore well pass it over, he must beg their permission to say a very few words with respect to it. The private confession of sin to a priest was not absolutely forbidden by the Church of England, and a great deal of misapprehension, as if it were wrong per se, and as much actually condemned by her, had no doubt existed, entertained in some cases by persons who had not been duly qualified, or had not taken sufficient pains to ascertain the truth, or upon information by impassioned speeches at public meetings respecting the use and abuse of this practice. In the case of a scrupulous conscience, before the reception of the Holy Communion and under certain peculiar circumstances in the visitation of the sick, she had ever advised it, guarded, however, with words of caution which very plainly manifested her jealous feeling respecting it. And in the 113th Canon she assumed that members of her communion would sometimes unburden themselves in this manner. But then, on the other hand, she nowhere enjoined it as a duty or thing necessary; she had expunged from the Prayer Book an important passage on private confession which existed in that of 1549. In her homilies, while she admitted that the troubled in conscience might repair to their minister that they might receive the comfortable salve of God's Word, she subjoined an admonition that the auricular confession which had been heretofore practised in time of blindness and ignorance had not its warrant of God's Word, and that it was against true Christian liberty that any man should be bound to the "numbering" (the particular recapitulation) of his sins. Now, he greatly feared that there were clergymen of the Church of England at that day who, though they did not teach in so many words that confession to a priest was a positive duty, yet so insisted upon it as practically to give it a quasi obligation, and in so doing opposed their own private opinion to the spirit and intention of the Church, though they might not be violating any positive law. The history of the doctrine was very well known, as one would learn by consulting Brongham's "Antiquities" and Marshall's "Penitential Antiquities of the Christian Church." It was an historical fact of the highest possible importance in the history of the confessional that, much as priestly absolution was so strongly insisted upon, it was not till the thirteenth century that the penitent was absolved in positive terms. The

Auctoritate qua fungor, absolvo,* was ordained at the Synod of London A.D. 1268. Under those circumstances he could not but feel that it was the duty of every clergyman to act in the spirit of the Church in this matter, and not to hazard her peace by the reckless indulgence of his private opinion. Very much might be accomplished in the direction of peace, were the clergy to resolve as a matter of duty and principle to have nothing to do with the two antagonistic societies which had been formed within the bosom of the Church, and the nature of which consisted very much of this: between the two extremes on one side and the other there were very many shades of opinion, blending more or less with those above and those below themselves. Just as a well-constituted society consisting of various intermediate grades acting and re-acting upon each other, the whole chain linked together by a sympathy which in every portion made itself sensibly felt, though as between the two extremes it was only perceptible in its general results, and thus the whole body, fitly framed, lived in harmony within, and in safety as regarded the world without. Precisely in the same manner in the Christian community, the result would be forbearance towards each other—combined action against a common foe. On two occasions he had advised and entreated that the English Church Union should not be introduced into the diocese, and if occasion had required he would have done the same with regard to the Church Association. He could not regard either of them as weapons of the same temper as those which were employed by the Apostle, of which he says, "The weapons of our warfare are not carnal." He need not say that they had a right to follow their own judgment in matters that did not come under episcopal jurisdiction. His private opinion on this or any other question might be of little value. How could he conclude more properly than by reminding them of the momentous responsibility which attached to all, to their opinions and actions, when they considered that they were ministers of Christ, and had the souls of their fellow-men committed to their care!

QUEEN ANNE'S BOUNTY.

REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1874.

THE Governors, in reviewing the transactions of the year 1874, have again to record the liberal generosity of benefactors to poor benefices. They annex a list of the cases to which grants have been assigned in 1874—in number 87, as compared with 79 in 1873.

The receipts and payments in 1874 both show an increase over 1873; the receipts 45,076*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*, and the payments of 39,424*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*

The annual account for the past year, although unaltered in principle, varies in form from the recently submitted to Parliament. It is believed that the new arrangement will be found more convenient. The particulars of the assets and liabilities in the balance sheet have also been simplified.

The aim of the Governors for years past has been to so control the accumulated capital and the increased business of the Board, that a good income should be paid to incumbents, and yet that the original annual revenue of First Fruits and Tenths might be preserved free from diminution for expenses of management, and remain applicable to the augmentation of poor benefices, in conjunction with benefactions. This result has been attained by economical management, and by lending and investing the capital at a rate of interest slightly higher than that paid to incumbents. Some of the clergy were recently receiving 3*l.* per cent. interest. The Board have lately resolved to pay 3*l.* 5*s.* per cent. interest on all capital sums of money held by them for the augmentation of the income of incumbents. When lands or tithes, &c., are bought for a benefice, the incumbent manages the same for himself, and receives the actual income thereof.

The annual statements and balance sheets certified by the Governor's professional auditor are submitted with this Report.

By order of the Board,

(Signed) JOSEPH K. ASTON, Secretary and Treasurer.

Bounty Office, Westminster, 21 July, 1875.

MISCELLANEOUS INTELLIGENCE.

Prorogation of Convocation.—At the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, August 12, Present, the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council:

It is this day ordered by her Majesty in Council that the Convocations of the Provinces of Canterbury and York be prorogued from the day to which the same now stand prorogued to Saturday, the 30th day of October, 1875; and the Right Hon. the Lord High Chancellor of that part of the United Kingdom called Great Britain is to cause Writs to be prepared and issued in the usual manner for proroguing the Convocations accordingly.

The Bishop of Lincoln on the Oath of Homage taken by the Bishops of the Church of England.—

The following is the letter (the postscript of which was published in our July number—see also Ecclesiastical Gazette of August, pp. 24, 25), addressed by the Bishop of Lincoln to the Earl of Limerick:—

"You do me the honour of asking my opinion on the meaning of a clause in the Oath of Homage taken by the Bishops of the Church of England. Let me transcribe it from the oath taken by me in the Royal presence the day after my consecration to the See of Lincoln:—

"I do acknowledge and confess to have and hold the Bishopric of Lincoln and the possessions of the same entirely, as well as the spiritualities and temporalities thereof, only of your Majesty and of the Imperial Crown of this your Majesty's realm."

"On examining that Oath of Homage, your Lordship would perceive that it has a defensive and negative character against the aggressions and usurpations of the See of Rome. In order to understand its meaning, it must be remembered that the Bishops of Rome assumed the right to dispose of all Episcopal Sees, as they do in Italy at this day; and that the Roman Pontiff claims to be a source of all Episcopal authority and power. All Roman Catholic Bishops are Bishops by the grace of what they term 'the Apostolic See,' and, as you may have observed in the Roman Pontifical, no Roman Catholic Bishop, if translated to an Archbishopric, can even perform any purely Episcopal function—such as ordination or confirmation—before he has received the pallium from the Pope.

"In fact, in the Church of Rome the Apostolic order and jurisdiction of the Episcopate are swallowed up in the Papacy, and are practically annihilated by it.

"The Oath of Homage to the English Crown is a protest against these Papal pretensions. The Sovereigns of England are supreme governors, under Christ, of all persons, ecclesiastical and civil, in their dominions; and it is their duty to protect the royalty of Christ from all unrighteous usurpations, and to defend their subjects against them. But, as our Thirty-seventh Article affirms, while the Sovereigns of England are bound to take care that spiritual persons, as well as secular, may do their appointed duties, they expressly disclaim all pretensions to discharge any spiritual functions in their own persons, and cannot, therefore, be rightly called sources of spiritual authority. But what, then, it may be asked, do we mean by saying that English Bishops hold their bishoprics and the possessions of the same, as well as the spiritualities as the temporalities, from the Crown?

"Certainly not that they derive their power of ordaining, or confirming, or of ministering the Sacraments, or of preaching the Word of God, from the Sovereign. No; they receive that power from Christ, the Divine Head of the Church, and the King of Kings, and from Christ alone. This is clear from Holy Scripture, and from the teaching of the primitive Church, and from the Ordinal and Articles of the Church of England. The term 'spiritualities,' as used in the Oath of Homage, is borrowed from the canon law. In the Middle Ages, during the vacancy of an Episcopal see, a person was appointed who was called 'the guardian of the spiritualities' of the bishopric; and this functionary was sometimes nominated by a Papal legate, as may be seen in the case of the See of Lichfield in the thirteenth century (Bishop Gibson's 'Codex,' p. 1326). This person was not a bishop; he was usually a member of the Capitular Body, or the dean and chapter in its corporate capacity, and sometimes only a lay canonist or civilian. He administered 'the spiritualities' in granting faculties, dispensations, licences, and institutions of clerks, but had no power of ordaining or confirming. (See Van Espen, 'Jus Eccles.' pars i. tit. ix.; Ayliffe's 'Parergon,' p. 125; Phillimore's 'Burn,' p. 224; ed. 1842, or i. p. 77, ed. 1873.)

"During the vacancy of an Archiepiscopal see, the dean and chapter of his cathedral are 'guardians of the spiritualities' (Gibson i. 92).

"Hence it is evident that the word 'spiritualities' may be used in a sense so as not to include functions which are purely Episcopal, and such as are performed by bishops, not by virtue of any human authority, but by the institution of Christ. Such is the sense in which I believe it to be used in the Oath of Homage."

Diocese of Ely.—The Bishop of Ely has announced that he will this autumn hold a conference of the clergy and laity in each of the four archdeaconries of his diocese. Cambridge, October 19; Huntingdon, October 20; Bury St. Edmund's, October 22; and at Bedford, October 26. His Lordship proposes three subjects for discussion. The first, the Ely Diocesan Fund and scheme. The second, the present law of burial in churchyards; and the third, Mr. Salt's Public Worship Facilities Bill.

Diocese of Lincoln.—The Lincoln Diocesan Conference has been fixed for Friday, October 8. The subjects for consideration are:—1. Financial Reforms; care of churchyards and cemeteries; memorials of the dead. 2. Parochial missions; brotherhoods; and associations of Church workers. 3. The urgent necessity of retaining religious instruction in our national elementary schools, and the best modes of securing it.

Diocese of Oxford.—The Oxford Diocesan Conference has been summoned to meet on the 5th and 6th of next month. The subjects for discussion, of which notice has been already given, are—1. Proposed Alterations in the Law of Burial; 2. Patronage; 3. Visitation Fees; 4. The inadequate Endowment of Livings within the Diocese of Oxford.

The late Bishop Thirlwall.—Mr. John Thirlwall, 59, Pulteney Street, Bath, will feel extremely obliged if persons who possess letters of Bishop Thirlwall, will entrust him either with the originals or with copies, with a view to publication. If originals are sent they will be carefully returned.

The Examination of Church Sunday School Teachers.—The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have consented to sign the certificates of the first class, granted to candidates in connexion with the Teachers' Examination promoted by the Church of England Sunday School Institute. These examinations are conducted in the metropolis, and throughout the country simultaneously, yearly, and are voluntarily submitted to by all classes of Sunday School Teachers.

METROPOLIS.

St. James's, Clerkenwell.—The election for the Vicarage of this parish ended on Thursday, 2nd inst., after three days' polling. At the close of the poll the numbers were:—

For Rev. J. H. Rose (Curate of the Parish) 2066
 „ W. Holderness (Vicar of Woolfordis-worthy, N. Devon) ... 829

Majority for Mr. Rose ... 1237

PROVINCIAL.

Church of England Temperance Society.—Sir Thomas Biddulph, on behalf of the Queen, has addressed the following letter to Canon Ellison, chairman of the executive committee of the Church of England Temperance Society:—

"Balmoral, August 28.

"Sir—I have had the honour of submitting to the Queen the memorial signed by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York from the executive committee of the Church of England Temperance Society, of which you are chairman.

"I am commanded by her Majesty, in reply to the prayer of it, that her Majesty should become the patron of the Society, to say that her Majesty has already expressed her opinion in favour of the objects which the Society desires to promote, and consents to become patron of it, organized as it appears to be on a basis which includes all who advocate temperance, without insisting necessarily on total abstinence.

"The Queen trusts that education and the enlightenment of the people, together with improvement of their moral and physical condition, will gradually do much to induce temperance and to diminish the evils complained of.

"I have the honour to be, sir,

"Your obedient, humble servant,

"THOS. BIDDULPH."

"The Rev. H. J. Ellison."

COLONIAL.

The Church in Australia.—The Australian Churchman, in a review of last year's local Church work, says: "The past twelvemonth has been, in these colonies, pre-eminently a Cathedral year. The Cathedral of Sydney is now finished, though not quite out of debt; the first stones of the Cathedrals of Goulburn and Armidale, and of the extension of the Cathedral of Bathurst, have been laid. Moreover, at Newtown the finest parochial church in this diocese has been opened." Several other new churches are specified, as well as several costly enlargements of existing ones. The confirmations of 1874 were well attended. The Sydney Church Society has obtained a considerable increase of income. The conflict is still proceeding between the 'League' in favour of Secularist State Schools, and the supporters of 'Denominational' education; but the latter are likely to win the victory."

Zululand.—Bishop Wilkinson, of Zululand, announces that he has sent in to the Metropolitan of South Africa his resignation of the present diocese of Zululand, and that he intends asking of the Provincial Synod of South Africa mission to the tribes towards the Zambesi. He was consecrated in 1870 "Missionary Bishop for Zululand and the tribes towards the Zambesi." But being subsequently made a diocesan Bishop of Zululand by the Provincial Synod of South Africa, the mission to the tribes between Zululand and the Zambesi was in a manner in abeyance. Bishop Wilkinson has resolved to resign his present diocese into the hands of the Rev. R. Robertson, and station himself as missionary Bishop to the north of his present diocese.

THE DUNEDIN BISHOPRIC.

The following correspondence on the Dunedin Bishopric question has been published:—

From his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury to the Most Rev. the Primate of New Zealand.

"Addington Park, Croydon,

"20th Jan., 1875.

"My dear Bishop,—I enclose a copy of a letter which the Bishop of London, in conjunction with the Bishops of Winchester and Lichfield, submitted to me on the subject of the Dunedin bishopric. The letter was laid before the Bishops at our meeting last week, and was by them approved.

"Believe me to be, yours truly,

"My Lord Archbishop,—The Bishops of Winchester and Lichfield and myself, who were appointed at a meeting of bishops held at Lambeth in February, 1873, to consider and draft an answer to the Bishop of Christ Church on the matter of Bishop Jenner and the Dunedin bishopric, have had before us the various documents relating to the whole transaction, and beg to submit it to your Grace's judgment as an opinion that a reply should be returned to the Primate of New Zealand in the tenor following:—Seeing that Dr. Jenner was selected by the Archbishop of Canterbury (Dr. Longley), with consent of the Crown, to be Bishop of Dunedin, and was consecrated at the request of the Primate of New Zealand for the bishopric of Dunedin; that he was recognized, as appears by the letters before us, as the Bishop of Dunedin both by the Bishop of Christ Church and by the Juridical Board of Otago; that he made to the Archbishop of Canterbury the declaration required by the Synod; that that declaration was received without remonstrance or objection by the Standing Commission of the General Synod; that an endowment fund of nearly 1300*l.* was raised in his name and for his use as Bishop of Dunedin in the colony itself, and that the interest of the endowment fund was paid to Bishop Jenner from the time of his consecration to the time of his resignation of the See of Dunedin; the Bishops of the Church of England do not see how they can, consistently with the facts of the case, refuse to recognize Bishop Jenner as the first Bishop of Dunedin. I enclose herewith the papers relating to the case and remain your Grace's faithful servant and brother in the Lord,

(Signed)

"J. LONDON.

"His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury."

From the Most Rev. the Primate of New Zealand to his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.

"Christ Church, New Zealand,

"May 24th, 1875.

"My Lord Archbishop,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of a letter drafted by the Bishops of London, Winchester, and Lichfield, on the matter of Bishop Jenner and the Dunedin Bishopric. This letter, as your Grace informs me, has been submitted to you and has been laid before the Bishops at your meeting in January last.

"The letter is dated May 20, 1874. At the time the General Synod of the Church of the Province of New Zealand was in session at Wellington, and during this session a report of a select committee, appointed to draw up a statement of the grounds on which the General Synod had acted in reference to the bishopric of Dunedin, was laid before the Synod, and the following resolution, founded on it, was adopted:—'That, it having been brought to the notice of this Synod that the Archbishop of Canterbury and certain Bishops of England have formally recognized Dr. Jenner as the first Bishop of the see of Dunedin, apparently in disregard of the judgment of the Synod formally pronounced at Dr. Jenner's claims—this Synod, in exercise of its undoubted authority, having carefully examined the circumstances under which Dr. Jenner claims to be regarded as having been the first Bishop of the see of Dunedin, declares that Dr. Jenner, not having been appointed to the see of Dunedin in accordance with the laws of the Church in New Zealand, ought not to be recognized as having been such first Bishop; and this Synod doth recognize the Right Rev. Samuel Tarratt Nevill, D.D., as the present and first Bishop of Dunedin.' Copies of the report and resolution were forwarded to your Grace and the Bishop of Lichfield, and to other Bishops in communion with the Church of New Zealand, in August, 1874—subsequently, of course, to the drafting of the letter by the Bishops of London, Winchester, and Lichfield. As no reference is made to this report and resolution in your Grace's letter to myself, or in the letter which obtained the approval of the Bishops of the Church of England, there is some reason to fear that these documents did not come under their consideration at their meeting in January last. The Church of this colony will, at all events, be reluctant to believe that no importance was attached by their lordships to the statements contained in the report, or to the decision of the General Synod, as expressed in the resolution. It is obvious, however, to remark that the Bishops have approved of a letter which apparently ignores the authority of the General Synod in the appointment of Bishops within the province of New Zealand, though some such authority is attributed to the standing commission, which derives all its powers by delegation from the General Synod, and never has been entrusted with any powers appertaining either to the election or to the confirmation of the election of a Bishop; and, moreover, that for the purpose of drafting this letter, their Lordships, in 1873, selected, in conjunction with the Bishops of London and Winchester, the Bishop of Lichfield, though the matter for their consideration was a question in dispute between the Church of New Zealand and the Bishop of Lichfield. As the Church of New Zealand has now, in three successive sessions of her Synod, refused to admit the validity of the claims of Bishop Jenner to the bishopric of Dunedin, all further comment of mine upon the letter would be out of place. I have only, therefore, to add that I have communicated the letter to the Bishops of this province, and I am assured from their replies that they will concur with me in upholding the judgment of the General Synod in the matter in question, and in accepting the responsibility incurred thereby by the Church of New Zealand.

"I have the honour to be,
"My Lord Archbishop,
"Your Grace's very obedient servant in Christ,
"H. J. C. CHRISTCHURCH,
"Primate of the Church in the Province of New Zealand.

MARRIAGES LEGALIZATION (ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST'S CHAPEL, IN THE PARISH OF SHUSTOCK).

37 VICT. c. 17.

In Act to render valid Marriages heretofore solemnized in the Chapel of Base called Saint John the Evangelist, at Bentley, in the parish of Shustock, in the county of Warwick.

WHEREAS the church or chapel known as Saint John the Evangelist, at Bentley, in the parish of Shustock, in the county of Warwick, and diocese of Worcester, was, on the twenty-second day of August, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-seven, duly consecrated for the performance of Divine Service, but no authority has ever been given by the bishop of the said diocese, or otherwise, for the publication of banns and solemnization of marriages therein:

And whereas divers marriages have nevertheless been solemnized in the said church or chapel under an erroneous impression on the part of the ministers thereof, that by virtue of the consecration of the said church or chapel, otherwise, marriages might be lawfully solemnized therein; and entries of the said marriages so solemnized have from time to time been made in the register books kept either in the said church or chapel, or at the parish church of Shustock aforesaid:

And whereas it is expedient under the circumstances aforesaid to remove all doubts touching the validity of the marriages so solemnized in the said church or chapel:

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. Marriages heretofore solemnized in Chapel of Saint John the Evangelist to be valid.—All banns of matrimony and marriages published or solemnized before the passing of this Act in the church or chapel known as Saint John the Evangelist, at Bentley, in the parish of Shustock aforesaid, shall be as valid as if the same had been published or solemnized in a church duly consecrated and licensed for marriages.

2. Minister officiating not liable to censure.—No minister who has solemnized any of the said marriages shall be liable to any ecclesiastical censure, or to any other proceedings or penalties whatsoever, by reason of his having so solemnized the same respectively.

3. Registers of such marriages to be evidence.—The registers of the marriages so solemnized, or copies of such registers, shall be received in all courts of law and equity as evidence of such marriages respectively, in the same manner as registers of marriages in parish churches, or copies thereof, are by law receivable in evidence.

TWENTY-SECOND REPORT OF THE CHARITY COMMISSIONERS FOR ENGLAND AND WALES.

PRESENTED TO BOTH HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT BY COMMAND OF HER MAJESTY.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,—We, the Charity Commissioners for England and Wales, humbly submit to your Majesty our Report of our proceedings during the year 1874.

There has been a progressive increase in the number of Orders made under the official seal of our Board during the past year, as compared with the immediately preceding and previous years. The following classified statement shows the number and principal objects of the Orders so made during the years 1871, 1872, 1873, and 1874, respectively.

* The powers of the Inclosure Commissioners to make exchanges of Charity lands being more summary and beneficial than the powers vested in our Board for the same purpose, such transactions are most generally referred to their cognizance.

These Orders, however, must not be taken to be the measure of the work of our office.

The larger proportion of the matters brought before us is disposed of by inquiry or correspondence without any actual Order, although requiring for the most part no less care and attention than the cases which reach that more formal termination.

The Orders for the appointment of trustees or the establishment of Schemes (of which 365 were made during the past year), may be particularly referred to for their importance and utility in promoting the effective administration of Charities.

The power to make these and other Orders of a judicial character was first intrusted to our Board by "The Charitable Trusts Act, 1860." Before that time such relief was obtainable by procedure in the proper Courts only.

The following statement gives the number of these Orders made by our Board annually since the year 1860, and the number also of the authorized applications to the Courts for the like objects during the same period. A comparison of these figures will show the extent to which the simple and inexpensive jurisdiction so exercisable by our Board has superseded the resort to the Judicial Courts in cases coming within the scope of its operation.

Although the law gives to the parties interested ample facility for appealing against these Orders of our Board, two only out of the large number mentioned in the foregoing statement have hitherto, so far as we have ascertained, been made the subject of appeal. In one of those cases the appeal was dismissed. In the other a not very important variation was made in one clause of the Scheme appealed against.

During the past year we have authorized sales of Charity property in 310 cases at prices amounting in the whole to 267,032l. 15s. 7d. Since our entry into office in the year 1853, 3309 Orders have been made by our Board sanctioning such sales for sums reaching the aggregate amount of 3,015,554l. 5s. 7d.

These Orders are made in every instance upon the voluntary application of the Trustees of the Charities, and are permissive only in their effect. The number and magnitude of the transactions in question may be referred to, as indicating the extent to which the jurisdiction so vested in our Board has been found to meet a previously existing social want.

We do not doubt that the wisely guarded facilities which have thus been created for the disposal of property, previously almost wholly excluded from the general market, will be found to work more and more for the advantage of the Charities, and to be productive at the same time of much convenience and benefit to the public at large.

The sums of stock and other securities transferred to the Official Trustees of Charitable Funds during the past year have amounted in the aggregate to 520,370l. 12s. 2d.

Sums amounting in all to 151,546*l.* 15*s.* 11*d.* have been re-transferred or sold by the Official Trustees, with the sanction of our Board, during the same period, for the purpose of being either re-invested in land or applied in some other manner for the benefit of the respective Charities. This is by far the largest amount which has been hitherto so re-transferred or sold during any one year.

The total amount of the stocks and other investments held by the Official Trustees of Charitable Funds on the 31st December, 1874, was 6,059,647*l.* 10*s.* 0*d.* This sum is divided into 7341 separate accounts, which are kept in the books of the Official Trustees under the immediate superintendence of our Secretary.

The dividends on the sum credited to each of these accounts are calculated in the Official Trustees Department of our office, and are re-mitted periodically to the trustees of the several Charities, by means of a carefully guarded system of cheques upon the Bank of England.

This department of our office has for some time past attained a magnitude and importance which was probably not anticipated at the time of its original creation.

The funds placed under the charge of the Official Trustees continue moreover rapidly to increase, the rate of augmentation having amounted upon an average of the last ten years to upwards of 430,000*l.* per annum. Concurrently with this increase the labour attending the management of the funds and the periodical remittance of the dividends becomes necessarily more and more onerous. It is gratifying to us to be able to express our entire satisfaction with the care and exactness with which these duties have been discharged by the officers to whom they are entrusted, and we believe this feeling of satisfaction to be generally shared by the trustees and other persons interested in the funds in question.

We add, as in former reports, a statement of the amounts of stock transferred to "The Official Trustees of Charitable Funds," and re-transferred or sold by them annually since the year 1854, when they commenced their functions.

The register, which has been kept under our direction of newly-created or hitherto unreported Charities, has been enlarged during the year by the insertion of the particulars of 322 such cases. The total number of Charities so registered up to the close of the past year is 7461.

There has been a slight diminution of the number of returns of the annual accounts of Charities which have been made to our office during the past year, as compared with the year immediately preceding it. We have received 18,377 such returns during the past year, the number so received during the year 1873 having been 19,781.

The General Digest of Endowed Charities, which has for several years been in course of compilation in our office under our direction, is now very nearly completed.

The Digest for the county of Worcester alone remains unfinished, and in this considerable advance has been made. We hope that the undertaking may be brought to a close, so far as the means at our disposal will permit, during the course of the present year.

The progress made from year to year with this difficult and laborious work has been regularly recorded in our annual Reports.

In view of its approaching termination, we feel bound to express our sense of the care and attention which have been uniformly bestowed upon the work by our Registrar of Accounts and his assistants, to whom its preparation has been mainly entrusted, and which have been the means of bringing the undertaking, so far, to a satisfactory conclusion.

The digests have been printed and published separately for each county, and we hope that they will be found to be not without utility for the purposes of information and reference.

A concise summary of the particulars of information which have thus been collected may not be unappropriate. These show that the entire income of the Endowed Charities included in the digest may be estimated at somewhat more than 2,120,000*l.* per annum. Of this sum, about 1,280,000*l.* per annum is derived from Charities situated in or connected with the various counties; 212,000*l.*, or thereabouts, represents the income of the Charities in the cities of London and Westminster, including those administered by the several City Companies; and the remainder, amounting to about 627,000*l.* per annum, belongs to the General Charities, or those not attached to any particular county or place.

The following statement indicates approximately the principal objects, amongst which the entire amount of the income already mentioned is divisible, and the proportion applicable to each object.

We cannot conclude our present Report without some reference to the Endowed Schools Act of last Session, which came into operation on the 31st of December, 1874, with the effect of transferring to our Board the powers and duties, which had previously devolved upon the Endowed Schools Commissioners.

We are sensible of the confidence of Parliament in entrusting us with these new and important functions, and we shall strive earnestly to justify that confidence by directing our best energies to their performance, keeping always in view the principles which have been laid down by the Legislature for our guidance upon certain points.

It has, unfortunately, been found impossible to make immediate provision for the accommodation in one building of the enlarged Official Establishment which is needed for the performance of our extended duties.

Arrangements have been made, which, we hope, will lead before long to the supply of that want, but we fear that in the meantime the common action of the Commissioners, which is essential for the effectual prosecution of their labours in this new sphere of duty, may be more or less seriously impeded.

All which we humbly report to your Majesty. In witness whereof we have directed our official Seal to be hereto affixed this fifth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and seventy five.

An Act to amend the law relating to the Registration of Births and Deaths in England, and to consolidate the Law respecting the Registration of Births and Deaths at Sea.

[7th August, 1874.]

WHEREAS it is expedient to Amend the Acts relating to the registration of births and deaths in England, and to consolidate the law respecting the registration of births and deaths at sea:

Be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS.

1. Information concerning birth to be given to registrar within forty-two days.—In the case of every child born alive after the commencement of this Act, it shall be the duty of the father and mother of the child, and in default of the father and mother, of the occupier of the house in which to his knowledge the child is born, and each person present at the birth, and of the person having charge of the child, to give to the registrar, within forty-two days next after such birth, information of the particulars required to be registered concerning such birth, and in the absence of the registrar to sign the register.

2. Requisition by registrar of information concerning birth from qualified informant within forty-two days.—Where a birth has, from the default of the parents or other persons required to give information concerning it, not been duly registered, the registrar may, at any time after the end of forty-two days from such birth, by notice in writing, require any of the persons required by this Act to give information concerning such birth to attend personally at the registrar's office, or at any other place appointed by the registrar within his sub-district, within such time (not less than seven days after receipt of such notice, and not more than three months from the date of birth) as may be specified in such notice, and to give information, to the best of such person's knowledge and belief of the particulars required to be registered concerning such birth, and to sign the register in the presence of the registrar; it shall be the duty of such person, unless the birth is registered before the expiration of the time specified in such requisition, to comply with such requisition.

3. Information respecting finding new-born child to be given to registrar.—In case any living new-born child is found exposed, it shall be the duty of any person finding such child, and of any person in whose charge such child may be placed, to give, to the best of his knowledge and belief, to the registrar, within seven days after the finding of such child, such information of the particulars required to be registered concerning the birth of such child as the informant possesses, and in the presence of the registrar to sign the register.

4. Duty of registrar to ascertain and register birth gratis.—It shall be the duty of the registrar to inform himself carefully of every birth which happens within his sub-district, and upon receiving personally from the informant at any time within three months from the date of the birth of any child or the finding of any living new-born child, information of the particulars required to be registered concerning the birth of such child, forthwith in the prescribed form and manner to register the birth, and the said particulars (if not previously registered), without fee or reward from the informant, except that if, in pursuance of a written requisition, he registers the same at the residence of the person making such requisition, or at the house in which the birth took place, he shall, unless the birth took place in a public institution, be entitled to the appointed fee.

5. Registry after expiration of three months from birth.—After the expiration of three months next after the birth of any child, a registrar shall not register such birth, except as in this section provided; that is to say, in case the birth of any child has not been registered in accordance with the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, the registrar may, after three and not later than twelve months next after the birth, by notice in writing, require any of the persons required by this Act to give information concerning the birth to attend personally at the district register office, within such time (not less than seven days after the receipt of the notice, and not more than twelve months after the date of the birth) as may be specified in the notice, and make before the superintendent registrar a solemn declaration, according to the best of the declarant's knowledge and belief, of the particulars required to be registered concerning the birth, and sign the register in the presence of the registrar and superintendent registrar; and upon any of the said persons attending before a registrar and superintendent registrar, whether in pursuance of a requisition or not, and making such a declaration as aforesaid, and giving information concerning the birth, the registrar shall then and there, in the presence of such superintendent registrar, register the birth according to the information of the declarant, and the superintendent registrar before whom the declaration is made shall, as well as the registrar and declarant, sign the entry of the birth.

After the expiration of twelve months next after the birth of any child, that birth shall not be registered except with the written authority of the Registrar General for registering the same, and except in accordance with the prescribed rules, and the fact of such authority having been given shall be entered in the register.

Every person who registers or causes to be registered the birth of any child in contravention of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

6. Registry of birth out of the sub-district in case of removal.—Any person required by this Act to give information concerning a birth, who removes before such birth is registered out of the sub-district in which such birth has taken place, may, within three months after such birth, give the information by making and signing in the presence of the registrar of the sub-district in which he resides a declaration in writing of the particulars required to be registered concerning such birth; and such registrar on payment of the appointed fee shall receive and attest the declaration and send the same to the registrar of the sub-district in which the birth took place; and the last-mentioned registrar shall, in the prescribed manner, enter the birth in the register; and the entry so made shall be deemed, for the purposes of the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, to have been signed by the person who signed the declaration.

A person making a declaration in pursuance of this section in the case of any birth shall be deemed to have complied with the provisions of this Act as to giving information concerning that birth, and with any requisition of the registrar made under this Act within the said three months to attend and give information concerning that birth.

7. Saving for father of illegitimate child.—In the case of an illegitimate child no person shall, as father of such child, be required to give information under this Act concerning the birth of such child, and the registrar shall not enter in the register the name of any person as father of such child, unless at the joint request of the mother and of the person acknowledging himself to be the father of such child, and such person shall in such case sign the register, together with the mother.

8. Registration of name of child or of alteration of name.—When the birth of any child has been registered, and the name, if any, by which it was registered is altered, or if it was registered without a name, when a name is given to it, the parent or guardian of such child, or other person procuring such name to be altered or given, may, within twelve months next after the registration of the birth, deliver to the registrar or superintendent registrar such certificate as herein-after mentioned, and the registrar or superintendent registrar, upon the receipt of that certificate, and on payment of the appointed fee, shall, without any erasure of the original entry, forthwith enter in the register book the name mentioned in the certificate as having been given to the child, and having stated upon the certificate the fact of such entry having been made, shall forthwith send the certificate to the Registrar General, together with a certified copy of the entry of the birth with the name so added.

The certificate shall be in the form given in the first schedule to this Act, or as near thereto as circumstances admit, and shall be signed by the minister or person who performed the rite of baptism upon which the name was given or altered, or, if the child is not baptized, shall be signed by the father, mother, or guardian of the child, or other person procuring the name of the child to be given or altered.

Every minister or person who performs the rite of baptism shall deliver the certificate required by this section on demand, on payment of a fee not exceeding one shilling.

The provisions of this section shall apply with the prescribed modifications in the case of births at sea, of which a return is sent to the Registrar General of births and deaths in England.

REGISTRATION OF DEATHS.

9. Registry of death and cause of death.—The death of every person dying in England after the commencement of this Act, and the cause of such death, shall be registered by the registrar in the manner directed by the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874.

10. Information concerning death where deceased dies in a house.—When a person dies in a house after the commencement of this Act, it shall be the duty of the nearest relatives of the deceased present at the death, or in attendance during the last illness of the deceased, and in default of such relatives, of every other relative of the deceased dwelling or being in the same sub-district as the deceased, and in default of such relatives, of each person present at the death, and of the occupier of the house in which, to his knowledge, the death took place, and in default of the persons herein-before in this section mentioned, of each inmate of such house, and of the person causing the body of the deceased person to be buried, to give, to the best of his knowledge and belief, to the registrar, within the five days next following the day of such death information of the particulars required to be registered concerning such death, and in the presence of the registrar to sign the register.

11. Information concerning death where deceased dies not in a house.—Where a person dies in a place which is not a house, or a dead body is found elsewhere than in a house, it shall be the duty of every relative of such deceased person having knowledge of any of the particulars required to be registered concerning the death, and in default of such relative, of every person present at the death, and of any person finding, and of any person taking charge of the body, and of the person causing the body to be buried, to give to the registrar, within the five days next after the death or the finding, such information of the particulars required to be registered concerning the death as the informant possesses, and in the presence of the registrar to sign the register.

12. Notice preliminary to information.—If a person required to give information concerning any death sends to the registrar a written notice of the occurrence of the death, accompanied by such medical certificate of the cause of the death as is required by this Act to be delivered to a registrar, the information of the particulars required by the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, to be registered concerning the death need not be given within the said five days, but shall, notwithstanding such notice, be given within fourteen days next after the day of the death by the person giving such notice, or some other person required by this Act to give the information.

13. Requisition by registrar of information concerning death from qualified informant.—Where any death has from the default of the persons required to give information concerning it not been registered, the registrar may, at any time after the expiration of fourteen days and within twelve months from the day of such death or from the finding of the dead body elsewhere than in a house, by notice in writing, require any person required by this Act to give information concerning such death to attend personally at the registrar's office, or at any other place appointed by the registrar within his sub-district, within such time (not less than seven days after the receipt of the notice, nor more than twelve months after the death or finding of the dead body) as may be specified in the notice, and to give the said information to the best of the informant's knowledge and belief, and to sign the register in the presence of the registrar; and it shall be the duty of such person, unless the death is registered before the expiration of the time specified in the requisition, to comply with the requisition.

14. Duty of registrar to register death gratis.—It shall be the duty of the registrar to inform himself carefully of every death which happens within his sub-district, and upon receiving personally from the informant at any time within twelve months after the date of any death, or of the finding of any dead body, information of the particulars required to be registered concerning the death from any person required by this Act to give the same, forthwith in the prescribed form and manner to register the death and the said particulars, (if not previously registered,) without fee or reward from the informant, except that if, in pursuance of a written requisition, he registers the same at the residence of the person making such requisition, or at the house where the deceased died, he shall, unless the death took place in a public institution, be entitled to the appointed fee.

15. Death not to be registered after twelve months.—After the expiration of twelve months next after any death, or after the finding of any dead body elsewhere than in a house, that death shall not be registered, except with the written authority of the Registrar-General for registering the same, and except in accordance with the prescribed rules, and the fact of such authority having been given shall be entered in the register.

Every person who registers or causes to be registered any death in contravention of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

16. Furnishing of information by coroner.—Where an inquest is held on any dead body the jury shall inquire of the particulars required to be registered concerning the death, and the coroner shall send to the registrar, within five days after the finding of the jury is given, a certificate under his hand, giving information concerning the death, and specifying the finding of the jury with respect to the said particulars, and to the cause of death, and specifying the time and place at which the inquest was held, and the registrar shall in the prescribed form and manner enter the death and particulars. If the death has been previously registered the said particulars shall be entered in the prescribed manner without any alteration of the original entry.

Where an inquest is held on any dead body no person shall, with respect to such dead body or death, be liable to attend upon a requisition of a registrar, or be subject to any penalty for failing to give information in pursuance of any other provision of this Act.

BURIALS.

17. Coroner's order and registrar's certificate for burial.—A coroner, upon holding an inquest upon any body, may, if he thinks fit, by order under his hand authorize the body to be buried before registry of the death, and shall give such order to the relative of the deceased or other person who causes the body to be buried, or to the undertaker or other person having charge of the funeral; and, except upon holding an inquest, no order, warrant, or other document for the burial of any body shall be given by the coroner.

The registrar, upon registering any death or upon receiving a written requisition to attend at a house to register a death, or upon receiving such written notice of the occurrence of a death, accompanied by a medical certificate as is before provided by this Act, shall forthwith, or as soon after as he is required, give, without fee or reward, either to the person giving information concerning the death or sending the requisition or notice, or to the undertaker or other person having charge of the funeral of the deceased, a certificate under his hand that he has registered or received notice of the death, as the case may be.

Every such order of the coroner and certificate of the registrar shall be delivered to the person who buries or performs any funeral or religious service for the burial of the body of the deceased; and any person to whom such order or certificate was given by the coroner or registrar who fails so to deliver or cause to be delivered the same shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings.

The person who buries or performs any funeral or religious service for the burial of any dead body, as to which no order or certificate under this section is delivered to him, shall, within seven days after the burial, give notice thereof in writing to the registrar, and if he fail so to do shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

18. Burial of deceased children as still-born.—A person shall not wilfully bury or procure to be buried the body of any deceased child as if it were still-born.

A person who has control over or ordinarily buries bodies in any burial ground shall not permit to be buried in such burial ground the body of any deceased child as if it were still-born, and shall not permit to be buried or bury in such burial ground any still-born child before there is delivered to him either,—

(a.) A written certificate that such child was not born alive, signed by a registered medical practitioner who was in attendance at the birth or has examined the body of such child; or

(b.) A declaration signed by some person would, if the child had been born alive, have been required by this Act to give information concerning the birth, to the effect that no registered medical practitioner was present at the birth, and that his certificate cannot be obtained, and that the child was not born alive.

(c.) If there has been an inquest, an order from the coroner.

Any person who acts in contravention of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

19. Notice where coffin contains more than one body.—Where there is in the coffin in which a deceased person is brought for burial the body of any other deceased person, or the body of any still-born child, the undertaker or other person who has charge of the funeral shall deliver to the person who buries or performs any funeral or religious service for the burial of such body or bodies notice in writing signed by such undertaker or other person, and stating to the best of his knowledge and belief with respect to each such body the following particulars:—

- If the body is the body of a deceased person, the name, sex, and place of abode of the said deceased person;
- If the body has been found exposed, and the name and place of abode are unknown, the fact of the body having been so found and of the said particulars being unknown; and
- If the body is that of a deceased child without a name, or a still-born child, the name and place of abode of the father, or, if it is illegitimate, of the mother of such child.

Every person who fails to comply with this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

CERTIFICATES OF CAUSE OF DEATH.

20. Regulations as to certificates of cause of death.—With respect to certificates of the cause of death, the following provisions shall have effect:—

- The Registrar-General shall from time to time furnish to every registrar printed forms of certificates of cause of death, and every registrar shall furnish such forms gratis to any registered medical practitioner residing or practicing in such registrar's sub-district;
- In case of the death of any person who has been attended during his last illness by a registered medical practitioner, that practitioner shall sign and give to some person required by this Act to give information concerning the death a certificate stating to the best of his knowledge and belief the cause of death, and such person shall, upon giving information concerning the death, deliver the certificate to the registrar, and the cause of death as stated in that certificate shall be entered in the register together with the name of the certifying medical practitioner;
- Where an inquest is held on the body of any deceased person a medical certificate of the cause of death need not be given to the registrar, but the certificate of the finding of the jury furnished by the coroner shall be sufficient.

If any person to whom a medical certificate is given by a registered medical practitioner in pursuance of this section fails to deliver the certificate to the registrar, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings.

SUPERINTENDENT REGISTRARS AND REGISTRARS.
21. Alteration of registrars' districts.—The Registrar General, with the sanction of the Local Government Board, may from time to time, if it seems to them fit, alter the districts of registrars.

by the alteration of the boundaries of districts, by the formation of new districts, or by the union of districts, and may take or cause to be taken all measures which seem to them to be necessary for carrying such alteration into effect, and such alteration shall be made and measures taken accordingly.

Where any superintendent registrar or registrar is deprived of his office or part of his emolument by such alteration, formation, or union, or by the operation of any Act now in force, compensation may be awarded to him by the like authorities and in the like manner as compensation may be awarded under the Acts relating to the relief of the poor to any officer of a union who is deprived of his office by reason of a union being dissolved or altered, and the persons by whom and funds from which such compensation is to be paid shall be determined in like manner.

Every change in the district of a registrar shall be published by advertisement or otherwise as the Local Government Board direct as being in their opinion best calculated for giving information to all persons in the district.

Every district of a registrar, whether formed before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be termed a sub-district.

22. Extension 7 Will. 4 & 1 Vict. s. 22 ss. 10 and 11, to all unions.—Sections 10 and 11 of "The Births and Deaths Registration Act, 1837," which relate to uniting any two or more unions, parishes, or places, or any two or more superintendent registrars' districts into one superintendent registrar's district, and to dividing a union, parish, or place, or a superintendent registrar's district into two or more superintendent registrars' districts, shall apply to a union with guardians acting under a Local Act, and to a temporary superintendent registrar's district in like manner as it applies to a union with guardians acting under "The Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834," and to a superintendent registrar's district which is not temporary.

23. Prosecution by superintendent registrar.—It shall be lawful for any superintendent registrar, subject to the prescribed rules, to prosecute any person guilty of any offence under the Births and Deaths Registration Act, 1836 to 1874, committed within the district of such superintendent registrar; and the costs incurred by the superintendent registrar in such prosecution, which are not otherwise by law provided for, shall be paid out of moneys to be provided by Parliament.

24. Appointment of deputy by superintendent registrar and registrar.—Every superintendent registrar shall from time to time, by writing under his hand, appoint, with the approval of the Registrar-General, a fit person to act as his deputy in case of his illness or unavoidable absence, or in any prescribed case; and every such deputy while so acting shall have all the powers and fulfil all the duties and be subject to all the obligations by the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, or any of them, when so or imposed on the superintendent registrar whose deputy he is.

Such deputy shall hold his office during the absence of the superintendent registrar by whom he is appointed, but shall be removable from his office by the Registrar-General.

Every superintendent registrar shall be civilly responsible for the acts or omissions of his deputy.

The provisions of this section shall apply to registrars in like manner as if it were enacted in the word registrar substituted for superintendent registrar.

5. Interim registrars.—If any superintendent registrar dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold his office, his deputy shall be interim superintendent registrar.

Every interim superintendent registrar shall act as superintendent registrar and have all the powers and perform all the duties and be subject to all the obligations of a superintendent registrar: until another is duly appointed.

The provisions of this section shall apply to a registrar in like manner as if it were enacted with the substitution of the word registrar for superintendent registrar.

If a registrar for any sub-district dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold his office, and there is no interim registrar, then the superintendent registrar shall, when so required by the Registrar-General, appoint an interim registrar for such sub-district.

26. Residence, office, and station of registrar and deputy registrar in sub-district.—Every registrar and deputy registrar shall either dwell in or have a known office within the sub-district of which he is registrar or deputy registrar.

Every registrar shall, if so directed by the Registrar-General, appoint within or contiguous to his sub-district a station or stations as may be directed by the Registrar-General. Every such station shall, for the purposes of the provisions of this Act with respect to the attendance of persons and registration of births and deaths at the office of the registrar, be deemed to be his office.

Every registrar and deputy registrar shall attend at his dwelling-house or office and at each such station, on the days and at the hours approved by the Registrar-General, for the purpose of registering births and deaths.

The sanitary authority may supply a form of the prescribed character, for the purpose of the return, and in that case the return shall be made in the form so supplied.

33. Providing of register offices and fireproof repositories, 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 76.—The guardians of any union acting under a local Act shall be subject to the same obligation of providing and upholding register offices as guardians of a union acting under the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834, are subject to under section nine of the principal Act.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS AT SEA.

37. Registration of births and deaths at sea.—The provisions of this Act, save as is herein expressly provided, shall not apply to the registration of births and deaths on board a vessel at sea, with respect to which the following provisions shall have effect:—

- (1.) The captain or master of or other person having the command or charge of a British ship shall, as soon as may be after the occurrence of the birth of a child or the death of a person on board such ship, record in his log book or otherwise the fact of such birth or death, and the particulars required by the fourth schedule to this Act to be registered concerning such birth or death or such of them as may be known to him and shall, (unless the ship is one of her Majesty's ships,) upon the arrival of such ship at any port of the United Kingdom, or at such other time or place as the Board of Trade may from time to time with respect to any ship or class of ships direct, deliver or send, in such form and manner as the board of Trade may from time to time direct, a return of the facts so recorded to the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen.
- (2.) Where a ship which is not a British ship carries passengers to or from any port of the United Kingdom as the port of destination or the port of departure of such ship, the provisions of this section shall apply to the captain or master of or other person having the command or charge of such ship, in like manner as if it were a British ship.
- (3.) Where the said return is directed by the Board of Trade (whether the ship is British or foreign) to be delivered upon the arrival of the ship, or the discharge of the crew, or otherwise, at any port or place out of the United Kingdom, the Board of Trade may, if they think fit, direct that the return instead of being delivered to the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen shall be delivered, and the same shall accordingly be delivered, if such port or place is within her Majesty's dominions, to the shipping master or collector of customs at such port or place, and if it is a foreign port or place, to the principal British consular officer at the said foreign port or place, and such shipping master, collector, or officer shall send the same, as soon as may be, by post or otherwise, to the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen.

- (4.) Where it appears from any such return that the father of any child so born, or if the child is a bastard the mother of such child, was a Scotch or Irish subject of her Majesty, or that any person whose death is mentioned in such return was a Scotch or Irish subject of her Majesty, the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen shall from time to time send a certified copy of so much of the return as relates to such birth or death to the Registrar-General of Births and Deaths in Scotland or Ireland, as the case may require.
- (5.) The Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen shall from time to time send to the Registrar-General of Births and Deaths in England a certified copy of every other such return, or of that part of every such return which is not so sent to the Registrar-General of Births and Deaths in Scotland or Ireland.
- (6.) A captain of or other person having charge of one of her Majesty's ships shall, upon the arrival of any such ship in any port of the United Kingdom, or at such other time as the Commissioners of the Admiralty may from time to time direct, deliver or send, in such manner and form as the said Commissioners may from time to time direct, a return of the facts recorded in pursuance of this section to that Registrar-General of Births and Deaths to whom a copy of such return would, if the ship were a merchant ship, be sent under the provisions of this section by the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen.
- (7.) Every Registrar-General of Births and Deaths to whom a copy of any return or a return is sent in pursuance of this section shall cause the same to be filed and preserved in or copied in a book to be kept by him for the purpose, and to be called a marine register book, and such book shall be deemed to be a certified copy of a register book within the meaning of the Acts relating to the registration of births and deaths in England, Scotland, and Ireland respectively.
- (8.) Every captain or master of or other person having charge of a ship who fails to comply with this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds for each offence; and such penalty may be recovered in the same courts and places and in the like manner, and when recovered shall be applied in like manner, as a penalty under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.
- (9.) This section shall extend to all places and persons within British jurisdiction.
- (10.) Terms in this section shall have the same meaning as in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.

The Report for the year 1874-5 was accordingly presented.

Money Grants recommended by the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Capetown.—The Bishop forwarded and strongly recommended the following application from the Rev. Charles Clulee, Rector of Malmesbury, and Superintendent of the Abbotsdale Mission Station, for a grant for the erection of a new church at Abbotsdale.

Mr. Clulee's letter (dated June 3) was as follows:—

"Gentlemen,—By the Bishop's suggestion and advice, I write to ask the aid of your venerable Society, towards the erection of a new church on this station. In a recent letter to the S. P. G. the Bishop says, 'There is very great need here of a decent church, the present school-chapel being nothing better than a miserable barn, wholly unfit for the purpose. The people, who are all poor, are very forward in this work, and bring in continually their little offerings for Mr. Clulee to husband for the new church. When the time comes, the work will be much cheapened by voluntary labour.'

"There was a chapel in existence some six years ago on the Diep River, which flows—when it does flow—through the station. About six or seven years ago there was a tremendous fall of rain on the mountains, Riebeeck's Kasteel, where the river rises, and the whole valley of the river was flooded; several houses on the station were swept away, and the school-chapel: this happened on Trinity Sunday. Through the several changes that took place afterwards no fixed plans have been made for a new church. Having been resident now for a year and a half on the station, I have tried to arrange the means of erecting one.

"There are about sixty-five families in the station, all coloured but five—descendants of the old slaves, some of whom are still living here, and nearly all the rest are children and grandchildren of slaves. Few are higher than farm-labourers, and they are consequently poor; but they have all promised yearly offerings in money, and much of the labour will be done by them. Among the regulations of the station—compiled by the late Bishop—is one that each tenant must give two days' labour every year. These days we shall utilize in brickmaking and burning, quarrying stone for the foundations, and labourers' work generally, their money-offerings, and those of others, will consequently go to provide the requisite skilled labour, and materials which we cannot supply on the farm. Yet I fear we shall be obliged to be content with a very humble building indeed. Living as we do among Dutch farmers, who have no love at all for coloured people, and Malmesbury Village being almost entirely Dutch, very little aid can be expected from our immediate neighbourhood. My white congregation is very small, and the indifference of the preponderating Dutch seems catching: so what we cannot ourselves supply we are obliged to look for elsewhere.

"The Bishop can only promise us 80l. Perhaps we might raise, in one way or another, by the sale of work, subscriptions, &c., 50l. more: the promised yearly subscriptions of the people do not exceed 8l., say 25l. in three years. Beyond this at present I have no resource whatever. What the people will supply may be reckoned at 100l., but no more.

"The building I design to be a plain parallelogram, 60 feet long, and 20 feet wide inside, with a porch and vestry in one; iron windows, thatch roof boarded inside, asphalt floor. With these simple materials I hope not to exceed 500l., which is the highest sum we dare think of as the cost of our new church; and where that is to come from I cannot think.

"Under these circumstances I venture to appeal to your venerable Society. The work on the station is Missionary. Every year fresh families come to reside, and as a matter of course are draughted into the catechumen class; and their children, after themselves, are baptized, and obliged to attend the school, church, and Sunday School by the rules of the station. Last year more than twenty were baptized, and this year more than forty confirmed, of whom a good proportion have become communicants.

"Our little station is a farm of about 1550 acres, partly arable, partly pasture. It is self-governing in all things outside criminal cases. I am assisted in the government by ten men—who are elected on Easter Monday—two churchwardens, two sidesmen, six overseers. All are church officers in religious and moral matters, attendance at church, school, &c., &c. The overseers are also my counsellors in all matters. I give these few general items of information to give the Committee some idea of the place for which I write.

"The Bishop writes in the same letter to S.P.G. which will be found in the April No. of 'Mission Field';—'Mr. Clulee's wish is to see here an industrial school of carpenters, shoemakers, and blacksmiths [waggon-makers, tanners], something after the style of Genade and other Moravian stations.' The children of the station learn, at present, nothing but calving and farm work, and many of them consequently very clownish and brutish, as they have had hitherto but little chance of instruction in anything else. By means of compulsory attendance at school and Sunday school, a little and gradual improvement is going on; and if the industrial works become established, shall hope for still greater results. But the latter plan must remain in abeyance probably for a time for want of funds. The new railway from Capetown to Malmesbury is to pass through the farm, and this will help to stir up the energies.

"Hoping you will greatly assist our great need,

"I remain, gentleman, yours, &c."

"P.S.—A bundle of work would produce a little money; strong shirts, blouses, &c., for men and lads, and clothing for women and girls of all sizes."

The Bishop of Capetown wrote as follows:—

"I was very much interested when I visited Abbotsdale last November, this being one of the very few Mission Stations in the diocese in which the land is the property of the Church, and in which, therefore, it can make and enforce certain rules for the moral and social government of the natives. . . . I can most earnestly recommend this appeal, and hope that the venerable Society may be able to assist us in the erection of a suitable chapel for the Mission at Abbotsdale."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 100l. in this case. The Society's grant to be paid when the Bishop shall have certified that the receipt of it will lead to the immediate completion of the building, to its being absolutely free from all liability for debt, and further that the building has been secured as the property of the Church for ever, and adequately insured.

Diocese of Algoma.—The Bishop, writing from Sault St. Marie, Ontario, on the 7th July, forwarded and very cordially recommended an application from the Incumbent and Wardens of "the Church of the Redeemer," in the Roman Mission in his diocese.

The application was for a grant towards making up a sum of 120l. still required for the completion of this church, which has been thus far built at a cost of 150l., and is yet without seats or chancel, and remains unplastered.

The station is represented as being one of considerable importance in connexion with the Great Pacific Railway scheme.

The church population, which is an increasing one, consists of about 150, principally emigrants from the old country, Norway and Iceland, with a few Canadians and Americans. It is intended to provide accommodation for not less than 200. The material required is wood and lime, also windows for the chancel. The site is vested in the Bishop.

The applicants made the following statement:—

"Our funds are quite exhausted, our church is not plastered, and the consequence is that during the winter months we frequently have to hold service in a hotel, the only place with room convenient. We find we need more room, and are desirous of adding a chancel to the present building, which will give the desired space. Few can realize the importance of this Mission who are not acquainted with it; but as many of us are emigrants, love our Church dearly, being communicants, we trust you will accept our assurance of the fact that there few missions of more importance, and will therefore aid us with as liberal a donation as lies in your power.

"This is a purely Missionary diocese, and has therefore to look for extraneous help."

The Bishop wrote as follows:—

"I beg herewith to forward an application from the Incumbent and Wardens of the Church of the Redeemer, in the Rosseau Mission for a grant in aid of their church, and at the same time to give it my most hearty recommendation; as the Church people there have shown great energy and zeal in the work, and deserve every encouragement in their endeavours to finish the neat and ecclesiastical-looking building, which under many difficulties they have succeeded in erecting."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 50*l.* for the completion of this church, on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Auckland.—The Bishop, writing from Bishop's Court, Auckland, New Zealand, on the 8th of July, 1875, forwarded and recommended an application on one of the Society's forms for a grant in aid of a new church at Ohaupo, in the parish of Waikato.

It is proposed to build a small wooden church, to accommodate sixty persons, at a cost of 150*l.* The sum promised towards this amount may be estimated at 75*l.*, and there is little, if any, prospect of raising more.

The district is an agricultural one, with a very scattered population. The Bishop adds:—"The people of Ohaupo, almost without exception, depend on daily wages, and they are very deserving of the Society's help."

The Rev. L. C. Brady, of Waikato, is the applicant.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, and subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions, to grant 25*l.* in this case.

Diocese of Christ Church, New Zealand.—New Brighton, in the Parish of Avonside.—The Bishop applied for a grant for this parish. In this case a entirely new church is to be built for the accommodation of a congregation who have hitherto met for common worship in a private room; the attempt to build the church is owing to the persevering labours and services of some zealous lay-readers.

The Incumbent of Avonside, the Rev. Henry Haddon, estimates the cost of a new wooden church, to accommodate eighty people, at 260*l.*; at the Bishop says that he fears the church cannot be finished and furnished for less than 50*l.* The necessary sum, 165*l.*, has been promised; of this 65*l.* have been raised on the spot. The population, which is an increasing one, is 80; the hamlet of New Brighton is between three and four miles from the parish church of Avonside, and little help can be expected from the mother parish, as the parish church is being built in stone on a greatly enlarged scale.

The proposed new church will be invested in the church property trustees, who will also assist in the building.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 25*l.* for the completion of this church, on the usual conditions.

Metropolitan Diocese of Sydney.—The Bishop of Sydney, writing from his Diocese on the 11th of June, 1875, forwarded an application on one of the Society's forms, for a grant in aid of erecting a new church at Charters Towers, north Queensland, which falls within the limits of the Metropolitan Diocese of Sydney.

The proposed cost of a weather-board church, to accommodate 200 persons is 600*l.* The sum at hand is 100*l.*, and 50*l.* more have been promised. Very little more is expected till the building has been commenced, when Mr. Done, the clergyman of the parish, expects to raise 300*l.* more. The property will be vested in trustees, who will be appointed at a public meeting.

The population in the immediate neighbourhood numbers about 2000. They are chiefly miners, and have no certain incomes. More than one-third are Roman Catholics, the rest are Protestants of all denominations.

Mr. Done wrote:—"Our greatest difficulty is this, the population on the diggings is constantly changing; the diggers feel that they may not stay in the one place long, hence they do not like to contribute towards the building of a church; but when a church is built they will gladly support the clergyman; and if we could get, say, half the amount required, we would then commence, and I am confident we could raise the rest."

The Bishop of Sydney added:—"I can strongly recommend the case, and our own Church Society has promised 50*l.*"

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 40*l.* for the completion of this church; the Society's grant to be paid upon the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Huron.—The Bishop of Huron, writing from London, Ontario, on the 12th of August, forwarded and very cordially recommended an application from the Rev. W. F. Campbell for a grant in aid of erecting a new church at Wallaceburg.

It is proposed to build a frame church with oak fittings, to accommodate 250 persons.

The population of the village is 1200. The country around is being rapidly settled, and there is no church nearer than twelve miles on the east, seventeen miles on the south, and fifteen on the north. The property will be vested in the Bishop of Huron.

The cost will be $3000 = 600*l.* $1700 = 340*l.* have been expended; $300 = 60*l.* more are expected; and this will be all that the people around can possibly raise. Thus there is a deficiency of 200*l.*

The people are all poor; boating and lumbering men, and mechanics in very humble circumstances in the village, and new beginners on partially-cleared farms in the country.

There are many Roman Catholics and representatives of various other sects in the district. It is only recently that the Church of England has attempted to furnish religious ministrations in a large district, thirty miles long, between Chatham and Moore. This is, therefore, an entirely new Mission. The Bishop says that Mr. Campbell has been, during a period of two years, very successful in winning back to the Church many who had through want of a clergyman joined themselves to other religious bodies.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, and on the usual conditions, to grant 40*l.* in this case.

Diocese of Ontario.—The Bishop of this diocese forwarded an application, on one of the Society's forms, signed by the Rev. James Mockridge, minister in charge, and countersigned by himself, for a grant towards building a new church, to be called St. George's, in a poor neighbourhood in the parish of St. Thomas Belleville in the diocese of Ontario.

The proposed church, which is to be of wood plastered outside, on a stone foundation, is to accommodate about 200 persons at a cost of $1200 or 250*l.* Of this sum $900 have been paid or promised, and 200 more may be expected. The site is vested in the Diocesan Synod.

The population of the district consists of about one hundred Church of England families who are generally poor, mechanics, labourers, and railway servants. There are many Roman Catholics, Presbyterians and Methodists. A church is much needed where it is proposed to erect St. George's.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 30*l.* for the completion of this church, on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Ontario.—The Bishop of this diocese, who is at the present time in this country, forwarded and strongly recommended an application from the Rev. John Stannage, a veteran missionary clergyman of forty-two years' standing in British North America.

Mr. Stannage is now in England and writes as follows:—

"I was a Missionary of the S.P.G. for twenty-three years in Nova Scotia, and am now Rector of Kemptville, in Ontario, and sixty-seven years of age, and no longer able to do real Missionary labour; but I have a good strong locomotens, in the Rev. Albert Spencer, doing my work much better than myself, and serving six congregations—three on Sundays and three on week-days. I have three churches, and three other congregations assembling these eight years in miserable log school-houses around Kemptville, my head-quarters. The area of my Mission is more than 100 square miles, and the population of all sects above 10,000, and about 200 families of nominal and scattered church people. Being a small rectory, worth 160*l.* a year, I have no support from any Missionary Society; but being no longer young, a few friends help me towards the support of an assistant Missionary, and thus I am permitted to continue and extend my work among the settlers at distances of three, four, six, and ten miles in different directions from Kemptville. The two nearest towns are Ottawa (33 miles) and Prescott (23 miles).

"Now, I have conceived a great desire to see my old wooden and decaying church in the village substantially rebuilt with stone, and churches erected near all the school-houses where Divine Service is now held on week-days, believing that, as in all my other Missions, the poor people will contribute more liberally towards the support of clergymen to keep the churches open, and thus ministers and the ministrations of the Church are increased and endowments are created. I found it so among the fishermen at St. Margaret's Bay, where I spent twenty-three years, and where I left five churches and three clergymen to succeed me. I found it so in Welland, where I built three churches and left two clergymen to succeed me. I found it so in North Augusta, where I built three churches, and left two clergymen to succeed me. And before it pleases God to call me away, I should like to pave the way for the same thing in my present Mission, where I have laboured nine years more."

The proposed new stone parish church in Kemptville is to accommodate 500 persons, and is to be erected at an estimated cost of 3000*l.*

Each of the three proposed small churches at the stations where services are held in log school-houses, is to accommodate 200 persons, at an estimated cost of 300*l.*

Towards this total outlay of 3600*l.*, Mr. Stannage has promises in Canada of about 1400*l.*; and, in addition, 100*l.* in labour will be contributed by the people at each of the outlying stations.

The population chiefly consists of small farmers or settlers on new land, and only three or four shopkeepers; and many bargemen and raftsmen on the Rideau River.

Mr. Stannage writes:—

"The people must be encouraged to make a start, without which the three out-station churches would not be built for twenty years to come, and the people of the little town are not judges of what a good church ought to be, and I want to make it a model church for all the country around."

The Standing Committee reported that they could not recommend a grant towards rebuilding the parish church, but that they have much pleasure in recommending grants of 50*l.* for each of the outlying churches, in all 150*l.*, on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Ontario.—The Rev. John Halliwell, Missionary Incumbent of Marmora, in the diocese of Ontario, applied with the recommendation of the Bishop, for a grant in aid of the completion of a new church now in course of erection in the midst of the Hasting's Iron district. Mr. Halliwell wrote:—

"Immediately around mining operations are being developed, and large numbers of men from England find their way here; and, with the exception of a small dissenting meeting-house and a Roman Catholic one, there is no place of worship within many miles around. Services are held now in several parts of the district in small shanties, log school-houses, &c., but the need of a proper place of worship is so much felt that the people, though few and poor, have made a noble effort to erect one. The building is a plain Gothic structure of the following dimensions:—nave 28 x 44 ft.; chancel 16 x 22 ft.; entrance porch, on south-west corner, 10 x 12 ft.; vestry, on south side of chancel (over which the tower rises), is 14 x 14 ft. The entire building is of stone, very substantially laid. It will be all completed, minus the seating and furnishing, by the end of this month. Estimated cost to complete, $3000, or 750*l.*; the amount now raised and spent, 500*l.* We have small chance of aid from the surrounding districts, in consequence of the great lack of churches and the efforts being made to supply. Hence, from the peculiarly Missionary character of this church and the pressing need for it among the miners, our own countrymen, we feel sure it will commend itself to your charitable consideration."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 30*l.* for the completion of this church, on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Montreal.—The Bishop forwarded, on one of the Society's forms, signed by the Rev. F. R. Smith, Missionary, and countersigned by himself, an application for building a new church in the parish of Chelsea, in his diocese. The church, which is to accommodate upwards of 100 persons, is to be of wood. The site will be vested in the Bishop. The population, including all denominations, is about 500. The cost is estimated at 250*l.*; about 50*l.* have been collected already, and from 80*l.* to 100*l.* more are expected. The people are chiefly of the poorer classes, being either farmers, tradesmen, or labourers, and are of varied religious denominations. The Mission of Chelsea has now been destitute of a resident clergyman for over three years, and there is a consequent decay.

Mr. Smith feels that if there were regular services and a church many would be brought in. At present there is only a school-house with very miserable accommodation.

There is a great scarcity of money owing to the failure of the crops last year and the present dullness of the timber trade.

The Bishop strongly recommended the case.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 25*l.* for the completion of this church, on the usual conditions.

St. John's, Kaffraria.—The Standing Committee informed the Meeting that in April last they had written to Bishop Callaway, now styled Bishop of St. John, requesting particulars of the work accomplished by means of the Society's grants, 980*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* in all, made since 1868, for printing the Bible and Prayer Book in Zulu; and that they had now received a reply, from which it appeared that 500 copies of the Pentateuch had been printed in 8vo; that 500 copies of portions from Isaiah to Malachi in 8vo; that 600 copies of St. Matthew's Gospel had been printed in 8vo, and that the rest of the New Testament was in hand.

It further appeared that there remained in stock sufficient of these portions of the Bible to make up 245 complete volumes of Pentateuch, Prophets, and St. Matthew's Gospel.

Further that 1000 copies of the Psalms had been printed in 16mo, to bind with the Prayer Book, and that of these 300 remain; and that the whole of the rest of the Prayer Book has been printed, but that an irregular number of sheets varying from 80 to 300 remain. In future the Bishop proposes to print 600 sheets instead of 500, so as to have 100 sheets for separate use and 500 for complete books. What the Bishop says that he now urgently requires is a new edition of both Bible and Prayer Book; and a Hymnal, for which he seems to have the material. It appears that the average quarterly payment has hitherto been from 34*l.* to 36*l.*; but that this is likely in future to be 50*l.*—the last quarter was 49*l.* 12*s.* 9*d.*

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to inform the Bishop of St. John's that the Society had set apart a sum of 140*l.* for the printing of the four Gospels, and that upon his having certified that 600 copies of St. Matthew's Gospel were printed, he would be supplied with a form of bill on which to draw for 40*l.*; and that he might depend upon receiving help at the same rate per page for the printing of the other three Gospels, which, it was estimated, would cost about 100*l.* more.

Book Grants recommended by the Standing Committee.

Book Grants, Special and Ordinary, including some made on the authority of the Secretary during the vacation, and subsequently sanctioned by the Standing Committee, were agreed to.

Diocese of Adelaide.—The Bishop wrote from his diocese on the 17th of May, 1875, as follows:—

"I may mention that in our agricultural districts, opened latterly for settlement, several townships are springing up, where it is my object to begin Sunday services under lay readers, who shall be visited monthly or quarterly by a Missionary in priests' orders. For these churches I would ask for half a dozen sets of 8vo calf-bound Bibles and Prayer Books and Office Books."

The Bishop asked for six additional Office Books for use at cemeteries and at churches which at present were without such books.

It was agreed to grant these books as applied for, viz. six 8vo sets of Service Books in rough calf, and in addition six Office Books.

Diocese of Ontario.—The Bishop applied for twenty sets of Service Books for churches recently built or now in course of building in his diocese.

It was agreed to grant twenty 8vo sets as applied for.

Diocese of Melbourne.—The Bishop of Melbourne applied for a grant of twelve sets of Service Books. He spoke most highly of the value which is attached by the people of his diocese to gifts of these books.

Of the last grant all have been given away except one set of 4to books, and there are now seven unsatisfied applications for 8vo sets.

"The places to which grants have been made are Musk Creek, Bavinsdale, Happy Valley, Glenlyon, Campbell's Creek, Sale, Caramut, Whorouly, Barry's Reef, Tyrendara, Mordialloc, and Moses' Creek; and the applications that have yet to be satisfied are from Myrtleford, Eurobin, Running Creek, Upper Maffra, Barfold, Heywood, and Condale Mission Station."

It was agreed to grant twelve 8vo sets.

Diocese of Auckland, New Zealand.—The Bishop of this diocese, in a letter, dated New Zealand, the 6th of August, 1875, applied for six sets of Service Books for use in churches in the poorer settlements. He wrote,—"It is all that our country settlers can do, in most cases, to build churches (with the aid of the good Society and other friends at home) and to pay for the occasional visits of one of our clergy; and our struggling people, many of them recently arrived in the colony, are not a little cheered by tokens of the sympathy of the Mother Church, such as those which I now ask."

It was agreed to grant six sets of 8vo Service Books.

Diocese of Capetown.—The Rev. H. M. M. shere, Colonial Chaplain at Simon's Town, applied, with the recommendation of the Bishop of Capetown, for a Sunday-school Lending Library and also for a supply of Tracts, Bibles, Prayer-books, for distribution among the people.

Mr. Wilahere wrote as follows:—

"Simon's Town is the naval station of the colony. There are consequently, as might be expected, numbers of poor people in the town, boatmen, fishermen, labourers, with many coloured people, e. g. last night at an evening school. I had nearly fifty coloured women, and boys in school. We are about to build a school, for which we ask no extra support, also we have to put in repair the parage at a considerable expense."

The population of the town is about 2500. There are about 250 children in the Church schools, and about 120 in the Sunday-schools.

It was agreed to grant S.P.C.K. books and tracts to the value of 10*l.* in this case.

Worcester, Lichfield, and Hereford.—Salisbury Training College.—The Rev. F. W. Burbidge, Principal of this College, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. Books to the value of 5*l.*, to meet an equal expenditure in books on the part of the Committee of the College. The whole of the books are to be given as Prizes for those students of the College who in a forthcoming Examination in Religious Knowledge shall be placed in the First Class.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to make this grant at a charge upon the charity of 5*l.*

Diocese of Salisbury.—The Rev. John Wilkinson applied, on behalf of the Salisbury Diocesan Board of Education, for S.P.C.K. Books, to the value of 15*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the Diocesan Board. The whole of the books to be given as Prizes to Pupil-teachers and Monitors, after an Examination in Religious Knowledge.

The number examined was 253. The number in the first class was 19; in the second 141.

The Standing Committee having been informed by Mr. Wilkinson that the prizes were intended for those in the second class as well as in the first, while the Society only offered half the cost of prizes to those in the first class, recommended a grant of S.P.C.K. books, to the value of 5*l.*, to meet an equal outlay, on the understanding that prizes to the value of 10*l.* would be given to those who gained first classes. This grant was made.

Diocese of Rochester.—The Rev. John Menet, Honorary Secretary of the Examination for the diocese of Rochester, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books, not exceeding 20*l.* in value, to meet an equal expenditure on books on the part of the Diocesan Boards of Education. The whole of the books to be given as prizes to Pupil-teachers placed in the first class at a simultaneous examination, held at various centres.

The number of Pupil-teachers, candidates, and monitors examined was 916. The number placed in the first class was 72.

It was agreed to make this grant as requested.

The following was Mr. Menet's letter of application:—

"Hockerill, Bishop Stortford, Herts.
Sept. 10, 1876.

"Dear Sir,—May I ask you once more to bring before your Committee the application of our Board of Examiners for a grant in aid of the prizes to be given to our Pupil-teachers in the diocese who have been placed in the first class?"

"The books will be obtained, as in former years, through your depot; and I wish to express our opinion as to the exceedingly satisfactory manner in which these orders have hitherto been executed, and also my own sense, as specially concerned with the orders, of the intelligence and courtesy of your officials.

"We make application in the usual way for a grant not exceeding 20*l.*, half the expense at least of the whole amount, whatever it may be, to be borne by our Diocesan Boards of Education.

"We examined 916 candidates, viz.:—151 monitors, 57 candidates, 708 Pupil-teachers. Of these 708 Pupil-teachers, 653 passed, and 55 failed. Of the 653 who passed, 72 were placed in the first class, and to these 72 it is proposed to give the prizes.

"I am, dear Sir, yours faithfully,

"JOHN MENET.

"P.S.—The books are all stamped with the Diocesan arms, and look very handsome."

Diocese of Durham.—The Ven. G. H. Hamilton, Archdeacon of Lindisfarne, applied, as Secretary to the Durham Diocesan Board of Education, for grant of S.P.C.K. Books, to the value of 30*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the Diocesan Board, the whole of the books to be given as Prizes to Pupil-teachers who have obtained a First-class at a central Examination in Religious Knowledge.

The number Pupil-teachers examined was 397; and forty-four were placed in the First-class. It was agreed to make this grant as applied for.

Diocese of Moosonee.—The Rev. W. W. Kirkby, writing from York Factory, Hudson's Bay, on the 10th of February, 1875, acknowledged with many thanks the receipt of the Chipewyan annuals, which had been prepared for him by the Society. In his letter Mr. Kirkby said:—

"I wrote last year to thank you for the grant made towards our iron church, and I am sure that you will rejoice to know what a comfort it is to us. We have four services in it every Sunday—two in English for the thirty officers and men belonging to the Fur Company, and one in Cree for the natives. These are all well attended by the people, and I trust that God's blessing is not withheld from us."

Mr. Kirkby asked for a grant of fifty Hymn books for the English services. This grant was made, and in consideration of a distance they would have to go, and of the need for books at so remote a station as York Factory, it was agreed to make up a parcel of books to the value of 5*l.* in all.

London City Mission.—The following application from the Rev. John Garwood, Clerical Secretary of the London City Mission, was submitted:—

"Bridewell Place, New Bridge-street, E.C.
"September 30th, 1875.

"Gentlemen,—May we venture to ask for a renewal this year of the grant for tracts, so kindly made by you to us last year, as on previous occasions? The 50*l.* then granted to us was of great service to us in the visitation of the poor population of the Metropolis; and as the educational efforts made among that class increase year by year, their appreciation of religious tracts becomes continually the greater. We shall feel very grateful to your Society for a renewal of their help, in enabling us to diffuse 'Christian knowledge' in domiciliary visitation among a class unhappily too often absent from the instruction connected with public worship in our churches.

"With grateful remembrance of past favours,

"I remain, gentlemen,

"Your humble servant,

"JOHN GARWOOD,

"Secretary."

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to put tracts to the value of 50*l.* at the disposal of Mr. Garwood.

Diocese of St. John, Kaffraria.—The Venerable Archdeacon Waters applied, with the hearty recommendation of the Bishop of St. John, for a large grant of school books and maps, &c., for use in his extensive Mission of St. Mark, Transkei. There are in the Mission twenty-four schools, with about 1000 scholars, all of these require a larger or smaller supply of books, and other school material. The Colonial Government has been liberal, and have just made a grant of school desks and benches, intimating that the grants for books will necessarily be smaller than usual next year. The Archdeacon says that, as he raises all the current expenses, for the work of the Mission includes schools, from the Native Christians, he has no hope of being able to raise the funds for books and other school material.

It was agreed to give books and maps, &c., from the selection made by Archdeacon Waters, at a charge of 100*l.* upon the charitable funds of the Society.

Grants of which Notice was given at the last Meeting.

In accordance with notice given at the last Meeting, and for reasons given in the Monthly Report for July, the Standing Committee proposed that a sum of 500*l.* be put at the disposal of the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Archbishop of York, to assist in a Mission of Inquiry into the state of the Nestorian Church.

The proposal of the Standing Committee was carried.

Reports and Notices from the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Sydney.—The Bishop, in a letter dated Sydney, the 7th of May, 1875, had applied for a grant in aid of maintaining Mr. George F. Barker as a Theological Student for two years, at Moore College.

Mr. Barker is twenty-six years of age, was born at Mount Barker, Adelaide, South Australia; was brought up a Wesleyan, but has joined the Church of England for some months; is a Communicant, and will be confirmed in September. Mr. Barker has some knowledge of Latin and Greek, and has been a tutor in a commercial school. He is at present a paid lay reader, in the parish of St. Peter, Sydney, under the Rev. G. H. Moreton, who speaks favourably of him and his work.

Mr. Barker's wish is to take orders in the Church of England. He has read Pearson, Paley, and other theological works, and appears (the Bishop says) in all respects qualified to become a student at Moore College. The total cost is estimated at 80*l.* per annum.

The Standing Committee reported that they had reserved, out of the money placed at their disposal for the purpose, 80*l.*, to enable them to give at the rate of 40*l.* in this case for two years, subject to the Bishop continuing in every way satisfied with Mr. Barker.

The Bishop of Sydney, again writing from his diocese on the 9th of July, 1875, applied for a grant in aid of the maintenance of Mr. Reginald Noake, born in Tasmania, as student for one year at Moore College.

Mr. Noake is twenty-two years of age, and is just about to take his degree at the University of Sydney, where he has held an exhibition of 75*l.* a year. This will cease when he takes his degree, and it will not be possible for him to enter Moore College without assistance. The whole expense is 80*l.* a year. Mr. Noake desires to go to Moore College for the year 1876, and then to take Holy Orders.

The Standing Committee reported that in this case they had made a grant of 40*l.* for one year, on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Rupert's Land.—The Bishop made application for grants in aid of the education of two colonial-born Students for Holy Orders at the Theological department of St John's College, Manitoba.

Mr. James Platt was second in history, and gained prizes in Greek, Latin, Senior English, and was also first class in French, at St. John's College School. The Bishop speaks very highly of his moral and religious conduct; he is one of a large family, and a native of the colony. One brother is at Cambridge, and the Bishop is very anxious for some help to enable him to retain this young man as a Student for Holy Orders in the colony. He would therefore be glad of a grant at the rate of 30*l.* a year for this young man, which will scarcely pay half his expenses, for four years, when he will be of an age to be ordained, he being now about nineteen.

The Standing Committee reported that they had reserved 120*l.* to meet this case, being at the rate of 30*l.* a year for four years.

The second young man's name is Mr. Alfred Paikham; he was born in America, though not in the diocese of Rupert's Land; he is about twenty. He received his education at St. John's College, Newfoundland, and his family would, if they could afford to do so, send him to St. Augustine's, Canterbury, to read for Holy Orders. This they are unable to do. The Bishop asks in this case for a grant of 30*l.* or 35*l.* a year.

The Standing Committee reported that in this case they had reserved 90*l.*, being at the rate of 30*l.* a year for three years.

Diocese of Dunedin.—The Bishop, writing from Bishop's Court, Dunedin, on the 4th of June, applied for a grant in aid of the support of Mr. W. F. Knowles as a Student at the Theological College at Dunedin, with a view to his being ordained.

Mr. Knowles, who was born in New Zealand, is the son of a clergyman who has no private means, and is unable to maintain his son during his three years' college course.

The Standing Committee reported that they had reserved 120*l.*, being at the rate of 40*l.* a year for three years, to enable them to meet this case.

Diocese of Adelaide.—The Bishop applied, through his brother-in-law, Mr. Charles Marryat, of 6, Pountney-lane, E.C., for a grant in aid of the passage to Australia of the Rev. J. H. Cowan, who has been approved by the Bishop's Commissary.

Mr. Marryat had assured the Standing Committee that no other Society would assist Mr. Cowan, and that without aid he could not go out; also that the cost of a single passage—without outfit, &c., which cost the Bishop 30*l.*—would be 50*l.*

The Standing Committee informed the Meeting that they had agreed to grant 50*l.* out of Canning's Fund in this case.

Diocese of Bloemfontein.—The Rev. P. G. Medd applied, as Commissary to the Bishop of this diocese, for a grant in aid of the passage to Bloemfontein of the Rev. A. Standley Allum, who has been accepted by the Bishop as a Missionary. The cost of the passage will be 60*l*. The Standing Committee reported that they had agreed to put this sum out of Canning's Fund at the disposal of Mr. Medd for the purpose named.

Diocese of Winchester.—The Rev. Allen Edwards, Junior, Incumbent of All Saints, Lambeth, had applied for a grant to enable him to rent a Board School in his parish for Sunday School purposes. He hopes eventually to be able to rent the whole building for 90*l*., but cannot raise the money at present.

The present application is for aid toward a rent of 16*l*. 16*s*. for accommodation for 800 children.

The Standing Committee reported that they had agreed to grant 12*l*. 12*s*. for one year only.

Diocese of Winchester.—The Rev. F. H. Bowden Smith, Vicar of St. Luke's, Southampton, had applied for a grant to enable him to rent a Board School in his parish for Sunday School purposes. The population of the parish is between 6000 and 7000, composed mainly of the labouring classes.

The rent of the room which Mr. Smith proposes to hire is 7*l*. 10*s*. It will accommodate 200 children.

The Standing Committee reported that they had agreed to grant out of the money at the disposal of the Standing Committee for this purpose, the sum of 6*l*., in aid of the rent for one year; Mr. Smith to be informed that he must not in any way depend upon a renewal of this grant.

Winchester, St. Luke's, Camberwell.—The Rev. J. Cooper Lintott, Minister of this church, had applied for a grant to enable him to rent two rooms in Gloucester-road Board School, in his district. The district contains a population of 10,000—all poor—in which there is at present merely a temporary church. The two rooms will accommodate eighty, and the rent is 10*l*. a year.

The Standing Committee informed the Meeting that they had agreed to give 8*l*. in this case towards meeting the first year's rent, and to inform Mr. Lintott that it was not their practice to make a second grant in those cases.

Diocese of Rochester.—The Rev. J. W. North, Vicar of Holy Trinity, Greenwich, applied for a grant to enable him to rent for Sunday School purposes a Board School in his parish. The room will accommodate 147 children, at a rent of 18*l*. 7*s*. 6*d*. Mr. North has large Church Schools for boys, girls, and infants, which he is labouring to maintain, and he will feel it a great relief if the Society will help him in the matter of renting the Board School for one year. The salaries of Master and Mistresses in the National Schools have necessarily been increased of late, and indirectly the help Mr. North now seeks will aid him in his National Schools.

The Standing Committee had agreed to grant, out of the money placed at the disposal of the Committee for this purpose, 14*l*. for one year only.

Crawford's Irish Trust.—The Standing Committee reported that they had heard from the Rev. John Halahan, Incumbent of Berehaven, Ireland, that he had met with a gentleman, Mr. Fitzgerald, an excellent Irish speaker, who would, he hoped, make a valuable Curate, in succession to the late Mr. O'Toole, whose death was reported to the General Meeting in March last.

The Meeting had already been informed that, subject to fulfilment of the same conditions as those agreed to in Mr. O'Toole's case, the Standing Committee had agreed to continue the Society's grant at the rate of 60*l*. to his successor.

The conditions were, first—that the Curate should, in addition to the 60*l*. offered by the Society, receive from the Irish Society, of 17, Upper Sackville Street, Dublin, at the rate of 70*l*. a year; and further, that Mr. Halahan should furnish him with 20*l*. a year and a house rent free.

The Standing Committee had now consented to Mr. Halahan's contributing only 10*l*. a year, in addition to the house, on the condition of his allowing the Curate the use of certain ground rent free, stated to be more than an equivalent for 10*l*. in cash.

Llanhilleth, Monmouthshire.—The Standing Committee reported that in July last they had (subject to certain inquiries made by the Secretary being satisfactorily answered) made a grant of 25*l*. for the erection of a Sunday School and Mission Room in this parish.

The population is very rapidly increasing, in consequence of the opening within the last three years of two large collieries, and will, before the end of the year, probably reach 3000. Not only have a great number of cottages been built, but temporary wooden buildings, like those in some of the back settlements of our colonies, have been hastily erected.

The proposed new building is sixty feet by twenty, and is on a freehold site, vested in the Incumbent of the parish, the Archdeacon and the Incumbent of Aberystwith, for the time being.

This case has not been reported to the General Meeting in July, because the inquiries referred to above were then unanswered. The Standing Committee now reported that they had confirmed their grant provisionally made in July.

Diocese of Capetown.—Some months ago the Bishop of Capetown, writing to Mr. Bullock, of S.P.G., reported that a disastrous fire had occurred at their Native College at Zonnebloem, and expressed a general hope that aid would be forthcoming to enable them to repair their losses. Mr. Bullock sent this letter on to S.P.C.K., when the Secretary immediately wrote to the Bishop for more particular information.

The Bishop, writing from his Diocese on the 11th of July, forwarded a letter addressed to him by the Rev. T. H. Peters, Warden of the College.

Mr. Peters' letter was as follows:—

"My Lord,—You ask me to supply the information which the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge requires, before entertaining our application for aid in repairing the losses occasioned by the late fire. I may premise that the delay which has occurred in answering these inquiries has been unavoidable, because, until we knew what the result would be of an application for help made to the Colonial Government, it was impossible to say what our exact position was. You now look upon it as certain that the Government will advance 1000*l*. as a loan without interest, to be repaid in ten years. This, though a most welcome relief of immediate wants, enabling us to go on at once with our repairs, will yet prove a most serious charge in the future, if the repayment of the whole sum should have to be made out of our ordinary resources.

"I now proceed to answer, in order, the inquiries of Mr. Swabey's letter.

"1. The amount of loss caused by the fire.

"There are no means of estimating this exactly, but it may easily be imagined that it is not inconsiderable, when it is remembered that the whole large block of buildings, comprising the chapel, school-room, library, carpenters' shop, with its entire contents, furniture, books, tools, and timber, was utterly destroyed. Practical men, who know the place well, have agreed that the loss cannot be estimated at less than 1000*l*.; and from the experience I have already had in partially making good the loss, I feel sure that the work will hardly be completed for that sum.

"2. Proposed restoration.

"The appearance of the destroyed building was mean in the extreme; and the same may be said of the buildings which remain. They are, moreover, inconvenient, and inadequate to their purpose. In the work of restoration we are, of course, trying to remedy this, although at along we have had to consider not what we should like to do, but what we are likely to be able to effect; and hitherto our work has been conducted with the strictest regard to economy. By the advice of one of the Capetown clergy, the Rev. George Pinker, whose knowledge of architecture is considerable, and to whom we are much indebted for plans and advice and superintendence of the work, we have adopted Italian Gothic as the style which would give our buildings a certain character and dignity—I am afraid I may not say beauty—at least expense, and with least alteration. In the portion of the building which was destroyed we have obtained a very spacious school-room and class-rooms, and have also, while retaining for the chapel the old site, hallowed by many memories and associations of the past, enlarged and otherwise improved it. The inconvenience of the remaining buildings consists chiefly in this, that it is impossible at present to put any restraint upon our pupils at night; an ill-disposed lad may now, with very small chance of detection, spend his nights out of college. The dormitories and dining-hall now form two sides of a quadrangle. We propose to add a third side, and to put an iron railing along the fourth. If we were to carry out this plan it will be a great increase of comfort to the Masters. Then, again, all the buildings which escaped the fire are grievously out of repair. All that we contemplate doing besides putting them into repair is to alter the existing openings for doors and windows, in order to bring them into conformity with the new buildings. I am very anxious, too, if possible, to divide some portion of the dormitories into separate cubicles.

"3. The estimated cost of all this was, at the first rough calculation, put down at 1500*l*. or 1600*l*.; a more exact estimate has unhappily doubled this sum, and what we are now told is that the cost of carrying out our plans will be more than 3000*l*. What we have to meet the outlay is:—Insurance, 150*l*.; available endowments, 800*l*.; Government loan, 1000*l*. We have in prospect, independently of the aid we hope to receive from the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge is, from the thanks to your Lordship's exertions, about 200*l*. from England about 400*l*., leaving us 1000*l*. short of our estimated expenditure. It may be added that we have no prospect of substantial aid from any other source than the venerable Society to which we are now appealing, the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel having intimated to your Lordship that it is prevented by its laws from affording help in such a case as ours. While appealing to the Christian Knowledge Society for help on a large scale, I would also ask for a grant of books for our library, which was completely consumed in the fire.

"In conclusion, I may ask the Society to consider that, besides the present interest attaching to our work here, it may possibly become a matter of the highest value and importance to the Church to have an institution of this kind in the capital of the colony. Considering the great movement in favour of education, which seems to be taking place among several of the native tribes, the existence of such an institution as this, if it can be maintained in a state of efficiency, may tend more than anything else to give the Church a preponderating influence in Mission work. I hope to send you this a sketch of Zonnebloem as it was before the fire, and as we hope it will be.

"Your Lordship's obedient servant,

"T. H. PETERS."

To this statement by the warden of the college the Bishop added, that he trusted that the Society would come to their rescue in the time of their calamity, as well as at what is certainly a crisis in the history of the Native College, and in the condition of native education generally.

He added:—

"Since I wrote, you will observe that the estimate of the cost of the work before us has been found to be much higher than we at first supposed. This is to be accounted for in part by the continual and rapid rise in the price of material and labour, which is now exceedingly scarce, and in part by the original estimate having been made somewhat roughly.

"The work cannot be satisfactorily completed under 3000*l.*, and as great efforts are being put forth here now to raise a large sum for the sustentation of our miserably-paid clergy, in view especially of the withdrawal, now determined upon, of State aid, it is exceedingly difficult to do much here towards the restoration of Zonnebloem. This will account for the small sum which we have been able to raise in the colony. Meanwhile, the restoration and enlargement of the College is a matter of urgent necessity. Our operations as a missionary and educational institution are already crippled, through the inadequate accommodation and general meanness of the place, and we are precluded from receiving many more Basutos who are anxious to come. The loan which the Government has made, free of interest, proves the importance of the work, from a social and political point of view; but the repayment of the loan will be a most severe tax on our resources.

"I most earnestly hope that your venerable Society will come generously forward, as on so many other occasions, to our aid."

Subsequently, in a letter dated the 17th of August, 1875, the Bishop wrote:—

"I do most earnestly plead for a handsome and generous gift to the restoration of Zonnebloem. I was there last week, and the progress of these Basuto boys is most encouraging. They are thoroughly interested in their work, and throw their whole strength and attention into it. The new school-room just erected is admirably adapted to its purpose. The chapel is yet unfinished. But we cannot count upon completing the two buildings for less than 1000*l.* This is a low estimate. The other necessary work, e.g. workshop, library, and alteration of dormitories, together with the necessary repairs in a much dilapidated building, will cost at least another 1000*l.* While the extension, which is so desirable for the admission of the Basutos waiting to be sent to us will cost 1000*l.* more, or thereabouts. . . . I am more anxious about this than about any work which the Church has taken in hand in this diocese. So I trust my appeal will be received as a very urgent one."

The Standing Committee gave notice that in November they would propose a grant of 750*l.* for the restoration and enlargement of the Native College, Zonnebloem, on the scale named in Mr. Elliott's letter of the 6th of July, 1875, to the Bishop of Capetown; the Society's grant to be aid when the Bishop shall have certified that sufficient has been raised, inclusive of the Government loan of 1000*l.*, to complete the proper restoration and enlargement, and to set the College free from all liability, except so far as the Government loan of 1000*l.* is concerned; and further that the buildings have been properly insured.

otion of which Notice was given at the last Meeting.

The Rev. Charles Miller, of Harlow, in accordance with Notice given at the last Meeting, moved—

"That the Resolution appointing the Social Science Committee be discharged, and that the remainder of the 1000*l.* then voted be returned to the General Funds of the Society."

This was seconded by Mr. Brownlow Maitland.

Dr. F. Hessey moved as an Amendment, and Mr. Powell seconded the proposal—

"That the Committee should continue its services."

The Amendment was lost.

The Original Motion was then put and carried.

To which was added as a Rider, proposed by Archdeacon Hessey, and seconded by Mr. Evans—

"That in future any MSS. falling within the province of the late Social Science Committee, should be referred to one or other of the existing Literary Committees of the Society."

This was carried.

Notice of Motions for the next Meeting.

The Rev. H. A. Jeffreys gave notice that at the next Monthly General Meeting to be held on Tuesday, the 2nd of November, he would propose the following Resolution—

"That Diocesan Boards of Education be empowered to open Accounts with this Society in the name of their principal Secretary, notwithstanding Rule XXVI.

"That the Selection of Books granted to Diocesan Boards for Prizes in Religious Knowledge, be not confined to Catalogue C, but be extended to all the Society's Catalogues."

Special and Ordinary Book Grants.

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

General Committee, August 9th.—The Secretaries having referred to the recent death of one of the Honorary Life Governors of the Society, the Rev. E. B. Elliott, of Brighton, the following Minute was adopted:—

"The Committee record with affectionate regret the loss which has recently been sustained through the death of one who had rendered very essential services to the Society, the Rev. Edward Bishop Elliott, late Vicar of St. Mark's Church, Brighton, and who had for many years been a warm and valued supporter of the Society, to whose distinctive principles he was deeply attached, having often upheld them by his pen and from the pulpit. Since the death of his lamented brother, the Rev. Henry Venn Elliott, he had been among the most prominent supporters of the Society in Brighton, and the Missionary cause had received the benefit of that esteem and influence which Mr. Elliott's acknowledged literary abilities, high Christian character, and evident devotion to his Heavenly Master, had obtained for him."

The Rev. L. Nicholson, in a letter dated Freetown, Sierra Leone, August 18, reports the death of Mrs. Cheetham, the wife of the Bishop of Sierra Leone. He writes:—"It has pleased God to call our dear Bishop to pass through the waters of affliction. On the 16th of August, Mrs. Cheetham died after a few days' illness. She began to be seriously ill on the 12th, and gradually became worse until she breathed her last, at twenty minutes past one on Monday afternoon, the 16th. She bore her sickness with great patience, and the truths of the Gospel were her comfort and stay; for though she could not speak much, yet whenever the Bishop said any word of comfort and hope from the Word of God to her, her face lighted up with such a sweet smile, which seemed to say, 'Yes, those precious truths are all my salvation and my desire.' The Bishop is wonderfully supported, though he keenly feels the loss. I think I have never witnessed such resignation before. Her funeral was very large: thousands were present from the highest to the lowest of the population. We laid her next to Bishop Bowen's wife. In that spot of the burial-ground many of our Missionaries are buried: Millward, Ehemann, and others."

The Native clergyman, the Rev. J. Quaker, thus refers to the same subject, in a letter dated Freetown, August 17th:—"Good and kind-hearted Mrs. Cheetham, you and the Committee will deeply regret to learn, is no more. She died of fever yesterday, and was interred this morning amidst an overwhelming multitude of Native mourners of all denominations of Christians, and most of the Europeans in the Settlement. She died, I believe, just seven months after she had embarked with the Bishop for our coast. This is a very sad event for poor Africa. She was a mother in Israel."

The Rev. J. Piper, in a letter dated Yedo, July 9, writes, "There is no doubt whatever, as I could prove to you from intercourse with several natives of position whom I know, that the Government is more determined than ever not to open Japan to foreigners, nor tolerate Christianity so long as foreign Powers refuse to give up the jurisdiction of their own subjects on Japanese soil. And hence, especially in Yedo, there are almost insuperable barriers in the way of our carrying on our work. Some Missionaries, who were very sanguine some months ago, are very much disappointed at the present state of matters. Only yesterday an American Missionary (who is befriended by the well-known Mr. Mori, for some years Japanese Minister at Washington) told me that, although he had got a house in the city through Mr. Mori's influence, he is not able to do much in the way of Mission work, on account of the attitude which the Government assumes to Christianity. I have been trying to get a house out of the settlement, more in the heart of the city, but I cannot obtain it except I will sink my Missionary character, and I am not prepared to do this.

The Rev. H. Maundrell, in a letter dated Nagasaki, July 18, in which he announces his arrival there, writes, "The Native Church was opened the day before yesterday. It was nicely cleaned for the occasion, and looked well. Mr. Burnside must have spent much trouble on it, and I regret he was deprived of the pleasure of opening it himself before he left. At the ceremony on Sunday last, Mr. Evington read a shortened form of prayer, and the Catechist preached from Matthew vii. 24-27. There was a congregation of between thirty and forty Natives, besides a few of the English residents. Mr. Stout, the American Missionary, was also present. Altogether it was a happy occasion, and made me long to speak and preach in Japanese."

Mr. Maundell mentions that sixteen young men had attended a service on the previous Sunday, all of whom seemed to be inquirers.

LAW.

CONSISTORY COURT OF LONDON.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16.

(Before Dr. TRISTRAM, Chancellor.)

THE TOTTENHAM FACULTY CASE.

(See "Ecclesiastical Gazette," November, 1874, p. 68.)

An application was made in this case for a faculty or licence to be granted to construct a clerestory in connexion with the restoration of Allhallows Church, an ancient edifice mantled with ivy, at Tottenham.

Mr. Brooks, the proctor for the vicar (Dr. Wilson), and the churchwardens, applied and showed that in addition to the other improvements for Tottenham parish church it was necessary to erect a clerestory to give additional air and light into the church, and at a vestry meeting which was held in May last the construction had been unanimously voted. Two architects—Mr. Butterfield and Mr. Penrose—had approved the erection, and the parishioners who had opposed on the former occasion did not again appear.

The vicar, Dr. Wilson, was in attendance, and gave his views on the matter.

The CHANCELLOR (Dr. Tristram), in expressing his opinion on the present application, said that in February, 1874, the vicar and churchwardens had applied to the Court for a faculty for certain alterations in the church, and on that occasion the construction of a clerestory was opposed and had been refused. He had, however, in July last been applied to for a faculty to erect a clerestory, and had been informed that there was no further opposition, but, on the contrary, it had been unanimously voted at a vestry. On that application a citation had been issued, and notice given as required, and as no opposition was made he considered it reasonable that the faculty for the purpose mentioned should be issued in a week from the present date, in case any of the parties wished to apply in the matter.

Dr. WILSON assured the Court that the construction of the clerestory would do no harm to the ivy round the church.

Order accordingly.

SERGEANT AND OTHERS v. THE REV. T. PELHAM DALE.

This case (see Ecclesiastical Gazette, September, 1876, p. 33) having been mentioned to the Court,

Mr. Brooks, for the rector, said the objectionable seats had been removed, as he had promised on the part of Mr. Dale. The pews were removed on the next day after the churchwardens had made the complaint to the Court.

The CHANCELLOR expressed his satisfaction, and made a record of the removal.

ECCLESIASTICAL COURTS.—(From the Times).—The Supreme Court of Judicature Act will make some important alterations, on its operation in November, as to the appointments, ecclesiastical and otherwise, held by Sir Robert Phillimore, the Judge of the High Court of Admiralty. Lord Penzance, having been appointed Judge under the Public Worship Regulation Act, will be entitled to hold on the next vacancies the office of the Dean of Arches, the Mastership of Faculties, both of which are now held by Sir Robert Phillimore; and also on resignation or otherwise the appointment of the Official Principal of the Chancery Court of York, possessed by the Worshipful Granville Harcourt Vernon. The present salary of the Admiralty Court Judge is 4000*l.*; his income as Master of Faculties about 600*l.*; while as Dean of Arches he receives a trifling amount, understood to be about 6*l.* a year. Lord Penzance, as late Judge of the Divorce Court, has a pension of 3500*l.* a year, and by a recent Act (38 and 39 Vict. c. 76) on ecclesiastical fees a sum in the hands of the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty, amounting to 1112*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* Consolidated Three per Cent. Annuities, may be appropriated to provide a salary for the Judge under the Public Worship Regulation Act, and a payment for his clerk, "until a salary for the said Judge and a payment for the said clerk is otherwise provided by Parliament." By the Supreme Court of Judicature Act (38 and 39 of the Queen, section 8) it is declared that the Judge of the High Court of Admiralty is by the principal Act of 1873 appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court of Justice, but as to salary and pension is inferior to the puisne Judges of the Superior Courts of Common Law. It is now enacted that "If the existing Judge of the High Court of Admiralty under his hand signifies to the Lord Chancellor in writing before the commencement of the principal Act that he is willing to relinquish such other offices as aforesaid, and does before the commencement of the principal Act resign all other offices of emolument held by him, except the office of Judge of the High Court of Admiralty, he shall from and after the commencement of the principal Act be entitled to the same rank, salary, and pension as if he had been appointed a Judge of the High Court of Justice immediately on the commencement of the principal Act, &c." The salary will in future be 5000*l.* a year.

THE CHURCH CONGRESS, 1876.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 5.

THE Fifteenth Church Congress commenced its Session to-day at Stoke-on-Trent. The fourteen previous were held at Cambridge (1861), Oxford, Manchester, Bristol, Norwich, York, Wolverhampton, Dublin, Liverpool, Southampton, Nottingham, Leeds, Bath, and Brighton. The proceedings, as usual, commenced with Divine service at Stoke parish church, and at St. Mark's, Shelton.

The sermon at Stoke was preached by the Bishop of ROCHESTER from 1 Cor. xii. 7, "The manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal."

The Bishop of ONTARIO preached at St. Mark's, Shelton, which is situated about a mile from the Congress Hall, from Acts xv. 28, "For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burdens than these necessary things." At both churches there was full choral service. The offertory at the former was for the local Additional Clergy and Lay Helpers' Fund, and at the latter for the Missions of Ontario.

The members of the Congress assembled in the afternoon at the Congress Hall, a spacious apartment erected for the occasion on a plot of ground just behind the Town Hall, and capable of accommodating 3000 persons.

The proceedings were opened by singing one of the hymns and the prayers appointed for each meeting of the Congress. The President (the Bishop of LICHFIELD) then requested the members to repeat one of the Church's symbols of faith, the Apostles' Creed, which was done most heartily, the Bishop leading. His lordship then proceeded to deliver the Inaugural Address. A discussion followed on "The Church of England, and the Churches in communion with her; how they may be drawn more closely together," in connexion with which papers were read by the Bishop of EDINBURGH and the Rev. Lord PLUNKETT.

The Bishop of TENNESSEE, who represented the Episcopate of the American Church, the Rev. Dr. POTTER, of the General Convention of America, Mr. BERESFORD-HOPE, M.P., and Archdeacon REICHEL also addressed the Congress.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6.

Under the presidency of the Dean of Lichfield Prolocutor of the Convocation of Canterbury papers on "Woman's Work in the Church," by Rev. T. T. CARTER, Canon GORE, and Mr. YONGE, were read, and an interesting discussion followed.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7.

Papers were read on "Lay Agency and other requisites for Church Work," by Rev. Dr. M. SHALL, Mr. LEWIS SAMSON, the Bishop of CARLISLE and the Rev. Canon WALSHAM HOW.

An interesting discussion followed, in which Mr. THOMAS SALT, M.P., Rev. J. W. BARDSLEY, Rev. G. WILLIAMS, Rev. E. A. HILDYARD, Rev. H. BOWLEY, Captain BAGNALL, Rev. J. F. KING, and the Bishop of BANGOR took part.

An interesting discussion took place on "Funeral Reform," the chief paper being read by Rev. Dr. COLLIS.

Mr. BERESFORD-HOPE, M.P., who said he had been for many years a practical funeral reformer, suggested that they should do without the intervention of an undertaker. He said the Church must co-operate in this work of banishing from our funerals the grotesque hideousness which now characterized them. He made several suggestions as to the part the Church might take in the reform, and said they should take the funeral out of the hands of the family and the undertaker, and associate it with the Church.

The Earl of SHREWSBURY also spoke, and said he had prepared instructions in his will directing that he should be buried decently, but without unnecessary expenses.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8.

The chief subject for consideration and discussion this day was, "On Revival Movements, and the desire they produce for private counsel and guidance."

The principal speakers were the PRESIDENT, the Rev. R. TWIGG, Mr. W. T. PATON, Rev. J. OAKLEY, Mr. NEVILLE SHERRBROOKE, Rev. R. M. GRIER, Rev. C. F. LOWDER, Rev. C. W. WELDON, Mr. J. ALLEN, Ven. Archdeacon MICHEL, Rev. E. H. BICKERSTETH, and Archdeacon EMERY.

The Earl of HARROWBY, in closing the discussion, said the practice of auricular confession was most plausible and seductive, but it was full of danger. He said to them, above all, preserve the purity of their own individual consciences. They might ask the advice of their clergy, but they must not let them say that they should not come to communion unless they confessed.

A paper was read by the Rev. Canon THOMAS on the proposed "Order of Lay Preachers," and a discussion ensued in which the Rev. W. B. HUTCHINGS, Rev. D. B. NORMAN, Rev. R. KROOKS, Rev. C. L. STUPPARD, Archdeacon EMERY, and Rev. R. W. RANDALL took part.

The subject for discussion in the evening was, "Recent Explorations and Discoveries in Bible Lands." In this the Rev. F. W. HOLLAND, Captain WARREN, and Rev. GEORGE WILLIAMS took part. The last-named gentleman in his paper expressed an opinion that the traditional sites of the Temple and of the Holy Sepulchre were the true ones, and that all the new theories, including those of Mr. Fergusson, were worthless.

Canon TRISTRAM followed with a treatise on "The Land of Moab," in which he said that no man who had ever stood on the heights of Moab could feel otherwise than that the story of Balak and Balaam could only have been penned by one who was well acquainted with the country.

There was a full attendance in the Congress Hall, the subject being "Personal Holiness in the Family, in Society, and in Trade." The papers on the first were read by Earl Nelson, the Rev. E. H. Bickersteth, and the Rev. H. M. Villiers; on the second by the Dean of Lichfield, Mr. S. H. Blackwood, and Rev. Canon Money; and on the third by the Rev. W. H. Lyttleton and Mr. Geo. Skeay, a large manufacturer, of Tamworth. There was no discussion. At the close, the committee held a meeting, and the invitation by the civil authorities and the clergy of Plymouth for the Congress to meet in their town next year, was unanimously accepted. It was understood that there were also invitations from Exeter, Torquay, London, Wales, and some place in the North of England. The mayor and corporation invited the members to a soirée this evening in the Town Hall, and to-morrow there will be a grand closing service in Lichfield Cathedral, with a sermon from the Very Rev. Dean Bickersteth.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9.

The proceedings of the Congress were brought to a close last evening by the usual business meeting. Before commencing, the President said he wished to call attention to the special prayer which would be offered up for the Prince of Wales in view of his sailing from this country for India on Monday, October 11, that God might give him a safe passage, might prosper him there, and restore him safely to his own country. This prayer, to which the audience gave a hearty "Amen," was as follows:—"O God, whose never-failing Providence ordereth all things, both in heaven and earth, we beseech Thee to take into Thy gracious keeping Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, on the distant journey he is about to undertake. Preserve him, we pray Thee, from all evil accidents by land or by water; from the pestilence that walketh in darkness, and from the arrow that destroyeth in the noon-day. May he prove a messenger of goodwill to our Indian fellow-subjects, binding them together in loyalty to our Sovereign, and in peace among themselves. Restore him, we pray Thee, in health and safety to his own land, and in the remembrance of Thy manifold mercies may he live long to glorify Thy name, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

[The prayer, which was drawn up by the Bishop, was ordered to be used in all churches of the diocese on Sunday.]

The President thought it desirable on all occasions where any money was given—whether at offertories or on occasions like the present—that a public account should be given of their stewardship. He therefore desired to place before them the financial results of the Congress, which was as follows:—"The members' tickets issued had been 1832; and, what he considered a very pleasing feature, 4356 evening tickets had been disposed of, giving an average of nearly 1100 on each occasion. The total receipts had thus been above 1100*l*. When all the expenses had been paid the amount would probably be about 2000*l*., including 1600*l*., the cost of the building. Therefore, he, as one of those who put down their names to the guarantee fund, felt a very great satisfaction that a really Christian source of enjoyment had been given to a large number of people at the small loss of one-half of the amount of the contribution of the guarantee fund, which he, for one, cheerfully and even thankfully should give. The Bishop having pronounced the benediction, the business of the Congress terminated.

DEDUCTIONS FROM RENT-CHARGES.

To the Editor of the Ecclesiastical Gazette.

SIR,—I must demur to your correspondent V.'s argument in your issue of August 10.

He says, it is "simple justice," that the benefited clergyman should be rated equally with a landowner of equal gross income; because although the estate of the latter will sell for five times as much as the benefice of the former, the Clergyman must discharge certain duties on the benefice in person or pay a substitute. The parson pays so much in money and the balance in labour.

My answer is that the landowner has duties also to all employed on his estate. Although he may (as far as law goes) spend his time and rent on the Continent, he will soon be regarded at home as an useless incumbrance, and may be compelled to sacrifice his rights to draw rent.

In order to avert the fate of absentee landlords in Ireland and Prince Edward's Island, as well as from better feelings, most landowners spend some time on their estates. And if they must do so, or suffer loss, the value of their time must be added to the price paid for their estates, and again the landowner's property is more valuable than the parson's, and should be rated higher.

MISCELLANEOUS INTELLIGENCE.

PROVINCIAL.

Worcester.—The "Festival of the Three Choirs" under the new régime was brought to a close on Thursday, 23rd ult., when the sermon was preached by the Very Rev. Edward Bickersteth, D.D., Dean of Lichfield, and Prolocutor of the Lower House of Convocation, who took for his text, St. Matthew vi. 9, "Hallowed be Thy name."

On the clergy assembling in the chapter-house, after the afternoon's service, the Very Rev. the Dean of Worcester thanked them for the cordial support which they had given him, and added, "I am sure you will all agree with me that for our principle this has been a great success." The following is the return of the receipts, corrected up to the close of the Festival:—

RECEIPTS AT THE CATHEDRAL.

Tuesday and Wednesday	... £447	0	0
Thursday morning	... 171	8	11
Thursday afternoon	... 84	4	8
Total	... £702	13	7

If to this be added the guarantee fund raised to save the Widows' and Orphans' Charity from loss by the change of arrangements (now reaching 59*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*), the total would amount to 129*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*, being, it was said, the largest amount ever raised at any other Festival.

Diocese of Oxford.—Diocesan Conference.—The Law of Burials.—The proceedings of the Conference commenced on Tuesday, 5th inst., with the celebration of Holy Communion in the cathedral at eight o'clock. The members of the Conference, lay and clerical, numbering about 500, assembled in the Sheldonian Theatre at half past ten. The subjects set down for discussion were the "Law of Burial in Churchyards," "Church Patronage," "Ecclesiastical Fees," "Poor Benefices within the Diocese," "Religious Education," "Repair of Churches," "The Constitution of Conference," "Temperance," and "Labourers' Dwellings."

In his opening address the Bishop, speaking upon the law of burials in churchyards, said it was their duty to consider not only their position as Churchmen, but the feelings, difficulties, and wants of others.

The following resolution having been moved and seconded:—"That the proposed alterations in the law of burials in churchyards, as contained in the several Bills laid before Parliament during the last few years, call for the serious consideration of Churchmen," an amendment was proposed:—"That it is expedient that Churchmen should discontinue their opposition to the amendment of the law of burial proposed in the Bills for that purpose lately introduced into Parliament, and that resistance to the just and reasonable claims of Nonconformists endangers the position of the Established Church more than the efforts of Nonconformists to effect its disestablishment."

After a lengthened discussion this amendment was rejected, and ultimately the following amendment was agreed to:—"That whereas every Englishman has a right to interment without violation of his religious opinions, and the Church has a right to have her churchyards secured against the intrusion of any service other than her own, and conducted according to her own form, it is desirable that burial grounds other than churchyards be provided for the use of those who object to the service of the Church, and that, therefore, on the grounds specified, as well as on sanitary grounds, it is desirable to give facilities to local authorities, under the authority of the Local Government Board, to provide cemeteries in which interments may take place with such accompanying religious services as the friends of the deceased may appoint, and that the friends of deceased persons shall, if desired, be allowed to bury their dead in the churchyard without any service."

The Vicars Choral of Wells.—An inquiry was held in the hall of the vicars choral at Wells, on Thursday, 7th inst., on the petition of the dean and chapter and Mr. John Wiseman, their nominee, to the Bishop, as visitor of the vicars choral, that he would hold a visitation to hear arguments on behalf of the dean and chapter and vicars choral respectively, for and against augmenting the number of the latter.—The Bishop presided; Lord Selborne sat as assessor. Mr. Shaw, Q.C., instructed by Messrs. Bernard and Garrod, appeared for the petitioners; and Mr. Pridmore, Q.C., instructed by Mr. W. J. Foster, represented the respondents. At the outset there was a long argument as to the jurisdiction of the bishop as regarded the petitions, and a note of the objection was taken by the assessor. The next point which the respondents contested was the power of the dean and chapter to nominate a candidate for vicar, after the lapse of three months of a vacancy. The Court ruled in favour of the respondents, on the ground that, in accordance with a charter, dated Edward III., the nominating was limited to the three months subsequent to vacancy. The third point at issue was the augmentation of the body to the statutory numbers of 14, and the arguments on this part of the inquiry occupied the greater part of the day, lengthy quotations being made from the old charters, and from the charters of the vicars choral, the dean and chapter, the minutes of the respective bodies, and other documents. In the course of the afternoon, Mr. Shaw submitted a proposition to the effect that if the body were augmented, as was decided, the dean and chapter would reimburse the present vicars choral the amount of the additional salaries they would have to pay out of their fund on certain conditions which the vicars choral declined to accept, and which Lord Selborne intimated they could not reasonably be expected to enter. The Court adjourned, on the understanding that the dean and chapter would reconsider their proposition, and make some modification in its conditions.

PUBLIC EDUCATION IN ENGLAND AND WALES.

75. Temporary monitors engaged by the week, pursuant to Article 74, for the supply of vacant pupil-teacherships during a current year (Article 13), satisfy Article 32 (c), provided—

(b.) That the vacancies are reported to the Department as soon as they occur and have been occasioned by causes not accepted by the Department as satisfactory.

76. Except in the cases provided for by Article 75, each vacancy in a pupil-teachership during a current year (Article 18) works a forfeiture under Article 32 (c).

Pupil-teachers who have completed their engagement with credit, (having passed satisfactorily either of the examinations referred in Article 60) and candidates, not having been pupil-teachers (Article 93c), who have passed with success (Article 94) the examination referred to in Article 91, may serve as assistants in schools in place of pupil-teachers, without being required to be annually examined.

80. Such assistants cease to fulfil the conditions of Article 32 (c), if at any time the inspector reports them to be inefficient teachers, or if they fail to produce from the managers, and from the principal teacher, of their school, the same certificates of conduct, attention to duty, and obedience, as are required from pupil-teachers.

81. A vacancy caused by the withdrawal of an assistant in the course of any school year (Article 13) may be supplied by the appointment of temporary monitors, pursuant to Articles 74, 75, or of another assistant, qualified according to Article 79.

82. Assistants make their own terms with the managers, both as to hours and wages.

82 (a). Assistants are counted as part of the school staff (Article 39) from the date at which their appointments are notified to, and approved by, the Department.

(b.) is reported by the proper department in each case to have completed a like period of good service as an elementary teacher in the Army or Royal Navy, or (within Great Britain) in Poor Law Schools, Certified Industrial Schools, or Certified Reformatories.

87. Teachers who have been trained for one year only may obtain certificates after probation (Article 51), or may be reported by the proper department, upon the same terms as others; and grants, of half the amounts specified in Article 86, may be placed to the credit of the colleges in which they were trained, provided—

(a.) 75 per cent. of the expenditure of the college for the year, certified in such manner as the Department may require.

(b.) 50*l.* for each male, and 85*l.* for each female, Queen's scholar (Article 96), in residence for continuous training throughout the year for which it is being paid.

90. The annual grant to each college is paid as follows:—

(a.) An instalment of 12*l.* (males), or 8*l.* (females) is paid on 1st March, 1st June, and 1st September, in respect of every Queen's scholar (Article 96) in residence for continuous training throughout the year.

(b.) Part of the instalment of the 1st of September may be suspended, if payment of the full amount then due would cause the limit under Article 89 (a) to be exceeded.

(c.) The balance is adjusted as soon as the college accounts for the year have been closed, audited, and approved by the Department.

SECTION III.

ADMISSION INTO TRAINING COLLEGES.

91. An examination of candidates for admission into training colleges is annually held at each college in December, during the week following the examination for certificates (Article 100). In 1876, and thenceforward, this examination will be held in summer, commencing on the first Tuesday after the 2nd of July.

92. The examination extends to the subjects required in the course of a pupil-teacher's engagement (Schedule I.).

93. The candidates are selected, and admitted to the examination, by the authorities of each college on their own responsibility, subject to no other conditions, on the part of the Department, than that the candidates—

(a.) intend bona fide to adopt and follow the profession of teacher in schools fulfilling the conditions of Article 86 (a) or (b);

(b.) having been pupil-teachers, have successfully completed their engagement;

(c.) not having been pupil-teachers, will be more than eighteen years of age on the 1st of January next following the date of the examination. This article will apply to pupil-teachers whose engagement may have been determined under section 5 of the memorandum of agreement (Article 70 f), (1) without discredit to themselves, and (2) for reasons approved by the Department.

94. The successful candidates are arranged in two classes in order of merit.

95. The authorities of each college may propose to the Department for admission any candidate declared to be admissible pursuant to Article 94.

96. Such candidates when admitted are termed Queen's Scholars.

97. Before candidates are admitted—

(a.) The medical officer of the college must certify the state of their health to be satisfactory, and that they are free from serious bodily defect, or deformity; and,

(b.) They must sign a declaration signifying their intention conformably to Article 93 (a).

98. The authorities of each college settle their own terms of admission.

99. Upon proof by the authorities of any college that candidates have not fulfilled the conditions signed by them on admission into the college, the Department will refuse to grant teachers' certificates (Article 53) to such candidates, or to admit them to probation for certificate (Article 51).

SECTION IV.

EXAMINATION OF STUDENTS IN TRAINING COLLEGES.

100. An examination of the resident students is held in December at the several colleges. This examination will commence in 1875 on Tuesday, the 7th of December, at ten a.m.

101. No student may be presented for examination except such as, at the date of their admission, satisfied Article 93, and have been resident throughout the whole year. No such student may be left out.

102. The students have a different examination according as they are males or females, or are at the end of a first or second year of residence.

103. The first year's syllabus for females includes special subjects for the teachers of infants. Candidates who pass in these subjects, and complete their probation (Article 51) in schools for infants, receive special mention thereof (stamp) on their certificates.

104. Students who pass successfully through two years of training receive special mention thereof (stamp) on their certificates.

105. Students who fall into the fourth division (Article 49) at the end of the first year's residence are required to take up the first year's subjects again at the end of their second year.

PART III.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS.

EVENING SCHOLARS.

106. The managers of any school to which annual inspection has already been promised (Article 11) may apply in writing, before the 1st of January, to the Inspector of the district for an examination of their evening scholars (Article 22). The application must be renewed annually.

107. Only one examination is held per annum of evening scholars in the same school, and it may be held on any day, between the 1st of February and 30th of April, that may be arranged with the inspector, provided that the school has met the required number of times (Article 22) since the date of the last examination.

108. If the evening school is connected with a day school, in receipt of annual grants, and the accounts of the two schools are kept as one account, the grant for the examination of the evening scholars is paid as part of the next annual grant to the whole school (Article 13).

109. If the evening school is not connected with a day school, in receipt of annual grants, or, being so connected, has a distinct and separate account, the grant is paid as soon as possible after the 30th of April; at which date, in such cases, the evening school year is considered to end.

110. The inspector may make arrangements for the examination, at some convenient centre, of the evening scholars of several schools.

111. A separate examination will not be held for any school, unless twenty scholars are to be presented to the inspector. If less than twenty scholars are to be presented, they can be examined only at a collective examination (Article 110), or at the same time with the day scholars. The number to be presented must be stated in the managers' annual application (Article 106) to the inspector.

112. The inspector may either hold the examination himself, or entrust it to an assistant approved by the Department.

Certificates under Labour Acts.

113. The inspector after his yearly visit (Article 11) to a school will grant such certificates as may be required for scholars who have reached the standard (Article 28) prescribed by the Agricultural Children Act, 1873, or any other Act for regulating the education of children employed in labour.

114. The inspector may depute his assistant, or the certificated teacher of the school, to sign these certificates.

115. Certificates may be issued for scholars who pass in two out of the three subjects (Article 28) in the standard prescribed by the Act under which they are granted, or in a higher standard.

116. For the purpose of granting these certificates, the inspector, or his assistant, will examine—

(1.) Scholars in the school, whether they have made 250 attendances (Article 19 B.), or not;

(2.) Other children, not being scholars in the school, allowed by the managers to attend on the day of inspection.

117. If there is no school under inspection at which the children of any parish, or group of parishes, for whom certificates are required, can conveniently attend for examination, application for a special examination may be made by any person interested in procuring such certificates, subject to the following regulations:—

(a.) The application shall be sent to the inspector for the district not less than fourteen days before the date at which it is desired that the examination should be held.

(b.) The applicant must specify the number of children (not less than fifteen) to be presented for examination, and must undertake—

That all children within the parish, or group of parishes, for whom certificates are needed, will be summoned to and allowed to attend the examination; and—

That a convenient room will be provided for the examination at such day and hour as shall be fixed by the inspector.

(c.) The applicant must satisfy the inspector that he is a proper person to conduct the preliminary proceedings, and, if necessary, to receive for distribution the certificates which may be granted after the examination.

CHAPTER III.

118. The Department, as occasion requires, may cancel or modify articles of the Code, or may establish new articles, but may not take any action thereon until the same shall have been submitted to Parliament, and shall have lain on the Table of both Houses for at least one calendar month.

119. The Code shall be printed each year, in such a form as to show separately all articles cancelled or modified, and all new articles, since the last edition, and shall be laid on the Table of both Houses within one calendar month from the meeting of Parliament.

120. The schedules annexed to the Code shall have the same effect as the Articles of the Code, and shall be subject to the provisions of Articles 118 and 119.

37 & 38 VICT. c. 88.

An Act to amend the law relating to the Registration of Births and Deaths in England, and to consolidate the Law respecting the Registration of Births and Deaths at Sea.

[7th August, 1874.]

MISCELLANEOUS.

38. Register when not evidence.—An entry or certified copy of an entry of a birth or death in a register under the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, or in a certified copy of such a register, shall not be evidence of such birth or death, unless such entry either purports to be signed by some person professing to be the informant and to be such a person as is required by law at the date of such entry to give to the registrar information concerning such birth or death, or purports to be made upon a certificate from a coroner, or in pursuance of the provisions of this Act with respect to the registration of births and deaths at sea.

When more than three months have intervened between the day of the birth and the day of the registration of the birth of any child, the entry or certified copy of the entry made after the commencement of this Act of the birth of such child in a register under the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, or in a certified copy of such a register, shall not be evidence of such birth, unless such entry purports,

(a.) if it appear that not more than twelve months have so intervened, to be signed by the superintendent registrar as well as by the registrar; or,

(b.) if more than twelve months have so intervened, to have been made with the authority of the Registrar-General, and in accordance with the prescribed rules.

Where more than twelve months have intervened between the day of a death or the finding of a dead body and the day of the registration of the death or the finding of such body, the entry or certified copy of the entry made after the commencement of this Act of the death in a register under the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, or in a certified copy of such register, shall not be evidence of such death, unless such entry purports to have been made with the authority of the Registrar-General, and in accordance with the prescribed rules.

39. Penalty for not giving information, complying with requisition, &c.—Every person required by the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, to give information concerning any birth or death, or any living new-born child, or any dead body, who wilfully refuses to answer any question put to him by the registrar relating to the particulars required to be registered concerning such birth or death, or fails to comply with any requisition of the registrar made in pursuance of those Acts, and every person who refuses or fails without reasonable excuse to give or send any certificate in accordance with the provisions of the said Acts, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings for each offence; and the parent of any child who fails to give information concerning the birth of such child, as required by the said Acts, shall be liable to a like penalty; and a person required by the said Acts to give information concerning a death in the first instance and not merely in default of some other person, shall, if such information as is required by the said Acts is not duly given, be liable to the same penalty.

40. Penalty for false statements, &c.—Any person who commits any of the following offences; that is to say,

(1) Wilfully makes any false answer to any question put to him by a registrar relating to the particulars required to be registered concerning any birth or death, or wilfully gives to a registrar any false information concerning any birth or death, or the cause of any death; or,

(2) Wilfully makes any false certificate or declaration under or for the purposes of this Act, or forges or falsifies any such certificate or declaration, or any order under this Act, or, knowing any such certificate, declaration, or order to be false or forged, uses the same as true, or gives or sends the same as true to any person; or

(3) Wilfully makes, gives, or uses any false statement or representation as to a child born alive having been still-born, or as to the body of a deceased person or a still-born child in any coffin, or falsely pretends that any child born alive was still-born; or shall for each offence be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds, and on conviction on indictment to fine or imprisonment with or without hard labour for a term not exceeding two years, or penal servitude for a term not exceeding seven years.

(4) Makes any false statement with intent to have the same entered in any register of births or deaths;

41. Sending certificates, &c., by post.—Notices, informations, declarations, certificates, requisitions, returns, and other documents required or authorized by this Act to be delivered, sent, or given to the Registrar-General, a superintendent registrar, or a registrar, or by registrar to a person who is required to give information concerning any birth or death, who gives notice of any death, may be sent by post in a prepaid letter, and the date at which they would be delivered to the person to whom they are sent in the ordinary course of post shall be deemed to be the date at which they are received; and in proving such sending, it shall be sufficient to prove that the letter was prepaid properly addressed, and put into the post.

42. Explanation of 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 86, ss. 36, 37.—In the principal Act and this Act,—

The term "general search" shall mean a search during any number of successive hours not exceeding six, without stating the object of the search; and

43. Use of forms.—The forms in the first schedule to this Act, or forms as nearly resembling the same as circumstances admit, shall be used in all cases in which they are applicable, and when so used shall be valid in law.

44. Power of Local Government Board and Registrar-General to alter forms in schedules under 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 86, and make regulations.—It shall be lawful for the Local Government Board or the Registrar-General, with the consent of the Local Government Board, by order to alter from time to time all or any of the forms contained in the schedules to the principal Act and this Act, or in any order under this section, in such manner as may appear to them best for carrying into effect the Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1836 to 1874, or to prescribe new forms for that purpose, and from time to time to make regulations for prescribing any matters authorized by this Act to be prescribed, and to revoke and alter such regulations.

Any order made in pursuance of this section shall be published in the London Gazette, and shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament, if Parliament is sitting, within fourteen days after the issue of the same, or if Parliament is not then sitting, within fourteen days after the commencement of the then next session.

Every form when altered in pursuance of this section shall have the same effect as if it had been contained in a schedule to the principal Act or this Act, as the case may be, and every regulation made in pursuance of this section shall, while in force, have the same effect as if it were enacted in this Act.

45. Recovery of penalties.—All fines and forfeitures imposed by the principal Act and all penalties imposed by this Act may, unless otherwise directed, be recovered on summary conviction before two justices in manner directed by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, and when so recovered shall be paid into the receipt of her Majesty's Exchequer in such manner as the Treasury may from time to time direct, and be carried to the Consolidated Fund.

Where the court of summary jurisdiction before whom a person is charged summarily with an offence under this Act, which is also punishable on indictment, think that proceedings ought to be taken against such person by indictment, they may adjourn the case to enable such proceedings to be taken.

46. Time for prosecution of offence.—A prosecution on indictment for an offence under this Act shall be commenced within three years after the commission of such offence.

47. Particulars required to be registered concerning birth or death.—The particulars required

The next Monthly General Meeting will be held on Tuesday, 7th December, 1875, at two p.m.

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.

67, Lincoln's Inn Fields.

Tuesday, November 2, 1875.

Rev. Dr. CURREY in the Chair.

After Prayers, the Minutes of the last Meeting were read.

Money Grants recommended by the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Christ Church, New Zealand.—The Bishop of this diocese, writing from New Zealand on the 27th of August, 1875, forwarded and recommended an application on one of the Society's forms made by the Rev. Francis A. Hare, clergyman in charge of the parish of Riccarton, for a grant in aid of building a District Church at Fendalton. The district is a suburb of Christ Church, and there is no place of worship within two miles and a quarter of the site of the proposed church. The estimated cost is 500*l.*; toward making up which 230*l.* are in hand or promised. This sum has been raised on the spot. In addition, a grant of 100*l.* is expected from the Church Property Trustees. It is proposed in the first instance, to erect only a portion of the church, to accommodate about 100 persons. The building will be of wood. The church population within a radius of about two miles, is at present about 200, but likely to increase. The district is not a wealthy one. The population consists chiefly of business men and the working class. The site is vested in the Church Property Trustees, of whom the Bishop is chairman. The church, till resources will admit of the erection of a Church school, will be used as a place in which to give religious teaching to the children. The Bishop lays much stress upon the importance of this.

viz., that the Society's grant be not paid till the Bishop shall have certified that the receipt of it will lead to the immediate completion of the work, and to its being absolutely free from all liability for debt; and further, that the property has been secured as Church property for ever, and has been adequately insured.

Metropolitan Diocese of Sydney.—The Bishop of Sydney applied for a grant for a new church to be erected at Cook-town, North Queensland.

The Bishop wrote as follows on the 2nd of August, 1875:—

"Cooktown is the most northern settlement in North Australia (with the exception of Cape York), and is the harbour for the Endeavour and Palmer River gold fields, and a very important place, with a population of 3500, and a still larger number of people on the gold fields, which are at some distance from Cooktown."

The cost of the proposed church, which is to be of wood, is reckoned at 600*l.* Towards this, 400*l.* have been paid or promised, 340*l.* on the spot.

If the town continues to prosper [the Rev. R. R. Evans, the applicant, writes], more money will probably be raised by public canvass.

The site is invested in the Bishop of the diocese, and two trustees chosen by members of the Church of England. The majority of the residents are men who have failed in the other well-known gold-field towns in business, and have come to Cooktown to recoup. They are chiefly tavern-keepers, commission agents, and store-keepers.

About one-quarter are members of the Church of England; the same number Roman Catholics; perhaps another fourth are Presbyterians, Wesleyans, Baptists, Quakers, &c., &c.; the remaining fourth are Chinese, Natives, and Free-thinkers.

It was agreed to recommend a grant of 30*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Bishop Macrorie.—The Bishop, in a letter dated Maritzburg, 13th Sept., 1875, forwarded and recommended an application from the Rev. Walter Baugh, for a grant in aid of building a School Chapel for Native purposes in the village of Richmond.

"The parish of Richmond extends over a large area, being from 400 to 500 square miles, over which there are scattered here and there a population of about 500 Europeans, and a constantly increasing native population of about 20,000 men, women, and children. The parish is the cure of Archdeacon Fearnie, who ministers to the European population in five or six different parts of the parish where there are a few homesteads, the members of which form a small congregation. There are two churches—the mother church, which is now being enlarged, &c., and one at Byrne, a small village about nine miles from Richmond. Divine Service is conducted in private houses at the other places. For want of agency and money there has hitherto been no direct Missionary work.

"Mr. Baugh is now prepared to devote himself to this work. The site of the proposed church is a central one. It is the seat of a magistrate, and troops of natives on horseback may be seen almost daily resorting to the office grounds to answer summonses, or to hear and see. Great numbers also flock to the village for trading purposes. There are places to invite them to enter into secular and worldly transactions, for buying and selling are with them ever-engrossing engagements; and there are canteens where we have cause to fear that they obtain the unlawful indulgence of drinking or purchasing spirits. The great and important thing lacking is a native church or school chapel, in which we might congregate the natives for school purposes and for Divine Services. Had we a Sunday Church Service, I have little doubt that many of the men who are possessed of horses would attend. There are many scattered a few miles away living in a semi-civilized state, who rent land from European farmers. Some of these desire to draw to a Missionary, and to settle on land near a church. Since I have been here three of our old pupils (when boys), who are now grown up and have wives, have expressed their joy at the prospect of our building a church, and added the wish that they could see their way to build near us. I am glad to say that we have a piece of church-land adjoining the magistrate's office, in a central and desirable place, on which we purpose to build our native church school. The building is to be 30 by 15 feet, stone walls, thatched roof, gable ends, lancet windows, with wood floors. The tender for this is 205*l.* I have opened a subscription list, and have down a sum total of 40*l.* to 50*l.* Many of our well-to-do people I have not yet applied to. I expect we shall get some aid from Diocesan Funds and from friends at a distance. We can look for little or nothing from the native people on the spot, for they have not yet been brought to value the existence of a church to which they might resort. The 205*l.* does not include furniture, but is for the building alone."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 25*l.* for the completion of this building, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Bishop Macrorie, Maritzburg.—The Bishop, in a letter dated Maritzburg, the 29th of May, 1875, forwarded a letter from Archdeacon Fearnie, Warden of St. Mary's College, Richmond, from which the following is an extract:—

"St. Mary's College, Richmond, Natal, 5th May, 1875.

"It occurred to me that it might be grateful to some of the officers of your Society and yourself, to see a photograph of St. Mary's College and the Warden's house, as this institution owes its existence to the liberality of your Society, originating as it did from 150*l.* granted by it for educational purposes. Already upwards of 100 pupils have passed through the college, and we have very favourable accounts of the influence they are exercising wherever they reside. Eight of our pupils have become educators, and we have at present eight 'in statu pupillari,' who are looking forward to become teachers.

"We have thirty-six pupils in residence, which is our complement. It grieves us much that we have now to refuse applications because of our limited powers of accommodation. We are very desirous of enlarging the premises, but lack of funds is our hindrance. To carry out what is really required for the comfort of the present inmates, and to make accommodation for ten more would cost something like 400*l.* The finance board of the diocese has promised me 50*l.* towards this, and I have some other subscriptions in prospect; but it is very difficult in this early life of the colony, to interest people sufficiently for an advanced work like this, and our ecclesiastical difficulties are a great hindrance. Besides the substantial assistance a grant from your Society would afford, its influence would lead others to feel the importance of an object which your Society thought right to countenance. I may mention that we are the more pained at having to refuse pupils, because the Roman Catholics are just opening a similar institution, and it is very important not to check the flow to this place, but rather to avail ourselves of it. I should therefore feel deeply indebted to your venerable Society if it would take our case into consideration, and render us the assistance we greatly need. I have the honour to be,

"Dear Sir, very faithfully yours,

"THOS. G. FEARNIE,

"Warden of St. Mary's College."

The Bishop wrote:—

"I can endorse every word which Archdeacon Fearnie has said respecting the need of increased accommodation. We want not only more room in the dormitories, but a nice, airy, cheerful schoolroom, the present one being used for dining-room as well as school, and being too low in the ceiling. . . . I hope, therefore, that it may be in the power of the Committee to accede to this request."

In answer to inquiry made by the Secretary as to the class of pupils at St. Mary's College, the following reply from Bishop Macrorie dated the 31st of August, 1875, had been received:—

"I was distressed when visiting Richmond fortnight ago, to find that the only addition which the Archdeacon has felt himself justified in making at present, and which will give a dining-room separate from the schoolroom, six additional beds, still leaves the institution sadly cramped for accommodation; and this the Archdeacon is advancing money from his private resources. There are now five pupils, the daughters of clergy, far storekeepers, &c.; of these the daughters the clergy have hitherto been educated boarded free, it being quite out of the power of the parents to bear the expense, and there have been two at the school almost ever since its foundation. There are at present two receiving this benefit, one of them a member of a family of ten, the other one of seven. At the opening of the school, six years ago, the terms were as low as 30*l.* and 35*l.*, but on account of great rise in the cost of all the necessities of life they have been advanced to 40*l.* and 45*l.* The Government has aided with a grant of 100*l.* annum; but notice has been received of withdrawal of this grant at the end of the current year, and this will render it very difficult for us to maintain our position against Romanists, who have started first-class schools in Maritzburg and Durban, under the care of nuns, French and English, who are highly accomplished, and require no salary. The work is one of the highest importance, and I am most anxious to maintain it in the most efficient manner."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 100*l.* in this case on condition of accommodation being provided for ten additional inmates at an outlay of not less than 400*l.*; the Society's grant to be paid when Bishop Macrorie shall have certified that the receipt of it will lead to the work being at once satisfactorily finished, free from liability for debt; further, that the buildings have been adequately insured, and secured as the property of the Church for ever.

Diocese of Nova Scotia.—The following appeal from a clergyman in this diocese, together with the Bishop's recommendation as appended, was submitted:—

"To the Venerable Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge:

"The Memorial of the Rev. D. C. Macdonald, Missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and of the Diocesan Church Society of the Diocese of Nova Scotia; showed:—

"That your memorialist is in charge of a district called Cumberland Mines, Nova Scotia, comprising about 500 square miles, in which he has seven centres for divine worship distant from his place of residence respectively, 9, 14, 15, 22, 24, 21, and 22 miles. In only two of these are churches built, in a third and fourth he uses places of worship open to all but Romanists. In one he is indebted to the courtesy of a Presbyterian, and in another to that of a Baptist congregation for the use of their meeting-houses. The seventh centre, however, is that on behalf of which your memorialist desires to crave the assistance of your venerable Society, viz. Spring Hill Mines. Three years ago there were but three dwellings and a Methodist meeting-house. Now there are about 700 people, composed chiefly of miners, many of whom are from the Scotch County of Pictou, and have their resident Presbyterian minister, and use the only available public hall. The Methodists have also a resident minister, and two meeting-houses. By the courtesy of the chairman of the trustees of one of these meeting-houses, your memorialist has until last week been able to maintain fortnightly morning service for the 100 or so church people, but the trustees as a body have now refused a longer use of their building. Last Sunday a school-house was lent for church service, but this is in such poor repair that it was closed entirely to scholars last winter, and is not therefore likely to be useful for service much longer. The evident duty is to erect a church, or part of a church, as soon as possible. A site is kindly offered, and your memorialist prays for pecuniary assistance from your venerable Society for the few church people in Spring Hill, lest they be deprived of the services of religion which they prize. The school-house was full on Sunday, and ten remained to the Holy Communion.

"Moreover, several large mining areas are owned in close proximity to the site, some by English companies, and when the railway now a course of construction to the shores of the bay of Fundy is complete (as it is expected to be next year), a large influx of English miners may be expected, for whom it is most desirable to provide church accommodation.

"Begging your favourable consideration of this statement, your memorialist has the honour to subscribe himself your faithful servant,

"DAVID C. MOORE.

"Amherst, N.S., September 15, 1875.

"I may add that Spring Hill, and indeed all the Mission, was part of the parish of Canon Townshend, who has years since asked your aid. I heartily endorse this application, for Mr. Moore's Mission being very extensive, and the population being of a class that cannot be expected to do much for themselves. Unless a church is built as proposed, the Dissenters will gain possession of the whole field.

"H. NOVA SCOTIA.

"Halifax, September 20, 1875.

"The church will cost between 300*l.* and 400*l.*, and very little can be expected from the people."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 50*l.* for the proposed new church, to meet an outlay of not less than 400*l.*, the Society's grant to be paid when the usual conditions have been fulfilled.

Diocese of Barbados.—The Rev. H. W. Laborde, Rural Dean, St. Vincent, West Indies, made no requests.

First. He stated that a grant of 25*l.* made at his request in 1873 for a building at Bellair could never be claimed, because the property had not been secured as Church property; and asked that this grant should be transferred to Jaunsey village, in St. Andrew's Parish.

Mr. Laborde wrote as follows:—

"I have lately opened a school and mission chapel in that village, and I have every reason to suppose that it will meet with success. I propose purchasing the land and room that we now occupy for $200, about 40*l.*, and then I shall be able to enlarge and reconstruct the whole building. If you will transfer the 25*l.* granted to me for Bellair, you will give me a great life. When the building is reconstructed I shall be able to minister the Lord's Supper, as it will be bona fide Church property."

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to allow of the transfer requested by Mr. Laborde.

Secondly. Mr. Laborde applied for a grant towards building a mission chapel at "Union and," one of the group of islands forming the "Grenadines."

"The former chapel was erected over thirty years ago, and, being only of rude material and attached, has succumbed to years.

"The people are wretchedly poor, and live hand to mouth. In the sugar-making season they migrate (the males) to Trinidad, and when the crops are over they return to their little island. They are most anxious to have their chapel restored, and do all in their power to urge on the work. They have burnt lime and wood (for sale for purchase of boards), and devote their daily labour in gathering stones and sending on the masons. They are truly in earnest, and require to be helped. I leave the matter after to-morrow to lay the 'Foundation stone,' for although the walls have progressed, they would not lay the 'corner-stone' without the Rural Dean.

"I entreat the Committee to grant 25*l.* at least to that chapel. The people have no ready cash, and cannot assist in purchasing materials for roof, &c., &c. The population of the island is about 500, and our average attendance on the Lord's day is 130, and in our day school 116.

"The land is our own, and any building put up thereon would be bona fide Church property.

"His Lordship, the Bishop, Dr. Mitchinson, has advanced them 10*l.* by way of encouragement."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 25*l.* for the completion of this Mission Chapel, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Labuan.—The Bishop of this diocese, who is in England, applied for a grant to enable him to train Native Students, with a view to their becoming catechists and clergymen in his diocese.

The Bishop's plan is as follows:—

The Bishop has in his Home School at Sarawak thirty-five baptized Chinese and Dyak boys, who are brought up from childhood in the Christian faith, a considerable proportion of whom might be prepared for catechists and clergy, had he the means of giving them sufficient education and supervision between the age of their leaving school and manhood. The Bishop proposes to the Society that it should maintain four or six of these young men in the house of the S.P.G. Missionary now being erected with accommodation for this purpose at Singapore, where they could take advantage of the superior secular instruction given at the Raffles Institution. Further, he proposes that six of those who are employed as catechists and sub-catechists at Dyak stations should come to headquarters at Sarawak for four months in the year for special instruction, their education being carried on in the interval by the clergymen of their respective stations. The cost of their board, &c., during this four months would be at the rate of 20*l.* per annum. This sum would be required by those at Singapore during the entire year.

The openings for the employment of good Native catechists and clergy in Borneo, the Straits Settlements, and amongst the Chinese in Malayan countries are numerous and increasing.

The Standing Committee recommended the Society that a grant should be made to the Bishop of 20*l.* per annum for each of four students of the first class, and 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum for each of six students of the second class; the grants to continue for three years—total, 360*l.*

This grant was made as recommended by the Standing Committee, the grant to be paid in half-yearly instalments when the Bishop shall have certified that the students, on whose behalf it is made, are going on entirely to his satisfaction.

Diocese of Gloucester and Bristol.—Bristol Cathedral College for Training Teachers for Middle Class Schools.—Canon Norris laid before the Committee a scheme, which had been sanctioned by the Endowed Schools Commissioners, for the establishment in close connexion with the Cathedral at Bristol, for the training on Church of England principles young men, with a view to their becoming Masters in Middle Class Schools.

There is, besides a building which has cost 2000*l.*, an endowment of 10,000*l.*, which provides 300*l.* a year towards the salaries of a Principal and of a Schoolmaster. These two officers, both clergymen, have been appointed.

The College is to consist of two departments, namely, the College for Students in Training, being at least seventeen years of age, under the management of a governing body, eleven in all, four of whom are laymen, consisting of the Bishop, the Dean and Chapter, and other members elected in a manner approved by the Commissioners; and the Old Choristers' School under the management of the Dean and Chapter, serving as a model or practising school for the college.

The College, as constituted by the scheme, is a Church of England Institution, with a conscience clause for day students.

Canon Norris wrote as follows:—

"Now it only remains to attract our first students for the college or senior department. The school, or junior department, will fill rapidly, our choristers being the nucleus. When once the college has proved its value as a place of training, it ought to be and will be self-supporting. With a view to the future, therefore, we fixed the fees at 60*l.* for board and lodging, and 20*l.* for tuition.

"But the market value of the training being improved, as yet our first set of students must have their fees lowered by way of Exhibitions."

The Dean and Chapter have no common funds out of which to grant Exhibitions, though it is likely that more than one of the members of that body will offer an Exhibition out of his private means, and Canon Norris appeals to the S.P.C.K. for eight Exhibitions for one year of 40*l.* each, in all 320*l.*

The following are the grounds on which Canon Norris bases his appeal. He writes,—

"1. So far as I can see, under God's providence, the future of middle class education—whether it be in the hands of Church-trained teachers or nondescript teachers—is at stake.

"2. If we succeed, I have reason to know that other cathedral chapters mean to follow our example; and thus the Church will pre-occupy this field of middle-school-teacher training, just as she did that of elementary-school-teachers, training thirty years ago. It is the glorious prerogative of the English Church (unlike continental churches herein) to anticipate what the nation needs in her highest interest, and stamp it with her own stamp.

"3. Our first set of students must be comparatively poor men; I hope, and intend that they shall be boarders from a distance. Once attracted and helped over a twelvemonth's, or better, over a two years' training it will be our fault if they do not so succeed in their after career, as to ensure us an ample supply of paying students hereafter.

"4. During the last few years the Endowed Schools' Commissioners have re-organized, or are re-organizing, some 300 decayed Grammar Schools for the middle classes. The newly constituted governors of these schools know not where to go for their teachers. At present they are perforce going on appointing untrained, unaccredited adventurers in the trade of teaching. On all hands I hear that they will gratefully come to us if we succeed."

In a subsequent letter Canon Norris said that there was every probability of the charge for board and lodging being reduced to 45*l.*, so that the total cost, including tuition, would be 60*l.* a year.

The Standing Committee recommended that a sum of 320*l.* be set apart, with a view of enabling them to give exhibitions to eight students of 20*l.* a year each for two years.

The recommendation of the Standing Committee was adopted.

Book Grants recommended by the Standing Committee.

Book Grants, Special and Ordinary, including some made on the responsibility of the Secretary during the vacation, and subsequently sanctioned by the Standing Committee, were agreed to.

Diocese of Exeter.—The Rev. J. G. Dangar, Principal of the Training College at Exeter, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books, to meet one-half of the expense of giving a book of the value of half-a-guinea to each student who should be placed in a first class in an examination in religious knowledge to be conducted by the Archbishops' Examiner, the other half of the cost to be provided by the Committee of the college.

This grant was made as applied for, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Rochester.—The Rev. A. S. Northey, Principal of the Hookerill Training Institution, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books not exceeding £l. in value, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the Committee of the Institution—the whole of the books to be given as prizes to those of the students who obtain a first class in the examination in religious knowledge.

This grant was made on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Oxford.—The Rev. Henry Lewis, Principal of the Culham Training College, asked for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 10l., to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of the Committee of the college—the whole of the books to be given as prizes to those of the students who shall be placed in the first class in an examination in religious knowledge.

This grant was made on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

Diocese of London.—Whitelands Training Institution.—The Rev. J. P. Faunthorpe, Principal, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to meet an equal expenditure in books on the part of the Committee of the Institution—the whole of the books to be given to those of the students who shall be placed in the first class at an examination just held in religious knowledge.

The grant was made as applied for, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Lincoln.—The Rev. J. Hays, Hon. Secretary of the Diocesan Board of Education, applied for two grants of S.P.C.K. books.

First, for books to the value of 15l. to be made to the Rev. D. S. Matthew, Inspector-in-Chief of Schools, to meet an equal grant for books made by the Diocesan Board of Education—the whole of the books to be given to Pupil-teachers and monitors who shall be placed in a first class in an examination in religious knowledge to be held on the 4th of December next.

Second, for a grant of books to the value of 5l., to be made to Mr. Hays himself to meet an equal grant for books made by the Diocesan Board of Education—the whole of the books to be given to children placed in a first class in a simultaneous examination in religious knowledge.

These two grants were made as applied for, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

Missions to Seamen.—Commander Dawson, who in July last obtained a large grant of tracts in foreign languages for distribution in the course of the year, at thirty-two seaports at which the Society for Missions to Seamen has agents, wrote to say that he had inadvertently omitted to apply for grants on behalf of foreign seamen at Milford Haven and on the Tees. He now applied for tracts for these two places in the following languages and numbers:—

	Milford Haven	Middlebrough
Italian .. .. .	1000	3000
Norwegian .. .	1000	3000
Swedish .. . .	1000	3000
German .. . . .	500	3000
French .. . . .	500	3000
Spanish .. . . .	500	1000
Finnish .. . . .	500	1000
Welsh .. . . .	3000	500

Commander Dawson added:—"I need hardly remind you that these tracts are the principal mode of communication which our agents have with the foreign seamen whom they visit in thousands at the various ports."

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant these tracts, &c., as asked for, to the value of 48l. 15s. 10d.

Libraries on Board the Peninsular and Oriental Steamers.—G. J. Philip Smith, Esq., of No. 65, Gloucester-place, Hyde Park, applied for a grant of the Society's books, with a view to their being placed on board the steam ships of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Ship Company, for the use of the engineers, stewards, petty officers, and head sailors; the books to form part of libraries which will be regularly exchanged.

The Standing Committee having satisfied themselves that there was a sufficient organization for the care and exchange of the libraries, recommended that S.P.C.K. books to the value of 25l., should be placed at the disposal of Mr. Smith, for the purpose named.

This grant was made.

Grant recommended by the Standing Committee, of which Notice was given at the last Meeting.

Diocese of Capetown.—In accordance with notice given at the last Monthly Meeting, and for reasons set forth at length in the Monthly Report for October, the Standing Committee proposed a grant of 750l. for the restoration and enlargement of the Native College, Zonnebloem, on the scale named in Mr. Peters' letter of the 6th July, 1875, to the Bishop of Capetown; the Society's grant to be paid when the Bishop shall have certified that sufficient has been raised, inclusive of the Government loan of 1000l., to complete the proposed restoration and enlargement, and to set the College free from all liability, except so far as the Government loan of 1000l. is concerned; and further that the buildings have been properly insured.

This grant was made, subject to the fulfilment of all the usual conditions.

Reports and Notices from the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Antigua.—The Standing Committee reported that the Rev. Thomas Owen, writing from Leaton Lodge, Stourbridge, 28th October, 1875, and acting as Commissary for the Bishop of Antigua, applied for a grant from Canning's Fund for the passage-money to the West Indies, of the Rev. H. R. Holme, who has been accepted for the parishes of St. Anthony and St. Patrick, Montserrat.

Mr. Owen wrote of the people of these parishes as follows:—

"They are a very willing and generous people, but not wealthy. They contribute regularly to the maintenance of their pastor; but I do not think they could easily raise the money needed for passage without injury to the work to be done among themselves."

On a previous occasion 30l. had been allotted by the Committee for the passage of a Clergyman to take charge of the same district, but he did not go, and the grant was cancelled.

The Committee reported that they had agreed to grant 30l. out of Canning's Fund for the passage of Mr. Holme.

Diocese of Winchester.—St. James's, Bermondsey.—The Standing Committee reported that Mr. Allan, the Incumbent of this church, when making an application for a grant in aid of building a mission room for Sunday School and other purposes, had written as follows:—

"If I were able at once to open three Mission churches in different parts of my parish, it would not in the least diminish the absolute necessity of my having a room which I can use constantly without paying rent for it, for Bible Classes, Devotional Meetings, Mothers' Meetings, Choir practising, and many other purposes. At present, and until I can build such a room, I am using, and must continue to use an underground room in my house, 12½ feet wide, by 18 long, and 7½ feet in height. In this room I have constantly to cram about fifty people, and am prevented from inviting the attendance of others because I cannot accommodate them. In the evening I can hire the schools at 5s. or 7s. 6d. per night, but in the day-time, when the Mother Meetings are held, this is of course impossible. My Missionary Curate and I are anxiously looking out for a site on which to put up a Mission church, but we have hitherto failed, and even if we had succeeded, it would be in a different part of the parish, and would not in the least relieve me of my present difficulty.

"During the nine months I have been in the parish, the communicants have increased fourfold, the congregation from a mere handful, to at least 1800 on Sunday evenings, and the Sunday Schools, large as they are, have become so densely crowded that I have had, since I made my application to the Society, to rent another room for a branch Sunday School, and yet every turn I find myself crippled and cramped for want of such a room as I desire to build. I have not a single gentleman in my parish to look to for aid, and the aid which I believe you are aware I receive from Surbiton is confined simply and solely to 150l. for curates. The plot of ground upon which I propose to build, though too small for any other purpose, is yet admirably adapted for this special object. It fronts one of the principal arteries of my parish, Blue Anchor Lane, and, although consecrated ground, it has from the time of its consecration down to the present day been devoted to the growth of cabbages (and this originally with Episcopal consent), so that I think it would be highly desirable to redeem it for sacred purposes. Unless the Committee of the S.P.C.K. will come to my rescue, I am helpless, and must continue to meet my parishioners in the unhealthy old day house."

The Bishop of Guildford, as Archdeacon, wrote:—

"I do not see any reason why the S.P.C.K. should not assist Mr. Allan in his application for help towards the erection of a Sunday School and Mission room."

The Standing Committee reported that they had agreed, in consideration of the exceptionally necessitous condition of the parish, to grant 80l. in this case, on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Winchester.—The Rev. Allen Edwards, junior, Incumbent of All Saints, Lambeth (to whom, as the Committee reported at the last monthly meeting, a grant of 12l. 12s. had been made towards making up the total rent of 16l. 16s. for a School-board school for Sunday School purposes, with accommodation for 300 children) had since explained that his school had grown, that he was now renting accommodation for 504 children at a charge of 39l. per annum, and that he was further making application for accommodation for 252 more children, at about 22l., so that rent would be near 70l.

"It is simply impossible," Mr. Edwards wrote, "to raise this in the parish. It is poor; 80% of my people are workmen: the rest are unable to do much, and nothing but the strongest sense of duty would have led me to incur this financial liability."

Under these circumstances, the Committee reported that they had agreed to allow 4s. instead of 12l. 12s. only for one year.

Diocese of Bloemfontein.—The Standing Committee reported that the Bishop of this diocese had asked for a grant towards purchasing and adapting a house to serve as a Theological College, in which six European students and Native students might live under the charge of a clergyman, and near the Bishop. Towards carrying out his scheme for training young men for Holy Orders in his diocese, the Bishop wants—

- 1st. Funds for the house.
- 2nd. Some grant in aid for the support of students.
- 3rd. An endowment or grant for salary of theological Tutor.

Such a house as would be suitable the Bishop can secure for 2500l., 1000l. of which would or additions and adaptation. This would be cheaper than building.

Of the required sum of 2500*l.*, 800*l.* is already in hand, and the Bishop is confident that he will get as much as 700*l.* more chiefly from old Cuddesdon Students. He asks earnestly for 600*l.*

The Standing Committee added that the Bishop had attended their Meeting, and given all particulars of his work, and they now gave notice that in December they would propose a grant of 1000*l.* towards purchasing and adapting the house to serve as a Theological College.

Further, the Committee reported that—for the endowment of a Theological Tutorship, the Bishop asked for a grant of 500*l.*, on condition of its raising an equal sum. The Bishop could begin at once with four students of European extraction, and four native students. The Bishop has had personal experience of the work of training when he was Vice-Principal of Cuddesdon, and takes a deep interest in it. He proposes to begin in a very quiet and undemonstrative way, and has no doubt about being able to procure the material to work upon if he can procure the necessary machinery.

The Bishop, who is in this country only till the 10th of December, is most anxious to find a good man as Theological Tutor before he leaves England, and the endowment of 1000*l.*, though it will not go far, would, he says, be a very great help, and would be something to work upon. The Bishop added,—

"The difficulty of finding men at home already ordained, and willing to go out, is very great. We must train them ourselves for our work, if that work is to be kept up. This conviction has been forced upon me by my present visit, as well as by what I have learned of the circumstances and special requirements of our Missionary fields of labour.

"In the very nature of things such an institution does not tell immediately in the way of visible results, nor would it commend itself as an object of peculiar or exciting interest to any except well-instructed and thoughtful Churchmen, so that the promotion of such schemes must depend, in large measure, upon such great societies as the S.P.C.K. and the S.P.G."

The Standing Committee gave notice that in December they would propose a grant of 600*l.* to meet an equal sum from other sources, the whole 1000*l.* to be permanently and securely invested in a manner satisfactory to the Standing Committee for the endowment of a Tutorship in Theology for the diocese of Bloemfontein.

The Bishop had also asked for a grant in aid of the maintenance of four native young men as students in theology, with a view to their being ultimately ordained; and the Standing Committee stated that they had agreed to reserve part of the money at their disposal for the purchase of the sum of 800*l.*, so that they might be in position to grant at the rate of 25*l.* a year for three years for each of four students whose names and ages were to be submitted by the Bishop; the Society's grant to be paid in half-yearly instalments, upon the Bishop certifying at the student in behalf of whose education was made was going on entirely to his satisfaction.

Tract Committee.—The Standing Committee formed the meeting that the Rev. Dr. Francis Hessey had expressed his wish to be relieved of his duties as a member of the Tract Committee, upon which he has served for many years.

The Standing Committee gave notice that in conformity with Rule XLII., they would at the next Monthly Meeting propose that the Rev. M. Fuller, Vicar of Bexley, and formerly Editorial Secretary of the Society, be elected a member of the Tract Committee, to take the place of the Rev. Dr. Francis Hessey.

Motion of which Notice was given at the last Meeting.

The Rev. H. A. Jeffreys, in accordance with notice given at the last Monthly General Meeting, proposed the following Resolutions:—

"That Diocesan Boards of Education be empowered to open Prize Accounts with this Society in the name of their principal Secretary, notwithstanding Rule XXVI."

"That the selection of books granted to Diocesan Boards for Prizes in Religious Knowledge be not confined to Catalogue C, but be extended to all the Society's Catalogues."

Mr. Jeffreys preferred putting his Resolutions separately.

No. I. was seconded by the Rev. C. Miller, and put from the chair and lost.

No. II. was, by desire of Mr. Jeffreys, not put.

Notice of Motion for the next Meeting.

The Rev. Charles Miller gave notice that at the next Monthly General Meeting, to be held on Tuesday, December 7, he would propose,—

"That it be referred to the Tract Committee to consider the propriety of making such arrangements as may be necessary, to procure the republication of the English Version of Judge Fortescue's Treatise De laudibus legum Angliæ, and further to consider the propriety of requesting the Queen to permit the Society to dedicate the republication to her Majesty, as the Patron of the Society and Sovereign of England; and also to consider the propriety of requesting Lord Clermont, who has recently printed the whole of Judge Fortescue's works, and has presented them to the British Museum, the Bodleian Library at Oxford, and, it is believed, other public libraries, to act as the editor, subject to the ordinary practice of the Tract Committee."

Letter of Thanks, &c.

"St. Paul's College, Hong Kong,
"September 9th, 1875."

"My dear Mr. Swabey,—I write now to ask if the Committee of the S.P.C.K. will kindly allow me the first instalment of the grant made to me on the 5th of May last year for six Native students. I enclose the names, ages, &c., of the six now with me. I purpose taking more to live with me, so that in case of any of these youths failing, either from want of health or other cause, I may have another at once to take that place on your list. I am going to do this in faith, and hope that the necessary funds will be forthcoming. These youths have not been with me a year, but by the time you can answer this letter, it will not be far off a year, and besides it would be a great convenience to me, if I could have the money not later than December. I have been advancing the money for their support out of other funds, which this year are exceptionally taxed in consequence of the state in which I found the building. I have commenced a day school, which is attended by between fifty and sixty lads. This has been attended with great expense, as every single item of ordinary school material and furniture has had to be provided. The students spend the forenoon studying with a Chinese Native teacher; in the afternoon they are under my charge, and I generally manage to give them about two hours, half an hour of which they are present with the day scholars, listening to the Bible lesson that I during that time give to the whole school. The course of study for the students for the present includes the Prayer Book, Scripture History, the Chinese Classics, and Christian Evidences. On Sunday I give them two services, the sermons at which take the form rather of earnest conversation than of preaching. The dialect is, of course, a great difficulty to me as yet, but I am learning it, or trying to speak it for about five hours every day, and in this way I hope soon to feel at ease in it.

"I do not know that I have any more to add. The Committee will, of course, remember that everything here is only beginning. These youths are gathered from other Missions, and there are many things that I would like to see different in them. I will do my utmost to train them for the work before them, and trust God will add His blessing.

"With reference to the future employment of these youths in Mission work, I quite hope before they are ready to have a few English Missionaries in different stations with whom to place them. The best way of working is always by the union of the foreign and the native elements. This opens up another department in St. Paul's College, involving no small amount of responsibility in the matter of funds, &c., but, God helping me, I will not rest until this house is the head-quarters of many Mission Stations in the interior. With kind regards,

"Believe me, yours most faithfully,

"J. S. BURDON (Bishop).

"P.S.—You will perhaps be a little surprised to find that I have returned to my original way of signing my name. I have done so because on my arrival here I found it was a mistake to assume the title of Bishop of Victoria after it had been withdrawn by the revocation of the letters patent, and no further legislation was intended. It caused misunderstanding on all sides. I have been put in legal possession of the house and college buildings, and the way is now more than ever open to me for working as a Chinese Missionary Bishop. Please return to your first method of address.

"If my request is granted, and the first instalment of 150*l.* is paid to me for the year ending December 31, 1875, will you kindly forward the money on December 15 to my agents, Messrs. Dickenson and Stewart, Mansion House Buildings, 3, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., and advise me by return of mail to this effect. I will then draw it here on that day.

"Names of Native Christian Students at present residing in St. Paul's College, Hong Kong, who are being trained under Bishop Burdon, with a view to their being ultimately ordained as Missionaries to their fellow-countrymen.

"1. Lai (surname), San Shan (personal name), twenty years of age, baptized about four years ago in connexion with the London Missionary Society.

"2. Pün Yit K'au, nineteen years of age, baptized about three years ago in connexion with the Basle Missionary Society.

"3. Yit Kái Mingi, fifteen years of age, baptized in infancy in connexion with the London Missionary Society.

"4. Pün Kas Yan, twenty years of age, baptized in infancy in connexion with the Basle Missionary Society.

"5. Lám Yan San, eighteen years of age, baptized in childhood in connexion with the London Missionary Society.

"6. Ho Loi Shing, twenty-five years of age, baptized about nine years ago in connexion with the London Missionary Society.

"There were others whom I had in hand for a time, and on whom I spent a good deal, but they have left for one cause and another. In beginning a thing of this kind, it is only to be expected that there would be a little irregularity at first. The above six are living with me in the college as board fide Students, with a view to their being hereafter Missionaries to their fellow-countrymen, if only I can get support for them, which I think is sure to come, if they turn out good men.

"The College began operations in February, but I hope that the Committee will make the first year end with December 31st, 1875. If you could hand the money over to my Agents, whose names I have given in my letter accompanying this statement, on or before December 15th, I could draw it here on that day (if you advise me to that effect by return mail), and it would enable me to balance my accounts properly at the end of the year.

"J. S. BURDON (Bishop).

"September 11th, 1875."

SOCIETY FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE GOSPEL IN FOREIGN PARTS.

The Monthly Meeting of the Society was held at 19, Delahay-street, on Friday, October 15, at 2 p.m., Bishop Piers Claughton in the chair.

1. Read Minutes of last Meeting.

2. The Treasurers presented a statement of the Society's income to the end of September.

3. The Secretary stated that the Standing Committee had transacted few matters of importance during the recess; that they had presented the following address to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales on his departure to India :—

"MAY IT PLEASE YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESS,—

"We, the President, Vice-Presidents, and Members of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, ask permission to approach your Royal Highness on the eve of your departure to India, for the purpose of bringing under your notice the efforts which are made by ourselves and others in order to gather in the people of India within the fold of the Church of Christ.

"We call to mind that in the Royal Address to the inhabitants of India, in 1858, her Majesty, while disclaiming alike the right and the desire to impose her own convictions on any of her subjects, at the same time proclaimed to the people of India her own firm reliance on the truth of Christianity, and acknowledged with gratitude the solace of religion.

"In loyal consistency with her Majesty's declaration, English Christians, and specially Missionaries, claim nothing from the State beyond that equal and impartial protection of the law which all enjoy. It has been their aim to exercise a spiritual influence by a Christian example, by instruction and persuasion. And the effect, in the opinion of impartial observers, has been 'a great and silent revolution' in India, so that the vast populations placed under English rule feel 'a new vigour infused into their stereotyped life,' and they are prepared to be in every way better men and better citizens of the great Empire in which they dwell.

"The number of natives in India who profess to be Christians is now reckoned at nearly a million and a half. The presence of your Royal Highness, representing a Christian Queen, will be warmly welcomed by all classes, and certainly not least by those Native Christians whose loyal attachment to the throne of Great Britain has been proved in the hour of trial. We venture to hope that short as is the time allowed for the visit to India it may afford opportunities for the recognition by your Royal Highness of the services of the Missionaries and of the value and importance of this increasing class of her Majesty's subjects—bound as they are by a special tie to Christian England.

"Your Royal Highness's ancestor who sat on the throne of Great Britain in 1717 and 1727, was pleased to write letters under his own hand to the Missionaries in South India, assuring them of the favour and sympathy with which he watched the progress of their good work. We feel sure that the advancement of the Christian Faith is not less dear to your Royal Highness than it was to princes in former times.

"We add a list of the places in which the foundation of a Native Christian Church has been laid by Missionaries of the Church of England in connexion with this Society—some of which we believe will be in the route of your Royal Highness.

"In conclusion, we beg leave to offer to your Royal Highness the assurance of our thankfulness that it has been found feasible to give to our fellow-subjects in India the benefit of a personal visit from your Royal Highness. It is our earnest prayer that God may prosper the wise and good designs with which the journey is undertaken, and may keep your Royal Highness under His protection, and restore you in health and safety to our native land.

"Signed in behalf of the Society,

"A. C. CANTUAR,

"President."

To this the following reply had been received :—

"Marlborough House, Pall Mall, S.W.

9th October, 1875.

"MY LORD ARCHBISHOP,

"I am desired by the Prince of Wales to return his Royal Highness's hearty and sincere thanks to your Grace, as President, and to the Vice-Presidents and Members of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, for your address on the occasion of his departure for the East.

"Her Majesty having announced to the people of India, on the occasion your Grace has referred to, 'her firm reliance on the truths of Christianity and the solace of religion,' his Royal Highness, entertaining the same sentiments as her Majesty, wishes also to add his admiration for those disinterested men who pursue their work, claiming nothing for themselves but legal protection from our Government, and devoting themselves to making their fellow-subjects in India better men, and more attached to the great Empire under whose protection they dwell.

"His Royal Highness desires to assure your Grace that no opportunity will be omitted that may present itself in the course of his travels to give encouragement to those earnest men thus working in so great a cause.

"However rapid or slow may be their progress, from causes which have been so long at work, his Royal Highness is satisfied that their honest endeavours, with truth for their guide, must prevail at last.

"His Royal Highness thanks your Grace for furnishing him with a list of those places where he will find fresh evidences of successful Missionary exertions.

"In conclusion, his Royal Highness desires me to add his grateful acknowledgments for the prayers of the Society for his safety and health during his absence from England.

"I have the honour to be,

"My Lord Archbishop,

"Your Grace's most obedient Servant,

"W. KNOLLYS, General,

"Controller of H.R.H. Household."

The Secretary also stated that the Rev. Dr. Caldwell had returned to Edeyengoody, accompanied by Mr. A. Margoschis, of St. Augustine's College; that Mr. Isaacson, of St. Augustine's College, had left for Calcutta by the same ship; and Mr. Hoppner had left Germany, via Trieste, for Calcutta; and that Mrs. Percival, widow of the late Rev. 5. Resolved that a sum of 300*l*. out of the reserved allowance (800*l*. per annum) for the maintenance of additional Missionaries in Calcutta, be placed at the disposal of the Calcutta Diocesan Committee, to enable them to relieve the necessity which presses on the Chota Nagpur Mission.

8. The Secretary stated that at the next Meeting, being a Quarterly Meeting, the following proposals would be submitted to the Board :—

"That Bye-laws V. and VI. stand as follows :—
"V. That other members of the Standing Committee, not exceeding twenty-four in number, shall be elected by the Society out of the incorporated members. It shall be the duty of the Standing Committee, when recommending the names of persons for such election, to frame their recommendations, so far as they shall be practicable, with a view to one half such non-official members being qualified by personal acquaintance with some colony or dependency (or by residence in foreign parts) to aid the Society with counsel and information concerning its foreign work.

"VI. That of such non-official members of the Standing Committee, the three who have served longest upon the Committee, and of the remainder the three who, having been members of the Committee for one complete year previous to the Monthly Meeting in November, have, during that period, attended the fewest meetings of the Board, and of the Standing Committee and Sub-Committees thereof, or of any Special Committee, shall retire at the Annual Meeting in February. If any doubt shall arise under this rule which member of those who have served longest shall retire, it shall be the one who has attended the fewest meetings; and if any doubt shall arise which of those who have attended the fewest meetings shall retire, it shall be the one who during the year previous to the November meeting has served the shortest time on the Committee. Of the six retiring members three only shall be eligible to supply the vacancies caused by their retirement."

9. The Secretary read letters from the Bishop of Capetown, August 9; Rev. W. Maule, Secretary at Bombay, July 30; Rev. G. Bisher, Ramnad, August 20; Bishop Kestell-Cornish, Madagascar, April 21, reporting the Presentation of the Society's gift of a Bible and Prayer Book to the Queen of Madagascar.

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

General Committee, September 18th.—Letters having been read from Sierra Leone, mentioning the death of Mrs. Cheetham, the wife of the Bishop of Sierra Leone, the support graciously vouchsafed to the Bishop under this trial, and the great esteem and affection which Mrs. Cheetham had gained among all classes of the population, the Committee desired to express their deep condolence with the Bishop of Sierra Leone, under the heavy bereavement with which it had pleased God to visit him, their deep sense of the great loss which the Society and the Sierra Leone Church have thus sustained, and their thankfulness to God, both for the abundant grace bestowed upon their departed sister, and in the support so wonderfully granted to the Bishop himself; and their earnest prayer that the Bishop might find the consolations of God abundant in his own soul, and that he might more than ever enjoy tokens of the Divine presence and blessing in the great work which he is carrying on.

Reference having been made to the Minutes of the Committee of March 23, 1875, directing the Secretaries to make search for a trained European schoolmaster, to assist in the work at Cotta, Ceylon, an application was presented from Mr. W. Smith, of Stainland, Halifax, for the above-named post, and testimonials to his intellectual and spiritual qualifications. The Secretaries having stated that the testimonials were satisfactory in every respect, that they had had a personal interview with Mr. Smith, and believed him to be a true man of God, willing to devote himself to Missionary work in Ceylon, the Committee appointed Mr. Smith to assist in the work of the Society at Cotta, and directed arrangements to be made for his being sent thither as soon as possible.

The Bishop of Waiapu having made an application for pecuniary aid from the Society for a superior Native Girls' School at Napier, the Committee authorized the Rev. R. Burrows, on obtaining the approval of the New Zealand Conference, to make a grant to the Bishop of Waiapu, of a sum not exceeding 100*l.* per annum, in aid of the Native Girls' School at Napier.

General Committee (Special), September 27th.—The Secretaries having stated that a suggestion had been made of the propriety of addressing a letter to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, on the occasion of his visit to India, and that the Archbishop of Canterbury, Vice-Patron of the Society, had kindly signified his readiness to present such a letter to his Royal Highness in the event of its being desired by the Committee, the draft of an Address, which had been submitted to the Archbishop, was read and considered. Canon Duckworth, Chaplain to the Prince of Wales, being present, assured the Committee of his deep interest in the work of the Society, and of the pleasure with which he had listened to the proposed Address, and expressed his earnest desire to turn the visit to media to good account. The Committee gladly concurred in the suggestion to address a letter to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales; the Address as read and amended was adopted, and the offer of the Archbishop to present it to his Royal Highness on their behalf was thankfully accepted.

The Secretaries having stated that information had been received of the death, on the 22nd September, of the Rev. Thomas Vores, for thirty-three years the devoted incumbent of St. Mary's-in-the-Castle, Hastings, and for two years, from 1839 to 1841, a Secretary of this Society, the following resolution was passed: That the Committee desire to record their high and affectionate regard for the memory of the Rev. Thomas Vores, as they call to mind his rich and cultivated powers consecrated for so many years, and with such simplicity of purpose to the service of his Lord, and their deep sympathy with the surviving members of his family in their loss."

LAW.

COURT OF ARCHES.

(Before Sir R. J. Phillimore.)

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 20.

JAMES V. ROBERTS.

R. JEUNE applied to the Dean to accept letters of request from the Bishop of Bangor to institute proceedings under the Church Discipline Act against the Rev. William A. Roberts, rector of Landdyfran, in the diocese of Bangor. The charge was drunkenness on four occasions. The Bishop was patron of the Living, and, on application to the Archbishop of Canterbury, a commission had been issued. The Commissioners had reported that there was a prima facie case for further inquiry, and the Bishop of Bangor had forwarded to the official principal of the Court of Arches notice that a suit might be commenced against the rector for drunkenness.

The DEAN of ARCHES accepted the letters of request, and directed a citation to be issued against the defendant to answer the charges. Order accordingly.

THE YEovil ORGAN CASE.—REV. G. WYNDHAM v. COLE.

This case (see Ecclesiastical Gazette, May 1875, p. 150) was discussed in regard to the responsive allegation filed by the defendant, Mr. Henry Cole, organist of St. John's Church, Yeovil, Somerset, denying the right of the incumbent, Mr. Wyndham, without the power of the bishop, to prevent him playing a voluntary on the organ.

Mr. ARTHUR CHARLES, with whom was Mr. B. SHAW, appeared for Mr. Wyndham; Mr. BAYFORD for Mr. Cole.

In support of the opposition to the responsive allegation it was contended that an incumbent had a right to control the playing of the organ, both before and after the service.

Mr. BAYFORD alleged that it was arbitrary conduct on the part of the incumbent.

Sir R. J. PHILLIMORE held that a clergyman had a right to control the playing of the organ, and an application might be made to the Bishop if necessary.

Mr. BAYFORD wished the whole matter to be decided without further litigation, and addressed himself to the subject of costs.

Mr. CHARLES applied for costs.

Sir R. J. PHILLIMORE thought it better that all further litigation should end. He had already expressed an opinion that the incumbent had a right to control the playing of the organ. He would order a motion to be issued that Mr. Cole abstain from playing without permission of the incumbent, and condemned him in the costs of the proceedings.

THE REV. JOHN DURST v. MASTERS.

This was a case respecting the removal of a wooden cross by the defendant, a churchwarden of St. Margaret's, King's Lynn, which had been placed by the incumbent, Mr. Durst, on the re-table behind the communion table. The cross, it was alleged, had been placed in the church without a faculty, and he had removed it without a faculty. Finding he had not the authority he submitted to the Court, but prayed that the cross might not be restored to be placed on the re-table.

Dr. WALTER PHILLIMORE appeared for the clergyman; and Dr. TRISTRAM for the churchwarden (Mr. MASTERS), who wished the question decided whether the cross, which was movable, was to be placed in the same position.

The DEAN of ARCHES ordered the allegation to be amended which pleaded the cross to be illegal.

RESIGNATION OF SIR R. J. PHILLIMORE, OFFICIAL PRINCIPAL OF THE ARCHES COURT OF CANTERBURY.

At the conclusion of the business of the Court, Sir R. J. Phillimore took his leave of the bar, on his appointment as one of the judges of the High Court of Justice under the new Judicature Act. He said that during the eight years he had held the office, it had been his arduous duty to adjudicate upon cases of grave and unusual importance to the Church. He had endeavoured to apply sound ecclesiastical principles to the cases, and had spared neither pains nor research. He had the satisfaction of resigning the chair, knowing that he had decided every case that was ready to be heard.

Dr. TRISTRAM expressed the thanks of the bar, and of the proctors, for the great readiness, consideration, and courtesy they had received from his Lordship.

Sir R. J. PHILLIMORE said he had been greatly assisted in the discharge of his duties by the readiness of the bar and the profession.

He then retired from the court.

DEDUCTIONS FROM TITHE RENT-CHARGE.

To the Editor of the "Ecclesiastical Gazette."

SIR,—T. H. C.'s argument is very good, as far as it goes, but the land-owner is not the true correlative of the Incumbent, but of the Patron.

From a true (assessment) point of view the tenant farmer and the Incumbent should be rated alike.

The fallacy of V.'s argument lies in confounding the Patron with the Incumbent, the Advowson with the Benefice.

It is said that a farm of 200*l.* a year rental, and a Living of 200*l.* a year, were sold in the same parish for 4000*l.* and 1200*l.* respectively. V. contends that the Incumbent's labours must be valued and added to the 1200*l.*, and then be rated (in simple justice) as the 4000*l.* farm.

This is not what is done, but what we over-taxed Incumbents desire. We ask for the same deductions as are allowed to the tenant farmer. The true reason why the Patron of the 200*l.* Living only gave 1200*l.* for it, while he was willing to give 4000*l.* for a farm of 200*l.* a year rental, is this: the purchaser of the Advowson only buys the right to present (in perpetuity) to the Living of 200*l.* a year. Would he be willing to give 4000*l.* for the 200*l.* (rental) farm, if he only bought the right to present the farm to some one (including himself) as his freehold for life, subject to the performance of certain laborious duties? The purchaser of the 200*l.* farm is not merely its patron, he has a beneficial interest therefrom of 200*l.* a year unconditionally. The purchaser of the Living of 200*l.* a year can get no beneficial interest therefrom, except by the performance of certain laborious duties, even if he present himself to the Living.

Again, only the rental of the farm is rated to local burdens, which rental represents the land-owner's interest of his 4000*l.* In like manner, only the interest of the amount at which the Advowson is purchased or valued should be rated to local burdens, and be paid by the occupier. The farmer pays no rates of his own. The amount of produce or value absorbed in the maintenance of himself, his family and household escapes scot-free, because his labour is considered as a set-off, its value a fair deduction from the net income of the farm. Just so should the Incumbent be entitled to claim a like deduction, or at least an abatement equivalent to the yearly value of his labours, though, in simple justice, he ought only to pay value on the yearly interest of the capital sunk in the Advowson.

R. M. E.

PAYMENT OF TITHE.

To the Editor of the "Ecclesiastical Gazette."

CAN any of your readers inform me whether, after due notice given, tithe-payers are bound to attend at a convenient time and place stated in the notice; or whether, if they do not so attend and pay their tithes, the tithe-owner is bound to send a messenger to their residence for the tithe? The Tithe Acts do not appear to be sufficiently express on this point.

VICAR.

RATING OF TITHE RENT-CHARGES.

To the Editor of the "Ecclesiastical Gazette."

SIR,—I cannot admit T. H. C.'s answer. If the landlord has duties to all employed on his estate over and above what the law can enforce, so has the parson to his parishioners. That parson who contents himself with residing nine months in the year, and, either in person or by deputy, reading the Church Service and a sermon twice on Sunday, baptizing, marrying and burying when required, visiting the sick when he is sent for, and discharging all other duties, if any, which can be enforced by law, is doing about as much to avert disendowment as an absentee landlord was doing to avert what has happened in Ireland. So again the balance turns out to be true. As far as the law is concerned, a farm is paid for in money, a benefice partly in money, and the balance in compulsory labour; and extra-legal duties fall at least as heavily on the tithe-owner as on the land-owner. Besides, if the parson is not to pay the full amount of his own rates, who is? The dissenting farmers and shopkeepers, I suppose—a method of church defence which I commend to all whom it may concern.

INCOME TAX. LICENSED CURATES.

To the Editor of the "Ecclesiastical Gazette."

SIR,—I find that many of my friends who are Licensed Curates are charged by the assessors of their parishes upon their stipends to the income tax. I have induced them to appeal, and in all cases with success. By the original Act, Licensed Curates are classed with, and in the same position as, annuitants, &c. The Rectors paying the stipends may deduct the tax from the stipend. But whether they do so or not (and in many cases they pay the whole stipend from kind feeling), the Curate is not liable to assessment. He may also obtain a return of the tax if he has been unjustly charged on his stipend.

(From the London Gazette.)

Tuesday, October 26, 1875.

At the Court at Balmoral, the 26th day of October, 1875.

Present.

The Queen's most Excellent Majesty in council.

It is this day ordered by her Majesty in Council that the Convocations of the Provinces of Canterbury and York be prorogued from the day which the same now stand prorogued to Monday, the 16th day of December, 1875; and Right Hon. the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain do cause writs to be prepared and issued in usual manner for proroguing the Convocations accordingly.

METROPOLIS.

The Bishop of London's Visitation.—The Bishop of London commenced his second quadrennial Visitation in St. Paul's, on Monday, 25th October, when all the clergy of the diocese were invited to Holy Communion, the sermon being preached by the Rev. W. D. MacLagan, Vicar of St. Martin's, from Ephesians iv. 12, "For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ." Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, after morning service, the churchwardens of the several parishes and districts appeared before the Bishop and made their presentments. Amongst these were presentments made by the churchwardens of St. Vedast, Foster-lane, Cheap-side, as also by the churchwardens of St. Mary-le-Strand, complaining of Ritualistic practices in these churches. The Bishop said it was very right on the part of the churchwardens to make such representations, but he reminded them that under the Public Worship Regulation Act, which was now law, his powers had been to a very considerable extent curtailed. It must rest with the parishioners who might feel that they have cause of complaint, to take proceedings under the new Act, which was simply intended to provide a cheaper and more rapid process in dealing with all such questions as might arise.

On Friday, after the Litany, the Bishop delivered his charge to the assembled clergy of the diocese, all of whom had been cited to attend.

In the course of his charge, the Bishop spoke at some length upon "Auricular" and what had been called "Sacramental Confession," and said that to those who remember the theology and practice of our Church for the last three hundred years, and who are aware of the fearful evils with which auricular confession has at least been credited, it may well seem incredible that such teaching should find place and acceptance in the Reformed Church of England in the wane of the nineteenth century. Speaking of the Public Worship Regulation Act of last year, the Bishop traced the growth of the independence of the parochial clergy of episcopal control, and pointed out the necessity for some more powerful restraining influence than the Bishop's forum domesticum, and for some shorter and less expensive and more effectual tribunals in the last resort than the Diocesan Court, the defects of which had led to prosecutions for breach of rubric or the introduction of unauthorized ritual, being undertaken almost entirely by associations, and assuming the form of a struggle between two ecclesiastical parties contending for the triumph of systems of doctrine under the cover of questions of ritual. He ventured to believe that the power given to the Bishops would not be used partially or harshly. To defend, not to vex; to balance with a steady hand the rights of parishioners and clergy; to discourage frivolous personal and party complaints while requiring obedience to the plain, distinct, and declared law of the Church, of which bishops, clergy, and laity were alike members,—that was the difficult duty imposed by the Public Worship Act on the bishops. Might God give them grace to discharge it wisely and well!

St. Paul's Cathedral.—An influential meeting, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor, was held at the Mansion House on the 2nd inst., for the raising of a fund for furnishing St. Paul's Cathedral with a peal of bells and chimes for striking the quarter hours. "There was no church of its rank," the Dean said, "on this side of the Alps which was so deficient in the matter of bells as St. Paul's. He would confidently leave the matter to the citizens and the public, and be assured that the capitular body of St. Paul's would gladly join in the work." On the motion of Sir Edmund Beckett, Q.C., a resolution was passed that it was desirable that a peal of bells should be supplied to St. Paul's Cathedral, and, in addition, a set of chimes.

PROVINCIAL.

Appointment of a Chaplain to the Newport, Monmouthshire, Union.—The resolution to appoint a Chaplain to the Newport Union and the Caerleon Industrial Schools was carried at a meeting of the Guardians by a majority of 28 against 12. The opposition was based upon a memorial from a number of Nonconformist ministers in the town with reference to this matter, stating that in their opinion the appointment of a successor to the late Rev. W. Phillips was unnecessary and undesirable. They were willing to render their services gratuitously by preaching on Sundays, and visiting on week-days to such an extent as the spiritual needs of the inmates of the workhouse might require. They submitted that that course was the only one consistent with the principle of religious equality, and it was a course pursued by many of the unions of England and Wales. If the Guardians approved of their proposal, they would submit a plan for carrying it out.

Diocese of Ripon.—Inscriptions on Tombstones.—The Rev. T. Whitney, Incumbent of Marsden, near Huddersfield, having refused to allow Mr. David Hoyle, of New York, to have cut on the gravestone of his father, in Marsden Churchyard, the inscription "Requiescat in pace," an appeal was made to the Bishop of Ripon. The following reply from the bishop has been received by Mr. Hoyle:—"I am truly sorry to find myself unable to comply with your request. I cannot sanction the inscription on a tombstone, 'Requiescat in pace.' I need not remind you that this is, in fact, a prayer for the dead. All true Protestants believe that the state of the departed is fixed the moment after death. The souls of the faithful are in joy and felicity, and do not need our prayers. The inscription which you refer to is constantly used by Roman Catholics, and is quite in harmony with Roman Catholic doctrine. It may be found in some Protestant churchyards, but this is rarely the case, and the fact that it is sometimes met with is no defence for adopting an expression which is both misleading and erroneous."

With reference to the above, attention has been called to the case of BRECKS v. WOOLFREY, in Curteis's Reports.

Mrs. Woolfrey, a Roman Catholic, placed a tombstone over the grave of her husband in the churchyard of Carisbrooke, with the inscription—"Spes mea, Christus. Pray for the soul of J. Woolfrey. It is an holy and good thought to pray for the dead (2 Mac. xi. 44, 45)." The Rev. J. Brecks, vicar of Carisbrooke, prosecuted a suit against Mrs. Woolfrey, declaring the inscription to be contrary to the 32nd Article of Religion, and prayed that she might be compelled to remove the stone. The case was argued in the Court of Arches before Sir Herbert Jenner, on 6th November, 1838, and on 12th December following. The learned Judge thus concluded an exhaustive and elaborate Judgment:—"I am of opinion, on the whole of the case, that the offence imputed by the articles has not been sustained; that no authority or canon has been pointed out by which the practice of praying for the dead has been expressly prohibited; and I am accordingly of opinion that if the articles were proved, the facts would not subject the party to ecclesiastical censure as regards the illegality of the inscription on the tombstone."

This Judgment has not been appealed against, and it must be considered, therefore, as expository of the law of the land.

Diocese of Ely.—The Burials Bill.—At the last of the Ely Archidiaconal Conferences, held at Bedford, under the presidency of the Bishop, there was an interesting discussion upon Mr. Osborne Morgan's Burials Bill, members being supplied with a carefully drawn up statement by the Chancellor of the various efforts made to amend the law.

Captain POLHILL TURNER, M.P., moved the following resolution:—"That this Conference is strongly opposed to the enactment of any law authorizing within the consecrated burial grounds of the Church of England services other than her own to be conducted by persons not in Holy Orders in the Church of England; and is of opinion that the best way of meeting any desire for other services and other ministrations is by affording additional facilities for providing unconsecrated burial grounds."

Lord St. JOHN seconded the resolution.

The Rev. HUGH SMITH moved, and General

MILLS seconded, as an amendment, the advisability of allowing Nonconformists to use under due safeguards, prayers and Scripture lectures.

Mr. HARDY proposed another amendment allowing a particular form of service to be drawn up by a joint committee of Churchmen and Nonconformists, and annexed to the schedule of any Act.

Lord C. RUSSELL warmly supported concession, dwelling on the significance of the fact that Mr. Osborne Morgan was without a contest returned as Sir W. Wynn's colleague.

The Rev. G. OSBORNE, Rector of Compton, stated that on an addition being made to the churchyard of his parish some years ago, a piece "within the walls" was left unconsecrated for Dissenters. During the five years of his incumbency there had been 202 funerals in the consecrated ground and not one in the Nonconformist portion.

On a division, twelve hands were held up for Mr. Smyth's amendment, and three for Mr. Hardy's, the original resolution being carried by an overwhelming majority.

The BISHOP said that he hoped members of the Legislature present would bear in mind that the majority of clergymen would give facilities for Nonconformist burial grounds if an Act was passed allowing them to set aside portions of their glebes.

DIocese of LINCOLN.

Visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to India.—The following has been addressed by the Bishop to the Clergy and Laity of his diocese:—

October 6, 1875.

MY DEAR BRETHREN,—The visit to India of the heir apparent of the British throne is so important an event in the history of the Empire that I am sure you will agree with me that we ought to supplicate Almighty God for His blessing upon it. The following Prayer is put forth for use in this Diocese, after communication with His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.

I am, your faithful brother in the Lord,

C. LINCOLN.

O Almighty God, Who fillest all things with Thy presence, and rulest all things with Thy power, by Whom Kings reign and Princes decree justice; we humbly beseech Thee to bless Thy servant the Prince of Wales in his visit to India. Be with him in his going out, and in his coming in; guide, govern, protect, preserve and prosper him in his ways; strengthen, support and sanctify him in his works; grant that he may be a blessed instrument in Thy hand for promoting the welfare of India, and for spreading forth Thy Gospel, and advancing Thy Kingdom. Watch over all who are near and dear to him, and bring him back in safety to his own home, and finally receive him to Thy heavenly glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

SCOTLAND.

Prayer for the Prince of Wales.—The following has been sanctioned by the Bishops of the Episcopal Church in Scotland, to be used at morning and evening prayer in their respective dioceses, and to follow the "Prayer for the Royal Family," or (when the Litany is used) the prayer "We humbly beseech Thee," &c.:—"Almighty and most merciful Father, take, we beseech Thee, at this time into Thy holy keeping Thy servant Albert Edward Prince of Wales. Guard him in his going out and coming in; direct and prosper him in his way; order all his doings for the good of our fellow-subjects in India and the glory of Thy holy Name, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

IRELAND.

The Irish Ecclesiastical Gazette calls attention to the operations of the Irish Society. It states that this Society has been labouring amongst the Irish-speaking peasantry of our land since the year 1818, teaching them to read their native language, and to become acquainted with the Irish Bible. The Society is now part of the recognized machinery of the Church of Ireland; its report is presented annually to the General Synod, and in many dioceses it works in connexion with the Diocesan Synods. Many of the churches and congregations in the South and West of Ireland owe their existence to its agency in past years. As long as there is any Irish spoken in the country, so long is there a field in which the Irish Society can labour, and so long is its cause deserving of sympathy and support.

COLONIAL.

West Indies.—St. Vincent.—In response to the request of the Church Council of St. Vincent's Island, the Archbishop of Canterbury has "extended the commission of the Bishop of Barbados, so as to enable him to assume the oversight of St. Vincent." Grenada, Tobago, and St. Lucia are likely to be united with St. Vincent into a distinct diocese, called the Diocese of Windward Islands, under the Bishop of Barbados, as proposed by him.

FOREIGN.

United States.—The Diocese of Illinois has elected as its Bishop the Rev. Dr. McLaren, of Cleveland, Ohio. Twelve years ago he assumed the pastorate of a Presbyterian chapel at Peoria, Illinois. He was educated at Jefferson College, Pennsylvania, completing his academic course in 1851. For three years he was a missionary in South America, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Board. After relinquishing his little parish at Peoria, he accepted a call to the Westminster church, Detroit. It was at Peoria that he began to study the system of the Episcopal Church, and in Detroit, from 1867 to 1871, he was much assisted by the friendship and guidance of Bishop McCoskry, of Michigan. He finally abandoned the Presbyterian ministry, was confirmed by Bishop McCoskry, and ordained deacon in January, 1872, and subsequently was admitted to full priests' orders in October of the same year. Soon after he became rector of Trinity church, Cleveland, Ohio, the oldest parish in that city.

At a meeting of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Central New York, held at Syracuse, September 16, consent was given to the consecration of the Rev. J. H. Eccleston, D.D., Bishop-elect of the Diocese of Iowa; and his testimonial was duly signed.

Money Grants recommended by the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Calcutta.—The Bishop of this diocese forwarded two applications for grants in aid of building two small railway churches. In each case the form was signed by the railway chaplain.

1st. The Rev. F. Kennedy, A.C.S. chaplain, applied for a grant for a new church at the Toondla Junction of the East Indian Railway. The church is to accommodate 150 persons, and is to be built of brick, faced in part with stone, and will cost about 12,500 rupees = 1250l. Of this 10,100 rupees, or 1010l. are in hand or promised, including 5000 rupees from the N.W.P. Government and 2000 rupees from the Diocese.

Church Building Fund. The site has been granted by the Government, and is duly secured, and the building will be consecrated. The Christian population, consisting of Europeans and East Indians, is about 230. The inhabitants are altogether connected with the East Indian Railway. They are as a rule poor, frequently transferred, and liable to be dismissed on "reduction" and for other causes. Most of them belong to the Church of England or attend her services, and all have given liberally according to their means.

That previously to the payment of the Society's grant the bishop should have certified that the receipt of it will lead to the immediate completion of the building, and further that the building is free from all liability for debt, duly secured as church property for ever, and adequately insured.

2nd. The Rev. C. B. Westerhout, Chaplain, applied for a grant for building a church at Ghazeeabad. The church is to accommodate 100 persons, and will be built of brick with some stone. The estimated cost is not less than 600*l.* The sum now in hand is 150*l.*, and it has taken three years to collect this; 300*l.* are expected from the Government, and it will be very difficult indeed for them to collect the remaining 150*l.* The population is about 200, and all of the middle and lower classes of railway servants; the majority are members of the English Church, others attend her services. The railway companies are prohibited from helping in such work.

In this case it was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 50*l.*, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Auckland.—The Bishop, writing from Bishop's Court, Auckland, on the 30th of September, 1875, applied for a grant in aid of building a church in a poor district—Paparoa. The inhabitants of the district are scattered, and have no good roads or direct means of communication with Auckland, and are not in a position to build a church. They have hitherto assembled for public worship in a Wesleyan chapel, and been ministered to by a layman. The Government has now given a good site, and the people are exerting themselves to raise funds for the building, which will cost 150*l.* The bishop expects that not less than 100 persons will be within distance of the church so as to be able to attend. One of the Auckland clergy will probably visit the district once a quarter for the present, the services at other times being conducted by a licensed lay reader. The church will be built of wood, and about 80*l.* has been already paid or promised.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 15*l.*, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Nova Scotia.—The Bishop of this diocese forwarded, with his counter-signature, an application from the Rev. Augustus Hiltz, Curate of Falmouth, for a grant in aid of a church now in course of erection in that parish. The church, which is to accommodate 150 persons, is to be of wood, and will cost about $2000 = 450*l.* The site is to be invested in the parish corporation. The inhabitants have subscribed $360 in lumber and labour; $220 in cash have been collected, and with assistance they hope to be able to finish the exterior. The interior will be afterwards finished from time to time as means are obtained. The population within a circuit of four miles from the church is about 225. The people are very poor, subsisting by lumbering and farming, chiefly the former. In subscribing the sums they have, they have taxed themselves to the utmost limit that could be reasonably expected. They are Church people, Presbyterians, Lutherans and Baptists. The settlement is a new one, and there is every prospect of the population increasing.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 50*l.* for the completion of the church so far as is necessary to render it fit for Divine Service, and subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions, specially the condition respecting the security of building as Church property.

Diocese of Christ Church, New Zealand.—The Bishop, writing from Bishop's Court, forwarded and strongly recommended an application from Mr. John Cordy, for a grant in aid of completing a new church at Hororata. Mr. Cordy has given the site and made himself responsible for those parts of the building contract which require immediate payment. The site is invested in the Bishop and Church trustees. The people who are principally members of the Church of England are for the most part small farmers in limited circumstances.

The Bishop wrote as follows:—

"The church will be about sixteen miles from the nearest church in the neighbourhood, and will be served by the clergyman who has the charge of the district in which it is situated, which is partly agricultural and partly pastoral. He is in Deacon's orders, and is therefore under my immediate direction, and hence his signature is not affixed to the application. I should add that a grant in aid of the building has been made from our Diocesan Fund; but this and the local contributions promised and paid will not be sufficient for the completion of the building."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 15*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Trinidad.—The Right Rev. Bishop Rawle forwarded and recommended two applications for church building in his diocese.

1st. An application from the Rev. J. Horsford, for building a new church at Cedros, in the parish of Christ Church.

The site has been given, and the estimated cost of a church to accommodate seventy-six persons is 360*l.*; of this amount, 100*l.* are in hand, 160*l.* promised, and 40*l.* have been given in material. The whole of this has been done by persons either resident or locally interested. The material will be timber with galvanized iron roof. The site has been conveyed to the "Incorporated Trustees of the Church of England in Trinidad." The Protestant population consists of 100 adults; they are most of them agricultural labourers, with a few managers of estates; they are scattered amongst a mixed population of Roman Catholics and heathen coolies. The building has been in contemplation for upwards of twenty-five years, money and material having been at times collected, but no site procurable. Divine Service has been performed in the ward school (by sufferance, and against rule); and, when this was refused, in an old store-room. The inconvenience has been excessive; and there is a good feeling to assist the building which is already commenced.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 15*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

The second case was an application from the Rev. Henry Richards, for a grant in aid of a church at Mayaro, in the parish of St. Bartholomew.

The estimated cost of the church is 500*l.*, of which 200*l.* have been subscribed and spent on materials; the residents are erecting the building by their own efforts and contributions, and have made themselves legally responsible to the merchants for materials obtained from them. The church will be built upon stone pillars for substructure, with hard-wood frame and cedar boarding, and galvanized iron roof. The site, which has been given, has been conveyed to the Bishop, and legally vested in the Incorporated Trustees of the Church of England in Trinidad. The Protestant population is about 100, and consists mostly of petty shopkeepers and owners of small patches of land planted with cocoa-trees. There are many Roman Catholics, who have a church and a resident priest. The substructure was built in May, 1872, and a few residents who have means have exerted themselves to the utmost for its completion, accumulating the materials by degrees. They have now made a resolute effort to finish themselves engaging the workmen and liable for all costs, in which if they are not helped, as they hope, they will be seriously embarrassed.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 30*l.* for the completion of this church, on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Algoma.—The Rev. C. B. Dundas, Missionary clergyman in the district of Thunder Bay, applied on one of the Society's forms, countersigned by the Bishop of Algoma, for a grant in aid of a new church at Prince Arthur's Landing.

"The village is the most northerly calling point of the Lake Superior steamers, and ten years ago consisted of five or six houses. It now numbers over one hundred, and is a centre of mining but unproductive work, and of surveying. It is 500 miles in advance of any post in British territory occupied by a clergyman."

The foregoing information was supplied by the Rev. William Griffith, of St. John's College, Cambridge, who has recently visited the Station, and who speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Dundas' work.

The total cost of the church is to be $2950 = 590*l.* The sum collected and promised is $700 = 540*l.* There is very little prospect of collecting more, as for three years every means has been used to raise money. The church has been used in an unfinished condition for upwards of two years. It will accommodate 150 persons. It is built of wood and invested in trustees. The average attendance is over one hundred. The population is fluctuating, and as yet very small, but it is expected that in years to come it will increase greatly, as Prince Arthur's Landing will be the depot for the North-West when the railroad is completed which is being built from Thunder Bay to Manitoba, a distance of 500 miles. The people are very poor, having only small wages while engaged in the mines and in building roads. The mining operations are of a desultory character. None of the mines in the neighbourhood are paying, and many of them are closed, and this throws many persons out of employment. The work at present is of a purely missionary character. The ministrations of the church are supplied to miners, traders, Indians, emigrants, and railroad employés.

It was agreed in this case to grant 50*l.*, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Rupert's Land.—The Secretary stated that the Bishop of Rupert's Land had, in a recent letter, enclosed a printed statement, of which the following is a copy, and asked whether the Society could make a grant towards a chapel.

"The church in Manitoba is establishing a Mission for a tribe of outcast Sioux Indians, who have found for about thirteen years a refuge under the British flag in this Province, and who are now about to be settled by the Government of the Dominion of Canada on reserves. Their history is sad and dark, but they have been quiet since they resided here; still the tragedy in Minnesota which drove them from the United States, was one of the most terrible in Indian warfare. The American Church, through Bishop Whipple, has taken a deep interest in the tribe and has some very flourishing Missions among some of the branches. There is therefore every promise of our Mission having a ready welcome, and so of being privileged to bring these poor heathen to the knowledge of our God and Saviour.

"I add a few words from a noble-hearted Bishop of Minnesota, Bishop Whipple, who lured all things for these red men, when to speak a word for them was enough to be branded as a traitor and enemy of the white settler.

"I feel a deep pity for these poor people. They have sinned deeply in acts of bloodshed, but were more sinned against.

"I believe that like wrongs would have led any Christian nation to commence a war. They had an Indian Paradise. They sold it to us. In the first treaty they were greatly wronged. Afterwards they sold 800,000 acres of their reserve, and after waiting four years, and not having received anything, they began war. It is all a sad, sad story, which brings a blush of shame to my cheeks. I believe it might have been all avoided. They have lost all, and are now literally men of the trembling eye and shivering foot, homeless, dying, without knowing so much that there is a Saviour!"

"The Church Missionary Society has given a vote towards buildings, and a yearly sum of 100*l.* towards the Missionary's salary. We hope for some help from one or two churches in Canada, and we shall do what we can ourselves; but the cost of establishing the Mission will be considerable, and some help towards building and the yearly expenses is needed. The Reserve on which we are to place the Mission will probably save over 1000 on it.

"They come literally with nothing, so that though Government is kindly to go out of its way to give them some help, it cannot be expected to help them as it would its own Indians.

"Useful clothing, especially for boys and girls and old people, would also be a great boon to the Mission."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 100*l.* for the proposed chapel on the usual conditions, and to ask the Bishop to furnish further particulars.

Diocese of Goulburn.—The Bishop of Goulburn, who is in England, made an appeal for help towards the completion of a number of churches in his diocese. The particulars of each and the amount of grant recommended for each are given below.

1. Albury, County Goulburn, where the Rev. D. Acocks is striving to raise 4000*l.* to build a granite church to accommodate 600 people. The population in the town of Albury is about 800, and 6026 in the missionary district which surrounds it. The site is vested in the Bishop; 500*l.* have been raised or promised, and the Standing Committee recommended a grant of 100*l.*

2. Wagga Wagga, County of Wynyard.—Here the rector Pownall is raising money to build a stone church to be called St. John's at a cost of 3000*l.*, 3000*l.* of which has been raised or promised. Accommodation will be provided for 800. Population of the town about 2100, of the district 6053 in addition. The site is vested in the Bishop. The Standing Committee recommended a grant of 100*l.*

3. Tamut, County of Wynyard.—Here the Rev. D. E. Jones is striving to build a stone church (All Saints) for 300, at a cost of 2000*l.* The population in the town is 700, in the district 3800.

In this case the Standing Committee recommended a grant of 50*l.* The site is vested in the Bishop.

4. Bega, County of Auckland.—Here the Rev. D. Faunce is engaged in building a stone church which will cost upwards of 2000*l.* The population of the town is 600, and of the missionary district 3863. The Standing Committee recommended 50*l.* in this case.

5. Number five was an application for a church-school at Goulburn. This is being erected at a cost of 2000*l.*, and will be eighty feet by thirty-five. There are two classes of schools in the colony, "public schools" and "denominational schools." In the case of public schools it both provides for the erection of the buildings at public expense and liberally grants aid for their sustentation. But it has withdrawn all help for the erection of schools in connexion with the Church or religion, though it renders assistance for the maintenance of existing church schools. Hence it is most important to support church schools.

The Standing Committee recommended 50*l.*

There were in addition six other cases in which small churches were to be erected, the particulars of which are as follows:—

(a) Bungonia, Christ Church, County Argyle, to cost 800*l.*, of which 450*l.* have been raised or promised. The Rev. E. B. Procter is the clergyman.

(b) Cootamundry, to accommodate 150 persons, and to be built of stone, at a cost of 500*l.*

(c) Cottawang, County of Murray, where the church is to cost 500*l.*, and the clergyman, the Rev. H. E. Taylor, is working successfully.

(d) Jingera, the Rev. J. Drutt's district, where the church is to cost 400*l.*

(e) Moama, County Cadell, where the church is to cost from 500*l.* to 600*l.*

(f) Murrumburrah, County of Harden, where the church will cost about 600*l.*, and where the people are striving to build a parsonage.

To enable the Bishop to assist these six cases the Committee recommended that 100*l.* be put at his lordship's disposal to use according to his discretion.

These grants, amounting to 450*l.*, were made as recommended by the Standing Committee, subject in each case to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Grahamstown.—The Bishop, writing from Grahamstown on the 22nd of October, forwarded and very heartily recommended an application from the Rev. Charles Taberer, Missionary in charge of St. Matthew's Mission, for a grant in aid of a new church in his mission.

It is proposed to provide accommodation for 500 natives. The foundation will be of stone, and the building red brick banded with stone, if possible. There is a native population, native and heathen, of at least 2000. The Mission land has been granted by Government to the See of Grahamstown, and the title-deeds are in the keeping of the Registrar of the diocese. The cost of the proposed church will be 1000*l.* Of this 42*l.* 10*s.* 11*d.* are in hand or promised. More help is hoped for from English friends of the Mission living in the diocese. The amount raised on the spot by the native congregation is 397*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.* The people are about in the same condition as Kafirs and Fingoes generally. They live by their cattle and sheep and the produce of their gardens. About three quarters of the people are heathen, or perhaps more. There is no place of worship within three miles. There is a building, but it is quite too small for the increasing congregations, and Mr. Taberer says that he has several times had to hold service in the open air in the great heat of summer; he has also heard of heathen natives turning back from the church door because there was no room. He speaks of the efforts made by his people as "noble," and says that there are several instances of promises of 10*l.* or 12*l.* out of incomes of from 40*l.* to 50*l.* per annum.

The Bishop wrote:—

"St. Matthew's Mission at the Keishama Hoek is now our principal Mission, and is developing more and more in Christian teaching and in industrial works."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to grant 100*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Diocese of Nassau.—The Bishop, who is in this country, forwarded and recommended an application from the Rev. A. Osborne, for a grant in aid of the enlargement of his church. The proposed enlargement is to cost 120*l.*, of which Mr. Osborne has 100*l.* in hand. Mr. Osborne has himself guaranteed the sum required, but he says he can by no means afford to pay the deficiency of 20*l.*, and that his people cannot do anything to help him. Additional accommodation will be provided for about thirty persons. Mr. Osborne has a large family, and is engaged in building a parsonage, at a cost of 225*l.*, towards which he has only 165*l.* in hand.

In reference to the church, Mr. Osborne wrote to the Bishop as follows:—

"You know that our church does not and cannot seat the worshippers. On any occasion above the ordinary evensong, we have to turn many away, or if the night be fine, they must stand outside to worship."

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, who desired it to be understood that they regarded the circumstances as exceptional, since as a rule they did not recommend grants for enlargement, to grant 10*l.* in this case, on the usual conditions.

Diocese of Calcutta.—The Bishop of Durham forwarded an application from his son, the Rev. F. H. Baring, Church Mission, Umritsar.

Mr. Baring said that the Society's "Bible Pictures and Stories," in English, had recently been sent to him, and that the members of the Mission at Umritsar, including the ladies who teach in the zenanas, felt that it would be a great boon if they could have such books printed in Urdu and Punjabi.

Mr. Baring wrote as follows to the Secretary:—

"Most especially are such books needed for the schools and zenanas, which are yearly increasing in numbers and importance. The women and children do not yet care to read large books; and pictures are a very great attraction, and add greatly to the usefulness of the books.

"In consideration of the very great need there is now for attractive Christian books, I venture to ask your Committee to make us a grant of 500 or 1000 copies of each picture in the series, and also of ornamental covers for them in the proportion of not less than one cover to every four pictures. If the covers could be sent without any English printed on them, we would have the name in Punjabi or Urdu printed on here.

"I will undertake to have the books well translated and printed here, and circulated all over the country through the colporteurs of the Punjab Religious Book Society. I feel that the S.P.C.K. could not employ their money at present in a more useful way than in supplying some Bible Pictures and stories in Punjabi and Urdu, for which there is now very great need. The books will prove very useful as school prizes, and the number of readers is increasing so very fast that the whole series will soon be used up, in fact, if the Society would give us 1000 Punjabi and 1000 Urdu, it would not be at all too great a supply for the demand. The cost of paper and printing, i. e. for the letter-press in the two vernacular languages, we will defray from local funds if your Society will very generously give us the pictures and covers free. The books would have on the outside, 'Printed and published by the P.R.B.S. for the S.P.C.K.' Or if your Committee are willing to bear the whole expenses, the name of the P.R.B.S. might be omitted altogether."

The Committee stated that 2000 of each of the plates and of the proportionate number of wrappers would cost 292*l.*, and that they recommended a grant of these.

It was agreed, in reliance upon the hopes held out by Mr. Baring, that the books would be beneficially circulated in a reasonable time, to make this grant. It was further agreed to ask Mr. Baring, at the end of a year from the time at which he should receive the pictures, &c., to make a special report.

Book Grants recommended by the Standing Committee.

Book Grants, Special and Ordinary, including some made on the responsibility of the Secretary during the vacation, and subsequently sanctioned by the Standing Committee, were agreed to.

Diocese of Winchester.—The Rev. George Henry Sumner applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 5*l.*, to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of the Winchester Diocesan Training College Committee; all of the books to be given as prizes for religious knowledge to those of the students who gain First Classes in Canon Norris's examination.

This grant was made on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Winchester.—The Rev. Evan Daniel, Principal of the Training College at Battersea, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books, which he specified, to the value of 5*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* at members' prices, on condition of the Committee of the College expending a like sum in cash on other books; the whole of the books to be given to pupils who have gained a First Class in an examination recently held in religious knowledge.

This grant was made on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

Diocese of York.—The Rev. George Rowe, Principal of the Training College, York, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 3*l.*, to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of the governing body of the College; the whole of the Books to be given as prizes to those of the students who are placed in a First Class in an examination in religious knowledge.

Mr. Rowe spoke highly of the benefit which has resulted from similar prizes in previous years.

This grant was made on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Chester.—The Rev. J. F. Buckler, Diocesan Inspector for Chester, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 16*l.*, to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of the Diocesan Board; the whole of the books to be given to Pupil-teachers who gain first classes in central or simultaneous examinations in religious knowledge.

This grant was made on the recommendation of the Standing Committee as applied for.

Diocese of Exeter.—The Rev. Saltrea Rogers, Rural Dean of Carnmarth, and Chairman of the Board of Religious Instruction in the Deanery, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books, to meet an equal expenditure on books on the part of the local board; the whole of the books to be given to pupil teachers who shall be placed in a first class in central or simultaneous examinations in religious knowledge. The grant asked for is to meet an expenditure of not more than 8*l.*

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to make the grant as applied for.

Diocese of Lichfield.—Mr. J. H. Sprott, acting as Secretary for a Mission which had recently taken place at Shrewsbury, now applied to be supplied with Mission Tracts, &c., to the value, at members' prices, of 51*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.*

The Standing Committee recommended that one-third of these should be charged as a grant. This recommendation was agreed to.

Diocese of Lincoln.—The Committee reported that there had been recently a Mission held in Nottingham, and that he had ventured to say that Mission literature published by the Society would be probably granted to meet an equal purchase.

The goods supplied, reckoned at members' prices, amounted to 14*l.* 10*s.*, and the meeting were asked to sanction half of this amount being paid as a grant.

This was agreed to.

Diocese of Ripon.—The Rev. Charles Edwards, acting as Secretary to a proposed Mission to be held early in the year 1876, in Bradford, applied for a grant of Mission Literature. Mr. Edwards stated that they should want 20,000 of each of six different tracts and 4000 prayers. The total cost of these at full prices would be 62*l.*, or at members' prices 46*l.* 10*s.* A grant of one half of the whole quantity, which was what Mr. Edwards applied for, would cost the Society 23*l.* 5*s.*

Upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee it was agreed that one half of these might be granted.

Diocese of Moray and Ross.—The Bishop of this diocese, Primus, forwarded and recommended two applications for Books and Maps from the Rev. Farquhar Smith, Incumbent of Arkafellie and Highfield, for use in the Church schools of those parishes. The Bishop dwelt upon the great difficulty which they were now experiencing in Scotland in the maintenance of their Church schools, owing to the passing of the Scotch Education Act, which compels the formation of a School Board in every parish. The schools for which grants are asked have both been in existence for more than fifty years; they have recently been enlarged and adapted to the requirements of the Educational Act. Attendance in winter about eighty, in summer fifty. Last year's average fifty-six.

It was agreed to grant Books to the value of 2*l.* 10*s.*

Diocese of Gibraltar.—The Rev. J. Godfrey Pope, Chaplain at Lisbon, applied for a free grant of Books for a Sailors' Library at Lisbon. Mr. Pope is anxious to make the library of use to the poor English on shore as well as to the sailors visiting the port. The number of English sailors visiting Lisbon last year was 32,150, and in addition there are many English-speaking sailors in Dutch and Norwegian and in a few American vessels. The English residents were returned in a Consular Report last year as being about 800; of these, perhaps, sixty are Romanist, and perhaps eighty or thereabouts are Presbyterians attending the Free Church Presbyterian place of worship. The rest are members of the English Church, but are by no means the wealthy class that formerly existed in Lisbon; they are hard-pressed to keep up a Seamen's Mission and to support the English School—a most useful institution, that has now existed for forty years, and receives English children from any part of Portugal, those who can pay, those who cannot being educated, boarded, and clothed free; all are brought up in the principles of the Church. The number now attending is about forty.

It was agreed to grant books to the value of 15*l.* in this case.

Maritaburg.—The Rev. Thomas Goodwin, Incumbent of St. Matthias, Umgeni, asked for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to enable him to inaugurate a Sunday School.

Books to the value of 5*l.* were granted.

Diocese of Nassau.—The Bishop, being on the point of returning to his diocese, applied for a grant of books for the use of the Sunday Schools in his diocese.

The Bishop stated that there were eighty stations in his diocese, at most of which Sunday Schools were established.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to put at the disposal of the Bishop S.P.C.K. books to the value of 40*l.*, for the purposes named, and to add some tracts to the value of 2*l.*, which had been applied for by the Rev. J. H. Fisher, one of the clergymen in the diocese of Nassau.

Books in Foreign Languages.—The Secretary reported that at the request of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, the Church Missionary Society, and others, the following works had recently been produced in foreign languages by the Tract and Foreign Translation Committee conjointly, viz.

Swahili Portions of Morning and Evening
Prayer and Psalter, 500 copies	6 s. 6
Zulu Catechism, 500 copies	3
Hangchow Primer, 500 copies	15
Hangchow Key, &c., 1000 copies	12
Turkish, The Death of Christ, 1000 copies	71

£108 12

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, that grants of these should be made to the respective applicants, the total charge upon the Charitable Funds 168*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.*

French Scriptures.—The Rev. J. E. Dalton, Seagrave, applied for a grant of the Holy Scriptures in French, to the value of 20*l.*, to meet an equal purchase—the books for distribution in Belgium. In answer to inquiries made by the Secretary, Mr. Dalton had written as follows:

"Denham House Parade, Eastbourne
3rd December, 1875.

"My dear Sir,—In answer to your inquiry respecting Belgium:—The circulation of the French Scriptures is carried on mainly by native young men of the Young Men's Christian Associations. At this time they appear to be zealous in the work.

"These Young Men's Christian Associations in Belgium have a very good character. I have this morning an application from Liège, mentioning the different places about Liège, and what portions the young men could circulate to advantage in each place. The whole amounts to 1300 Scripture portions. In other places the desire to work in this way is similar. Of course this would be a special effort; but frequently where the Word of God is not known, a circulation of it produces a desire and demand. It may so arise here, but this is quite future.

"I have the strongest assurance, which I think I can trust, that all shall be carefully, and to the promiser's judgment, well circulated. It is a remarkable opportunity offered just now, which may not occur again. As far as I am concerned I feel that it should be at once and thankfully used.

"I enclose a note on another subject.

"I remain, yours very truly,

"Rev. H. Swabey. J. G. DALTON.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to make the grant as applied for.

Grant recommended by the Standing Committee, of which Notice was given at the last Meeting.

Diocese of Bloemfontein.—The Standing Committee, in accordance with notice given at the last Monthly General Meeting, and for reasons set forth at length in the November Monthly Report proposed—

1st. That a grant of 1000*l.* be made towards the fund for purchasing and adapting a house to serve as a Theological College.

This grant was made subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

2nd. The Standing Committee then proposed, also in accordance with notice given at the last Meeting, a grant of 500*l.* to meet an equal sum to be raised from other sources; on condition of the whole 1000*l.* being permanently and securely invested in a manner satisfactory to the Standing Committee, for the endowment of a Tutorship in Theology for the Diocese of Bloemfontein.

This grant was made.

Reports and Notices from the Standing Committee.

Diocese of Montreal.—The Standing Committee reported that the Rev. A. J. Woodhouse, Vicar of Ide Hill, Sevenoaks, and Commissary to the Bishop of Montreal, had applied for a grant in aid of the passage to Montreal of Mr. H. S. Fuller, Student of St. Augustine's College, Canterbury.

Mr. Fuller has received his college testimonial and has been accepted by the Bishop of Montreal as a candidate for Holy Orders.

Mr. Woodhouse engages on the part of the Bishop of Montreal to return any grant which may be made in case Mr. Fuller should not be ordained, and states that Mr. Fuller's means are such as to need help in getting out to Canada, where his work will be of a missionary character.

The Standing Committee reported that they had in this case granted 10*l.* out of Canning's Fund.

Diocese of British Columbia.—The Rev. H. Rowsell, Secretary to the Columbia Mission, had applied for a grant from Canning's Fund for the passage of Mr. C. B. Baskett to British Columbia with a view to his ordination.

Mr. Baskett has passed the examination in the Theological department at King's College, and has for four years been working under Mr. Wilkinson of St. Peter's, Eaton-square. He has been accepted as a candidate for Holy Orders by the Bishop of British Columbia. Mr. Rowsell undertakes (on the part of the Mission) to return any grant the Society may make in the event of Mr. Baskett's not being ordained at Christmas. The passage-money without outfit will be 50*l.*

The Standing Committee reported that they had agreed to grant 50*l.* in this case.

Diocese of London.—The Rev. A. Styleman Herring, Vicar of St. Paul's, Clerkenwell, to whom in November, 1874, the Society made a grant of 30*l.*, to enable him to rent a room in a block of Board Schools at 42*l.* 6*s.* a year for Sunday School purposes, now, in consequence of the success of his school, applied for a grant to enable him to rent a second room in the same block. The rent of this second room is about 38*l.* Mr. Herring has not applied to the Bishop of London's Fund for help, but will do so. The one room has been in use for exactly one year; it was opened without a single scholar, and with only Mr. Herring and his curate, now there generally are 250 children in the afternoon and twelve teachers. Nearly every child is educated at the Board School or at small private schools.

The Committee reported that they had agreed to give 25*l.* in aid of the rent of a second room for one year, but that they held out no prospect of a renewal of the grant.

Diocese of Winchester.—The Rev. George W. Herbert, of Vauxhall, made the following Report respecting the Sunday School as now conducted in a Board School in his parish, towards the first year's rent of which the Society has paid 12*l.*, the total rent being 20*l.*

"Vauxhall Street Board School, Lambeth.

"The Sunday School is held in the two largest upstairs rooms of this school. The average attendance in the boys' department is 47, and in the girls' 59. There are 58 boys and 71 girls who come regularly, and out of them 40 boys and 61 girls attend Board Schools on weekdays.

"The responsibility of finding funds for the school is shared by the Vicar of St. Peter's, Vauxhall, and by the Vicar of St. Mary-the-Less, Lambeth; the latter taking charge of the work on Sunday, and holding services for the children. Both these parishes are amongst the poorest in South London, and both clergymen must be responsible for very large sums of money if these parishes are to be at all efficiently worked. The day schools alone, which will accommodate 2300 children, demand that at least 300*l.* should be raised by subscription annually.

"It is expected that the expense of carrying on the Sunday School cannot be less than 30*l.* a year. There is no prospect of much of this money being raised in the neighbourhood. The burden will fall upon the Clergy, and they most earnestly ask that a grant may be made them for another year from the Christian Knowledge Society.

"The school is now fairly at work. There are ten teachers attached to it. It would be a great misfortune to be obliged to close it.

"GEORGE W. HERBERT, Treasurer.

"28rd November, 1875."

Mr. Herbert pleaded for a renewal of the Society's grant.

The Committee reported that they had agreed to make a grant of 10*l.* for a second year, but to warn Mr. Herbert that he must not reckon upon receiving any further help.

Diocese of London.—The Rev. Wm. Adamson, of St. Paul's, North Bow, to whom the Committee made a grant of 33*l.* towards the rent of a School Board School for one year ending 31st of December, 1875, wrote as follows to the Secretary:—

"The present quarter will close the year which your Society so kindly pledged themselves to; but I trust that the Committee may be able to continue the grant.

"There is no building which I can secure for these schools. The children number no less than 300, with twenty-seven teachers. The Sunday School is as follows:—

Morning, 10 a.m.,	average	90
Children's Service, 11 a.m.,	"	180
Afternoon, 3 p.m.,	"	300
Catechizing, 4 p.m.,	"

"In addition I have a Teacher's Bible Class, with an average weekly attendance of twenty-three teachers. It is considered that several of my teachers are of high class skill, and I am personally training the others in the art of teaching in its every department. The withdrawal of the grant would in all probability lead to the scattering of the teachers and school, as there is no other building, and unfortunately no ground on which to build a school. It is essentially a Missionary sphere for the Church, and I hope that your invaluable Society, to whom I am so much indebted, will help me to benefit the Old Ford poor children.

The Committee reported that they had granted 25*l.*, begging Mr. Adamson not to expect a renewal in any way.

Vice-Presidents.—The Standing Committee gave notice that in February next they would propose that the Venerable Dr. Hessey, Archdeacon of Middlesex, and for many years an elected member of their body and also of the Committee of General Literature and Education, be elected a Vice-president of the Society; also that at the same time they would propose that the Rev. Samuel Smith, who has been a member of their body for nearly twenty years, be elected a Vice-President of the Society.

Standing Committee.—In conformity with Rule XXVII. the Standing Committee informed the Meeting that the six members of their body who would retire by Seniority in February next were—The Revs. W. Cooke, S. Smith, H. I. Cummins, Mr. H. S. King, Mr. F. S. Powell, and Sir Edwin Pearson; that four only of these were eligible for re-election; that, of the six named, Sir E. Pearson and Rev. Samuel Smith were anxious not to be proposed for re-election.

The Standing Committee gave notice that to fill the six vacancies caused by the retirement of the six seniors they would in February propose—The Revs. W. Cooke, H. I. Cummins, Mr. H. S. King, Mr. F. S. Powell, the Rev. Brownlow Maitland, and Capt. Edwin Augustus Porcher, R.N.

The Committee further gave notice that the Rev. P. G. Medd, Rector of Barnes, had expressed his desire to retire in February, in consequence of his being about to leave the neighbourhood of London; and that the anticipated election of Archdeacon Hessey to be a Vice-President would cause another vacancy in the list of elected members. To fill these two vacancies, the Committee gave notice that in February they would propose the Rev. J. W. Ayre, Vicar of St. Mark's, North Andley-street, and Frederick Calvert, Esq., Q.C., the former to take the place of Archdeacon Hessey, the latter the place of Mr. Medd.

Tract Committee.—In conformity with Rule XXX., the Standing Committee proposed the following seven members of the Society for election in February, to form the Tract Committee for the ensuing year:—

Rev. Walter Abbott.	Rev. C. W. Edmonstone.
Rev. W. H. Burrows.	Rev. J. M. Fuller.
Rev. B. Compton.	Rev. G. H. Hodson.
Rev. Dr. Curry.

These gentlemen are the same as those who were elected last February, with the exception of Mr. Fuller, who is proposed in place of Dr. Francis Hessey, who has retired.

Committee of General Literature and Education.

Similarly, in conformity with Rule XXXV., the following members of the Society were proposed by the Standing Committee for election in February as the Committee of General Literature and Education for the ensuing year:—

T. A. Barker, Esq., M.D.	Rev. A. Johnson.
Thomas Bell, Esq.	Rev. H. Le Bas.
Rev. W. Campbell.	Rev. A. Povah.
Rev. W. Cooke.	Rev. Canon Tinsling.
Rev. Brownlow Maitland.	Thomas Turner, Esq.
Rev. C. J. D'Oyly.	J. B. White, Esq.

These are the same gentlemen as those who form the Committee at the present time.

Supplemental Religious Catalogue Committee.

—In accordance with Rule XXXIX., the Standing Committee proposed for election in February the following five members of the Society to form the Supplemental Religious Catalogue Committee.

The Very Rev. Dr. Ricker.	Rev. Lewis Hensley.
steth, Dean of Lichfield.	Rev. W. Walsham How.
The Dean of Rochester.	Rev. N. J. Bidley.

These are the same gentlemen as those who form the Committee at the present time:—

The Meeting was informed that the names of any other candidates for the several Committees, duly proposed and seconded, may be sent to the Secretaries on or before the Saturday previous to the January General Meeting.

Diocese of Goulburn.—The Standing Committee stated that the Bishop of Goulburn had made a representation to them respecting the insufficiency of the endowment of his See. Towards this, in 1862, the Society voted 1000*l.*, on condition of 9000*l.* being forthcoming from other sources.

When the Bishop arrived in Goulburn early in 1864 he found that 3000*l.* had been locally raised, and it was not till after three or four years had passed that, together with a grant of 1000*l.* from S.P.G., the required sum of 9000*l.* was forthcoming, and this Society's grant paid. Besides the endowment of 10,000*l.*, there is a sum of 100*l.* per annum paid from the diocese of Sydney.

The Bishop had thus to live to a great extent at his own charges during the first three or four years of his occupancy of the See; and even now the cost of living and of the very long visitation tours which are necessary render the income of the See altogether inadequate.

In consideration of these circumstances, and of other matters mentioned by the Bishop in an interview which he had with the Committee, the Standing Committee gave notice that at the Monthly Meeting in January next, they would propose that a further sum of 500*l.* be voted for the permanent endowment of the See of Goulburn, to meet a further sum of 4500*l.* to be raised from other sources within five years. The whole sum of 5000*l.* to be permanently and securely invested, in a manner satisfactory to the Standing Committee, for the Endowment of the See of Goulburn.

Bishop of St. John, Kaffraria (Dr. Callaway).—The Standing Committee reported that they had received a long and interesting letter from the Bishop of this diocese, dated St. John's Mission, Pondoland, Kaffraria, South Africa, 29th of September, 1875. The Bishop stated that he had been engaged for fourteen weeks in travelling through his diocese from the Umzimkula to the Kei. He wrote as follows:—

"I have now visited almost every place where any Church-work is going on, the only exception being some out-stations under Arohdeacon Waters. And if before the visit I felt the vastness of the work, I feel it much more now. During my visit I confirmed 421, mostly native adults, and administered to a large number of communicants, sometimes more than 100 at a time. There has been a good work done, but after all it is but a very meagre work compared with what remains to be done, and there are large tracts of territory as yet not even visited by the Church, and where the onward movement of the people is loudly demanding the guidance of Christian pastors. It appears to me that there is an unusual desire amongst the people to have our Church settled amongst them."

The Bishop mentions a number of stations where, at the time of his visit, the people expressed their desire for the ministrations of the Church, and where committees were organized and funds contributed on the spot, with a view to accomplish this object. At one place, Holstead, Grigoland East, the largest town, indeed almost the only town in Kaffraria and the most advanced, a paper was presented to the Bishop, signed by thirty persons, asking for a church; a meeting was held and the people immediately proposed to raise 50*l.*, if a prospect of a like sum from other sources could be held out to them by the Bishop; two white men had willingly surrendered to the Government two acres of land in the best situation in the town for the purpose of building the church and school-room, and the Government had given it to the church. It was concluded that at present it would be best to build a school-room, thirty feet by twenty, of brick, and when things were more developed to build a church.

In Arohdeacon Waters' very extensive Mission the erection of four churches or school-chapels is either in progress or contemplated, viz.—

(1) St. Andrew's, forty feet by twenty, of stone with iron roof. This is ready for the roof.

(2) St. Edmund's, Fingoland, sixty feet by twenty, of brick and stone with iron roof. In this case the foundation is laid.

(3) St. Mary's, Fingoland, sixty feet by twenty, of brick with iron roof. The bricks are burnt and ready for use.

(4) St. Michael's, Fingoland, sixty feet by twenty, to be of stone with iron roof.

At another station, Unitata, a large number of whites are collecting; it is said that 126 families are settling on the river, and a school is sadly needed for the sake of the children of these people, in order to prevent the terrible example which, if neglected, they will set to the heathen around them.

Much more interesting matter of the same kind is contained in the Bishop's letter. Sufficient probably has been stated to show that the Bishop has a great work on hand, and further that it is impossible for the Standing Committee to judge at all accurately what specific amount of help is wanted in each place.

The Committee therefore gave notice that in January they would propose that the sum of 500*l.* be reserved for the use of the Bishop of St. John's, Kaffraria, for the exclusive purpose of enabling him to assist in building churches and schools in his diocese, on condition that in no case should any grant be made out of this sum which was not met by at least three times the amount from other sources; in other words, that the Society's contribution should in no case exceed one-fourth portion of the cost of any school or church; and further that no grant should be paid unless the receipt of it would lead to the immediate completion of the building in aid of which it was made, and to its being free from all liability for debt; and unless the building had been adequately insured and duly secured as the property of the Church for ever.

Motions of which Notice was given at the last Meeting.

Tract Committee.—In accordance with notice given at the last Meeting, the Rev. J. M. Fuller, Vicar of Bexley, was elected a member of the Tract Committee, in place of the Rev. Dr. Francis Hessey, who had retired.

De laudibus legum Angliæ.—In accordance with notice given by him at the last Meeting, the Rev. Charles Miller proposed—

"That it be referred to the Tract Committee to consider the propriety of making such arrangements as may be necessary to procure the republication of the English Version of Judge Fortescue's Treatise De laudibus legum Angliæ, and further to consider the propriety of requesting the Queen to permit the Society to dedicate the republication to her Majesty, as the Patron of the Society and Sovereign of England; and also to consider the propriety of requesting Lord Clermont, who has recently printed the whole of Judge Fortescue's works, and has presented them to the British Museum, the Bodleian Library at Oxford, and, it is believed, other Public Libraries, to act as the Editor, subject to the ordinary practice of the Tract Committee."

The motion was not seconded.

Letter of Thanks, &c.

Japan.—The following interesting letter has been received from the Rev. E. W. Syle:—

"Yedo, Japan,
8th September, 1875.

"Rev. and dear Sir,—Since the date of my last letter to yourself (September, 1874), to my great regret, the good books you sent me have met with no sale, so that I have no remittance to make, as a matter of business.

"My mind is unsatisfied, however, with this state of stagnation; and therefore I will procure a Post-office Order at Yokohama for 10*l.*, which being half the amount of your generous grant of February 18th, 1873, will represent my appreciation of your liberality. Since my retirement from the Consular Chaplaincy at Yokohama, I find it not so easy to give proper attention to the business of your own and similar Societies who have very kindly responded to my applications. My present position is that of Professor of Moral Philosophy in the Imperial College of this city (Yedo, now called Fokio, since the Restoration of 1868), and while I have most valuable and interesting opportunities of dealing with the minds of the College Students, I am much more secluded and out of the way of active day school operations, which I somewhat regret; but the incompatibility of giving due attention to both is evident. The Japanese Government, I think, is unquestionably sincere and earnest in its endeavours to give a really good education to its people, and is engaged in establishing Provincial High Schools and Village Schools as fast as teachers for them can be provided by the Normal Schools, which have been recently opened here at head-quarters.

"From the newspaper which I send by this opportunity you will see that, unlike China, Japan has some public spirit; the present subject of animated discussion being the Freedom of the Press.

"The recognition of Christianity as a religion that may be professed and practised has not yet been satisfactorily made; on the contrary, Native Christians have been brought before the magistrate for burying their dead without Buddhist ceremonies; and they have been told that they were at liberty indeed to study and investigate the Christian religion, but that did not imply they were free to act upon its precepts! No penalties, however, have been yet inflicted, but the proceedings are suspended.

"This is the present aspect of affairs, which may be succeeded by one more (or perhaps less) favourable to religious freedom. I myself, however, anticipate improvement, and not retrogression.

"Yours very truly in the Lord,

"EDWARD W. SYLE.

"If any further sales should be made, I will remit again. Meanwhile it may be pleasant for you to know that your Old Testament Lesson Books are used by a little Bible Class of Japanese girls whom Mrs. Syle teaches when they come to her on Sundays."

Capetown.—The following letter has been addressed to the Secretary by the Bishop of Capetown:—

"Bishop's Court, Capetown,
November 9th, 1875.

"Thank you for your letter of August 14, which I have been hindered from acknowledging through being absent from home on distant visitations. The bill for 25*l.* for Clanwilliam Church I still retain, and will take care not to draw till the time comes when its receipt will render the complete work free from debt.

"Let me thank you most warmly for the very exhaustive summary of the good work which the Society is doing in aid of Church Missions abroad. It is most complete, and will be very useful to refer to from time to time. Why my Committee has never yet made use of the Canning Trust I cannot understand, for I have reminded him of it; but I have again told him, and trust we shall be helped in the matter of bringing out Clergy, often a matter of very heavy expense. Everywhere your Society is winning golden opinions: on every side I hear its praises, for the way in which it appears to be extending year by year its scope of operations. It is indeed what it professes to be, a most able and valuable handmaid to the Church. I have just returned from my last visitation tour, my fifth since I came out; and I have now, in these five rounds, completed the visitation of the diocese, having visited every Church station, besides places where there seems a hopeful prospect of commencing new work, had we but the men and the means. In this year I reckon that I have travelled between 4000 and 5000 miles, mostly on somewhat indifferent or infamously bad roads, in a Cape cart. Thank God, I am thoroughly strong and well, and have found very much cause for thankfulness and hope, as well as of course much also for anxiety. I am hoping that an early mail will bring me good news of a large grant for the object which causes me now so much anxious thought and fear, the rebuilding of Zonnebloem.

"With very kind regards,

"Very sincerely yours,

"W. W. CAPEOWN."

Grants of Books, &c., recommended by the Standing Committee. were then made.

Trust Funds.

Grants of Books from the various Trust Funds of the Society have been made since the last Meeting.

Announcement of Donations, &c.

Donations were announced to the amount of 450*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

Fourteen Members were elected.

SOCIETY FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE GOSPEL IN FOREIGN PARTS.

The Monthly Meeting of this Society was held at 19, Delahay Street, on Friday, November 19, at two p.m., Bishop Piers Claughton in the chair.

1. Read Minutes of last Meeting.

1. The Treasurers presented a statement of the Society's income to the end of October.

3. The Secretary reported, on behalf of the Standing Committee, that they had considered the question of the Society's Publications; that they had recommended certain alterations which, it was hoped, might make them more attractive. Resolved, that the report be accepted, and that the Standing Committee be requested to carry it into effect.

4. The Standing Committee presented certain recommendations in reference to the Society's Estates in Barbados, and it was resolved:—

"(1) To continue the practice of letting the state on lease, and not undertake the risk of cultivating it through the instrumentality of a local attorney or manager.

"(2) That an attorney be appointed to watch over the whole property of the Society, including states and buildings in the Island, and to report from time to time direct to the Society.

"(3) That George Sealey, Esq., The Guinea, Barbados, be appointed the Society's attorney for such purposes, and for settling with the outgoing tenant, Mr. Alleyne, and for arranging the terms on which a new lease should be granted.

"(4) That Mr. Sealey be empowered to offer the estate by advertisement for competition in Barbados and in England."

5. Resolved, that it be left to the Standing Committee to settle the details of the lease after consultation with the Society's solicitors, and to fix the Corporate Seal of the Society to the same when prepared.

6. Resolved, that in view of the recent death of the Rev. C. Warren, while oppressed with the double duties of Missionary and Chaplain—the latter of which was undertaken in infraction of rule 29—the Missionaries in Tounghoo be required to adhere strictly to this rule, and do not undertake the work of chaplains; and that the Bishop of Calcutta be respectfully asked to co-operate with the Society in its desire to assist firmly on the general and strict enforcement of the rule.

7. The Secretary gave notice that at the next meeting it would be proposed, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, to invite Lord Coleridge to become a Vice-President of the Society.

8. Resolved—

"That Bye-laws V. and VI. stand as follows:—

"V. That other members of the Standing Committee, not exceeding twenty-four in number shall be elected by the Society out of its incorporated members. It shall be the duty of the Standing Committee, when recommending names of persons for such election, to frame their recommendations, so far as they shall find practicable, with a view to one-half such non-local members being qualified by personal acquaintance with some colony or dependency (or residence in foreign parts) to aid the Society in their counsel and information concerning its foreign work.

"VI. That of such non-official members of the Standing Committee, the three who have served longest upon the Committee, and of the remainder the three who, having been members of the Committee for one complete year previous to the Monthly Meeting in November, have, during that period, attended the fewest meetings of the Standing Committee and Sub-committees thereof, or of any Special Committee, shall retire at the Annual Meeting in February. Any doubt shall arise under this rule which member of those who have served longest shall retire, it shall be the one who has attended the fewest meetings; and if any doubt shall arise which of those who have attended the fewest meetings shall retire, it shall be the one who during the year previous to the November meeting, has served the shortest time on the Committee. Of the six retiring members three only shall be eligible to supply the vacancies caused by their retirement."

The Secretary read part of a letter from R. H. Codrington, Norfolk Island, August 3, laid on the table letters from Kaffraria and an, communicated to the Board by desire of the Standing Committee.

10. The Rev. S. Arnott moved, and it was carried:—

"That, referring to the persecutions endured by the Syrian Christians under the Patriarch of Antioch, the Archbishop of Canterbury be requested to inquire into the condition of the Syrian Christians under the same arrangements, and at the same time at which his Grace proceeds to inquire into the state of the Nestorian Christians."

11. Reference was made to a letter of his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury published in the newspapers, and relating to Additional Indian Bishops. On the motion of Rev. R. T. West, the Standing Orders were suspended, and the Rev. B. Compton moved, and it was resolved:—

"That the Secretary be requested to draw the attention of the President to the exact terms of the resolution of April 16, 1875, relating to the appointment of Missionary Bishops in India, and to remind his Grace that the Society has not pledged itself to the principle of assistant or coadjutor Bishops."

12. The Rev. T. Darling gave notice of his intention to ask at the next Meeting whether the Secretary can give any information as to the present results of the attempts of the S.P.G. to meet the Archbishop of Canterbury's proposals on behalf of the Nestorian Christians.

13. The Rev. S. Arnott gave notice of his intention to move at the next Meeting:—

"That the contributions to the funds of the Society from the diocese of Melbourne amounting only to 10l., the attention of the Board be called to the same."

14. All the members proposed in July were elected into the Corporation.

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

General Committee, October 11th.—The Committee, on the request of the Rev. E. H. Bickerseth, agreed that the Valedictory Dismissal, at which the Committee would take leave of several Missionaries about to proceed to their stations at the commencement of the new year—amongst whom was the Rev. G. B. Durrant, late Curate of Christ Church, Hampstead—should be held at the Church Room belonging to Christ Church, Hampstead, on Tuesday, December 7th, at three p.m.

Reference having been made to the proposal to observe St. Andrew's Day for the present year as a Day of Intercession for Foreign Missions, the Committee directed that the same arrangement be made for the observance of the day by the Committee as on the last occasion, viz., that the friends of the Society should be invited to attend Divine Service (with Administration of the Holy Communion) at St. Dunstan's-in-the-West, Fleet-street, at 9.30 a.m. on the appointed day.

The Secretaries were directed to convey to Mr. Burton, the American Lay Missionary at Sherbro, an acknowledgment of his kindly office in the construction of a house for the Sherbro Mission.

In consequence of the increase to the staff of Missionaries at Ningpo, and the want of proper house accommodation, the Committee sanctioned the erection of an additional Mission-house there.

A letter having been read from the Rev. W. B. Chancellor, pointing out the openings for Missionary work among the liberated African slaves in the Seychelles, if he could be released from his present post as Government Chaplain, the Committee sanctioned Mr. Chancellor resigning the Government Chaplaincy, and directed that he should be encouraged to take up work in the Seychelles; and the Secretaries were also instructed to communicate with Lord Carnarvon, pointing out the efforts being made by Mr. Chancellor for the benefit of the slaves liberated there by her Majesty's Government, and asking whether it would not be possible for her Majesty's Government to render some assistance towards his stipend.

Committee of Correspondence, October 19th.—The salary of the Rev. R. Bruce, as a Missionary of the Society in Persia, was fixed by the Committee, as well as those of the other agents in connexion with the Mission.

The Madras Corresponding Committee having recommended the employment of Mr. Samuel John as an Evangelist to the educated natives of Madras, the Committee sanctioned it tentatively.

On the recommendation of the South Ceylon Conference, the Committee sanctioned the ordination of Mr. Bastian Perera.

Committee of Correspondence, October 26th.—The Rev. J. Barton being about to return to England on account of his health, and the Rev. D. T. Barry, who for eighteen years past had been one of the Association Secretaries of the Society, having expressed his willingness to proceed to Madras, to act conjointly with the Rev. D. Fenn as Secretary of the Madras Corresponding Committee, the Committee thankfully accepted Mr. Barry's offer, should the Medical Board report favourably as to his health.

The Committee received with regret an intimation from the Rev. T. Bomford, that, on account of the failure of his health, he was under the necessity for the present of resigning his appointment in connexion with the Society to the Cambridge Nicholson Institution, Travancore, which he did with much regret; but that he purposed, if God should see fit to restore his health, to offer himself afresh to the Society.

Mr. Thomas Kember, having returned on sick certificate from South India, was introduced to the Committee, and gave interesting information with regard to the English Institution in Palamcottah, with which he had been connected for the last ten years, and of which he had had sole charge since the return home of the Rev. T. Spratt, in 1873. At the time of his leaving Palamcottah the Institution had 100 heathen boys and young men of respectable social position in daily attendance on its classes; about eighty Native Christian boarders attended the school classes, and were receiving a training for schoolmasters. Mr. Kember referred to two visits paid to the Institution by the Rev. Sholto C. Douglas, who gave addresses to the assembled boys.

The Madras Corresponding Committee having cordially recommended to the Committee a proposal by the Rev. J. M. Speechly, that the Society should assist the Syrian Church by the payment of an English master in the Syrian College, and Mr. F. N. Malby and the Rev. D. Fenn having expressed their belief that the proposed measure would, under God's blessing, tend to help forward the work of reform in the Syrian Church, the Committee expressed their willingness to support a Native Christian master, of such approved Christian character as to give reason for hope that his Christian influence and teaching would be advantageous to the spiritual welfare of the students, it being understood also that he would have ample opportunity of teaching his pupils in the Holy Scriptures.

On the application of the Bishop of Auckland, New Zealand, the Committee agreed, as a temporary arrangement, to continue the grant of 100l. per annum, hitherto made to the St. Stephen's School, to be applied towards the expense of giving a superior education to some of the sons of the Maori clergy; and they also agreed to continue for one year the allowance of 52l., granted for the maintenance of each of the three students at St. Stephen's.

Archdeacon Cowley having requested the sanction of the Committee to his visiting Ontario and Quebec, with a view of stirring up Missionary interests in these parts, and also of his visiting England, the Committee readily complied with his request.

INCORPORATED SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING THE ENLARGEMENT, BUILDING, AND REPAIRING OF CHURCHES AND CHAPELS.

THE usual Monthly Meetings of this Society were resumed on Monday, November 16th, at 7, Whitehall, S.W.; Archdeacon Harrison in the chair.

There were also present the Revs. Arthur Cazenove, John Evans, A. I. Ingram, Hon. A. Legge, and S. W. Lloyd; Messrs. John Boodle, E. Hussey, E. Pepps, W. Rivington, W. E. M. Tomlinson, and Rev. R. Milburn Blakiston, M.A., Secretary.

Grants of money were made in aid of building four new churches; rebuilding three churches; and enlarging or otherwise increasing the accommodation in nine churches.

Under urgent circumstances additional grants were made towards enlarging four churches. Grants were also made from the special school-church and mission-house fund, towards building four school or mission churches.

The Society likewise accepted the trust of sums of money as repair funds for the churches at Wangford, Suffolk; and Thorp Arch, York.

LAW.

SUPREME COURT OF JUDICATURE.

COURT OF APPEAL.

(Before Lords Justices JAMES and BAGGALLAY and Mr. Baron BRAMWELL.)

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3.

ETHERINGTON v. WILSON.—PARISH OF TWICKENHAM PRESENTATION TO CHRIST'S HOSPITAL.

A BILL was filed by Edward Duggan Etherington, an infant, by James Etherington, his father and next friend, against H. A. Wilson, the Rev. H. F. Limpus, the vicar, the churchwardens of Twickenham, and the governors of Christ's Hospital, praying for a declaration that the election of the defendant, H. A. Wilson, to be nominated for a presentation to Christ's Hospital was invalid, and for an injunction to restrain them from nominating any boy other than the plaintiff for such presentation, and to restrain the governors of Christ's Hospital from receiving any other boy than the plaintiff. It appeared that in 1720, when West and Frances, his wife, by deed, conveyed certain property to the governors of Christ's Hospital upon trust to receive into their hospital and educate a certain number of boys and girls to be chosen by five different parishes, one of which was Twickenham, the election was to be made by the vicar, churchwardens, and parishioners, and the candidates were to be poor children born in the parish, and if there should be no such poor children found in the parish when the election was to be made, then any other poor children born in any contiguous or adjoining parish were to be elected; but in all such elections regard should be had to those children related or credibly reputed to be related by consanguinity to the founders. In 1868, under a scheme for the regulation of this charity, it was provided that no child should be considered eligible for election unless he or she should have been born in the parish, or unless his or her parents, or one of them, should be or should have been parishioners, or a parishioner. At an election in January last, at Twickenham, for a boy to fill a vacancy in the charity, the plaintiff and the defendant were the only candidates, and the defendant was elected by a majority of the parishioners. The plaintiff, who was undoubtedly qualified as a candidate, alleged that the defendant was not qualified, on these grounds—that although he was admitted to be of kin to the founders, his father, H. Wilson, resided at Westminster, and had taken a small house in the parish of Twickenham immediately before the election occurred for the sole purpose of acquiring a qualification as a parishioner. The house was taken for three months, with the option of continuing, at a rent of 30s. per month, but it was not occupied by H. Wilson, although he might on two or three occasions have slept in it, and that he had demanded to pay rates for the house the day before the election, and such payment had only been effected through the instrumentality of the vestry clerk, who had aided Wilson in this attempt to qualify himself for the election. Vice-Chancellor Malins had held that the evidence sufficiently established the fact that the defendant's father was not a parishioner within the meaning of that word in the scheme, and made a decree in the plaintiff's favour.

Upon the appeal, Mr. J. PEARSON, Q.C., Mr. GLASSE, Q.C., Mr. RAWLINS, and Mr. PHILLIMORE appeared.

Their Lordships were of opinion that the decision of the Vice-Chancellor was clearly wrong. The father of the defendant, having taken a house and paid rent and the current rates for it, had, in point of law, become a parishioner, and had thus acquired the necessary qualification under the scheme. The Vice-Chancellor admitted that the defendant had legally become a parishioner, but held that he was not properly so within the meaning of the scheme. No other meaning, however, was to be attached to the wording in the scheme than would be attached to similar words in any other document. The real deduction, from the language of the Vice-Chancellor, was that a man would not be at liberty to avowedly obtain such a qualification in the absence of an intention to establish himself permanently in a parish, but the Court of Equity had no right whatever to impose any such condition. They were all familiar with the qualification sometimes obtained for a county vote, without there being any intention to establish a connexion with the place itself. The bill must be dismissed with costs. In any event there would have been no reason for making the vicar and churchwardens of Twickenham pay costs, because they were merely acting administratively in the matter.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

(Before the MASTER of the ROLLS.)

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 22.

WALSH v. THE BISHOP OF LINCOLN.

(See Ecclesiastical Gazette, May, 1875, p. 149.)

The suit, instituted by the Rev. William Walsh against the Bishop of Lincoln, to restrain his lordship by injunction from presenting any other than the plaintiff to the living of Great Coates, in the diocese of Lincoln, came on for hearing this day before the Master of the Rolls.

Mr. HORACE DAVEY, Q.C., and Mr. KEKEWICH appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. CHITTY, Q.C., and Mr. WALTER PHILLIMORE appeared for the Bishop of Lincoln.

Mr. DAVEY, Q.C., said in consequence of the judgment given in the suit, "Walsh v. the Bishop of Lincoln," in the Court of Common Pleas, the only question which would now come before his lordship was the question of costs.

Mr. CHITTY, Q.C., followed by Mr. WALTER PHILLIMORE, argued at great length that the costs of the suit in Chancery should be borne by the plaintiff; or, in the alternative, that each party should pay their own costs.

HIS LORDSHIP, in delivering judgment, said that this suit was brought on to the hearing simply for the purpose of deciding who was to pay the costs. This case was a remarkable instance of the possibility of miscarriage in three different courts, all having jurisdiction in the same matter, but this source of miscarriage would no longer apply with regard to two out of these three courts, which had been abolished, and a single court established in their stead. The Rev. Mr. Walsh, the plaintiff, had purchased a limited interest of an advowson, and during the existence of that limited interest he presented himself as being a clerk in holy orders to the Bishop of Lincoln, and asked to be instituted to the living in the ordinary way. The bishop, acting no doubt under legal advice with regard to the legal aspect of the matter—he did not probably require advice with regard to the moral aspect of the case—refused to institute the plaintiff. In his answer, his lordship said that he objected to institute the plaintiff: First, because the admission of the plaintiff to the benefice, having regard to his purchase of the advowson, would be simoniacal and void; secondly, he admitted that he was not bound to admit and institute a benefice a clerk who, being his patron, offered himself to the ordinary for admission, and, continued the lord bishop, "My reason for refusing to admit the plaintiff (if I have power to refuse) is that an act, as above stated, is morally if not legally simoniacal." This being the state of affairs, then the plaintiff, what he was entitled to—he filed a bill in Chancery in order to obtain a declaration of a court that he had a legal right to the living. But the plaintiff having been informed that there were some legal difficulties, and there being three courses open to him, did not rest here. In paragraph thirty of his bill he says that he advised that difficulties exist in his bringing an action of quare impedit, and that he is further advised that a duplex querela in the Archdeacon's Court cannot be commenced until the expiration of twenty-eight days from the date when his petition for admission was first presented to the bishop; and at the time of his filing his bill in Chancery, the plaintiff says that he is advised that he cannot take any proceedings to compel the bishop to institute him, but that he intended to commence proceedings in the form of a duplex querela as soon as the necessary twenty-eight days had expired. The plaintiff thereupon filed this bill in equity, and it would have been well for him if he had stopped there. What happened was that a motion was made before him (the Master of the Rolls) for an interlocutory injunction. It was then sought to enter into all the facts of the case, and he (his lordship) then explained to counsel that it was not the practice of the Court to decide serious questions of law on interlocutory motions, and then feeling, as he now felt, that it was a great hardship on a bishop to be subject to the payment of costs incurred in a legal suit which arose out of his refusal to do something which he thought he could not do either legally or in the interests of morality. It was, he thought, a hard case that a bishop in the discharge of a public duty should be called upon to pay the costs of any litigation which might arise out of the discharge of such public duty; and there ought, in his opinion, to be a fund out of which such costs could be legally paid. Feeling this, he (his lordship) did what he was not in the habit of doing when the motion came before him—he intimated that the point of law raised by the bishop's counsel was not, in his opinion, sufficient to justify the bishop in refusing to institute Mr. Walsh in the living. But the matter went on, and the next thing heard was that the plaintiff got further advice, and instituted a suit of quare impedit in the Court of Common Pleas. The next thing was the answer of the lord bishop in the Chancery suit, and in that answer he submitted that the plaintiff had no right to compel him to make such an institution at any time. Then a writ of duplex querela was issued. The twenty-eight days had expired, and no steps had been taken to fill the living. The lord bishop complained in his answer that he had been harassed with several suits, and unfortunately, his answer had the effect of inducing the plaintiff to institute a third suit in the Court of Arches. On the 16th of January, 1874, the defendant ought to have made a motion to put the plaintiff on his election; and had he done so then the plaintiff would have been called on to decide once for all whether he would proceed in equity or in law. No such course was, however, taken, and when the plaintiff took a duplex querela in the Arches Court, the proctor made a special motion to stop it, on the ground that the plaintiff was put to his election. The learned judge delivered an elaborate judgment, and after such judgment every one of the parties knew not only what was the practice of the Courts of Law and of Arches, but what was the established practice in the Court of Chancery with reference to election when a suit was pending. But no step was taken, and the suit in the Court of Chancery was allowed to go on. The defendant took out a summons for enlarging the time before an injunction of this Court would operate, so that in the meantime a judgment might be given in the Court of Common Pleas, but no summons was taken out to put the plaintiff on his election; but, on the contrary, the application was opposed that an order should be made to stay all proceedings until after judgment in demurrer in the Court of Common Pleas. The matter went on, and eventually the Court of Common Pleas gave judgment for the plaintiff on demurrer, therefore deciding that he was entitled to presentation to the living. There was, therefore, nothing left to dispute about except costs. On the 20th of May last, the plaintiff wrote the legal advisers of the lord bishop, stating that, having regard to the decision of the Court of Common Pleas the only question that remained was one of costs, and asking whether they would agree to pay costs, and prevent the expense of bringing the cause to a hearing. This offer was refused, and the plaintiff was therefore invited to take the opinion of the Court. In conclusion, his lordship said that the plaintiff having shown that he had a clear legal right to the presentation, the defendant must pay the costs of the suit. He felt it was very hard on the bishop to pay the costs out of his own pocket, but in this case (not having put the plaintiff on his election) he must be called upon to indemnify the plaintiff. The order must be that the defendant must pay the costs of the suit.

Order accordingly.

TITHE RENT-CHARGES.

To the Editor of the "Ecclesiastical Gazette."

SIR,—The collection of rent-charges are legally made in the following manner:—When they become due half-yearly, it rests with the owner to apply personally or by an agent in the first instance to the occupier as soon as they are due. If the occupier is away when the owner calls, he must be directed to send the amount, which elicits the owner from any other personal visit. On application having been made, a notice for attendance to pay can be left. All courtesy ought to be observed, but any difficulty or delay in payment can be met by the usual course of law proceedings, as defined by the Act.

A Rector.

RATING OF TITHE RENT-CHARGES.

To the Editor of the "Ecclesiastical Gazette."

SIR,—In the question at the end of his last letter, V. evidently mistakes completely the purport of the discussion on the above-named subject. That point is not whether the clergy in avoid paying the full amount of their rates, it whether they are not actually paying a great deal more than their fair proportion. I agree that some of your other correspondents in maintaining that they are.

Of the net proceeds from land (exclusive of the lord's) it is reckoned that two-thirds go to the tenant, and that one-third is retained by the landlord as remuneration for the labour that he himself has to bestow upon the land, interest on his capital, &c. Rates are assessed upon the landlord's share alone: that accorded in turn for the tenant's labour, &c., is rate-free. In the case is differently treated when we come to the portion reserved as tithe; that, like the tenant's half-rent, is assigned to the parson in return for certain labour on his part; but, unlike the tenant's portion, it is not exempted from rates on that account. It may, or may not be, more than an adequate remuneration for those services; but in either case the parson's share is not assessed like the remaining portion, unless an allowance be made to him in respect of his performance of those labours.

The patron of a Living is in much the same position as the lord of a manor, who, upon the payment of a fine, hands over certain property to a tenant for life. The incumbent of a Living has to provide for the performance of certain work, or he will be deprived of his benefice; the tenant of a copyhold farm must provide for the farming of the land, or he will obtain no returns from it. The farm is rated upon two-thirds of the estimated net proceeds of the land; the Tithe of a benefice upon the whole of its net proceeds, instead of upon two-thirds thereof.

Or, to put it in another way, rent is the basis of rating: the rent of a farm is not the whole net proceeds thereof, but such portion thereof as it is calculated that a tenant can pay after a fair deduction has been made for his labour, &c. Similarly the rent of a Living (i.e. the gross estimated rental of a Living endowed solely with Tithes) ought, in common fairness, to be reckoned—not at the whole net proceeds thereof—but at that sum which a man would pay for it who had to provide for the performance of the necessary work; or, in other words, at that yearly sum which it is estimated that a clergyman providing for the parochial duty would be willing to pay for the benefice. That yearly sum will be found by deducting a more or less ample curate's salary from the net proceeds of the Living.

The present system of assessing tithe assumes that a clergyman's time and labour are of no value—even to himself.

MISCELLANEOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Day of Intercession for Missions.—Increase of the Indian Episcopate.—St. Andrew's Day (30th ult.) was very generally observed as a time for special intercession on behalf of Missions. His Grace the Primate addressed the following letter to the clergy of the province of Canterbury:—

"Stonehouse, St. Peter's, Thanet, Nov. 15.

"REV. AND DEAR BRETHREN,—St. Andrew's Day, which has been appointed as a time of special intercession on behalf of our missionaries to the heathen, is fast approaching, and I have received from the three great Missionary Societies of the Church of England, as well as from many of our brethren in the colonies, the assurance that the appointment of such a day is generally welcome to all interested in missionary work.

"I am aware that many of our brethren are of opinion that it is better not to associate the day set apart for special prayer with any general collection of money. Still many of you will no doubt be desirous of having such collections at the celebration of Holy Communion, or otherwise, and it seems to me that it may be right to take this opportunity for calling your attention to one particular very important effort now being made in connexion with our missions in India. The visit of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has directed our thoughts with more than usual vividness to our Indian responsibilities. We shall day by day in thought follow his Royal Highness's progress, and accompany him with prayers, not only that he may return in safety, but also that his visit may leave a blessing behind it among our distant fellow-subjects.

"His Royal Highness, in answer to letters which I had the honour to forward from the two great Missionary Societies, expressed deep interest in their work, and a determination to do all that is possible to advance the sacred cause to which Christian Missionaries devote their lives. No doubt his Royal Highness's visit will help to call forth greater interest amongst us in all Indian affairs, and more to familiarize us with the wants of our distant fellow-subjects, and the best mode of advancing their happiness. We Christians all hold that the greatest boon we can confer upon them is to make their civilization Christian.

"Now, for the permanent maintenance of pure Christianity in the East, those who are best acquainted with India tell us that it is of vital importance that we should take such steps as are required for the development of native churches in intimate connexion with our own National Church. Our three Bishops of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, presiding over enormous dioceses, appeal to us that we should, as a step indispensable for such progress, aid them in securing a subdivision of their labours. Legal difficulties which in former times were supposed to stand in the way of the appointment of additional Indian bishops have now disappeared. So much encouragement has been given by high authorities, both at home and in India, to the scheme for appointing assistant bishops, that the three great Church of England Societies directly interested in this matter, the Christian Knowledge Society, the Propagation of the Gospel Society, and the Church Missionary Society, have all come forward, each according to its view of the best mode of action, and concurred in offering liberal contributions towards the payment of such assistant bishops, and the Colonial Bishops Fund has voted 10,000*l.* towards the permanent endowment of new bishoprics. Indeed, besides the money to be expected in annual payment of missionary bishops' salaries from the Church Missionary Society, there is already a capital sum of 40,000*l.* promised on condition that it be made up to 60,000*l.*, and the Bishop of Madras, who has in his diocese above 160,000 native converts, of whom more than 90,000 are in connexion with the Church of England, has been encouraged to proceed so far in this matter as to name two of the most eminent Indian Missionaries to be his coadjutors in the new bishoprics—namely, the Rev. Dr. Caldwell, of the Propagation of the Gospel Society, and the Rev. Dr. Sargent, of the Church Missionary Society. Such men, from their long and tried missionary experience, are well qualified to form and train the native Indian Church.

"You may not, rev. and dear brethren, think it desirable to have a special additional collection for missions on the Day of Intercession, or you may have deep personal interests in some other branch of missionary work, to which you desire your people to devote their alms. Each clergyman is the best judge in this matter for his own parish; but you will not, I am sure, less willingly consider what I say when I lay before you at this time the claims of the effort to increase the Indian Episcopate, and thus take a marked step towards the consolidation of native Indian churches. Few subjects can be more important at the present time, whether we look to the deep responsibilities which devolve on Englishmen from their connexion with India, or to the fresh openings supplied for the fulfilment of their responsibilities.

"The increased means of intercommunication between ourselves and the East, the extension of civilizing influences now at work in India, through a generally diffused education, the consequent unsettlement of Hindoos and Mohammedans, ready to throw off the traditions of their ancient beliefs, and the fact that our wisest statesmen, who are best acquainted with India, now publicly acknowledge that the English nation has no more useful or faithful servants than our missionaries. All these concurring circumstances call upon us to spread in India the blessings of the Gospel and to help our Indian fellow-subjects while they form themselves into Christian communities, held together by a well-compacted ecclesiastical government, and united with our Church at home by the profession of a common faith and the love of a common Lord.

"I remain, rev. and dear brethren,

"Your faithful servant and brother,

"A. C. CANTUAR.

"To the Clergy of the Province of Canterbury."

The Visit of the Prince of Wales to India.—The Archbishop of Canterbury has addressed the following letter to the Dean of Westminster:—

"I thank you for sending to me your sermon preached in Westminster Abbey on the day preceding the departure of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales for India.

"I also thank you for sending to me the letter of your correspondent respecting the propriety of my applying to her Majesty to command, through the Privy Council, the use in all our churches during the next five months, of a special form of prayer, to be drawn up by me.

"You know that this matter had, before I heard from you, occupied my serious attention. I concur with you and your correspondent in a deep feeling of the importance of this visit of the Prince to her Majesty's Indian dominions. I rejoice that our two great Missionary societies deputed me to present to the Prince before his Royal Highness's departure addresses in which they called attention to the efforts which their Missionaries are making, and you are aware that the answers which his Royal Highness returned to these addresses expressed deep interest in the success of Christian missions. We have cause to believe that his Royal Highness is fully impressed with a sense of the great influence—political, social, and religious—which the present visit may exercise over the natives of India, and our own countrymen who dwell amongst them; and I am certain that his Royal Highness must feel comfort in knowing that he is attended by the prayers which are offered up, both for his personal safety, and for all the highest objects of the long journey now undertaken.

"It seems to me that it would be very difficult, if not impossible, to draw up a special and particular form of prayer which should be quite suited to meet all the various exigencies of this protracted journey, and yet be capable of being fully understood and heartily entered into by the worshippers in our thousands of congregations. We can all pray in simple words, as the nation did with such earnestness ten years ago, for his Royal Highness's health and the prolongation of his life. But this will only embrace a small part of what ought to be the subject of our petitions.

"I think, therefore, that, while all are exhorted specially to ask for such blessings on the Prince's journey as they feel to be needed, our public petitions will be best expressed in those simple words of the Book of Common Prayer into which all can enter, and which, while they are so simple that they give utterance to the general feelings of all, are yet capable of being applied by each individual petitioner as an invocation of those special blessings which he feels to be most needed.

"I believe that this view is taken by the majority of our thoughtful people who, yet, myself, gladly welcome any published form of prayer which may assist us in realizing the great importance of this visit.

"I understand that his Royal Highness expected to reach Bombay on the 9th of November, and I doubt not that his whole coming in India will be followed by the prayers of the nation, both private and public.

"Believing that you will concur with me in the view I have taken, and anxiously trusting that all Christians throughout her Majesty's dominions will unite with more than usual earnestness at this time in their accustomed prayers for the Prince's welfare.

"A. C. CANTUAR."

His Grace requests the clergy of his diocese to give notice during Divine Service that "The prayers of the congregation are desired for the Prince of Wales during his journey in India, that it may be for his own best happiness, for the welfare of the empire, and for the glory of Almighty God."

A similar request to the clergy of his diocese has been made by the Bishop of London.

Proceedings under the Public Worship Regulation Act.—By the resignation of the Official Principal of the Chancery Court of York, Lord Penzance becomes Provincial Judge in the provinces, and all proceedings under the Public Worship Act will now be taken under a regular constituted ecclesiastical judge, holding office from the archbishops.

PULVERMACHER'S GALVANIC APPLIANCES.

MR. SIMON SMITHARD'S TESTIMONIAL.

47, Dashwood-street, Derby, November, 1875.
 DEAR SIR,—For some weeks past I have been convinced that it was my duty to send you the following particulars of an illness through which I have passed, and the successful application of your Galvanic Appliances in that illness.

During the last thirty-four years I have been constantly engaged in the public advocacy of teetotalism. I have spoken usually five nights a week, and have also sung a selection of temperance and other songs each evening. The rooms in which these meetings have been held have generally been crowded, and consequently very hot. To keep these appointments, which have not been confined to any particular locality or district, I have had to take long journeys in all kinds of weather, in the most inexpensive methods of travelling. I have had all sorts of home accommodation away from home, and I have sustained this mental and physical labour cheerfully, without one drop of intoxicating drinks. Water, plain food, and refreshing sleep—with a thankful spirit—these have covered all my wants, and furnished the needful strength for the performance of my duties. While on one of these "errands of mercy" last winter I had the very great misfortune to sleep in a damp bed, which, with subsequent exposure, completely prostrated me. I lost nearly all the feeling out of my left side. I had constant and distressing pains in my back, and considerable functional derangement of the kidneys. I could not walk far without experiencing great fatigue. I was obliged to relinquish all my engagements, and get the best medical help I could. The doctors I consulted entered into my case with the greatest kindness and intelligence. Their prescriptions and advice were very useful to me; in fact, they seemed to me far more anxious to get me well than to get my money. They all said I needed a prolonged rest of both body and mind, and entire freedom from anxiety. For some time I found myself but slightly relieved from the adverse symptoms, and having seen in the Christian World newspaper an account from Mr. Robert Seager, of Ipswich, of his wonderful recovery from nervous exhaustion by the use of your Galvanic Appliances, and having known Mr. Seager for twenty-five years as an earnest temperance reformer, and a man of spotless honour and probity, I wrote to ask him whether he thought the remedy, which had been so successful in his case, might not also be useful in mine.

Mr. Seager went at once into my case with the most disinterested kindness, assuring me that he had great hope that by patient perseverance with your Galvanic Bands, and with the advantages of my temperate habits, I should soon find relief. I am very thankful indeed that I wrote to Mr. Seager. I have now worn the bands which he recommended five months, and although I am not yet fully restored, I am so much better as to be able to take a number of public engagements. The bands impart to me a stream of warmth and life-giving energy which I had failed to get by any other means. My cold and feeble side is gradually regaining its natural condition; my voice is nearly as strong as formerly; I can walk a considerable distance without fatigue; and I am hoping soon to be able to take a full programme of work. I know who suffer from ailments similar to my own, and I knew the value of these "continuous currents" of electricity, as supplied by your wonderful contrivances, and would resort to them instead of delusive alcoholic stimulants, I am fully persuaded many would be restored to health who otherwise will, I fear, go down to premature graves. I feel that I have found a blessing which ought not by reticence to withhold from others, and if you think this testimony will be of the least use to those who suffer, you are at liberty to publish the same.

I am, dear Sir, yours faithfully,

SIMON SMITHARD.

F. L. Pulvermacher, Esq., 194, Regent-street, London.

CLERGY LIST, 1876.

The CLERGY LIST for 1876 is now ready, and can be obtained of any bookseller, or will be forwarded post-free, on receipt of 10s.

Publishing Office,

NOTICES.

THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE was established in 1838 for the purpose of circulating among the Clergy and Laity authentic information on all subjects relating to the Church. It was not intended to be a vehicle for theological discussions or opinions, but a record of facts, and a general medium of intelligence.

With these objects in view, it will be the aim of the present Editor and Publishers, to produce so far as is possible, a complete and valuable record of the work of the Church, and its various auxiliary Institutions.

The ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE, beside the ordinary information respecting the Clergy, the Universities, and the Institutions of the Church generally, contains Notices and Circulars from the Bishops, Archdeacons, and other Ecclesiastical Authorities, Acts of Parliament, Decisions of the Courts of Law, Parliamentary Reports, Committee Evidence, and other authentic documents, which relate to the interests of the Church and the Clergy. One of its chief features is the insertion of authorized Reports of the Proceedings of the Church Societies, together with monthly Extracts from their Correspondence. The state of the Church in the Colonies, and the condition of Foreign Churches, are objects of great attention. Authentic Documents, or Communications, upon these subjects, are frequently inserted. Thus an extended view is presented of the state of Ecclesiastical Affairs, both at home and abroad.

The present number of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE contains a Supplement, with a full report of the case of Clifton v. Ridsdale, before the Court of Arches, under the Public Worship Regulation Act.

THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE is now published by WILLIAM CLOWES AND SONS, and it is requested that all communications, except Advertisements, be addressed to their publishing office, at 13 Charing Cross, London, S.W. Advertisements for the next Number should be sent to GEORGE COX, 20 King William Street, Strand, W.C., not later than Friday, February 4.

THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE will be forwarded as hitherto and until further notice, to the resident Clergyman of every parish throughout England and Wales gratis, and to others on payment, in advance, of 6s. annually.

Notices of Preferments and Deaths of Clergymen are inserted gratuitously, and should be forwarded as early as possible.

PORTFOLIOS with strings, to hold two years' numbers, may be obtained (by order) of any Bookseller, price 2s. 6d.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Anonymous communications cannot be noticed. The names and addresses of correspondents must be given, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

Candidates both for deacons' and priests' orders should lose no time in applying to the bishop for permission to offer themselves. The following certificates are required for deacons' orders:—A certificate of having attended two courses of lectures by Divinity Professors, one of whom shall be the Regius Professor in the case of graduates of Oxford; a certificate of the B.A. degree and the Divinity Testimonium in the case of graduates of Dublin; the Divinity Certificate in the case of graduates and others of St. David's College, Lampeter. For information respecting the examination, application is to be made to the Venerable Archdeacon De Winton, Bongbroad Rectory, Llyswen, R.S.O., South Wales. All necessary papers are to be sent one month at least before the day of ordination to Mr. John H. Barker, Quay Street, Carmarthen, the bishop's secretary, who will in due time give notice of the place and time of examination.

The Bishop of Gloucester's ordination will take place on Sunday, March 12. Candidates should apply to the bishop's secretary.

VISITATION.

The Bishop of Hereford intends holding his next visitation during the week commencing on Monday, April 24.

Religious Societies, etc.

The next Monthly General Meeting will be held on Tuesday, February 1, 1876, at 2 p.m.

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.

67 Lincoln's Inn Fields.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1876.

Major-Gen. Sir H. CHARLES B. DAUBENEY, K.C.B., in the chair.

After Prayers, the minutes of the last meeting were read.

MONEY GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

DIOCESE OF ONTARIO.—The bishop forwarded three applications made on the society's forms and duly countersigned by himself.

The first was an application for a grant towards a free-seated church in the parish of Brockville. It is proposed to erect a stone church to accommodate about 600 persons. The church is to be free for ever, and the site is to be vested in the bishop.

The estimated cost is $15,000, or about 3000*l.* sterling. There are subscriptions already promised to the value of $3300=660*l.*, with a prospect of obtaining from $3000 to $4000 more, or from 600*l.* to 800*l.* more. The whole sum yet subscribed has been promised in the town of Brockville.

The Church population consists of about 180 families, or 800 men, women, and children.

The majority of the people are operatives in factories, or employed on railways; their means are very limited, and in the present state of commercial depression they can give but little.

The Church people predominate in the quarter where the church is to be built.

The Rev. E. P. Crawford, Incumbent of Trinity, West Brookville, says that the church has been needed for fifteen years; it is to be built in a quarter of the town where none of the richer people live. There are a large number of very poor people who are actual objects of charity, and the strain of supporting a clergyman is as much almost as the congregation can manage at present.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions, viz.

That previously to the payment of the grant the bishop should have certified that the receipt of it will lead to the immediate completion of the building, and further that the building is free from all liability for debt, duly secured as Church property for ever, and adequately insured.

The second case was for a wooden church in course of erection at Nanpance, to accommodate about 120 persons, the Rev. David F. Bogert being the curate in charge.

The estimated cost of this is about $1000=200*l.*; the amount already expended is $370, and about $300 more have been promised, leaving a deficiency of about 66*l.*

The church, which is intended to accommodate the inhabitants of the entire northern part of the township, will be the property of the synod of the diocese.

The people are agricultural labourers and lumberers, hard-working, but far from well off; they are much scattered, and the Church people are interspersed with the Methodists, who preponderate.

In this case (subject to its being distinct from that in which a grant was made for a church in the same town, in January 1875), the society, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, granted 25*l.*, upon the usual conditions.

The third case from the diocese of Ontario was from the Rev. D. P. Merritt, who applied for a grant towards a new church at Tarbolton.

The estimated cost of a wooden church to accommodate 200 people is $1100. The sum in hand is $547.25=220*l.* Another sum of $100 is promised.

The site, which was the gift of one of the inhabitants, has been invested in the Incorporated Synod of the Diocese of Ontario.

The people are poor settlers on new farms. The land is at present rough, but is being quickly taken up, so that there is need of providing religious privileges.

The people are unable to complete the church without extraneous aid. They have suffered recently from bush fires and failure of crops.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, and subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions, to grant 20*l.* in this case.

DIOCESE OF QUEBEC.—The bishop forwarded an application, on one of the society's forms, duly countersigned by himself, from the Rev. Henry Roe, Professor of Divinity, Bishop's College, Lennoxville, and acting missionary at Ascot Corner, for a grant towards a new church.

The church, which is to accommodate about 100 persons, will be of wood, on stone foundations, and will cost about 250*l.* Towards making up this sum, 80*l.* have been raised on the spot. The rest will have to be raised in the parishes of Quebec, Sherbrooke, and Lennoxville.

The site is vested in the bishop as trustee.

The church is meant for a section of country about four miles in circumference, not very thickly settled. The present congregation, which meets in a school-house, numbers from sixty to seventy regularly. There is service and a Sunday school every Sunday.

The people have contributed very largely considering their means, and Mr. Roe hopes that nearly if not quite all of them will be gathered into the church when built. There is no other religious service except that conducted by Mr. Roe, and one conducted by Universalists, within six or seven miles. The work is, Mr. Roe says, as truly missionary as if it were in India or Melanesia.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 25*l.*, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF NOVA SCOTIA.—The Rev. W. E. Gelling applied, on behalf of the congregation of Holy Trinity Church, Bridgewater, for assistance towards finishing their church.

Mr. Gelling wrote as follows:—

"This is comparatively a new parish, and its trade and residents fluctuating. The people have lately finished a new rectory at a large expense.

"Up to the present time they have been generally able to meet all demands amongst themselves, but for the last two years the chief trade of the place, viz. ship-building and lumbering, has been on the decline, owing to a general depression.

"That your memorialists have commenced a much required addition to the church, in which all the pews are free, by building a suitable chancel which will seat about thirty persons, and will cost about 200*l.* This addition was much required, for the seats being all free, the choir could with difficulty be kept together. The work was commenced this year, expecting that trade would revive; now a long winter has commenced, and their means are too limited to carry on the work."

The bishop very strongly endorsed Mr. Gelling's appeal, and spoke very highly of his work and of the exertions made by him and his people to do what was wanted for themselves till the present stagnation of the lumber trade came upon them.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 30*l.* in this case, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF AUCKLAND.—The Bishop of Auckland forwarded and recommended an application from the Rev. F. C. Lloyd for a grant in aid of a new church that is about to be erected in the important settlement of Hamilton, of which he has the charge.

Mr. Lloyd wrote as follows:—

"The population has been largely increased of late by a considerable influx of immigrants, who are not in a position at present to render any pecuniary assistance whatever, although their existence here is one cause for urgent need of increased church accommodation.

"The building that is to be put up is to cost 1000*l.* Five hundred pounds at least we hope to be able to raise from private subscriptions, &c. (including 300*l.* that is which we have now in hand), whilst the remaining 500*l.* must be raised from other sources.

"The church is to accommodate 300 people, and is to be built of kauri wood upon a central site provided by the New Zealand government.

"We are, and have been, doing our utmost to further the work of the Church, and the goodwill of our people for the Church's cause is very heavily taxed, as of necessity it must be in new parts of the world like these where the Church is self-supporting."

To this appeal the bishop added:—

"The Hamilton people are most deserving of help. They pay the stipend of their clergymen from the weekly offertory, and have lately built a parsonage. I would ask the society for a grant of 50*l.* for the new church."

The committee added that this case had been before them in October last, but that at that time they had agreed to wait for answers to inquiries made by the society as to whether the church proposed was to be entirely new and additional, or one to replace an old structure.

Mr. Lloyd had written as follows in reply:—
"I have to inform you that the church to be built is not to be an additional one. The building that has hitherto been in use was a temporary structure erected for a substitute for a church that immediately upon its completion was burnt down. The present building in use has been sold for 105*l.*, which is to go towards the new church in question."

Mr. Lloyd again pleaded the recent influx of immigrants as a reason why he needed help, and the bishop again recommended the case.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF MELBOURNE.—The secretary informed the committee that he had received a letter from Mr. R. B. Dickinson, hon. secretary of the Melbourne Diocesan Missionary Society, in reference to a grant of 10*l.* made in March last in aid of the fund for erecting a mission church at St. Arnaud for the use of the Chinese.

At the time named the total cost of this church was estimated at 35*l.*, towards which 16*l.* were in hand.

Mr. Dickinson now stated that the cost of the church had exceeded the estimate, and amounted to 59*l.* 6*s.*, and that in addition a two-room cottage for the native missionary catechist had been built at a cost of 28*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* Mr. Dickinson therefore appealed for an increased grant and pleaded the great difficulty in which a Church work in Melbourne was placed by its withdrawal at the end of the year 1875 of St. Aid.

Mr. Dickinson forwarded a certificate from Thomas T. A'Beckett, registrar of the diocese to the effect that a site for this church had been set apart by the Governor of Victoria in 1862 "as a site for Church of England mission purposes," and that all had been done that was necessary for the legal security of the land as buildings thereupon for Church purposes in perpetuity.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 10*l.* more for the mission church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF SIERRA LEONE.—The bishop, who, when he wrote, was in this country, but had since left, applied for a grant for rebuilding a school-church at Aberdeen, in the parish of St. Paul, Sierra Leone.

The school, which will be built of stone, iron, and wood, is to accommodate 120, and will cost 205*l*.

Towards making up this sum, 40*l*. are in hand, having been raised on the spot; 60*l*. have been promised by the church committee.

Mr. Robbin, the native pastor, says that the site is invested in the bishop; but the bishop wrote,—"hardly so at present; more correctly in the Church Missionary Society;" and he added, "I am not aware whether Mr. Robbin has damaged his case at all by entering it as a rebuilding. It is a case where a temporary building is yielding to a more permanent structure."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, and subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions, to grant 20*l*. for the completion of this school-church.

CHINA.—BISHOP RUSSELL.—Bishop Russell, writing from Ningpo on November 2, 1875, applied for a grant in aid of building a training college for Chinese youths, with a view to training them for the Christian ministry. The site has been already secured, adjoining the bishop's own compound, and has been enclosed with a good substantial wall ten feet high. The bishop is anxious to begin building as soon as he can see his way to the required sum. Several very promising young men, who have been educated in one of the preparatory schools, are waiting for admission; and a clergyman, a scholar of Cambridge, son of the Rev. Canon Hoare, of Tunbridge Wells, is on his way out to take the superintendence of the college as soon as he has acquired the requisite knowledge of Chinese.

It is proposed to provide accommodation for thirty young men, sons of Christian Chinese. The estimated cost is 808*l*. 7*s*. 7*d*. Towards this the C.M.S. has given 400*l*.; Ningpo friends, 48*l*. 7*s*. 7*d*. A further sum of 135*l*. is expected from Shanghai, and there will remain a deficiency of 225*l*.

The property will be vested in the Church Missionary Society.

The native Christians are for the most part poor, and belong chiefly to the artisan class. Those for whom the college is intended are all members of the Church of England as represented in China. The need for such an institution is very great, as there is no other means at present for training natives for the ministry.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 75*l*. for the completion of this college, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

MELANESIAN MISSION.—The Rev. John Palmer, of the Melanesian Mission, and now in this country, applied, at the request of Mr. Codrington, the head of the mission, for a grant of type or the use of the mission to the value of 5*l*.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

BOOK GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

Book: Grants, Special and Ordinary, including one made on the responsibility of the secretary during the vacation, and subsequently sanctioned by the standing committee, were agreed to.

DIOCESE OF CHICHESTER.—The Rev. J. Russell Walker, hon. secretary of the Bishop's Council and Inspector for the Diocese of Chichester, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 10*l*. to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of the diocesan association, the whole of the books to be given as prizes to pupil teachers and paid monitors who shall gain first places in an examination recently held in religious knowledge.

The statistics for 1873 and 1874 were as follows:—

	1873.	1874.
1st class . . . .	38	43
2nd class . . . .	117	129
3rd class . . . .	122	96
Failed . . . .	39	50
	316	318

In 1875, 360 were presented for examination. It was agreed to grant books in this case at charge upon the society's funds of 10*l*.

DIOCESE OF PETERBOROUGH.—Archdeaconry of Leicester.—The Rev. Edmund Willes applied for two grants of S.P.C.K. books to the joint value of 20*l*., to meet an equal expenditure in books on the part of the Archidiaconal Board of Education, of which he is the hon. secretary, the whole of the books to be given either to pupil teachers or to scholars in elementary church schools who shall gain first classes in central or simultaneous examinations in religious knowledge, to be held in March next. There will probably be 200 pupil teachers and 400 scholars offering themselves for examination.

This grant was, on the recommendation of the standing committee, made as applied for, at a charge of 20*l*. on the society's charitable funds.

DIOCESE OF OXFORD.—Mission.—The Rev. N. Freeling, rural dean, applied, on behalf of a mission about to be held in Oxford, for tracts to the value of 6*l*. 16*s*. 3*d*. to be supplied at half-price.

This grant was made as applied for.

DIOCESE OF KINGSTON, JAMAICA.—The Bishop of Kingston applied for a grant of books for seven Sunday schools in the charge of the Rev. H. H. Isaacs, Incumbent of Woodford.

Mr. Isaacs says that he has a larger number of Sunday schools under his management than any other clergyman in Jamaica.

His schools are as follows:—

	Average.
1. Grove, first class, on books 151	87
2. Grove (infants) " 40	25
3. Woodford, second class " 91	45
4. August Town " 100	51
5. Bowden Hill, third class 70	45
6. Hall's Delight " 40	29
7. Jack's Hill: To be opened January 1876.

The schools have all passed respectably in their different classes; five out of the seven have been built by Mr. Isaacs, and three of them are used for divine service. With hardly an exception, Mr. Isaacs' congregation consists of natives who are unable to help.

Bibles, school books, and maps were asked for.

The bishop speaks highly of Mr. Isaacs' work.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant books to the value of 20*l*. in this case.

DIOCESE OF CALCUTTA.—Rev. John E. Marks, S.P.G. Missionary, Burma, now in this country, wrote as follows:—

"19 Delahay Street, Westminster, S.W.,

"December 30, 1875.

"REV. AND DEAR SIR,—The favours which both for my mission work in Burma, and for myself personally, I have received in former years from your venerable society, embolden me to apply to you again before I leave England for assistance in the shape of grants from your catalogues of the excellent books, &c. published by the society.

"I would first of all tender my heartfelt thanks for the liberal grant of 100*l*. made last year to me, on the application of the Lord Bishop of Calcutta, to enable me to print the revised edition of the Prayer Book in Burmese. The troubles at Mandalay, and then my own enforced return to England for medical assistance, have hindered the completion of the work; but on my return to Burma—I leave (D.V.) on January 27—it will be proceeded with as fast as possible. I have not yet drawn the money, though I believe that the Rev. W. Bray has paid some part of it for the first portion—the Daily Services, which were finished before I left Burma in April last.

"I have now to apply to you for further help. And I would ask first for our mission schools. Of these, we have for boys four, and for girls also four in British Burma. In St. John's College we have now about 250 boys and young men, all of whom are learning Christianity and English. In Henzadah we have over 100 boys who are being similarly instructed. Government are running us very hard by building and supporting at great expense secular schools, where English only is taught and all religious teaching is excluded. Hitherto these schools have not hurt us, and I have every reason to believe that, so long as we continue faithfully to teach, we shall always have as many pupils as we can receive. But in order that we may be enabled to teach our religion efficiently, we must have those books, &c. that in schools in England have been found so useful. I earnestly ask your help to enable my colleagues and myself to give to the young of Burma, with that knowledge for which they are thirsting, that learning which is able to make them 'wise unto salvation, through faith which is in Christ Jesus.'

"Again: I am exceedingly anxious that for the hundreds of young men who now leave our Anglo-vernacular schools we may have Christian English books, of the excellent sort which you publish for their reading, instead of the vile trash which so readily finds sale there now. For this purpose I ask your help for our school library.

"Rangoon is little short of 1000 miles from Calcutta, the nearest library of reference on theological matters. I need say no more to urge your liberality to a grant for our mission library.

"For our mission chapel I have to plead for your kind help. It is our only place of worship, and it is a large upper room in St. John's College. We have there daily services in English and Burmese, and on Sundays in Tamil. We have large native congregations, and a goodly and increasing band of the Christian students of the college—European, Eurasian, and native, for whom we have English services. For such people we ought to have everything about the sanctuary very decent and attractive; but the poverty of the place was to me very painful on my return from my favoured church at Mandalay. My people, with my colleagues and myself, will be grateful indeed for your kind help for our chapel.

"May I ask for 5*l*. for prizes for the S.P.G. Mission school at Henzadah, a large town on the Irawady, in Pegu Province. The school was built by the people themselves; it never had aid from England. It has always been taught by one of my own pupils, as at present. It maintains a very high character, and is most honourably reported on by the government inspector. My colleague, the Rev. C. H. Chard, writes to me: 'It is a real mission school. The first class boys, if not all Christians, are not far from the kingdom of God. Do try to bring out for them some suitable Christian books as prizes.' The Chief Commissioner of British Burma speaks most highly of the boys, and he gave them 5*l*. towards their gymnasium.

"May I ask for ten copies of your admirable Commentary in two volumes, for the teachers and masters and mistresses of our schools in Toungoo, Thyetmyo, Promé, Henzadah, Myan Oung, Moulmein, and Rangoon. The copy that you kindly sent me, though unfortunately defectively bound, has proved so useful to my assistants that I venture to ask this further favour.

"Lastly, I ask for myself. I have been sixteen years a missionary of the S.P.G. in Burma, and I leave for Rangoon again next month. I am the society's senior missionary, and also minister of the Irawady station.

"I should be glad to re-establish the depot in Rangoon. We have now eligible and well-situated premises; the other clergy of Rangoon—three in number—will join in it. The Rev. J. A. Colbeck or Mr. S. Grinae, of St. Augustine's, who goes out with me, will manage it, and I will undertake to see that accounts are regularly furnished to you. I would ask for 50*l.* worth of books to be selected by me for this purpose.

"I have asked largely because my wants are great. I well know that you will do what you can for us. May God's blessing be ever on your society, and on all its efforts for the promotion of His saving knowledge.

"I beg to remain," &c.

Mr. Marks had indicated the books which he wished to have, and they amounted for each object specified to the following sums, viz. :—

For mission schools . . . . .	£66	5	0
For college library and mission . . . . .	7	15	0
For school library . . . . .	6	19	8
Maps, school prize books, and commentaries for teachers . . . . .	16	9	0
For personal use . . . . .	7	11	2
Service books for mission chapel . . . . .	12	15	4
Almanacks, &c. . . . .	3	2	6
250 copies of Chinese tracts and books for establishing a depot . . . . .	50	0	0

In all . . . . . £170 17 8

Books to this amount were granted on the recommendation of the standing committee.

FRENCH NEW TESTAMENT.—The Rev. Lewis Borret White, secretary of the Colonial and Continental Church Society, applied on behalf of the Rev. C. Faulkner, chaplain at Roubaix and Croix, for a grant of New Testaments in French to the value of 8*l.*, to meet an equal purchase.

The books will be sold, and the proceeds of sale reinvested in the purchase of fresh supplies.

This grant was, on the recommendation of the standing committee, made as applied for.

PORTUGUESE AND SPANISH SCRIPTURES.—The Rev. J. E. Dalton, of Seagrave, near Loughborough, applied for a grant of Gospels and New Testaments in Spanish and Portuguese to the value of 10*l.*, to meet an equal purchase.

Mr. Dalton said he had the means of distributing the books in Spain and Portugal, and had every confidence that the work would be carefully done.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

JAPAN.—Yedo.—The Rev. A. C. Shaw, S.P.G. Missionary in Japan, applied for a supply of the society's publications with a view to their being on sale in the shop of a bookseller in Yedo, who had various agencies throughout the country for the sale of books.

Mr. Shaw mentioned that the Rev. John Piper, secretary of the C.M.S. Mission in Japan, approved of the attempt to supply wholesome English literature in Yedo.

The committee recommended that books, at a charge upon the charity of 50*l.*, should be placed at the disposal of Mr. Shaw, on the understanding that he would undertake that the proceeds of sales should either be reinvested in the purchase of fresh S.P.C.K. books or else returned to the society as a donation.

The recommendation of the standing committee was adopted.

GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE, OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

DIOCESE OF GOULBURN.—In accordance with notice given at the last meeting, and for reasons set forth at length in the last monthly report, the standing committee proposed the following resolution, viz. :—

"That a further sum of 500*l.* be voted for the permanent endowment of the see of Goulburn, to meet a further sum of 4500*l.* to be raised from other sources within five years. The whole sum of 5000*l.* to be permanently and securely invested, in a manner satisfactory to the standing committee, for the endowment of the see of Goulburn."

This resolution was carried.

BISHOP OF ST. JOHN, KAFFRARIA (DR. CALLAWAY).—The standing committee, also in accordance with notice given at the last meeting, and for reasons set forth at length in the last monthly report, proposed the following resolution, viz. :—

"That the sum of 500*l.* be reserved for the use of the Bishop of St. John, Kaffraria, for the exclusive purpose of enabling him to assist in building churches and schools in his diocese, on condition that in no case shall any grant be made out of this sum which is not met by at least three times the amount from other sources; in other words, that the society's contribution shall in no case exceed one-fourth portion of the cost of any school or church; and that no grant shall be paid unless the receipt of it will lead to the immediate completion of the building in aid of which it is made, and to its being free from all liability for debt; and further, unless the building has been adequately insured and duly secured, as the property of the Church for ever."

This resolution was carried.

REPORTS AND NOTICES FROM THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

DIOCESE OF BLOEMFONTEIN.—The standing committee reported that the bishop of this diocese, before leaving on Christmas Day with his mission party of not less than twenty-four persons, had applied for a grant from Canning's Fund in aid of the passage of four clergymen who were to sail with him. The cost of each clergyman's journey to Bloemfontein was reckoned at 60*l.*, and the standing committee had granted 240*l.* from Canning's Trust.

DIOCESE OF DUNEDIN.—The standing committee reported that the Hon. and Rev. Latimer Neville, master of Magdalene College, Cambridge, acting as commissary to the Bishop of Dunedin, had applied for a grant from Canning's Fund in aid of the passage to New Zealand of Mr. John Hobbs, a student of St. Augustine's, Canterbury, who, on the strong recommendation of the warden, had been accepted by Mr. Neville for work in the diocese of Dunedin.

Mr. Hobbs is son of Archdeacon Hobbs, of Mauritius, and is desirous of proceeding to New Zealand by Mauritius; the expense is estimated at not less than 90*l.* by that route. Mr. Hobbs has no means. Mr. Neville says that the bishop is continually urging upon him the great need for additional clergymen. Mr. Neville undertakes to give a guarantee for the return of any grant in case Mr. Hobbs should not be ordained within a specified time except for failure of health or some other reason beyond his own control.

The warden of St. Augustine speaks very highly of Mr. Hobbs, who has passed his college course and the Board of S.P.G., and is ready for ordination by the Bishop of Dunedin on his arrival in New Zealand.

The warden also stated that Mr. Hobbs has no means whatsoever of his own, and had assured the committee that he is very careful in making or supporting applications for grants from Canning's Fund, and that he had in fact refused to do so in two cases, though pressed.

The committee reported that they had agreed to give 60*l.* from Canning's Fund in aid of Mr. Hobbs' passage to Dunedin, on condition of Mr. Neville giving an unqualified guarantee respecting the return of the money in case Mr. Hobbs should not be ordained within three months of the time arranged for his arrival in New Zealand.

DIOCESE OF LONDON.—St. Bartholomew's, Islington.—The committee reported that the Rev. L. Stanham, vicar of this parish, had applied for a renewal of a grant to enable him to rent a board school in his parish for Sunday school purposes.

Last year Mr. Stanham had received from the society 33*l.* to assist him in renting two rooms to accommodate 329 children at a total rent of 45*l.* 5*s.* Mr. Stanham had been told, when the grant was announced to him, that he must depend upon a renewal of it.

Now Mr. Stanham asked for aid towards renting one room only, to accommodate 150, at a total rent of 18*l.* 15*s.*

Owing in part to the continuance of a ragged school on Sundays which Mr. Stanham expected to be discontinued, the Sunday school in the board school had not been so well attended as had been expected.

Mr. Stanham has sixteen teachers and two superintendents, one for boys and one for girls; one of these is leaving; the average attendance on Sundays has been 120, a little less than half that number being present in the morning; the hours of school have been 9.30 and 3; there has also been a Sunday evening service, conducted by members of the Diocesan Lay Help Association and others at 7 p.m., with attendances varying from 70, the minimum, to 130, the maximum. Mr. Stanham reports that the other Sunday schools in his parish have been quite as well if not better attended than before, and the children gathered into the board school have been of the poorest class, who previously attended no Sunday school. There are many more in the books than in attendance, the plea for absence being very generally want of clothes.

Mr. Stanham had also applied to the Bishop of London's Fund.

The committee reported that they had agreed to grant Mr. Stanham 10*l.* out of the money at their disposal, to assist him in providing the rent, and on the understanding that he must not depend upon a renewal of the grant.

DIOCESE OF PETERBOROUGH.—Wellingborough.—The Rev. R. P. Lightfoot, vicar of this parish, had applied for a grant in aid of the rent of a room in his parish for Sunday school purposes. The room is admirably adapted to the purpose, and most centrally situated. It was formerly a Wesleyan chapel, and Mr. Lightfoot has now succeeded in obtaining the exclusive use of it on Sundays. It will be used four times on each Sunday.

The school will meet in the morning and afternoon, and there will be two children's services in it, at 10.45 and 6, conducted by laymen.

Mr. Lightfoot mentioned that Sunday schools in connection with the parish church (exclusive of those in connection with the new parish of All Saints) are now being held in nine different rooms, and that he is now engaged in hiring another room in addition to that for which he is asking help.

The rent is 6*l.* 10*s.*, and other necessary expenses will bring up the total cost to not less than 12*l.* The parish is not at all wealthy; in fact there are but very few Church people indeed above the position of tradespeople. The school board decline to let their rooms for Sunday school purposes to any one.

The committee reported that they had agreed to give 5*l.* for one year in this case.

DIOCESE OF PETERBOROUGH.—All Saints, Wellingborough.—The Rev. Frederic W. Willis, vicar of this parish, applied for assistance towards the rent of a room at 14*l.* per annum for Sunday school purposes.

In December 1874, Mr. Willis received promise of 8*l.* 10*s.* in aid of the rent of two other rooms, and this sum Mr. Willis has either received or will receive on application.

Mr. Willis has now taken an additional room at a rent of 14*l.* Upon fitting up this room Mr. Willis has spent nearly 50*l.*

Mr. Willis' parish has a population of nearly 5000 working men and women, with children in large numbers. There is no endowment near vicarage; the only church fund is the offertory, which last year realized about 160*l*. The existing schools are well attended, and there is need of increased accommodation.

The committee reported that they had agreed to give 10*l*. in this case for one year.

FUND FOR AIDING TO TRAIN STUDENTS FOR HOLY ORDERS ABROAD.—The standing committee reminded the meeting that in April 1873 the society had placed at their disposal the sum of 2500*l*. for the purpose of enabling them to make grants in aid of training native students for Holy Orders in the colonies and in India, in the hope that grants made by the committee would be met by at least an equal sum from other sources. That in March 1874 the terms of this grant were extended so as to enable the committee to make grants in places beyond the British Dominions, such as Independent Kaffraria and Madagascar.

The standing committee added that in each case, as a grant had been made, it had been reported to the general meeting, and that the following is a complete list of the sums reserved or paid up to the present time:—

Thus grants have been made in aid of training forty-four additional native students for Holy Orders in the colonies and elsewhere abroad for periods varying from four years to one, the majority being for three years. Three of the grants above named, amounting to 187*l*. 10*s*., have lapsed, so that the actual charge, if no further grants lapse, will be 2847*l*., being 347*l*. in excess of the amount put at their disposal in April 1873.

The committee expressed their regret that, through an oversight, they should have pledged the society to a larger sum than they ought to have done; but earnestly trusted that, in consideration of the good work which is being done in a vast variety of dioceses and in every quarter of the globe, the society would not only vote a sum sufficient to meet the overcharge upon this grant, but that they would again place a sum of money at their disposal, to enable them to go on with this work.

They therefore gave notice that in February next they would propose that the sum of 2500*l*. be placed at the disposal of the standing committee to enable them to assist in training additional native students for holy orders in the colonies, in India, and elsewhere abroad, in the hope that the aid afforded by way of scholarships to theological students will be met by at least an equal sum in every case in the colonies and other places which receive assistance.

The committee added that, in addition to the expenditure above reported, two specific grants had been made by the society for training young men abroad for holy orders, being one of 1050*l*., in May 1874, to Bishop Burdon, of Hongkong, in aid of training six native Chinese students for holy orders for seven years; another of 220*l*., to aid in training eight native students for two years in the diocese of Kingston, Jamaica.

The bishops speak most highly of the value of these grants, reckoning them amongst the most valuable which the society makes. It is not only the case that clergy from England cannot be obtained in anything like sufficient numbers, but also that there are posts abroad for which clergy born and educated on the spot are better suited than men from England.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR FEBRUARY GENERAL MEETING.

Wm. Harris, Esq., gave notice that at the next general meeting, on Tuesday, February 1, he should propose:—

"That the objections to certain publications of the Tract Committee mentioned or referred to in the report for the month of May 1875 be now read; and also that the decision of the episcopal referees referred to in the report for July 1875 be read also."

LETTERS OF THANKS, &c.

Prince Albert Settlement, Saskatchewan, November 12, 1875.

MY DEAR MR. SWABEY.—I am glad to say that I have been able to make a contract with a responsible person for the building of the second church here referred to in my printed notes. I have paid in advance on the contract 80*l*. from the S.P.C.K. grant.

The first church (St. Mary's) will, I expect, be open for service next month. Some delay has occurred, but in this country that is the rule rather than the exception in getting buildings erected.

I brought out one of the S.P.C.K. book boxes; the other will follow in the spring; the books are an immense boon to my diocese. The Bishop Mann's Catechism will be the sine qua non at every school, both Sunday and day, where I have the control. I had a dozen young people in here to-day practising "Nearer my God to Thee," "Abide with Me," and "Jerusalem the Golden," for Sunday, out of the Hymn Book. I am giving readings from the "Lives of the Early Fathers," with Litany Services on Wednesdays. I think the hymn books and tracts admirably suited to the wants of this new diocese.

The missionary here has resigned owing to the illness of his wife and child whom he left in Canada. I have appointed a catechist until a clergyman can be procured. The catechist is my old pupil at St. John's College, Manitoba, and will be ordained by me in two years (D.V.).

I am alone here, Mrs. McLean was too weak to risk the journey. She will (D.V.) come by steamer next July. Ever faithfully yours,

J. SASKATCHEWAN.

Just fancy—this letter will be carried 600 miles before it can be posted!

Brighton, December 15, 1875.

MY DEAR MR. SWABEY.—I am afraid I must write hurriedly. But as best I can, I do want to express my earnest and hearty thanks to the venerable Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, on behalf of the Church of my diocese for the very generous way in which our endeavour for the promotion of the theological college in the diocese has been encouraged and supported by the society through the promise of liberal grants. I do hereby express my heartfelt gratitude, first to Almighty God, and then to the society. I think I made it clear that in regard to the natives, Bechoana and others, trained at the college, though they will be sent forth as catechists and preachers. I do not anticipate a probability of my being able to ordain them deacons for several years to come. But I distinctly look forward to this. I will attend to the instructions conveyed in the letters. I remain, my dear Mr. Swabey,

Yours, &c.

ALLAN W. BLOEMFONTEIN.

3. Resolved, on the recommendation of the standing committee, that the Right Hon. Lord Coleridge be invited to accept the office of a vice-president.

4. The secretary gave notice, on behalf of the standing committee, that at the next meeting they would propose for election as members of the standing committee at the annual meeting—

The Rev. W. Cadman, Major-Gen. Turner, Hon. Henry Walpole, Colonel Dalton, C.S.I., Colonel Makins, M.P., and Walter G. F. Phillimore, Esq.

5. The secretary stated that an anonymous donor had offered a gift of 1000*l*. as a commencement of a fund for a home for the children of missionaries, and it was resolved, on the recommendation of the standing committee—

"(1) That it is desirable to establish a home for the children of missionaries in tropical climates, beginning with those under the age of twelve years.

"(2) That this may best be effected for the present by engaging a married couple to receive and teach them in their own house or in one hired for the purpose.

"(3) That a donation of 1000*l*. having been offered to carry out a design of this kind, the gift be thankfully accepted and be made the nucleus of a special fund."

6. The secretary reported the replies of his grace the Archbishop of Canterbury to the resolutions passed at the last board with regard to the Syrian Christians and missionary bishops in India.

7. The Rev. S. Arnott called attention to the amount contributed to the society's fund from the diocese of Melbourne; and a statement was made by the Bishop of Melbourne in reply.

8. Mr. Heygate, M.P., asked whether any steps had been taken by the society with regard to the chaplaincies on the continent, from which the late government withdrew the subsidies which had for some years been made to them; and the secretary undertook to send out a circular letter with a view to bringing their needs before the Foreign Office.

9. The Rev. E. H. McLachlan moved the following resolution, which the Rev. S. Arnott seconded, and it was resolved—

"That it be referred to the standing committee to consider the present position and prospects of the travelling secretary of the society."

10. The secretary announced the decease of the Bishop of Bombay, and it was resolved, that the secretary convey to Mrs. Douglas the assurance of the cordial sympathy of the society with her in her bereavement.

11. Resolved that the terms of the grant of 1000*l.*, made in April last to the diocese of Baljorat for 1876, should be altered, and that it should be made an endowment fund on condition of at least four times the amount being raised from other sources, the income arising from the investment to be spent on the maintenance of clergy only.

12. The secretary stated that Mr. Ernest Lang, an unattached student at Oxford, had been elected to the society's missionary exhibition of 80*l.* per annum.

13. The secretary, on behalf of the standing committee, reported that they had obtained legal opinion to the effect that it was in the society's power to sell the Codrington Estate in Barbados, and that they proposed to make inquiries in Barbados as to the price which the estate would be likely to realise if sold.

14. The Rev. S. Arnott gave notice of his intention to move at the next meeting:—

"That, adverting to the small amounts contributed to the funds of the society by several of the colonial dioceses, it be referred to the committee to consider whether it should not be a condition affixed to all grants of money that a sermon be preached, or a public meeting be held, or an offertory be given (in connection with each grant), in aid of the society, or in aid of the missionary; and further to consider in what way such condition should be put forward, and of what exceptions it may admit."

15. All the members proposed in October were elected into the corporation.

Grants of Books, &c., recommended by the Standing Committee, were then made to the amount of 59*l.* 5*s.*

For schools, lending libraries, and distribution, to the amount of 126*l.* 10*s.*

For churches or licensed rooms to the value of 16*l.*

Trust Funds.—Grants of books from the various trusts funds of the society have been made since the last meeting.

Donations were announced to the amount of 860*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*

Twenty-nine members were elected. Eighteen ladies have been admitted as annual subscribers.

THE LONDON FREE AND OPEN CHURCH ASSOCIATION.

The ordinary monthly meeting of the executive council was held on Wednesday, at the rooms of the association, 25 Norfolk Street, Strand, Alfred Buckley, Esq., in the chair. A letter was read from the Bishop of Rochester consenting to become a patron of the association. Lieutenant-General Tremenhoe, C.B., was announced and approved as a new vice-president. The treasurer reported that the income of the association for the past year had amounted to 351*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.*, and the expenditure to 860*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*, showing a balance in favour of the association, on December 31, of 91*l.* 6*s.* The secretary announced that arrangements were being made for a public meeting to be held at the Green Coat Schools, Camberwell Green, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 9, at which Earl Nelson would preside.

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

GENERAL COMMITTEE, NOVEMBER 8.—A letter was read from Lord Northbrook to Lord Chichester, reporting that the Maharajah of Kashmir had consented to build a mission-house at Srinagar for the use of the medical mission; and reference having been made to the fact that the Maharajah of Kashmir had previously built a hospital for the use of the mission, it was resolved that the thanks of the committee be conveyed to the Maharajah of Kashmir for the kindness and consideration he had shown to Dr. Maxwell during the two years he had resided in Kashmir, and that he be solicited to show the same favour to Dr. Maxwell's successor, and grant him permission to reside in Kashmir during the winter.

Attention having been drawn to the desire expressed by some friends interested in Persia to give special donations in aid of the Persian mission, a special fund was directed to be opened for the mission in Persia.

A grant of 100*l.* was made to the directors of the Strangers' Home for Asiatics, for the purpose of continuing missionary efforts among the heathen to be found in London and large provincial towns.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, NOVEMBER 16.

The secretaries having reported the death of Mr. H. Carre Tucker, and interesting testimony having been borne to his honourable career from his earliest days by several members of the committee, the following resolution was passed:—

"That this committee desire to record their warm appreciation of the character and abilities of their late colleague, Mr. H. Carre Tucker, and of the very great services rendered by him in the cause of Christ, both in India and in this country, and their deep sense of the loss sustained through his removal by the Church at large, as well as by this society, of whose committee he had been for eighteen years a most distinguished and efficient member; and they direct that the expression of their truest sympathy be conveyed to Mrs. H. Carre Tucker and the other members of his family."

The Rev. D. Fenn and the Rev. C. S. Cooke were in attendance to take leave of the committee on the eve of their return to the mission field; the one to South India, and the other to Western India. The instructions of the committee were delivered by the hon. clerical secretary, which being acknowledged by the brethren, they were commended to the protection and blessing of Almighty God by the Rev. W. H. Barlow.

The committee responded to an earnest appeal from the Rev. W. S. Price for help under sudden arrival of 300 liberated Africans, by assigning to Mombasa Mr. J. W. Handford, a student in the Church Missionary College, formerly a pupil teacher in St. Nicholas's National School, Nottingham, who had volunteered for the post of schoolmaster there.

The secretaries having stated that an appeal had been made for two ordained men to join Mr. Price, and that no response had been received, so that there was no one in prospect for Mombasa until the ensuing Trinity Sunday, reference was made to the resolution of the committee locating the Rev. H. K. Binns to Port Lokkoh; and in view of the urgent need at Mombasa of another ordained European missionary, the committee agreed to divert Mr. Binns from the West to the East African Mission, and directed that arrangements be made for his going out with Mr. Handford at the earliest opportunity.

SPECIAL GENERAL COMMITTEE, NOVEMBER 23.

The secretaries having stated that the special meeting of the committee had been summoned to consider the subject of the invitation conveyed from the capital of Uganda in Mr. Stanley's despatches; and the hon. clerical secretary having alluded to the interest at present aroused in consequence of the invitation forwarded from Mtesa, the following letter was read:—

"November 17,

"DEAR MR. HUTCHINSON,—My eyes have been strained wistfully towards the interior of Africa west of Mombasa, and I have longed prayed for the time when the Lord would, by providence, open there a door of entrance to heralds of the Gospel.

"The appeal of the energetic explorer Stanley to the Christian Church from Mtesa's country in Uganda, taken in connection with Gordon's occupation of the upper territories of the Nile, seems to me to indicate that the time has come for the soldiers of the Cross to make advance into that region.

"If the committee of the Church Missionary Society are prepared at once and with energy to organise a mission to the Victoria Nyanza, I account it a high privilege to place 5000*l.* at their disposal as a nucleus for the expenses of undertaking.

"I am not so sanguine as to look for the rapid success contemplated by Mr. Stanley; but the mission be undertaken in simple and trusting dependence upon the Lord of the Harvest, surely no insurmountable difficulty need be anticipated. His presence and blessing be confidently expected, as we go forward in obedience to the indications of His providence and the commands of His Word.

"I only desire to be known in this matter as

"AN UNPROFITABLE SERVANT."

["So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do."—Luke xii. 10."]

The secretaries having laid before the committee the information furnished by the travel of Speke, Grant, Colonel Long, Mr. Stanley, and the Rev. J. Wakefield, with regard to the circumstances of the tribes adjoining Lake Nyanza, and full discussion having ensued, the following resolutions were passed:—

"1. That this committee, bearing in mind that the Church Missionary Society is primarily commissioned to Africa and the East, and recognising a combination of providential circumstances in the present opening in Equatorial Africa, thankfully accepts the offer of the anonymous donor of 5000*l.*, and undertakes, in dependence upon God, to take steps for the establishment of a mission to the vicinity of the Victoria Nyanza, in the prayerful hope that it may prove a centre of light and blessing to the tribes in the heart of Africa.

"2. That a sub-committee be appointed to consider and report to the committee on the best mode of carrying this resolution into effect.

"3. That a special fund be opened for meeting the expenditure connected with the proposed mission."

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, NOVEMBER 23.

Mr. E. Downs having been invited by the committee to accept the post of medical missionary to Kashmir, in succession to Dr. Maxwell, a letter was read from the former, stating that as he regarded the invitation of the committee as a distinct call from God to occupy this sphere of labour, he felt he could not do otherwise than obey the call.

Dr. Maxwell, on his return from India, attended the committee. He expressed regret that the state of his health had obliged him to leave his very interesting and important sphere of labour, and further that there was no prospect of his returning there. He stated that the past season had borne some spiritual fruit, as four Kashmiri had been baptized, three of them adults, and all of them members of the family of Qadir Baksh, the catechist. Dr. Maxwell referred to the satisfactory relations which had been maintained between himself and the native officials of the Maharajah of Kashmir, who himself had shown kindness and consideration in various ways, as in building a hospital, and now in giving a definite promise that he would provide a house for the use of the medical missionary.

THE PUBLIC WORSHIP REGULATION ACT.

[From the "Times".]

ARCHES COURT, LAMBETH PALACE.

JANUARY 4.

THE Dean of the Court of Arches, the Right on. Lord Penzance, held the first sitting of the robes Court of Canterbury since his lordship's cession to office, in the public library of Lambeth Palace, this morning, at 11 o'clock. It was, we believe, the first time the Court of robes was ever held within Lambeth Palace. The west end of the library had been fitted up as a court for the accommodation of the bar, the porters, witnesses, &c., and the east end was cleared off for the accommodation of the general public.

Lord Penzance entered the court precisely at 11 o'clock, attended by Mr. C. Waddilove, Deputy Registrar of the Court of Arches (in the absence of Mr. John Shephard, the registrar), and by Mr. John Hassard, who acted as "clerk to the judge" on the occasion. Both gentlemen occupied tables, covered with red cloth, on the right and left of his lordship. The judge's table was covered with blue cloth, and he occupied the archbishop's chair. The witnesses were each sworn at the judge's table by Mr. Hassard.

The court, after preliminary conversation, proceeded to hear the case of William Clifton and others (parishioners of St. Peter's, Folkestone) v. The Rev. Charles Joseph Ridsdale (curate of the district church or chapel of that name).

The counsel for the three aggrieved parishioners were Dr. Archibald J. Stephens and Mr. Benjamin Shaw; and those for Mr. Ridsdale, the respondent, were Mr. J. Fitzjames Stephen, Q.C., Mr. Arthur Charles, Mr. Jeune, and Mr. Walter Millmore.

The complaint included twelve allegations—namely, that on the 4th of July, at early morning service, lighted candles were used during Communion; that the defendant wore an alb and chasuble; that he mixed water with the sacramental wine; that he used wafer-bread; that he unlawfully stood during the Prayer of Consecration at the middle of the west side of the Communion-table, with his back to the people; that he knelt while saying the prayer, and immediately after the prayer he caused the "Agnus" to be sung, though only one person received the Communion with the defendant; that after the conclusion of the Prayer for the Church Militant, and before the Communion, there was a procession, consisting of the choir, two acolytes, carrying four banners and a processional cross, all singing as they went; that the defendant in the procession wore a chasuble and a biretta; that in the evening there was another procession, one period in which all engaged in it fell on their knees; that since the consecration of the church, in 1872, the defendant had placed on top of the screen of the chancel a crucifix with twenty-four metal candlesticks with candles; that on Sunday, July 4, candles placed in them were lit, although the other lights in the church were amply sufficient for lighting purposes; and, finally, that in 1871 the defendant had placed up representations and figures in coloured relief of a plastic material, purporting to represent the scenes of our Lord's Passion, forming what are known in Roman Catholic churches as Stations of the Cross.

The respondent had replied categorically to several charges. He admitted that the kneeling was unlawful, and had given it up. He did not admit wearing the alb and chasuble, but admitted that such vestments were not unlawful. He alleged that there were present on the occasion when only one person besides himself partook of the Holy Communion a convenient number to communicate with the priest.

He alleged that a faculty was granted in 1870 for the erection of a screen, and he submitted, therefore, that the parishioners were interested in the screen, and should be made parties to the proceedings. Lastly, he contended, in effect, that the "Stations of the Cross" were not unlawful, and he submitted that the allegation of the complainants, that some of the subjects of the pictures were legendary, was irrelevant, immaterial, and calculated to prejudice him in the eyes of the court.

The first witness called was Mr. Charles Edward Turner. He deposed that he had been employed in making drawings of certain matters in the church of St. Peter's, Folkestone. Those produced, fifteen in number, were they, and they were all round the walls. One of them represented a crucifix on the screen, and the screen was a fixed structure.

Cross-examined by Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—It is a representation of a crucified figure and an integral part of the structure. It is of iron, and painted brown, and all of the same colour. The screen is beyond the chancel arch. If the candles were lit, they would contribute to the lighting of the church. The screen faces the nave. The other drawings I have made are plaster casts; they are coloured, the faces being painted. There is a sort of frame around them, and they are hung upon nails about the church. There are fourteen in all—four on one side and ten on the other. The figure in the crucifix stands out.

The next witness was Henry Nicholson. He said: I am a reporter for a newspaper, and was present at St. Peter's Church on July 4, at three of the services, and also on Sunday, the 11th, at the half-past seven and half-past ten services. There were lighted candles on the altar by the north aisle at the east end of the Communion-table. At the half-past seven service there were four lighted candles on the Communion-table. There was no necessity for them to be there to light the church. The respondent, Mr. Ridsdale, officiated on the occasion. He wore a white garment, and over that, I believe, what is called a chasuble, which is an embroidered garment. It was embroidered down the front and up to the shoulder. That was at the celebration of the Communion.

Mr. SHAW offered to put in "The Ritual Reason Why," upon which

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN said he did not dispute at all that an alb was worn.

Mr. SHAW asked witness if, when Mr. Ridsdale was officiating at the Communion, he used pure wine.

Witness.—He did, as far as I could see. I saw a boy bring him two glass jugs; one of them appeared to contain water, and the other wine.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—We don't deny the wine—in fact, we scarcely deny anything in the case. I shall tell what we should like to have proved. First of all, there are the alb and the chasuble. We don't deny them. Then as to the lighted candles, we deny that; we admit the mixing of the wine with the water.

The JUDGE.—I dare say you will admit the wafer-bread was broken?

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—We don't admit that; they must prove it. As to the kneeling, that we admit; we don't admit the solitary communicant. As to evening procession, you must prove that. We don't admit the biretta, and as to the crucifix and lighting the candles, you must prove that.

Mr. SHAW.—As to the screen, there it is, and it speaks for itself. Then as to the pictures?

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—You must prove that.

Examination resumed.—I saw a white circular wafer at all the three services. Mr. Ridsdale, during the Prayer of Consecration, stood with his back to the people, and I should say the people could not see him break the bread or take the cup in his hand. I was at the east end of the nave, a short distance from the chancel screen. I could see him take the cup and elevate it, but I could not see him break the bread. He elevated the cup with both hands. At the second mid-day service on July 4 there was only one communicant besides Mr. Ridsdale himself. When he consecrated it, he waited for a time and then came forward to the chancel steps, and the communicant came and knelt in front of those steps. After he had administered the Communion to her, he returned and proceeded with the service.

Mr. SHAW.—As to the procession on the evening of Sunday, July 4, my friends admit the procession in the morning. Did Mr. Ridsdale wear anything on his head?

Witness.—To the best of my recollection, he had a biretta on. In the evening of the same day, immediately after the sermon, the offertory went round, and there was a procession, the choir going round the church while the Te Deum was sung. I noticed that at the words "We pray Thee help Thy servants" the choir knelt down.

The JUDGE.—What kind of a procession was it?

Witness.—There were four banners and a brass instrument, which some one played. There was a plain cross carried, and when the procession returned to the altar the whole of the choir faced it and the Te Deum was sung. To the best of my recollection, Mr. Ridsdale had the biretta on his head while the procession was going round, and he wore a surplice. He did wear the garments he wore in the morning. At 25 minutes past 6 twenty-four candles were burning in the screen, which separates the chancel from the nave. The crucifix was in the centre, and the candles on each side. The candles were not wanted to give light to the church. It was summer time and a bright evening.

Cross-examined by Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—The candles were lit a few minutes before the service began. In the course of the service the gas was turned on. There are painted windows in the church, and that would darken the church considerably. The communicant who came up on July 4 was a lady. She seemed to walk with difficulty.

The JUDGE.—Do I understand you that the lady received the Sacrament outside the screen?

Witness.—Just under the screen and outside; the gates were open. Mr. Ridsdale waited with the wafer in his hand.

So that if anybody had wished to communicate, he might?

Witness.—Yes. (Continuing.) There were about 250 people in the church. Another clergyman was present, Mr. Finlay; I did not see him communicate; I saw him in the church. I cannot say whether Mr. Ridsdale broke any of the wafers before taking them himself or administering them. He did not break them in the act of administration. He was standing nearly in front of me.

The JUDGE.—The rubric says there shall be no celebration of the Lord's Supper unless there shall be a convenient number of communicants present; and if there be twenty persons in the parish there shall be no Communion except there be four, or three at the least, to communicate with the priest; so that you must prove the fact that less than three did communicate, and it will be for Mr. Ridsdale to show that he had reason to believe there would be more.

Mr. Henry Bevan, a solicitor's clerk at Folkestone, deposed that he was present at two services in the church of St. Peter's, Folkestone, on the 4th of July—the early morning service and that of the forenoon; also at the forenoon service on the 11th. On the 4th the celebrant was Mr. Ridsdale. He administered wine and water and a wafer—the wafer being round, very thin, and about the size of a penny-piece. It appeared to be quite whole. The same occurred at the half-past 10 o'clock service that day. Mr. Ridsdale also officiated on the 11th, and when he was reading the Consecration Prayer stood with his back to the people. Witness could not see him take the bread nor the cup in his hand, and no one in the church could see him except when he elevated the cup. There was only one communicant on the morning of the 4th—a lady, who stood on the steps of the chancel-screen. He was present also on Sunday, the 1st of August, and there was then also, he believed, one communicant. Being cross-examined by Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN, witness said he believed Mr. Ridsdale officiated on the 1st of August, but he was not quite sure. He knew him perfectly well.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—What makes you hesitate and doubt?

Witness.—I believe now it was another gentleman. A Mr. Going was there on several occasions, and it might have been he.

Mr. William Henry Culling, deputy-registrar in the diocese of Canterbury, said he had searched to see if any faculty had been issued regarding the church of St. Peter, Folkestone. He found only one, and he now produced the original document. There was a plan—a ground plan, which accompanied the application. There was no indication on the plan of a screen.

Mr. W. Dunn, the next witness, stated that his father is a builder at Folkestone, and that he assisted him. He remembered in September 1871 taking up some pictures in St. Peter's Church. He did not recollect who gave him directions. The ledger did not show who paid for them. They were referred to St. Peter's Church account.

Mr. F. G. Francis, an ironmonger at Folkestone, said he was employed by Mr. Ridsdale to make and put up the screen. The figure of our Saviour was supplied by Mr. Stalvard, the architect, and was put up at the latter end of May 1872. Witness made the cross which was part of the screen. Mr. Ridsdale was not present when it was put up.

The Rev. Charles Joseph Ridsdale, the respondent, was next called and examined by Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN. He said he did not officiate on the 1st of August; he was either in France or Switzerland at that time. As to the charge about the solitary communicant, before the Consecration Prayer he put on the table sufficient elements for more than three persons. There were about 150 persons at the church, many of whom were communicants. He gave reasonable opportunity for any persons to communicate, and if they had come forward for the purpose he should have administered to them. He broke the wafers at the time of the Consecration Prayer. The wafer handed to the communicant was sometimes broken and sometimes whole, according to the number of communicants. He always broke the wafer at the place where the rubric said, "Here you shall break the bread." He recollected the lady who was the communicant. She was an invalid, which was his reason for giving her it at the place mentioned. His usual practice was to give it at the table itself. The screen was put up after the faculty was issued. The plan was exposed some time before the screen was put up. The churchwardens had nothing more to do with putting up the pictures than giving a tacit approval. A suit was brought against the churchwardens respecting the pictures, and they defended themselves. As to the biretta, he wore it on his head in the procession at the morning service, and took it off near the altar on the return of the procession.

Cross-examined by Mr. SHAW, he admitted that on the 4th of July there was only one communicant, and he was not sure who officiated in his absence on the 1st of August. He made arrangements with a person quite distinguishable from himself. He paid Mr. Going, of St. Paul's, Walworth, for officiating in his absence for him in August, and also Mr. Ware. He had no reason to suppose that there would be less than three persons to communicate; but there were persons in the church who were in the habit at times of communicating. He did not believe that more than three persons besides himself would communicate at the mid-day service on July 1, but he thought it possible. It was rather a high day, and he had expected persons to communicate at that service who generally communicated at the night service.

The JUDGE.—You are aware of the rubric which directs that those desiring to communicate should give notice to the minister. Is that a practice followed in your congregation?

Witness.—No; not at all.

Mr. SHAW.—You said the churchwardens took an active part while you were asking for a faculty. Was that the only occasion?

Witness replied that it was. He added he was not sure whether the plan which was deposited contained a plan of the screen.

By the JUDGE.—It was not his practice to deliver the exhortation to those about to communicate standing in a different part of the church.

You do not follow the rubric, then?

Witness said they followed the usual practice of the church. Those who intended to remain did not separate themselves from the rest of the congregation. Very few of the congregation left before the Communion.

Dr. STEPHENS said, before he opened his case, a considerable amount of time would be saved by the admissions of his learned friend opposite on one or two points. His learned friend opposite would admit, he understood, the lighted candles and the vestments; the wafer-bread; the turning the back to the people, and the kneeling during the Consecration Prayer; the "Agnus," and the procession.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN said he thought the question his lordship would have before him would be the screen; the crucified figure upon it, and what had been called the solitary communicant, and what had been described as the Stations of the Cross. As to the other questions, his lordship was, of course, aware of the questions raised in the Hilbert v. Purchas case, which was an ex parte case; and if this case should go to the Privy Council, he should call on their lordships to admit that case to be re-argued, for no counsel had yet been heard on the part of Mr. Purchas.

The JUDGE.—What do you say as to the vestments?

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN said the vestments question was decided in Hilbert and Purchas unless the Judicial Committee should think fit to reconsider their decision.

The JUDGE.—I understand you to say that this court, as an inferior court, is bound by a decision of an appellate jurisdiction, and that therefore you do not propose to argue the questions raised by this representation.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—Quite so; with the view of saving your lordship's time.

The JUDGE.—There is no use arguing questions here which have been definitively settled. I have nothing to do but to administer the law as it has been laid down.

Dr. STEPHENS said this suit had been instituted to ascertain whether the respondent had or had not, during the performance of Divine service, offended against the law ecclesiastical, and the promoters disclaimed, in the most unqualified sense, being actuated by any personal feeling against the respondent. The charges to be argued, in consequence of the admissions of his learned friend, had been reduced to three, but he reserved to himself the right of speaking to the charge that, on July 4, the respondent did not continue in a standing posture; but twice, unlawfully, knelt. In one of his answers he had admitted that charge, and, therefore, he submitted that no order need be made in respect of that head of the representation. On the admission of paragraph 1 in the answer he must ask his lordship to admonish Mr. Ridsdale, on the authority of Martin and Mackonochie, where the charge was of having unduly elevated the paten and cup during the consecration in the office of the Holy Communion. Mr. Mackonochie having subsequently disobeyed that monition was punished for that and other offences by the Privy Council. He now proceeded to the charge of administering the Sacrament to only one communicant on more than one occasion. He contended the priest had no right to do that unless there were three persons ready to communicate him. His answer was that there were persons in the church who he expected would communicate. He submitted that a priest had no right consecrate the elements and himself receive them unless he had a reasonable ground believing, and did bona fide believe, that there were three persons at least ready to communicate with him. In answer to the charge consecrating and receiving the elements by only one person had communicated with the respondent, the respondent replied that there was a "convenient" number ready to communicate. The respondent did not venture to aver that there was a sufficient number ready to communicate. The answer alleged no more than this—there were present in the church such a number as would have been sufficient if there had been persons ready to communicate; but the fact that only one person communicated, and the effect of the rubrics at the end of the Communion Service was to prevent solitary communion.

The JUDGE was understood to say the rubric which was the law of the Church in this matter was, in fact, a portion of an Act of Parliament, and the Prayer Book was next to an Act of Parliament. He did not in saying that, however, want unnecessarily to shorten the mode in which this question should be argued; but it was important, in dealing with a statute passed 20 years ago, to consider what the legislature meant at the time, and whether, as to certain expressions, the legislature had any special meaning.

Dr. STEPHENS, resuming, said he would go at once to that subject. The rubrics had provided reasonable means by which a minister might ascertain the number of persons about to communicate with him, and he contended that there should be no Communion except three persons communicated with the priest. He submitted, therefore, that the charge in this case had been established, seeing that the defendant was found before commencing the service, to have conveniently placed three persons prepared to communicate with him, in conformity with the rubric to separate themselves from the rest of the congregation, the rubric conveniently pointing out how that was to be ascertained.

The argument, of which the above is necessarily a summary in several respects, had not concluded when the court rose for the day, and it was adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

SECOND DAY, JANUARY 5.

The Dean of the Court of Arches, the Right Hon. Lord Penzance, took his seat precisely at 11 o'clock, and the case for the complainants was resumed.

Mr. SHAW called as a witness Domenico Crocetti, who said: I am in priest's orders in the Roman Catholic Church, and attached to St. Peter's, Hatton Garden. I know the rites and ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Church, and am familiar with what are called the "Stations of the Cross." There are certain devotions used in the Catholic Church on stated days of the week in memory of our Lord's Passion. They are a recognised form of devotion, and go by the name of the "Stations of the Cross." The pictures are one thing, the devotions are another; but the expression "Stations of the Cross" applies to both pictures and cross. There is a meditation prayer at each station, from one picture to another. At each they represent certain devotions combined with prayer. A book of devotions, said to be by Liguori, having been put into the witness's hand, he went on to say, that it might be used in any Catholic church. It was called "The Key of Heaven: a Manual of Devout Prayers and Pious Exercises, with the Stations of the Cross." Looking at the pictures in the book—fourteen in number, as was understood—he said, in effect, that one represented our Lord before Pilate, another our Lord carrying the cross, another our Lord falling under the cross, and the rest portraying various well-known innts connected with the Crucifixion, which the es related in detail, and which, he said, esented what were called "Stations of the s." In the Roman Catholic Church, he said, treatment of the subjects of the pictures ed according to the priest and the painter, it was always devotional. Being shown, in examination by Mr. Fitzjames Stephen, a of a similar character, witness said it was oved by the bishop of the diocese, was a : of authority, and was still used by all olities who chose to use it, though, he said, y of them preferred Liguori. The "Stations e Cross," he added, were used everywhere in Roman Catholic Church. The prayers were the same in every place, but they were gious. Catholics paid a kind of religious et to the pictures, but it would not be rding to the doctrines of their church to pray uch pictures hanging on a wall. They ed, he said, before the pictures—not to a: they prayed to God. The "Stations of Cross" formed a popular subject of devotion, that devotion was not essential to the Catholic ice. They used it to encourage people to at devotion, which was inculcated by their eh, but was still not in any way obligatory. y Mr. SHAW.—It was strongly recommended the Church of Rome, and there were certain eligences attached to the performance. y the JUDGE.—The pictures were used to prayer or adoration to the Deity, and tended encourage people in their devotions.

Dr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN said it was not charged at the respondent ever did anything in regard these pictures.

The JUDGE said that if they were only in the urch for purposes of decoration, they would be rrogued.

Dr. STEPHENS submitted that they were novel stitutions introduced into the church of St. ter, Folkestone, without a faculty, and liable abuse. One of the charges was that the respondent, without lawful authority, had unlaw- ly set up and placed in his church since its acration in 1871 certain representations of ures in coloured relief of plastic material pur- rting to represent scenes of Our Lord's Passon lached to the walls of the church and fixing at were commonly called "Stations of the os and Passion," such as were used in Roman holic churches and not in those of the Church ngland; that some of those representations ated to legendary and superstitious scenes, t part of the gospel history, and not accepted ognised as authentic by the Church of ngland; and that such representations, as a hole, tended to encourage ideas and devotions an unauthorized and superstitious kind, and ere, therefore, unlawful. The answer of the pondent, he submitted, did not traverse those legations as being untrue, but only that they ere irrelevant and immaterial. The respondent imitted that there were in the church of St. eter, Folkestone, fourteen embossed pictures in med squares of plastic material, coloured and relief, purporting to represent scenes of our ord's Passion, and hanging on nails driven into e walls of the nave and aisle of the church. To e Roman Catholic churches such representa- ons were far from being simple decorations of e fabric; but, on the contrary, were used for evotional services, prayers, and addresses made efore such pictures and with reference to them. hey were, therefore, not inert decorations, but ere used as instruments in Divine services. In e well-known book of Roman Catholic devo- ons, put in evidence, called 'The Crown of esus,' and published in 1862, would be found n the "Way or Stations of the Cross," and the evotions thereon. Those subjects of the fourteen tations of the cross were thus stated in the nual:—1st, Jesus condemned to death; 2nd, Jesus is made to bear His cross; 3rd, Jesus falls for the first time under His cross; 4th, Jesus meets His afflicted mother; 5th, the Cyrenian helps Jesus to carry His cross; 6th, Veronica wipes the face of Jesus; 7th, Jesus falls the second time; 8th, Jesus speaks to the daughters of Jerusalem; 9th, Jesus falls the third time; 10th, Jesus is stripped of his garments; 11th, Jesus is nailed to the cross; 12th, Jesus dies on the cross; 13th, Jesus is taken down from the cross; 14th, Jesus is placed in the sepulchre. These fourteen "stations," said Dr. Stephens, as given in 'The Cross of Jesus,' and the subjects of those stations, were the same as those given by Canon Gilbert in his 'Reflections of the Stations of the Cross,' recently published under the imprimatur of Cardinal Manning, and also those given by Mr. Orbey Shipley in his learned 'Glossary of Ecclesiastical Terms,' and they were the same in number and subjects as the embossed pictures or "stations" erected in the church of St. Peter, Folkestone. The instruction on the "Way" or "Stations of the Cross" commenced with a description of the intention of that devotion, from which it would be perceived that the "stations" within the churches were designed to supply the place of pilgrimages to the holy places. In 'The Crown of Jesus' would also be found the indulgences attached to that devotion, followed by the words, "Let us form the intention of gaining the indulgences, whether for ourselves or for the souls in purgatory." After these words the several prayers to be said before the fourteen pictures or "stations" were given. It was important to observe that six of the subjects represented by those stations derived no authority from the Gospel history of our Lord's sufferings. Dr. Stephens went on to direct attention to one of the embossed pictures or stations—viz., the Story of St. Veronica—in order to show its feigned character. That, he said, was a well-known legend and feigned miracle of great popularity in the Roman Church during the Middle Ages; so much so that, in the injunctions of Queen Elizabeth, issued in 1559, pictures of feigned miracles were ordered to be destroyed; which term would include such representations as that of the Legend of St. Veronica; and he submitted that the term "pilgrimages" there used immediately after "pictures and monuments of feigned miracles" could not apply to distant pilgrimages for religious purposes, but plainly to pictures of the "Stations of the Cross" within churches, which were designed, as stated, in 'The Crown of Jesus,' to supply the place of pilgrimages to the holy places. That this was the meaning of the expression "pilgrimage," at that time appeared from the earlier "injunctions" of Edward VI., in 1547. As to the charge that these "Stations of the Cross," as a whole, tended to encourage ideas and devotions of an unauthorized and superstitious kind, the answer of the respondent was that the allegation was irrelevant and immaterial—an allegation which seemed to him (Dr. Stephens) to be inconsistent even with the recent Exeter recedos case. The embossed pictures in question had been hung up in the church of St. Peter, Folkestone, since September 8, 1871. The last faculty which had been granted to the church was dated August 25, 1870. In fact, the respondent had not ventured to allege that these embossed pictures were put up under a faculty. The inference, therefore, was that they had been placed in the church as a series without lawful authority.

Mr. SHAW followed on the same side, taking up the question as to whether the legal number "communicated" at the service in the respondent's church on the 4th of July. There was no doubt, he said, a legal number did not communicate on that occasion. On the other hand there was no proof of an actual belief or expectation that the requisite number would communicate. After that great miscarriage and breach of the rubric, however, the respondent went away on his holiday, without taking any step to prevent a repetition of the circumstance. As to the term "convenient number to communicate," in the Visitation or Order of the Communion of the Sick, if the sick person was not able to come to the church, and yet was desirous to receive the Communion in his own house, he might give the requisite notice to the curate; and as to whether there was a sufficient number to communicate with them, if the rubric intended that there was to be no celebration where there were less than three, then Mr. Shaw submitted that the minister must take care that was so before he ventured to preside at the service. The clergyman was bound to know whether a sufficient number of persons were going to communicate before he went on with the service. If he was so bound his ignorance did not excuse him. In the case under consideration there was not only a prima facie duty to inquire, but a special duty arising from the experience as to what might result from not inquiring. Even if there had been no rubric on the subject, he was bound to do what was necessary. Again, there was no sufficient explanation as to candles having been used in such a way in the church as to be quite near the crucifix. The having twenty-four candles on a screen was a singular and most unusual way of lighting a church, and no evidence had been given that this was done to light the church. As to the pictures, he contended that of Veronica and some others were not memorials of real events, but, on the contrary, were clearly connected with lying legends and feigned miracles, and were not at all like what might be found in our cathedrals or parish churches. It was a custom which the Church of England did not recognise; and Mr. Shaw submitted that it was illegal by the common law ecclesiastical.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN, in presenting the case of the respondent, said his learned friend had, at the commencement of his address, read, with considerable emphasis, the names of William Clifton, George Miller, and James Harris, the prosecutors, who, according to him, had instigated this suit upon public grounds. It was a rather remarkable circumstance that the form of the proceedings was so arranged under the present Act of Parliament that they had not even the means of knowing the addresses of these gentlemen, or, indeed, anything about them, except that they had made a declaration to the effect that they were bona fide members of the Church of England, and had resided for twelve months in the parish of St. Peter, Folkestone. With respect to the public grounds on which this prosecution had been instituted, and with regard to the profession, made in perfect sincerity, no doubt, by his learned friend, of no want of respect on his part to the Rev. Mr. Ridsdale, he would only say that if the respondent were a clergyman whose religious views did not coincide with those of some persons, he had also the feelings of an Englishman, and would like to be brought face to face with his accusers. The complainants preferred, however, to rest on their simple right and on the new qualification provided for them by the Act of Parliament, instead of affording to him an opportunity of showing the court whether this prosecution had really been instituted by persons who really had an interest in the matter, or whether it had been got up by individuals who personally had nothing whatever to do with it, but who merely wished to gratify a theological dislike. He might, perhaps, be allowed to express a natural feeling of complaint concerning the position in which Parliament had seen fit to place his client. The nominal complainants might, for aught he knew, be people who never attended the Church services or testified by communicating to the fact of their being bona fide members of the Church of England. In short, these complainants might be more men of straw set up to carry on this prosecution by somebody else. He had good reasons for saying this.

Dr. STEPHENS, interposing, said he thought his learned friend had no right to make such a charge.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN denied that he had made any charge.

Mr. SHAW pointed out that his learned friend had remarked that he had good reasons for making the statement.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN said only one person had been mentioned as having been concerned in the matter, viz., Mr. Wightwick, who, it appeared, was mayor of Folkestone at the time, and who, he supposed, sent a reporter to keep the peace at Mr. Ridsdale's church during the service. The respondent had not the same protection as he would have had formerly, when the consent of the bishop was required before proceedings could be instituted.

The JUDGE said anybody could take proceedings under the old law.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN remarked that the bishop, if he thought that right was abused, might prevent the proceedings from being commenced.

The JUDGE.—But he has the same discretion under the Act of Parliament. Nobody can come to this court without the consent of the bishop.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN admitted that the bishop might have prevented the suit and recorded his reasons for preventing it, but that was a very different thing from saying that the bishop gave his consent to it. By the recent Act of Parliament the bishop was placed in a position entirely different from that which he formerly occupied, the effect being that Mr. Ridsdale was exposed to consequences of an extremely serious nature to him, both in purse and professional position, by the intervention of three persons who gave the court no information whatever about themselves, and for aught he knew they might be mere busybodies or men of straw set up by somebody else who was the real mover in this matter. These remarks did not bear on the legal issues involved in this case; but, nevertheless, he felt bound to make them. The legal points at issue were three in number, and the first related to what had been termed Solitary Communion. In regard to this charge, his learned friend had failed to show that anything illegal had been done. The facts established by evidence were that, on the 4th of July last, Mr. Ridsdale administered the Communion after the half-past 10 o'clock service; that on that occasion there were about 250 persons in the church; that many of those persons were communicants; that any of them who were so minded might have taken the Communion; and that one lady actually did take it. Here he might observe that when Mr. Ridsdale was under cross-examination his learned friend (Mr. Shaw) did not ask him, simply because he dared not, whether he held the Roman Catholic doctrine of Solitary Communion. In his evidence the respondent said he did think it probable that three persons would communicate on the day in question and at that particular service.

Mr. SHAW asked whether the respondent had said he saw them present.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN had understood Mr. Ridsdale to say so.

The JUDGE thought it might be inferred from the reverend gentleman's language that he saw them in the church.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN urged that, that being so, the respondent was perfectly justified in doing what he did. The question might be stated fairly thus:—Supposing a clergyman, when he is about to administer the Communion, observes in the church a suitable number of persons to receive the Communion, and expects in good faith that they will receive it, and supposing also that he is ready and willing to administer it to them if they should come up for the purpose of receiving it, does the clergyman commit any ecclesiastical offence by communicating himself and then administering the Communion to the one person who comes up to receive it? According to the Communion Service, the Exhortation which immediately follows the Prayer for the Church Militant began with a notice to be given on the Sunday before the Sacrament was to be administered. Going back to the commencement of the service, there was the first rubric as follows:—"So many as intend to be partakers of the Holy Communion shall signify their names to the curate at least some time the day before." It had, however, been decided in Parnell and Roughton (6 Privy Council Appeals, 50), and also in a case heard by the Diocesan Court of Armagh, that this rubric was directory merely, and in point of fact it was almost invariably disregarded. The Article of Religion to which his learned friend had referred was directed against the Sacrament being gazed at or carried about, the object being to avoid the practice of solitary Masses. Of course everybody was sufficiently acquainted with the doctrines of the Roman Catholic religion to know that it was a common practice for a priest to offer up the Sacrifice of the Mass for a particular purpose or intention—for the benefit of a soul in purgatory, or for any other reason which might be required. Such a practice was undoubtedly quite contrary to the doctrines of the Church of England. The object of the rubric about three persons being present was to insure that there should be a bona fide administration of the Sacrament to persons bona fide going up to receive it as a sacrament; and his contention was, that if there was a bona fide invitation to communicate, and if there were persons present apparently ready and willing to do so, then, even if the rubric were not literally complied with, still its spirit would be attained, and the Article against the Sacrament being gazed at or carried about would not be violated. Another rubric said that, after disposing of the alms in the manner provided for, "the priest shall then place on the table so much bread and wine as he shall think sufficient." Sufficient for what? Sufficient, of course, for the administration of the Communion which was to follow. Therefore, at this time he must exercise a discretion as to the quantity of bread and wine which will be sufficient for the purpose of that Communion, and surely he can only exercise his discretion by past experience, and by seeing how many people are in the church who are likely to communicate?

The JUDGE.—How can he find that out.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—The others will probably have left the church by that time.

The JUDGE.—That is what I thought, but I asked Mr. Ridsdale, and he said he never heard of such a thing. I thought it was a universal practice.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN proceeded to observe that these rubrics ought not to be interpreted from a special pleader's point of view, but it ought to be assumed that a good deal must be left to the common sense of those who were to carry them out. In the first Prayer Book of Edward VI. an express provision was made that the partakers of the Holy Communion should be in or near the choir, the men on one side and the women on the other, and every one else, except the minister and the clerk, was to depart out of the choir. This provision was omitted from our present Prayer Book, the consequence being that, in the absence of the ordinary practice, with which all members of the Church of England must be familiar, no means were provided by which the clergyman could certainly know who were going to communicate. He would next refer to this rubric, which immediately preceded the Exhortation. "At the time of the celebration of the Communion, the communicants being conveniently placed for the receiving of the Holy Sacrament, the priest shall say this exhortation." His friend (Mr. Shaw) seemed to imply that it was the clergyman's duty to go round and ask the persons present whether they intended to communicate or not; but there was something altogether incongruous between the two orders of ideas—between the administration of the Sacrament on one side and such extreme anxiety to comply with the words of the rubric on the other. He would ask his lordship to look at the words of the Exhortation following the rubric, though he would not read it, because the words were so solemn. Its substance was that if people did not feel themselves in a proper state to communicate, they ought to abstain from doing so. That exhortation must have been intended to produce some effect on the minds of those to whom it was addressed. The persons were first to be placed, according to his learned friend's argument, then they were to hear a solemn exhortation not to come to the Communion unless they could do so in a proper spirit, and afterwards the priest was to read another exhortation to those who still intended to communicate.

The JUDGE.—You suggest that these two rubrics seem to imply that some of those who have been "conveniently placed" according to the first rubric might nevertheless not ultimately partake of the Communion.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN said that was so, for otherwise the first exhortation would be superfluous. In confirmation of this, he would ask his lordship to look at the language of the rubric following the second exhortation, after which the well-known general confession was made "in the name of all those that are minded to receive the Holy Communion." After the prayer of consecration there was a further rubric directing the manner in which the actual administration of the elements was to be made, and it was laid down that the minister was first to receive the Communion himself before he could be aware, except by reasonable expectation, that any one would receive the Communion with him at all. Then there were the rubrics, about which so much had been said, at the end of the Communion Service. They were in these terms:—

"And there shall be no celebration of the Lord's Supper except there be a convenient number to communicate with the priest, according to his discretion."

"And if there be not above twenty persons in the parish of discretion to receive the Communion, yet there shall be no Communion except for three at the least communicate with the priest."

These rubrics were to be read in conjunction with the rest; but if some unexpected circumstance should render them inconsistent with another, such an interpretation should be put on the latter rubrics as would render the others intelligible. The plain meaning of the whole was that the priest should not communicate by himself, that he was not to have a solitary Mass, that he was not to countenance those practices of the Roman Catholic Church which were expressly prohibited in the Articles, and that he should not celebrate the Communion unless there were in the church a certain number of persons whom he expected would communicate.

The JUDGE.—Do you think or pretend that the object of this rubric, which is the main one, would be satisfied if on any number of successive Sundays there were twenty people in the church as to whom the priest thought honestly they were going to communicate, although none of them actually did so?

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN answered in the affirmative, remarking, however, that his lordship had put an extreme case which was hardly imaginable. In a continental town such as Interlaken, where the congregation of the English chapel changed every week, such a case might possibly occur; but there must be an honest and reasonable belief on the part of the minister that three of the congregation would communicate. The learned counsel next commented on the article relating to the crucifix and the "Stations of the Cross." With respect to the lighting of the candles on the screen, he argued that this was done for the sole purpose of giving light in the church. Instead of being lighted when the church got dark, they were lighted a little before, for the sake of greater decency. As to the images, he would rely on the two cases of Westerton v. Liddell and Philpotts v. Boyd. In the present instance no evidence had been adduced to prove that the crucifix on the screen had been or was being abused, and he admitted that if anything were done to indicate special reverence for that particular thing and to direct special religious observance to it, that would undoubtedly be illegal. The notion of the illegality of crucifixes was based almost entirely upon the distinction which was several times recognised in the case of Westerton v. Liddell between a crucifix and a cross. The ultimate result of the litigation in that case was to establish the legality of crosses as parts of the archiure of churches; but the remarks aboutifixes were merely extra-judicial dicta.

he JUDGE said the upshot of the case was

The court held that a cross was not an awful thing, treating it as an architectural ure in a church, but they expressly guarded themselves from saying anything about a crucifix.

r. FITZJAMES STEPHEN said that was so. The t said in effect, "We justify crosses, but we not say anything about crucifixes." With rd to images, there really was no difference oint of principle between them and pictures ainted glass in a church.

he JUDGE remarked that in the case of Philpotts v. Boyd, it was pretty well understood on sides that the word "image" extended to il painting or a piece of painted glass.

r. FITZJAMES STEPHEN, in confirmation of view, cited the well-known case tried before

Court of Delegates, June 17, 1762, respecting window in St. Margaret's parish church, minster.

At this stage of the proceedings the court ourned until Thursday morning at 12 o'clock.

THIRD DAY, JAN. 6.

The Dean of the Court of Arches, the Right m. Lord Penzance, took his seat precisely at o'clock, and the case for the respondent was umped.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN resumed the argu-ent on behalf of the respondent, which had been errupted by the rising of the court on the evious day, founded on what he conceived to e the true effect, as to images, of the cases Westerton v. Liddell and Philpotts v. Boyd. He should assume, therefore, that the question he ad to argue was whether a particular image, in its circumstances generally, in relation both to time and place, and other matters connected with it, fell within the principles laid down in the ase of Philpotts v. Boyd, and whether there was ny evidence that it had been, or was likely to e, abused. He did not for a moment deny that oth crosses and images had been greatly abused, seeing that every one of the judgments in the ases bearing on that subject had admitted as much. All the different "injunctions" in the reigns of Edward VI. and Elizabeth relating to the subject not only referred to the abuse of crosses, but to the specific manner in which they were abused; and it was the "kissing, kneeling, and ducking" to images that were sought to be prohibited. One question for the court, he submitted, now was whether there was any reason to suppose that a screen would have been treated in those days in a similar way. On the subject of the crucifix he cited, in the case of Westerton v. Liddell, a passage from the judgment of Dr. Lushington, who, he said, could never have been accused of any leaning towards superstition. "As to a crucifix," said Dr. Lushington, "what can be more innocent, or what more likely to remind us of the great sacrifice made for our redemption?" "Crucifixes had been abused, and might be abused again; but what our ancestors did in such cases was to prohibit that which might be abused." Mr. Fitzjames Stephen submitted that the reasoning in that case was true and unanswerable.

The JUDGE said the learned counsel must remember that the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council would not for a moment concede that a cross and a crucifix were similar.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN, continuing, observed that it might be said the crucifix had been made the subject of abuse, and it was for that reason that it had been prohibited. The answer to that was that the cross had also been made the subject of abuse. He contended that since the judgment in Philpotts v. Boyd the question was not at all one of past abuse in the 16th century, seeing that what was then done was done with reference to the state of facts and the state of feeling which then existed, and which in the times we now lived, with our more robust habits of mind, might not have been so treated. It was not suggested in this case that anybody had bowed to the crucifix or kissed it, and after the decisions in the two cases he had quoted the question was, not whether the practice was abused 200 years ago, but whether it was abused or likely to be abused at the present day.

The JUDGE.—Suppose, in adopting that view of the matter, one asks one's self the question whether this or that particular thing is likely to be abused, would you say the court was to take into consideration probabilities of its being abused at the present moment by the present clergymen, or would you say that, in order to solve that question, one should take a wider view, and ask whether at a future time it is likely to be abused?

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN said he would submit on that subject his lordship was interpreting the matter somewhat more widely than he did. If it were a question of the bishop giving or refusing a faculty, that might be; but in adjudicating on a particular case which involved the charge of an ecclesiastical offence his lordship might be inclined to take a different view. The crucifix in this case was in a place out of reach, and was part of the ordinary decoration of the church.

The JUDGE reminded the learned counsel that the crucifix had a history of its own.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN replied that that might be so, but in this case there had been no specific suggestion that there was any improper act in regard to the figure. It was erected in 1872, after a plan exactly corresponding with one before his lordship; it had stood in the church three years and a half, and during the whole of that time there was no evidence whatever that anything had been done with regard to it, except that it was there to be looked at by anybody minded so to do. As to the crucifix having a special history, he admitted there was a very strong feeling on that subject, and that the word "crucifix" was one which might be used as an appeal to the feelings of an English mob, just as a red rag could be held out to a certain animal; but it could never do much harm. The plain truth about crucifixes was that they had become a party badge, and were objected to for no other reason. That was the whole and real motive for all these proceedings; and when people emancipated themselves from that kind of thralldom they would rise to a higher and purer atmosphere. Passing on to the "Stations of the Cross," he said there had been no intention to remove them from place to place in the church in this case, and he would class them in the same category with the others.

Dr. STEPHENS, interposing, said they never were moved in any cathedral church.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN, continuing, said the idea of delineating any subject, whether in painting or drawing, involved the use of imagination. Even in taking a photograph recourse was had to accessories to bring out the desired results. The church of St. Margaret's, for example, contained many painted figures of Roman soldiers and pious women; and, so far as appeared at present, for anything that had been proved in this case on the other side, it was quite possible that the whole population of Folkestone had never before heard that there was such a woman as St. Veronica; but he was not sure that the respondent, Mr. Ridsdale, had ever mentioned her name. (A laugh.) The picture itself told nothing, and there would henceforth be more knowledge about St. Veronica among the community of Folkestone than had probably existed during the last twenty years. (A laugh.) Pictures used in the Church of Rome were one thing, and devotional pictures quite another. There were thousands of things published which no man of sense would connect with the general principles of an institution. He would ask his lordship to look at the prayers used at the different "Stations of the Cross." To Mr. Fitzjames Stephen's mind, at least, that class of language was very unpleasant; but that was a matter of taste.

The JUDGE.—The same thing may be said of any popular hymn.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN, resuming, said he did not wish to say anything offensive about them; they certainly were calculated to offend good taste; but there was not a single instance of any one of the "Stations of the Cross" in which any sort of respect for superstition was manifested with regard to the pictures themselves. Putting aside certain references to the Virgin Mary, there was not a single word in any of them which was not in the nature of a sort of mawkish reverence which went on in the mind of the worshipper. It was a distinctive feature of the Roman Catholic Church, and was, to his mind, exceedingly offensive. But surely they were not, for that reason, to banish every picture from their churches; nor was it to be assumed that the respondent in this case had given any countenance to "indulgences" because he had in his church a picture by the use of which a Roman Catholic was said to be able to obtain an "indulgence" at any time. The whole essence of this case was the superstitious use to which such pictures might be applied; but he submitted that, under all the circumstances, the respondent had made an innocent use of them, unless in some way or other the contrary could be proved. With respect to altar-cloths, in the case of Westerton v. Liddell the judgment of Dr. Lushington was reversed by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council; and the decision of the Privy Council on that very point was a direct authority that the mere fact that church ornaments of any kind were in use in the Church of Rome did not show of itself that they were illegal in the Church of England. He ventured to say, therefore, that the altar-cloths stood precisely on the same footing as the pictures in this case. He had next to consider the question of the faculties which had been granted in this case. The screen was put up under a faculty, although that faculty did not specify any particular thing. It was granted to the churchwardens, and was, therefore, their screen and that of the parishioners. The pictures were put up without any faculty, but if the court should order them to be removed, that could be done; but he hoped it would be borne in mind that the parishioners were interested in the subject, and might have opportunities of being heard in relation to it. If such a power was to be exercised, he asked that the parishioners should be so heard.

Mr. CHARLES said he would address to the court some observations strictly supplemental to those which had been made by his learned friend. He would, however, follow his learned friend in the order of dealing with the points in dispute, and, accordingly, he would first of all say a few words with respect to the charge brought against Mr. Ridsdale of having unlawfully received the Holy Communion when only one other person communicated. The charge was that the act complained of was done on the 4th of last July, and there could be no doubt that on that particular day the respondent had a reasonable expectation that three persons or more would partake of the Communion at the mid-day service. Was it, then, an ecclesiastical offence for him to communicate under those circumstances, even although only one other person actually communicated? The minister, he maintained, was not a volunteer in this matter, because he had bound himself by a public notice, made beforehand, that there should be Communion. Consequently, unless something had happened of an unmistakable character he was bound on that 4th of July, at the mid-day service, to celebrate the Holy Communion. He might here remark that no motive had been proved for the respondent's deviation from the exact words of the rubric on this particular occasion. There was an injunction of King Edward VI. which provided that the box into which the devotions of the people were to be put should stand near the high altar (Cardwell's "Documentary Annals," 17). Then his lordship would notice that, according to the first Prayer Book of Edward VI.

all the charitably-minded of the congregation who desired to give alms were to come into the choir, and after this direction followed a rubric to the effect that those who intended to take the Holy Communion were to tarry there. Consequently, the minister, before saying the Prayer of Consecration, had ample means of seeing who were and who were not going to communicate with him. On turning to the second Prayer Book of King Edward VI., it would be found that, though in not so marked, still in a similar, degree, the minister would have a means of knowing who were about to take the Communion. By that book a new machinery was provided for taking the alms of the people, and the congregation no longer made their way into the choir, as formerly, for the purpose of putting their devotions in the box. Before the Prayer for the Church Militant a rubric provided that "the churchwardens, or some others by them appointed, should gather the devotions of the people and put the same into the Poor Man's Box." Still, although an express rubric no longer appeared in the second Prayer Book, a mode was provided by that book whereby the minister could ascertain beyond all question who was going to take the Communion. In the service there was an exhortation in which the people were solemnly asked why they stood by as gazers and lookers-on at those who communicated, and the curate was directed to add, "Rather than that you should do so, depart ye hence and give place to them that be godly disposed." Consequently the curate could see who departed and who remained in that part of the church where those who were about to receive the Communion assembled. At the close of the second Prayer Book there appeared a prohibition of the celebration of the Lord's Supper on any day except there be a good number to communicate with the priest, according to his discretion. These rubrics were exactly reprinted in the third Prayer Book of Queen Elizabeth, published in 1559; but when the Prayer Book of 1662 was issued, the minister found himself deprived of the comparatively safe guide he had been provided with by the previous Prayer Books. The prefatory rubric in the Prayer Book of 1662 provided that "So many as intend to be partakers of the Holy Communion shall signify their names to the curate at least some time the day before," but it was an undeniable fact that this rubric, even from almost the time of its enactment, had been habitually disregarded. By the Canons of 1603 the churchwardens were required to go about the church to see whether strangers were there, and to show them to their minister, "lest they be admitted to the Lord's table, which they shall forbid." This showed clearly enough that the prefatory rubric in the Prayer Book of Queen Elizabeth had not been acted upon.

The JUDGE.—You say, truly and rightly, that the present Prayer Book repealed the rubric in the book of Queen Elizabeth. At the same time that was done the rubric about the communicants being "conveniently placed" was inserted just before the exhortation commencing "Dearly beloved in the Lord, ye that mind to come to the Holy Communion."

Mr. CHARLES said that was then introduced for the first time, and there was also introduced for the first time into the earlier part of the Communion Service—viz., before the Prayer for the Church Militant—a direction to the minister to put as much bread and wine upon the table as would suffice for those who he thought would come to the Communion. That rubric did not appear in the Prayer Book of King Edward VI. Now, however, before the Prayer for the Church Militant was said, the minister must have already committed the ecclesiastical offence, if it were an offence, which was charged against Mr. Ridsdale. That gentleman had in his evidence stated his belief that there was a sufficient number of persons present ready to communicate.

The JUDGE.—Yes; but belief is one thing and a rational ground for it is another.

Mr. CHARLES admitted it must be the honest belief of a man reasonably judging of the circumstances. It had been suggested that if the same thing occurred frequently the minister might give a notice on the subject, but he could only do so in service time; and if he were to do so at that time he would thereby commit an offence ecclesiastical, because it was laid down that "nothing shall be proclaimed in the church at the time of Divine service but by the minister, nor by him anything but what is described in the rules of this book or enjoined by the Queen or by the ordinary of the place." He had no hesitation in saying that if a minister were to make an unauthorized announcement with regard to the celebration of the Communion he would render himself liable to be proceeded against under the Church Discipline Act, and that formerly he would have been liable to be proceeded against for "brawling."

The JUDGE, interposing, said that the rubric about the communicants being conveniently placed implied that somebody was so to place them.

Mr. CHARLES supposed that they would place themselves, or else that the churchwardens would place them. Certainly it was not the duty of the minister to go round the church and place them.

The JUDGE.—If the parishioners had been in the habit of staying in the church as if they were going to receive the sacrament, do you think a notice from the clergyman that they must place themselves in a certain part of the church would be an ecclesiastical offence?

Mr. CHARLES entertained very grave doubts as to whether it would be lawful for a minister to make such a notice during service time, and he cited the Law Reports, 3 Privy Council, 652, to show that additional ceremonies and innovations were excluded from the service, and the office of Holy Communion was not only a guide but a sufficient guide for its celebration. Approaching next the question of the crucifix, the learned counsel observed that there had been no suggestion in the present case that there had been a ceremonial use of the crucifix.

The JUDGE here asked for the drawing annexed to the faculty, and it was accordingly handed to his lordship.

Mr. CHARLES explained that the screen stood across the west end of the chancel. It ran across from the pulpit to the other side of the chancel. The ground plan was hung up in the church for a month before the faculty was applied for, and in the description of it "a rood screen" was expressly mentioned. It was in the same position that the cross and screen were placed in at St. Barnabas Church, Pimlico.

Dr. STEPHENS.—As I was counsel in that case, I may state that it was a cross which was elevated there, and not a crucifix.

The JUDGE.—Yes, but the cross was in the same position there that the crucifix occupies here.

Dr. STEPHENS.—That is so, my lord, but they are very different images.

Mr. CHARLES proceeded to remark that the counsel on the opposite side dwelt much on the fact that crucifixes had been disused in the Church of England. It was certain, however, that mere disuse was not sufficient to make anything illegal. Still the circumstance of disuse was pressed on the tribunals in all the decided cases as an argument to show that various ornaments objected to, wore, at all events, an aspect of illegality. Crosses, equally with crucifixes, were broken up and disused at the Reformation period, and yet the cross was legal. In the same way copes were the objects of great jealousy in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and although, in spite of the decision in Hildbert v. Purchas, they were at this moment disused in most of our cathedrals, they were not only legal, but must be worn, unless the canons and rubrics were disregarded. Again, credence tables were not heard of for a couple of centuries in the Church of England, but still they were legal; and the same remark was applicable to embroidered cloths. It was alleged that the crucifix was illegal because it had been abused, but the cross had the same history as the crucifix, and yet the cross was legal. In support of this view he cited the judgment of Sir John Dodson in Westerton v. Liddell (Moore's Special Report, 102, et seq.), where it was said that a cross, if not an image, was at least a monument of idolatry and superstition, the office of the Invention of the Cross in the 'Missale Romanum' being mentioned in proof of this. The cross had a history identical with, or at least analogous to, that of the crucifix. Both had been abused; but this circumstance ought not to influence the court in coming to a decision. At the time when Westerton v. Liddell was decided, the advocates on both sides and the tribunal itself were under the erroneous impression that the injunctions of Elizabeth and Edward VI. against images were still in full force. But for this circumstance the decision in Westerton v. Liddell would justify an architectural crucifix just as much as it did an architectural cross.

The JUDGE said the judgment in Philpotts v. Boyd laid down a new rule for testing the legality of an ornament or decoration, viz.—Was it likely to be worshipped or abused at the present day?

Mr. CHARLES remarked that even in the state of the authorities the Privy Council, in deciding the case of Westerton v. Liddell, seemed to have considered that crosses and crucifixes to some extent did or might stand on the same footing, because, according to 'Brooke's Privy Council Judgments,' p. 56, they said:—

"Although it is true that crosses have been abused as well as crucifixes and images of saints, it must be remembered that there is a wide difference between the cross and images of saints and even, though in a less degree, between a cross and a crucifix."

The JUDGE.—Yes, but the judgment goes thus:—

"A cross was used as a symbol of Christianity two or three centuries before either crucifixes or images were introduced; it was used for ages before the Reformation, and has continued ever since to be used, as an ensign of honour, as an ornament both of buildings and persons, ecclesiastical and civil, public and private, without any relation to superstitious or even to religious usages."

Mr. CHARLES said before he passed to the new test to be applied to the legality of the crucifix he wished to point out, that although crosses and crucifixes were destroyed in great numbers after the accession of Queen Elizabeth, still it appeared from Wilson's 'Church Ornaments' that a considerable number of crucifixes were destroyed during the Commonwealth, a fact showing that in many places for a hundred years after the Reformation crucifixes escaped destruction.

The JUDGE said the rule of popular destruction was a very unsafe one to guide us in matters of law. At the time of the Reformation no doubt a vast number of things were done for which there was no warrant by law.

Mr. CHARLES remarked that there was a considerable number of painted representations in our cathedrals at the present day. In Exeter Cathedral there were three representations of the crucifixion. With regard to the new test to be applied, he observed that their lordships, in giving judgment in the case of Philpotts v. Boyd, "decided it to be generally understood that nothing decided in this case affects the question of superstitions regard being paid, contrary to the 22nd Article of Religion, to any representations of images that are or at any time may be set up in churches. The law will at all times be sufficient to control any such abuse." The inference to be drawn from that language was that in the statute law there was nothing to make either crosses or crucifixes illegal unless the tribunal were satisfied that superstitious regard was paid to them.

The JUDGE asked the learned counsel whether, in his opinion, if a crucifix were set up in the same way as was seen in Roman Catholic churches, with candles and flowers around it, so that it was likely to be abused, it would nevertheless be legal until it actually was abused?

Mr. CHARLES could not go that length, though he thought the fact of the crucifix being surrounded by flowers and candles might be adduced as evidence to show the court that the crucifix had been superstitiously abused.

The JUDGE.—We will assume that it has not been abused, but that you see it so placed that you would imagine, from the surrounding circumstances, that it was put there for the purpose of being abused.

Mr. CHARLES submitted that in each case it would be for the court, having regard to all the circumstances, to say whether the image had been or was likely to be abused.

The JUDGE.—I quite understand that, if that is your argument.

Mr. CHARLES replied that it was his argument, and that he unhesitatingly applied it to this case.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—Yes, my lord, that is the argument on which we found our case.

Mr. CHARLES said the old association had now been broken off, and a crucifix might be a very different thing now from what it was three centuries ago. In considering the question whether this image had been or was likely to be abused, he would ask his lordship to look at matters as they now stood, and not to be governed by the circumstance that once upon a time some sorts of crucifixes had been abused.

The JUDGE.—Suppose it were made out that a crucifix was set up in a church and persons invited to say their prayers before it.

Mr. CHARLES.—I could not say that that was lawful.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—There are ten thousand ways in which an image might be abused. What my friend and I contend for is, that unless there is evidence of some abuse or some probability of some definite abuse, then it stands on the ground of its being an architectural decoration and nothing more.

Mr. CHARLES said they did not insist on its legality if any ceremonial observance was likely to be made to it or before it. When that was done the law was strong enough to deal with it, as was observed in the judgment in Boyd v. Philpotts. With regard to the "Stations of the Cross," the arguments and the evidence were simply to the effect that they were illegal because they were the subject of devotional exercises in the Roman Church. In the case referred to it was urged in like manner that a reredos was an adjunct of a Roman Catholic altar, but this circumstance did not render it illegal in the Church of England if it were set up as an innocent architectural decoration.

Dr. STEPHENS, in his reply, commented on the remarks made by Mr. Fitzjames Stephen on the promoters. If they had not been proper persons to institute this suit, it was in the power of the bishop of the diocese, who, in this instance, was the Archbishop of Canterbury, to have prevented them from doing so, and therefore the severe observations of his learned friend on the promoters were, in fact, a reflection on the primate. The respondent had admitted most of the charges because the practices to which they related had been already decided by the final ecclesiastical court of Appeal, or by his lordship's immediate predecessor in the office of Dean of the arches, to be superstitious practices of the church of Rome, and therefore illegal in the church of England. He maintained that the main charges could not be severed in principle from those which had been abandoned, the whole being a connected series of superstitious practices unauthorized in the national church since the Reformation. With respect to the charge that the respondent administered the communion when fewer than three persons were present to receive it, he said that great stress had been laid by his learned friends on the other side on the penal consequences of not obeying the rubric. Now, if the court should be of opinion that the respondent had violated the rubric, he submitted that no penal consequences would result therefrom. All that the promoters asked his lordship to do was to admonish Mr. Ridsdale to obey the rubric for the future.

The JUDGE.—I was going to ask you to hand to the court, as is, I believe, usually done, some form of prayer, showing what you wish the court to do. There is no prayer on the form of the representation as sketched by the statute, and amplified by the rules and orders.

Dr. STEPHENS.—I had a consultation with my learned friend on the subject, and we thought we were bound to adhere strictly to the provisions of the Public Worship Regulation Act.

The JUDGE.—Still I think it will be convenient for you to hand in a prayer.

Dr. STEPHENS.—I shall be very happy to do so, but perhaps I had better show it beforehand to Mr. Fitzjames Stephen.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—I have no part in the matter except to express a hope that the prayer will not be granted. (Laughter.)

The JUDGE.—You cannot know that till you see it. (Renewed laughter.) A prayer had better be put in on both sides.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN.—Our prayer is a very short one indeed. It is that we may be let alone. (Laughter.)

Dr. STEPHENS, in concluding his reply, pointed out that the statute 3 & 4 Edward VI. made the crucifix illegal as an abused image. As for the "Stations of the Way of the Cross" they had never been erected in the Church of England before, and he trusted that the court would order their removal.

The JUDGE announced that he would take full time to consider the judgment in the case.

CONSISTORY COURT.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 29.

(Before Dr. TRISTRAM, Chancellor of London.)

THE CLERKENWELL VICARAGE.—REV. J. H. ROSE
v. REV. W. HOLDERNES.

This case came before the court on a notice of motion to dismiss the caveat entered against the institution of the Rev. Mr. Rose, who, it was submitted, had been legally elected to the vicarage of St. James's, Clerkenwell. Great excitement was manifested at the election, when the polling, which was taken orally, lasted three days. It was alleged that the election was illegal, as resolutions had been passed that the votes should be taken by ballot, and confined to one day. A caveat had therefore been entered on the part of a committee of the parishioners, and an act on petition had been filed to contest the legality of the election, and the present mode was adopted to get rid of the caveat in order that Mr. Rose might be presented and instituted by the Bishop of London.

Mr. Bayford appeared for Mr. Rose, and Dr. Swabey for Mr. Holderness.

The parishioners contended that they had not only a right to elect, but that it should, as resolved upon by a meeting, be taken by ballot on one day only.

Dr. SWABEY said the parishioners were the patrons of the living, and the advowson was purchased in 1656, from Edward Drake, and conveyed to trustees on behalf of the parishioners.

Mr. BAYFORD observed that a question would arise whether the court had jurisdiction in the case. The matter on other elections had been in almost every court in the kingdom. If a legal right had been invaded, the parties could resort to law, and if the trusts of the deed had not been carried out then other proceedings could be adopted.

An application was made, as no answer to the petition had been filed, that the proctor for Mr. Rose, Mr. Longden, should state his objections. On the part of Mr. Holderness, it was stated that his proctor, Mr. Brooks, could file a copy of the trust deed by which the advowson was conveyed to trustees for the parishioners.

The learned CHANCELLOR ordered the documents mentioned to be delivered, and would appoint a day for the argument as to the legality of the election. The case stood over accordingly.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 18.

The question of the validity of the election of the Rev. J. H. Rose to the vicarage of St. James, Clerkenwell, came on for argument on several points raised by the act on petition. Mr. Rose has applied to remove the caveat entered against his institution to the benefice by the Bishop of London, and since the case first came before Dr. Tristram, proceedings had been taken in the Court of Chancery. Mr. Bayford appeared for Mr. Rose, and Mr. Fitzjames Stephen, Q.C. (with whom was Dr. Swabey) for Mr. Holderness.

Mr. BAYFORD, on the part of Mr. Rose, said Mr. Holderness did not claim to be inducted to the living, and the caveat being warned, as it was called, an act on petition had been filed. Since the case was before this court, the Bishop of London had, in consequence of proceedings in Chancery, undertaken not to induct Mr. Rose, and that very day the solicitor for Mr. Rose had been served with notice of the application, which was to obtain an injunction to prevent the induction, and to have the terms of the trust deed by which the advowson was given carried out. One of the principal points in the case would be whether the election was properly conducted orally, and not by ballot.

Mr. FITZJAMES STEPHEN, in supporting the act on petition, said the bishop had undertaken to do the very thing the caveat was intended to obtain. All that the act on petition had asked was that the bishop should hold his hand, and his lordship had promised not to induct pending the proceedings in Chancery.

In giving judgment, Dr. TRISTRAM, after referring to three cases arising out of the same parish, and to a judgment given by Lord Justice Turner, to the effect that the legal estate was vested in trustees, said that, inasmuch as five trustees had presented Mr. Rose to be inducted, he was of opinion that this court had no jurisdiction in the matter. A caveat was entered on the part of Mr. Holderness, and followed by an act on petition, in which the court was asked to declare the election null and void. He (Dr. Tristram) was clearly of opinion that he had no jurisdiction to determine whether the election was valid or invalid, and the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice would have to settle the matter. He should allow the caveat to remain to ascertain whether the proceedings in Chancery would be prosecuted within a reasonable time. The question of costs was reserved.

ROLLS COURT.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 2.

SHAW v. THOMPSON.—VICARAGE OF CLERKENWELL.

This was a motion for injunction to restrain the Bishop of London from instituting the Rev. Mr. Rose, the successful candidate for the office of vicar of St. James's, Clerkenwell, at the recent election. The plaintiff alleged that proceedings are pending in another court to determine the validity of the election, meanwhile it is sought to restrain the bishop from instituting Mr. Rose. On the hearing of the motion it appeared that Mr. Rose is not a party to this suit.—The Master of the Rolls considering it necessary that he should be a party, it was arranged that the motion should stand over, an undertaking being given on the bishop's part to take no step in the matter in the meanwhile.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9.

In this case Mr. HORACE DAVEY, Q.C., said he had a motion for an injunction to restrain the Bishop of London from inducting the Rev. J. H. Rose into the vicarage of Clerkenwell. Last week his lordship suggested that Mr. Rose ought to be made a party in the case. He had now been made a party, and had been communicated with, and he (Mr. Davey) understood that Mr. Rose intended to appear by counsel. As he did not see the bishop's counsel present, he would like to mention the case again later in the day. He had no doubt that his motion would be agreed to, as the question in dispute was not one of fact, but of law.

The JUDGE.—You have not got the archbishop here?

Mr. DAVEY.—We have not.

The JUDGE.—Shall you want him?

Mr. DAVEY.—I daresay we shall.

Later in the afternoon Mr. DAVEY said Mr. Rose had not appeared, and the bishop's counsel intimated last week that the bishop would give an undertaking not to induct until after the trial of the case. He therefore proposed to accept that undertaking.

The MASTER OF THE ROLLS gave his assent to this arrangement.

CONSISTORIAL COURT OF NORWICH.

THE ARCHDEACON OF NORWICH v. WILLIAM DELPH AND WILLIAM THOMAS GILBERT (now or late churchwardens of the parish of St. Augustine's, Norwich).

It will be remembered that in this suit, which came on for hearing in November 1874, the chancellor decreed that the churchwardens, who had desecrated the churchyard by throwing a portion of it into the public road, should by placing certain stones in the pathway and wall mark the ancient boundary of the churchyard, as the archdeacon did not press as he might have done for actual restoration, and the defendants were also condemned in all the costs of the suit. The defendants not having obeyed the decree of the court, an application was on November 5, made by Mr. Overbury, as proctor for the Archdeacon of Norwich, that they might be pronounced contumacious. The matter was adjourned until Tuesday, Nov. 30, when, after due notice, the defendants were again called, and the decree not then having been obeyed, the judge, on the application of Mr. Overbury, pronounced the defendants contumacious, and decreed their contempt to be signified to her Majesty in the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, in order that an attachment might forthwith issue against them.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S CHURCH, NORWICH.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.
Norwich, December 22, 1875.

SIR,—As I find that the recent case of the Archdeacon of Norwich v. The Churchwardens of St. Augustine's has excited considerable interest, and as many of the circumstances attending the proceedings must be entirely unknown to the public, some of them having been greatly misstated and misrepresented, permit me to give a short history of the case, confining myself to actual facts which I can prove by dates and documents in my possession.

Before the work of the alteration of the churchyard was commenced, certain of the parishioners interested in the proposed works communicated with the bishop on the subject, and were informed by his lordship at once that the conversion of any portion of the consecrated ground to secular purposes was in itself illegal, and that he had no power to grant a faculty for the purpose, and that the authority of an Act of Parliament could alone legalise the proceeding.

A similar answer was given by the archdeacon, and he referred to the case of St. Giles's churchyard, in which the necessary authority for the separation of the portion of the consecrated ground was obtained by Act of Parliament.

The rural dean and the registrar of the diocese also verbally gave the same information (the law being distinct on the subject).

In the month of July 1874, the archdeacon visited the church in the usual course of his visitation, and found that, notwithstanding the warnings that had been given, the boundary wall of the churchyard had been thrown down and a portion of the consecrated ground, extending for some considerable length, had been thrown into the public highway.

On inquiring by what authority this had been done, he was informed by the rector "that it was done by the corporation." The archdeacon expressed his extreme surprise, and at once wrote to the officers of the corporation, who, in reply, repudiated having given authority for the work, but intimated that a contribution would be forthcoming when the work was completed. The archdeacon next wrote to the rector of the parish, who referred him to Mr. Gilbert as being entirely responsible for all orders in connection with the erection of the wall. He next wrote three successive letters to the churchwardens (they being bound to protect the sanctity of the church and churchyard on all occasions), inviting an explanation on the subject. No answer was returned nor any notice taken of these letters.

The opinion of an eminent counsel was thereupon taken, and the archdeacon was advised his only course was to take proceedings in the consistory court of the diocese (he being officially charged with the duty of seeing that the boundaries of the consecrated ground of the churchyard are maintained). The churchwardens were accordingly cited to appear before the court.

Upon the hearing of the cause, the chancellor referred to the well-known leading case of Harper v. Forbes and Sissons (5 Jur. N.S. 275), and stated, "That, in his opinion, it was the bounden duty of the archdeacon to take the course he had taken, in order to teach churchwardens that they could not deal with consecrated ground in the manner the defendants had done."

As, however, the archdeacon did not press for actual restoration, the judge made the most lenient decree in his power, to the effect that "Stones should be placed at intervals in the pavement to mark the old boundary of the churchyard," and allowed them six months for the performance of the work, and recommended them to obtain the sanction of an Act of Parliament to the work.

A year elapsed and nothing was done by the defendants towards obeying such decree, and the usual monitions issued by the court were treated by one of the defendants with the utmost contempt, the other appearing from time to time, and stating that he had from the first protested against the desecration of the churchyard, and that none of the letters addressed to the "Churchwardens" had been communicated to him by his colleague.

Notice was then served personally on the defendants, that unless the decree was complied with, an application would be made to the chancellor to pronounce them in contempt; and after an adjournment, which gave them yet further time, the chancellor had no option but to pronounce them contumacious or in contempt, and he signified in the usual manner such contempt to the Queen, upon which a writ of attachment issued from the Crown Office, and the defendant, Mr. Gilbert, was taken into custody, he having had full notice of the necessary result of the proceedings, and being well aware that he was liable to be attached, having been publicly and privately urged not to allow matters to proceed to extremities against him, and every possible facility being afforded, by adjournment of the proceedings from time to time, and otherwise to enable him to carry out the reasonable decree of the court.

It must be borne in mind that the proceedings have not in any way been characterised by haste, as more than thirteen months have elapsed since the judgment of the chancellor was pronounced, and the greatest consideration and desire to save the defendants from the consequences of their contempt have been evinced by all concerned.

The question of costs is a mere incident of the case. Mr. Gilbert would never have been arrested for these, and will not be detained on account of their nonpayment. What he suffers now he suffers for his deliberate contempt of the laws and the constituted authorities of the land.

I am, Sir, yours obediently,

WALTER OVERBURY,
Proctor to the Archdeacon of Norwich

INCORPORATED SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING THE ENLARGEMENT, BUILDING, AND REPAIRING OF CHURCHES AND CHAPELS.

THIS society held its usual monthly meeting on Monday, December 20, at the society's house, 7 Whitehall—Archdeacon Harrison in the chair. There were also present Archdeacon Hessey, the Revs. A. Cazenove, John Evans, and C. F. Norman. Messrs. John Boodle, A. J. C. Lawrie, E. Peprs, Wm. Rivington, and Rev. R. Milburn Blakiston, M.A., secretary. Grants of money were made in aid of the following objects, viz.:—Building new churches at Darwen St. Cuthbert, in the parish of Blackburn; Hethersgill, in the parish of Kirklington, near Carlisle; and Kilburn, St. Luke's, Middlesex. Rebuilding the churches at Clun, Salop; Leicester, St. Leonarda, Llansamlet (near Neath); and Meppershall, Beds. Enlarging or otherwise increasing the accommodation in the churches at Crook, in the parish of Brancepeth, near Darlington; Felsted, Essex; Glanville Wootton, near Sherborne, Dorset; and Mancetta, near Atherstone. Under urgent circumstances the grants formerly made towards restoring the churches at Up-Ottery, near Honiton, and Bryngwyn, near Hereford, were each increased. Grants were also made from the Special School Church and Mission House Fund towards building school churches at Kilver Street, in the parish of Shepton Mallett, and Low Fenton, near Stoke-on-Trent. In the multitude of other claims it is hoped that the Incorporated Church Building Society will not be overlooked, and at this season especially, when Christian charity is generally more widely dispensed than usual, the committee trust that they will receive such liberal and generous support from Churchmen and Churchwomen as to enable them to meet the urgent appeals for help which are continually coming before them in a more substantial and satisfactory manner than would otherwise be the case.

THE HYMNAL COMPANION

TO THE

Book of Common Prayer.

EDITED BY

EDWARD HENRY BICKERSTETH, M.A.,

Vicar of Christ Church, Hampstead, and Chaplain to the Lord Bishop of Ripon.

Price from One Penny to Seven Shillings and Sixpence.

The attention of Clergymen who are about to make a change in their Church Hymn-Book is respectfully called to this valuable Collection of Hymns.

The Rev. JOHN JULIAN, in a recent series of interesting articles "Concerning Hymns" in the Churchman's Shilling Magazine, asks "How many of the seventeen thousand (extant) English Hymns and Psalms have received the broad seal of approval of the whole Anglican Church both at home and abroad?" And he says, "I have put these hymns to the test, and find that only 216 can be said to have received the stamp of that seal. My modus operandi has been very simple. I have collated twenty-eight representative Hymnals upon a definite plan, and have thereby gathered the universal voice of the Church concerning hymns. No school of thought within the Church is excluded. All hymns found in twenty Hymnals or more are placed in the first rank; all found in fifteen or more in the second rank; all found in ten or more in the third rank. Only 216 hymns (Standard A) have stood this test: in the first rank are 48, in the second 60, in the third 108. However, if the standard is lowered to seven instead of ten, the result is 17 hymns are found in 9 Hymnals; 24 in 8; 24 in 7: total 65 additional hymns (Standard B).

"The Hymnal Companion to the Book of Common Prayer," which has been so carefully edited by the Rev. E. H. Bickersteth, contains the whole of the 216 hymns which, judged by the test already applied, rank as Standard (A) hymns." "In the lower Standard (B) the Hymnal Companion contains 64 out of 65 hymns."

It was on the sound principle of selection thus worked out by Mr. Julian, that the Hymnal Companion was compiled four years ago; and the result, as given in the above condensed extracts, proves that it contains a far larger number of generally-sanctioned hymns than any other hymn-book hitherto published. Its adoption in so many hundred congregations bears witness to the want it has supplied; and its rapidly-increasing circulation, especially in the musical Northern counties, testifies the excellence of its accompanying Tune-book.

This Hymnal is designed to be a Companion to "The Book of Common Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the Use of the United Church of Great Britain and Ireland." The Tables of Contents correspond. The Order of the Ecclesiastical Year is observed. The Hymns are arranged under those divisions of the Prayer Book with which their subjects most easily conalesce.

THE CHALDEAN ACCOUNT OF GENESIS.

Containing the Description of the Creation, the Fall of Man, the Deluge, the Tower of Babel, the Times of the Patriarchs, and Nimrod; Babylonian Fables, and Legends of the Gods, from the Cuneiform Inscriptions. By GEORGE SMITH, of the Department Oriental Antiquities, British Museum, Author of "History of Assyrian Empire," "Assyrian Discoveries," &c. With numerous Illustrations. Demy 8vo., 1 vol., 16s. [Now ready.

From a long Review in THE TIMES of Dec. 4, 1875.

"The deciphering of Assyrian Cuneiform is marching at a pace that must astonish its most ardent admirers and surpass the expectations of its most devoted followers. Treasures that have been kept as enigmas for the last quarter of a century in the British Museum. . . . have now given up more of their secret meaning."

From THE ATHENÆUM of Dec. 18, 1875.

"The work Mr. Smith has here given us is the most interesting and the fullest we have yet had from his pen. . . . The value of the present work is its completeness. . . . We notice many instances in which Mr. Smith has happily explained from them (the clay tablets) figures and symbols occurring on the oldest Babylonian cylinders (some, it may be, as ancient as 2,000 years before Christ), a subject so difficult as scarcely to have been attempted at all by any previous scholar. The legend of the Creation is of surpassing interest, giving, as it does, an account agreeing mainly with that we find in Genesis, but, at the same time, showing traces of having originally included much more matter. . . . In concluding these remarks, we heartily commend Mr. Smith's work to the attention of everyone who, accepting the general course of Biblical story, would wish to learn all that can be at present told of the collateral, though not contemporaneous, history of the nations of Chaldea and Babylonia."

"This most masterly and interesting work."—English Churchman.

"Probably no single volume of its kind was ever published that contained more singular and deeply interesting matter."—Nonconformist.

WORKS PUBLISHED IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Cloth extra, demy 8vo. Price 5s.

This Catalogue was first published in 1871. It met with immediate success. The edition was soon exhausted, and subsequently the work has become scarce, and even valuable, from the difficulty of procuring it. The publishers themselves had to pay full price for copies for the purpose of revision. The object of the Catalogue is to give as faithfully as possible, the titles of the books that exist on the various departments of education, whether for teaching or for personal study. Whatever the shortcomings of the Catalogue, it will reflect a splendid array of educational material, of which the quality is probably not less conspicuous than the quantity.

"The Progressive Readers are about the best we have yet had occasion to notice."—The Schoolmaster.

"Managers and teachers should examine a set of these books before they order new ones for their schools. We heartily recommend the books, and predict a large sale for them."—Educational Reporter.

THE ACADEMIC PROGRESSIVE READING BOOKS. With Home Exercises on the Lessons in each Book. Edited by Canon RIDGWAY. Illustrated by DALZIEL BROTHERS. Printed on superfine paper, and bound in extra cloth.

"We look for two qualities in a series of elementary readers—first, that the rudimentary books shall be adapted to the infant mind; and, next, that the advanced volumes shall be good at once for culture and for imparting useful information in an interesting form. We commend the editor's good sense in avoiding at the outset all ingenious contrivances, and for setting before the infant in the old-fashioned way the alphabet, first in capitals, and then in small letters. We advocate the alphabet in alphabetic form, with no attempt to cross the order of the letters; for it is well to begin by teaching the child system and regularity while instructing it in the forms of the characters."—School Board Chronicle.

COLLINS' New Series of Illustrated ENGLISH READERS.

This series will be found to consist of a judicious combination of good English prose and poetry. The difficult words are throughout divided into syllables and accented; numerous questions and notes, etymological, biographical, and explanatory, are appended; while exercises in spelling, grammar, and composition are also given.

Such a series, carefully used, with all the aids they afford to both teacher and pupil, cannot fail to produce that great desideratum—thoroughly intelligent reading.

These numbers show a falling off from last year, but it is just possible that one or two ordinations may not have been reported. If so we will correct the numbers in next. The average number of Deacons ordained during the ten years ended 1873 was 590. In 1873 it was 624, and in 1874, as above shown, 644. Probably 1876 will show a return to the recent higher numbers.—Literary Churchman.

College, and Mr. W. H. Payne-Smith, Scholar of Trinity College, have been selected for election to Senior Student-ships (Clerical) at Christ Church College, so soon as the Moderations in Trinity Term, 1873. Mr. Dalton is a son of the Rev. C. B. Dalton, Vicar of Highgate, another of whose sons (also a Scholar of Corpus Christi College) has

HERTFORD COLLEGE.

Mr. Joseph Hooper Maude, Scholar of Corpus Christi
College, has been elected to a Fellowship in this College.
There were ten candidates.

It is stated at the recent examination for Scholarships at Hertford, and also at that for a Fellowship just concluded, Nonconformist candidates were entered at the instance of the Liberation Society, with the avowed intention of disputing the right of the College to impose denominational restrictions; and that an attorney from London was specially commissioned to "watch the proceedings." It does not appear, however, that anything has come of these measures; nor is it clear how the mere presence of such candidates would even raise the question, unless it could be distinctly proved that they had done best in the examination, and who is to be the judge of that but the Fellows of Hertford themselves? The question at issue is simply one of interpretation of an Act of Parliament, which can easily be settled; but meanwhile the College, being advised on good authority, that it may accept denominational endowments, is perfectly justified in having done so.

MERTON COLLEGE.

Mr. John H. Mee, B.A., Scholar of Queen's College, and Mr. Thomas H. Wright, B.A., of Trinity College, at Moderations in 1873, and also in the First Class in the Final School of Literæ Humaniores in 1875. Mr. Wright

No one will be eligible who shall have attained the age of twenty years, or who, being a member of the University, shall have exceeded two years from his matriculation. 2. One Adam de Brome Exhibition, tenable till the end of the twentieth term from matriculation, unless the exhibitor shall, after his election, accept any appointment interfering with the full course of academical studies. It will be open to all candidates, without restriction of age or standing, whom the electors shall have ascertained to be in need of support at the University. The above-mentioned scholarships and exhibition are of the value during residence of 80*l*. 3. Two Bible Clerkships, tenable for three years (which period may be extended by the college to four years), of the annual value (including allowances) of about 110*l*, open to candidates who shall have satisfied the Vice-Provost of their need of support at the University. 4. One Ludwell Exhibition, tenable for seven years on condition of residence, of the annual value of 40*l*. Preference will be given (1) to the kin of Mrs. Ludwell, (2) to natives of Charing in Kent, and (3) to natives of Kent. If there shall be no candidate of sufficient merit entitled to preference, the exhibition will be thrown open without restriction. Candidates are to call on the Vice-Provost on Monday, February 28, bringing with them testimonials of good character and proof of their time of birth; and, if members of the University, proof of standing. Candidates for Classical Scholarships at Oriel and Brasenose Colleges will be examined at the same time and in the same papers. Each candidate will be considered as standing in the first instance at the college at which he has put down his name, and unless he has then given notice to the contrary, will be regarded as standing at the other college also. But all candidates for the Adam de Brome Exhibition or the Bible Clerkships should call on the Vice-Provost of Oriel College, with evidence of their need of support at the University; and candidates who claim a preference for the Ludwell Exhibition should bring evidence to prove their claim.

THE BISHOP OF LINCOLN ON PRAYERS FOR THE DEAD.

The following letter was written by the Bishop of Lincoln in reply to an appeal against the decision of the Burial Board at Retford, in his diocese, with regard to an inscription proposed to be placed on a sepulchral monument in the Retford Cemetery:—

"MY DEAR SIR,—I have received through you, in your letter of the 24th, an appeal from one of your parishioners, Mr. George Leach, under the provisions of 15 and 16 Vict. c. 85, sect. 38, against the decision of the Retford Burial Board, refusing to admit into the Retford Cemetery a memorial stone over the grave of his three children, with the following inscription:—

"Lord, all-pitying Jesu blest, Grant them thine eternal rest," and in accordance with that statute, I am desired to determine whether such an inscription is repugnant to the doctrines of the Church of England, and is, therefore, inadmissible.

"The question thus raised is one of great importance and difficulty, as every one must be aware who has studied it in all its bearings; and it would almost require a theological dissertation to answer it fully, so as neither, on the one hand, to condemn the general practice of the ancient Church of Christ, nor, on the other hand, to give countenance to dangerous errors and corruptions of the Church of Rome.

"The two lines in the proposed inscription are taken from one of the hymns 'for the Burial of the Dead,' in 'Hymns Ancient and Modern,' No. 221, or No. 398 in the last edition. But in that hymn-book those lines do not refer to the departed, but to mankind generally, as they do also in the original 'Dies Irae,' by Thomas de Celano, of which the hymn is a translation.

"I do not find in Holy Scripture any precept or example in favour of such a prayer. The text sometimes quoted (2 Tim. i. 16-18) in that sense is of doubtful interpretation, and it is not a prayer, but only a pious wish.

"The Second Book of the Maccabees, which is pleaded on behalf of prayers for the dead (2 Macc. xii. 45) is not canonical. That the silence of Scripture is tantamount to a disapproval of prayers for the dead with a view to changing their state after death, has been observed by me in another place, to which, for brevity's sake, and to avoid repetition, I venture to refer—namely, my note on Jeremiah vii. 31, and the eighth of the 'Twelve Addresses' delivered at my last visitation of this diocese (pp. 121-127).

"Prayers for special persons among the faithful departed are not found in the Apostolic Fathers, but appear first in the writers of the second century, and are of common occurrence in the works of the most celebrated writers of that and the following centuries, such as Tertullian, St. Cyprian, St. Ambrose, St. Gregory Nazianzen, St. Chrysostom, St. Epiphanius, St. Augustine; and are affirmed by them to be due to early and authentic tradition. Ample evidence of this assertion may be found in the following works:—Bingham's 'Antiquities of the Christian Church,' book xv. chap. iii.; book xxiii. chap. iii.; Bishop Forbes' 'Considerationes Modestæ,' liber i.; 'De Purgatorio,' chap. iii.; Herbert Thorndike, 'Laws of the Church,' book lvi. chap. xxix.; Bishop Bull, 'Sermons,' sermon iii. p. 70; Chemnitius, 'Examen Concilii Tridentini,' pp. 535-545, ed. 1634.

"The grounds of such prayers for the faithful departed, as stated by those writers, were many. First, it was pleaded that these prayers were the natural outpourings of Christian love and desire for their peace in Paradise, and for the speedy consummation of their bliss in Heaven, by the resurrection of their bodies.

"Secondly, these prayers were evidences of the faith of the Church, that the souls of the departed were alive, and that their bodies would rise again from the grave.

"Thirdly, they were a sign of belief, that the bliss of the faithful is not yet complete, and would not be perfected till the Great Day.

"Fourthly, they were a proof of belief in the Communion of Saints.

"Fifthly, they were an utterance and acknowledgment of an humble persuasion that the future bliss of the greatest saints, such as the Apostles and the blessed Virgin Mary, whom they believed to be in peace, and for whom they prayed, but to whom they did not pray, was not due to any deserts of their own, but solely and simply to the free mercy of God, and infinite merits of Christ; and therefore a thing to be prayed for by the Church; and thus these prayers were a prophetic protest against certain heresies and corruptions, such as Pelagianism; and such as the dangerous dogma of Purgatory, which was first made an article of faith by the Church of Rome in the fifteenth century.

"Such prayers as these may be seen in the Roman Catacombs, where you may read 'Optatus in pace requiescat,' and 'Regina, vivas in Domino' (see Aringhi, 'Roma Sotterranea,' pp. 405, 487, and see Dean Burgon's 'Letters from Rome,' pp. 185, 217, 219, 220, 221, 238, 240).

"It cannot be doubted that such prayers as these ministered comfort to many devout and loving hearts, and that they helped to cherish the faith of Christians in many wholesome doctrines. But the question arises for us whether such prayers as these are according to the mind of the Church of England, or whether they are not discouraged by her?

"On the 12th December 1838, the Dean of the Court of Arches, the court of this province, Sir Herbert Jenner, decided that the following inscription on a tombstone, 'Pray for the soul of Joseph Woolfrey; it is a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead' (2 Macc. xii. 45), was not repugnant to anything in the Articles and Canons of the Church of England, nor at variance with her doctrine and discipline (Philimore, Buru, p. 888, ed. 1873), and that there is no necessary connection between the Roman Doctrine of Purgatory (on which see Art. xxii.) and the practice of praying for the dead.

"This is the most recent judgment of any court of the Church of England on this subject, and great respect is due to so high an authority, especially from bishops and clergy of this province.

"I have stated in another place to which I have referred already (note on Jeremiah vii. 31, and Eighth Address, 1873) some reasons for demurring, in some respects, to the learned judge's decision. And let me also observe that he did not decide that it was expedient to erect a monument with such an inscription, but only that, if erected, it could not be removed as illegal. The absence of all such prayers from our Liturgy is, to my mind, a strong argument of the doubt, to say the least, of the Church of England, as to their propriety and permissibility in public use. If the Church of England had thought that the condition of the special persons departed could be altered for the better by the prayers of the living, she would justly be chargeable with cruelty for never having commended them to our prayers. She does pray for the faithful departed generally in her Burial Service, and this is a corroboration of the argument. Nor is this all. It is well known that in the burial office of the first Prayer Book of King Edward VI. there were prayers to be said for the dead, when committed to the grave; these were omitted in the second book, and have never been restored. Yet further. Even in the Second Book of Edward VI., and of Elizabeth, and of King James I., and of Charles I., there were the following words in the Burial Service:—'Beseeching Thee that it may please Thee of Thy gracious goodness, shortly to accomplish the number of Thine elect and to hasten Thy kingdom, that we, with this our brother, and all other departed in the true faith of Thy Holy Name, may have our perfect consummation and bliss both in body and soul, in Thy eternal and everlasting glory,' but this sentence was altered at the last review of the Prayer Book, at the Restoration of Charles II., to the following words, 'that we, with all those that are departed in the true faith and fear of Thy Holy Name,' and so it stands in our Prayer Book at this day. It may be said that the Homilies put forth at the Reformation are of secondary authority. The language of the third part of the sermon concerning prayer, in the Second Book of the Homilies (near the end) is very strong against praying for the dead.

"The most erudite Lutherans do not forbid prayers for the dead, but they do not encourage them (see Chemnitii 'Examen Concilii Tridentini' on the 'Decretum de Purgatorio,' part iii. cap. v. p. 538, ed. 1634).

"The learned Herbert Thorndike was in favour of such prayers, and would have invoked the authority of the Church of England for them, if he could; but so far from doing so, he expresses his regret that the Church of England has discontinued and discourages the practice in compliance with the wishes of Puritans, and he also utters a desire that it should be restored. (Thorndike on 'The Laws of the Church,' book iii. ch. xxix. vol. iv. pp. 710, 722, ed. Haddan.)

"There can be little doubt that experience of the evils which the Church of Christ has suffered from the Romish dogmas of prayers and masses and indulgences for the dead, and the consequent demoralisation of the living, in the fond presumption that whatever their conduct may have been in this world they may be delivered from the future punishment of sin by such processes as these, has caused a reaction, and has rendered the Church of England tenderly susceptible and sensitively timorous of lending the least countenance to such illusory hopes.

"I am, therefore, disposed to adopt the language of the letter to Cardinal Perron, which was written by King James I., with the assistance of two of the most learned men of that learned age, Bishop Andrews and Isaac Casaubon, in which it is freely acknowledged that special prayers for the faithful departed were common in the early Church, and were due to Christian faith and Christian charity, and that while it would be presumptuous to condemn a practice of the ancient Church, yet inasmuch as it does not rest on any clear evidence of Holy Writ, nor can be proved to have been in use at the beginning, and in Apostolic times, and since Christendom has had bitter experience of the evils which have followed it, the Church of England is justified in not retaining it in her public formularies. Casaubon, 'Epistole,' p. 501.

"Like words are uttered by Bishop Jeremy Taylor in the dedication of his 'Holy Dying' near the end. A similar opinion has been expressed in a work due to two of the most learned of my predecessors in the See of Lincoln, Bishop Wake and Bishop Gibson. In the 'Preservative against Popery,' edited by the latter, there is a very elaborate treatise written by the former, on this subject (vol. ii. tit. viii. chap. vii. pp. 147-157), where, after a candid avowal that the custom of praying for the dead was one of the most early practices of the Church, and after a full statement of the evidence in support of this assertion, and of the grounds of the usage, it is said that the Church of England having duly considered that the practice has no certain warrant in Holy Scripture, and that it has led to manifold errors and corruptions in the Church of Rome, has deemed it the wisest course to abstain from it in her public services. The Church of Rome has robbed us of many things which might yet only be innocent but edifying and fit to be used, if it were so easy to restrain abuses as it is to prevent them. In saying this, let me be understood to approve and encourage, as the Church of England does in her Burial Service, the practice of praying for all the faithful departed generally, and I am not venturing to pronounce an opinion with regard to the practice of devout persons, who, like the saintly Bishop Wilson ('Sacra Privata,' p. 278, ed. Keble) and Dr. Johnson, remember in their private prayers those special persons whom they believe to be at peace; or to apostrophise like that of our own Poet Laureate at the close of his ode on the funeral of the Duke of Wellington.

"On the whole, as a wise man says, 'God approves much more than He commands, and He disapproves much more than He forbids.' As our love to Him is proved, not by being slaves to the letter, but by listening with filial alacrity to the softest whisperings of our Heavenly Father's voice. We shall not be 'like horse and mule which have no understanding,' but we shall be 'guided by His eye' (Psalm xxii. 9, 10). So it is with regard to our duty to our spiritual mother, the Church of England. On the one hand, we shall not limit our obedience to what she strictly commands, but we shall hasten also to do what we know she approves; and we shall not abstain merely from what she forbids, but shall shrink also from what she disapproves. We may, in our own hearts and minds, wish perhaps that she had been less cautious or more indulgent. But we shall feel assured, and act on the assurance, that sacrifice of our own wills, in all things not unlawful, in obedience to lawful authority, especially to that of a spiritual parent, is well-pleasing to God.

"Of this also I am persuaded, that nothing profits without charity (1 Corinthians xiii. 1), and if any act which we desire to do, and which is not necessary to be done, is likely to give offence to others, that act ought to be forborne in a spirit of love.

"Therefore, my dear Sir, without any judicial determination on my part, whether the inscription proposed by your parishioner, on whose behalf you write, is repugnant to the doctrines and formularies of the Church of England, yet, as it is at least doubtful whether it is approved by

er. and inasmuch as it will cause offence to many, and has, I understand, been disallowed unanimously by the members of the burial board of Retford, I beg you to read this letter to him, and to ask him in my name, for the sake of Christ, and of Christian peace and love, so to modify the inscription that it may be an enduring memorial not only of his parental affection to his dear children, but of his dutiful loyalty to his spiritual mother, the Church of England.

"I am, my dear Sir,

"Your faithful friend and brother,

"C. LINGCOLN.

The Rev. A. F. Ebsworth, Vicarage,
"East Retford."

The bishop's suggestion has been complied with by Mr. Leach, who proposes to substitute the following words from the Burial Service, which have been accepted by the burial board:—"Grant, O Lord, that we, with all those that are departed in the true faith of Thy holy name, may have our perfect consummation and bliss, both in body and soul, in Thy eternal and everlasting glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

THE NEW BISHOP OF COLOMBO, DR. COPELSTON.

The career of this youthful bishop, who was consecrated on Tuesday, December 28, at, perhaps, an earlier age than any bishop of late years, except Dr. Murray, sometime of Sodor and Man and of Rochester, has, though short, been remarkable one. He was placed by his father, the Rev. R. E. Copleston, vicar of Edmonstone, nephew or cousin, we believe, of Dr. Edward Copleston, Bishop of Llandaff, at Merchant Taylors' School, under the care of Dr. Hessey, now the Archdeacon of Middlesex. There his ability and industry brought him in an extraordinarily short time to the head of the school. He competed successfully for nearly every prize that fell in his way. In his two last years he carried off the Head Master's Hebrew Prize, the Montefiore Medal, and divided the chief Latin Verse and the chief Latin Literature Prizes with two companions, afterwards highly distinguished at Oxford—Mr. E. Noton, Casberd scholar of St. John's, and Mr. J. H. Ward, fellow of Brasenose. They became eventually joint authors with him of a work of singular freshness and ability, the 'Oxford Spectator.' In 1862 the Fellows of Merton proposed for competition a Postmastership, of the unusual value of 100*l.* per annum. He went up for this, and was the candidate chosen. A First Class in Classics at Moderations, the place of proxime accessit for the Hertford, a Second Class in Classics at his degree of B.A., and an Open Fellowship at St. John's College, of which he was speedily made tutor, were his academical distinctions. But he made himself a good speaker, and was president of the "Union;" he was a young man of high tone, and of great personal influence for good among his companions; and his deep but elegant scholarship may be judged of from his 'Æschylus for English Readers,' in Mr. Collins's series. Such a man could not, on entering holy orders, escape notice. He became an eloquent and earnest preacher, and, in especial, his sermon at the consecration of his schoolfellow, Mr. Jones, of Capetown, could not be forgotten. His own wishes led him to a missionary life. His abilities marked him out for a leader of an enterprise. His attractive earnestness fitted him to be a leader of earnest men. So he was chosen for Colombo—a post for which he has been specially qualifying himself by study of the languages which he will have to use, and the philosophy he will have to combat, as well as by that deep preparation of the heart which is required in the evangelist. Many have been already induced to follow him, among them the Rev. W. E. Matthew, a friend and schoolfellow, who is to be his archdeacon; and more are being put in the course of next year. It is curious that within three or four years Merchant Taylors' School should have been connected with four colonial bishops: one, in the person of the late head master's "classical assistant," Dr. Mitchinson, to Barbados; and three of the scholars of the school—Dr. Jones, to Capetown; Dr. Thornton, to Ballarat, in Eastern Australia; and now Dr. Copleston, to Colombo.

The consecration of the Rev. Reginald Stephen Copleston as Bishop of Colombo, in succession to Dr. Jermy, who lately resigned, and who has since been elected Bishop of Brechin, took place at Westminster Abbey on December 28, the Feast of the Holy Innocents, and which was the day after the rev. gentleman had completed the canonical age of thirty years. The Archbishop of Canterbury was assisted by the Bishops of London, Lichfield, Salisbury, Oxford, Nottingham, and Brechin, and Bishop Piers Claughton, who had himself been Bishop of Colombo. At half past ten the primate, with the right rev. prelates, the bishop-elect, and the other clergymen, who had assembled in the Jerusalem Chamber, entered the Abbey in procession, and the service was commenced by the archbishop, the responses being Smart in F, and the Creed, Goss in D. The preacher, the Rev. E. S. Talbot, Warden of Keble, was then conducted to the pulpit, and preached the sermon. The bishop-elect then retired to the Islip Chapel, where he put on his rochet, the choir in the interval singing the anthem, 'Comfort, O Lord' (Croft). On his return the service proceeded, the Litany being chanted by the precentor (Mr. Flood Jones), and the anthem, 'All the ends' (Boyce), being performed whilst the bishop-elect was putting on the rest of the episcopal habit. The 'Veni Creator' was also sung by the choir, the archbishop saying the first line. At the conclusion of the service, after celebration of the Holy Communion, the archbishop and bishops returned to the Jerusalem Chamber, where the remaining legal formalities were completed.—Guardian.

The following certificates are required for deacons' orders:—A certificate of having attended two courses of lectures by Divinity Professors, one of whom shall be the Regius Professor in the case of graduates of Oxford; a certificate of the B.A. degree and the Divinity Testimonium in the case of graduates of Dublin; the Divinity Certificate in the case of graduates and others of St. David's College, Lampeter. For information respecting the examination, application is to be made to the Venerable Archdeacon De Winton, Boughrood Rectory, Llysawen, R.S.O., South Wales. Candidates for deacons' orders are required to communicate with the bishop six months before the ordination at which they desire to present themselves, and to obtain his consent.

The Bishop of Lincoln purposes holding ordinations on Trinity Sunday, and on the Third Sunday in Advent, 1876. Persons who wish to be admitted as candidates for deacons' orders are desired to make a written application to the bishop, three months before the time of ordination; stating their age, college, academical degree, and the usual place of their residence; together with the names of three or more clergymen, or other persons of respectability, to whom they are well known, and to whom the bishop may apply for further information concerning them; and he desires that shortly after the above application candidates should have a personal interview with himself or one of his examining chaplains. All candidates must produce a certificate of baptism. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge must produce certificates of having attended two courses of Public Divinity Lectures. Candidates from Dublin must have the Divinity Testimonium. It being desirable that the literary and intellectual proficiency and qualifications of the several candidates should be duly tested, and also that the solemn season immediately before the ordination should be devoted to special spiritual exercises, the following arrangements are adopted:—An examination of candidates will be held about Easter, and the middle of October before each ordination. Candidates presenting themselves for this examination need not attend for the personal interview mentioned above. Those candidates who have passed "the preliminary examination of candidates for holy orders" within nine months will be excused this examination. On the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, immediately preceding the ordination, all those who have been admitted will be received by the bishop for united devotion, meditation, and communion. At the same time there will be a short examination upon pastoral care, and in scriptural and doctrinal knowledge, and each candidate will deliver a sermon or short thesis of his own composition. Due notice of examinations will be sent by the bishop's secretary. Persons may be admitted candidates, after satisfactory residence and probation at Lincoln, as theological students in attendance upon the Divinity School (Cancellarii Scholæ) and such parochial work under a clergyman as may be assigned to them. To such students the bishop is willing to give admission to his ordination examinations, or to grant them recommendations enabling them to present themselves for the preliminary examination of candidates for holy orders. Lincoln is one of the local centres at which this examination is held.—Persons who have been ordained deacons in this diocese are expected to present themselves as candidates for priests' orders on the same titles, but not before the expiration of a year, and to remain in their curacies another full year from their admission to priests' orders. Persons who have been ordained deacons in other dioceses will not be received as candidates for priests' orders in the diocese of Lincoln, nor will priests be admitted to serve as curates in the diocese till after the expiration of two years from their ordination as deacons; unless the bishop shall be satisfied, upon inquiry, as to the reasons of their leaving the diocese in which they have been so recently ordained.—For further information relative to the subjects of examination, application is to be made to the bishop's examining chaplains, the Rev. Chancellor Benson, D.D., The Chancery, Lincoln; the Rev. Canon Meyrick, Blickling Rectory, Aylsham, Norfolk; or the Rev. Canon Wordsworth, Brasenose College, Oxford. For information with regard to the papers, such as the "Si quis," and testimonials, and other certificates, which are necessary, before admission to examination, and similar matters, application is to be made to the bishop's secretary, Wm. Moss, Esq., Old Palace, Lincoln. For information relative to the facilities afforded for theological study at Lincoln, apply to the Rev. the Chancellor, The Chancery, Lincoln; or the Rev. Canon Crowfoot, Lincoln.

The Archbishop of York's next general ordination will be held on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Applicants for holy orders are required to write to the archbishop for permission to be admitted as candidates. Candidates accepted must send all requisite papers one month before the day of ordination to the archbishop's secretary, T. S. Noble, Esq., Lendal, York, who will supply a list of requirements on application.

The Bishop of St. Asaph will hold a general ordination in his cathedral on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Candidates to send in their papers to the bishop's secretary, Diocesan Registry, St. Asaph.

The Bishop of Salisbury purposes to hold an ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11, 1876. The several candidates are requested to send their names to the bishop not later than April 20, as a preliminary examination will be held in May, and the accepted candidates must forward the usual papers to his lordship's secretary, T. #### MONEY GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

DIOCESE OF MACRITUS.—The bishop forwarded, and very earnestly recommended, two applications for grants in aid of church building in his diocese.

In reference to these the bishop wrote as follows on December 10, 1875:—

"To-day I am very anxious to ask your immediate attention to the accompanying applications for aid in behalf of church buildings. I say 'immediate,' as, in order to obtain any aid from government, I am obliged to send in my final applications (containing a full explanation of all our resources) in March. Unless, therefore, your answer can reach me by the monthly (French) mail leaving London on the 10th of February, I should necessarily be unsuccessful. All promised resources for the year 1876 must be represented in March.

"The accompanying are the only two church buildings which, I fear (in our present unprecedented commercial crisis), we can at all undertake this new year.

"The grant of 218*l.* 3*s.* (the balance of the Hurricane Fund Grant made by you to Bishop Hatchard) has helped (or, in one or two cases of not quite finished work, is still helping) two churches in the group of the Seychelles Archipelago, 1000 miles to the north, besides St. Mary's (S.P.G.), Port Louis, St. Peter's, St. Paul's, and other chapel buildings. The most important service has thus been rendered by that opportune grant, which is now exhausted, and I do not see how, after our long hurricane of last year, and the continued drought and commercial crisis, we could have done without it. It has been invaluable.

"Now, some ten years after the great hurricane of 1866, I earnestly beg of your committee to make the poor and much-tried diocese a new and special grant. The particulars are given by Mr. Matthews.

"I venture to ask for grants for St. Peter's Chapel, Bambous, and for St. Paul's, Vacoa. Through the absence of a place of worship in these two districts we are, unhappily, a laughing-stock to the heathen and to our Roman Catholic neighbours. Owing to the mountainous character of that part of the island, and the scattered nature of our people, it is very difficult to arrange for services at all. But there is now an increasing desire on all sides, I trust, for the means of grace, and Mr. Matthews' efforts have been very successful. There is no debt at all on these buildings; and you will see we have already raised of late as much as we ask of you, and hope to be able to ask government to give us as much again."

1. St. Paul's, in the Parish of Vacoa.—This church is partly finished and in use, but the masonry and arches were stopped more than ten years ago at 12 feet high. 172*l.* 1*s.* have been expended, and 1800*l.* more are required, the total estimated cost being 3500*l.*

About 300*l.* may be raised on the spot, and it is intended to go on with the chancel first.

The inner space is 40 feet by 28, with annexed chambers for organ and vestry.

The building is of good stone, and forms a central church for a vast district with scattered Protestants. The congregation at present special days will reach 200, and is increasing.

The property is by law vested in the Church of England Commissioners and Corporation. The people are, for the most part, the poor of the poor, mulattoes, negroes, &c.; there are a few not rich English and French hand labourers, small tradesmen, wood-cutters, charcoal burners, &c. The majority of the people are Roman Catholics.

The church is also used for missionary services. The station is the headquarters of missionary effort for the creoles of the country. The district extends over the wildest third of the island, and it has several out-stations, some as far as twenty miles.

The foregoing particulars were supplied by Rev. A. D. Matthews, M.A., civil chaplain, Vacoa Conventional District.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 15*l.* for the completion of this church at an estimated total outlay of 1800*l.*, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions, viz.:—

That previously to the payment of the grant the Bishop should have certified that the completion of it will lead to the immediate completion of the building, and further that the building is free from all liability for debt, and is insured.

2. St. Peter's Chapel, Bambous, in the Parish of Vacoa.—This chapel has been destroyed by hurricane, and the application, which in the former case, is made by Mr. Matthews, is a grant for rebuilding it at an estimated cost of 500*l.*

Ninety pounds are in hand or promised, and it is hoped that the government will give an equal to what may be raised.

The original edifice must have cost about 800*l.* The inner space of the church is 20 feet by 20 feet; the ordinary congregation is about 150. The property is "invested in the Church of England Commissioners by law in trust for S.P.G. and parochial purposes."

The population consists of poor coloured people, police, &c. There are no rich people at the mission station.

At present divine service has to be held in the magistrate's court, on account of the chapel being ruined. Marriages have to be performed in thatched cottages of the people, and the congregation objects to having to communicate at the police court.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for the building of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF NOVA SCOTIA.—The bishop forwarded and recommended a petition from a number of members of the Church of England residing at North-west Cove, in the mission of Blomidon. The petition was signed by Mr. Clarence McCully, lay reader, and fifteen other persons. It set forth that the petitioners were driven from any church, and that they were accustomed to worship in a private house, but that they were now bent on erecting a school-house in which divine worship can be more suitably held; that it is the intention of the petitioners to give to building something of an ecclesiastical appearance, and to deed it, with sufficient ground for it for a cemetery, to the bishop.

The estimated cost, over and above gratuitous labour, is estimated at 75*l.*, towards which 20*l.* to 30*l.* have been either paid or promised, 18*l.* having been raised on the spot, besides assistance to carpenters and masons that may be required.

The school-chapel, which will be of wood to accommodate 100 persons. The native population is about 75; over 20 strangers in 1875 were there last winter for several weeks.

the people are fairly well off, but, being men, they are by no means wealthy, and season the fishing failed. All the inhabitants, with the exception of one family, belong to the Church of England. Aid is much required. The place is nine miles from church on one side, on another, and three from a school-house, where they attend episcopal service, except the missionary from Blandford attends at Cove.

The bishop wrote as follows:—
The school-house will serve as a chapel at a comparatively small cost; and as fishing-vessels frequent the Cove in the summer, the erection of a suitable place for public worship will be very official."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 25*l.* for the completion of this building, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF HURON.—The standing committee reported that the Rev. F. J. C. Moran, secretary of the Colonial and Continental Church Society, had introduced the Rev. Henry Pahtahquahong, a Red Indian clergyman and missionary to the society with which he was connected.

Mr. Chase had called upon the secretary and submitted the following statement in print, and expressed a hope that some grant would be made in aid of building the contemplated church for the Ojibbeways. Mr. Chase's statement, together with the bishop's recommendation, were as follows:—

—My mission stations are two Indian land reserves, containing about ten square miles, and at these reserves there are three different Indian tongues spoken, viz., the Ojibbeway, Munsee, and Oneida Indians.

"The population is about 1300 souls, and they are all Christianised, excepting a few of the oldest, who still remain pagans.

"There is a church for the use of the Munsee Indians, built by my worthy predecessor, the Rev. B. Flood, with funds collected in England.

"The Oneida Indians have also a church for their use, built by the contributions from the United States.

"Both of the above-named tribes formerly resided in the United States, but they were forced by circumstances into British territory.

"The Ojibbeway Indians are the original owners of the soil, and they received the other tribes into their reserves to share with them their homes in Canada, under the protection of Britain.

"The Ojibbeway Indians at 'Munceytown,' eight years ago, came voluntarily to join the Church of England, where the pure Gospel of Jesus is taught.

"Seventy adults were confirmed by the late Bishop Cronyn, and forty-two by the present bishop last October.

"I further beg to direct your attention to the object of my visit to England, and to earnestly ask for your kind sympathy and assistance.

"First.—To collect funds to erect a church for the Ojibbeway Indians at 'Munceytown,' which, it is estimated, will cost 500*l.* The communicants number at present 122.

"Secondly.—To collect funds towards the education of two young men, one Ojibbeway and one Oneida, for holy orders.

"Thirdly.—To collect funds for the support of two catechists, to carry on the work under my charge."

Letter from the Lord Bishop of Huron to Rev. H. P. Chase.

"London, Ontario, September 27, 1875.

"MY DEAR SIR,—As you are about to visit England, with a view of soliciting aid from our English Christian brethren towards the erection of a church in Munceytown, for the benefit of our Indian brethren, I have great pleasure in testifying to your faithfulness as a Christian minister, and to your success in your ministrations, not only among the native Christians committed to your charge, but among the pagan Indians, who, through your consistency and instrumentality, are being led to think favourably of the Christian profession and life. Commending you to the grace of God, and to the sympathy of your white Christian brethren in England,

"Believe me, &c.

"I. HURON."

Mr. Chase had informed the secretary that the proposed church would accommodate 250 persons, that the Indians had themselves given the site, and that he had collected about 200*l.* in money.

The standing committee, viewing this as a specially interesting case, recommended a grant of 100*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

The grant was accordingly made.

DIOCESE OF BATAVIA.—The Venerable Archdeacon Glennie, acting as commissary for the bishop, strongly recommended the following application of the Rev. Henry J. Campbell, for a grant towards building a small church in a hamlet of his parish of St. David, Allora, Queensland.

Mr. Campbell wrote as follows on October 16, 1875:—

"Spring Creek is an agricultural reserve, of four miles square, subdivided into small farms of from forty to sixty acres each, and held by struggling farmers, a large proportion of whom are Protestants (Lutherans and Episcopalians).

"There is a primary school, built chiefly at the public expense, from which, unhappily, all religious teaching is virtually excluded; nor is the building allowed (by law) to be used for any religious service.

"We have been striving for a long time to collect funds for a church (which would be used as a Sunday school) with moderate success, but I feel justified in proceeding with the building, and the contract for the bare shell of wood, 30 feet by 16 feet, has been taken for 165*l.* The internal fittings and the fenceings of the ground will cost another 60*l.*, total 225*l.*, towards which we have at present 142*l.*, and prospect, say, of another 25*l.* or 30*l.*, which will leave us about 50*l.* in debt, a large sum for such a small, struggling population.

"There has been service held by myself and my predecessors, more or less regularly, every other Sunday for some years in the parlour of a small road-side inn."

Archdeacon Glennie, of whose parish the place referred to once formed a part, wrote as follows:—

"All Mr. Campbell's statements are quite correct, and I can strongly recommend his application to the favourable consideration of the society."

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 25*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF QUEBEC.—The bishop forwarded an application from the Rev. Edward Oullen Parkin, missionary in charge of the district, for a grant in aid of a new church at Island Brooke, a new settlement in the backwoods of Eaton, Cookshire.

The church is to be of wood, and to accommodate 150 persons, at a cost of 300*l.* 200 dol., or 50*l.*, are required for its completion: 75*l.* have been raised amongst the new settlers, who are contending with all the disadvantages of new settlement in the bush, and are comparatively poor.

The site is vested in the bishop.

The place was an unbroken forest twelve years since; the people are farmers; the farms are still full of stumps, and cannot for some years be brought under the plough. The people are either members of the Church of England, Methodists, or Roman Catholics.

Every effort has been made on the spot and in Quebec, and other towns have assisted the place, as having a claim upon outside Churchmen.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 25*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF GRAHAMSTOWN.—The bishop, writing from Aliwal North, on November 29, 1875, when on a visitation, forwarded and very strongly recommended an application for a grant in aid of a new church at the town of Richmond, Cape of Good Hope.

The application was in the following terms:—

"Richmond, Cape of Good Hope, South Africa,
"November 13, 1875.

"To the Chairman and Members of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge.

"DEAR SIRS,—We venture, on behalf of the members of the Anglican Church in this town, to solicit the kind assistance and co-operation of your venerable society in our endeavours to erect a suitable building in which to celebrate divine worship.

"The circumstances of our case are as follows:—

"We reside in an inland town, situated 500 miles from Capetown and 250 from Port Elizabeth (Algoa Bay), our two seaports. The nearest town to us in which there is an Anglican church is situated 90 miles distant. At present we assemble for worship in the court-house, a room by no means adapted for the purpose, even if it were considered suitable in other respects.

"The number of our members is small, but the congregation comprises individuals of various denominations, who, not having themselves the slightest hope of ever seeing a building erected in which to worship according to their respective forms of faith, are constant and regular attendants at the services of our church.

"An effort is now being made amongst ourselves to remove the disadvantages under which we labour by the erection of a small church.

"A plot of ground has been generously presented for this purpose, and subscriptions to the handsome amount of 400*l.* obtained. The estimated cost of a small building has been put down at from 1200*l.* to 1500*l.* This may appear a very large sum, but owing to our being situated so far inland, and the carriage of materials being by means of bullock-waggon, the average cost of transport is 12*l.* 5*s.* per ton. We venture to appeal to your society for assistance in our day of small beginnings to enable us to carry out our laudable efforts.

"On behalf of the members, &c.

"A. TEMPLE, Minister.

"A. TENNANT, } Churchwardens."

"A. GOODYET, }

The bishop wrote as follows:—

"I can very heartily recommend the enclosed application. We have been struggling for a dozen years to maintain Church ministrations in the district of which this Richmond is the centre. Richmond, Hanover, and Murraysburg, towns from forty to fifty miles asunder, have formed the so-called parish, with the addition of Middleburg, another sixty miles in another direction. It is of great importance that we should plant one church at least amongst them, and this Richmond seems the only likely place. Now they are making a very great effort; and if the S.P.C.K. can aid them with a grant, I will undertake that it shall not be misapplied. . . . To show the destitution in the way of Church ministrations in this widely extended territory, which forms the north-western portion of my diocese, one of the towns above mentioned (Murraysburg) has been dependent on the ministrations of a clergyman from the adjoining diocese at Victoria West, a distance of from sixty to seventy miles. This poor man has just died; and I am credibly informed he was starved to death, i.e. so weakened that he could not recover.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 100*l.* for the completion of the church, subject to the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF CALCUTTA.—The bishop applied for a grant of 100*l.* in aid of printing a new and revised edition of the Book of Common Prayer in Hindi. The cost of an edition of 2000 copies would be 2000 rupees, or 200*l.* It is proposed to sell the books; but as the bulk of the purchasers are native Christians and poor, a grant is applied for in order to reduce the price of the books.

The native Christians, for whose use the book is wanted, are too poor to purchase expensive books. They are employed as clerks, printers, teachers, and domestic servants. All belong to the Church of England.

The price at which it is proposed to sell the book is equal to 1*s.* in English money, is about  $\frac{1}{10}$  of the average monthly pay of the people, and  $\frac{1}{10}$  of the pay of many of them.

The bishop wrote as follows:—

"I forward and recommend a grant applied for on behalf of S.P.G. and C.M.S. for the production of a revised edition of the Hindi Prayer Book. It has come out more and more clearly how vast a population speaks and writes Hindi in one or other of its peculiar dialects. The present edition is nearly exhausted, and the language also needs simplifying. It has too much Urdu element in it, especially for the Kols and Santhals, who are coming in by numbers into the Church.

"I forward this application with deep thankfulness for all the kind assistance granted and promised to my diocese."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 100*l.* for the purpose named in this application. The society's grant is to be paid when the bishop shall have certified that the receipt of it will lead to the immediate production of 2000 copies of the book, and to their being offered for sale at the reduced price named.

SIERRA LEONE.—The bishop forwarded and recommended an application from the Rev. Moses Taylor for a grant in aid of building a new stone church at Benuema, in the parish of St. Michael.

The cost is estimated at 650*l.*, towards which 300*l.* are in hand or promised, and 100*l.* more are expected.

Of these sums 150*l.* have been collected on the spot. Accommodation will be provided for 250 persons. The population is 600. At present the site is invested in the committee of the Church Missionary Society, but it will become the property of the Church in Sierra Leone.

The people are poor, subsisting by cultivating the land; there are some Wesleyans, but there is no other denomination of Christians beside Church people.

The new church will become the parish church of a new ecclesiastical district, having five chapels of ease spread over a large area and having an aggregate population of over 2000.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

PRIZES FOR RELIGIOUS KNOWLEDGE ON ADMISSION TO CHURCH TRAINING COLLEGES.—The standing committee reminded the meeting that in July last they had set apart 300*l.* for the purpose of giving those who should be admitted to Church training colleges in January 1876, and who had gained a first class in an examination in religious knowledge under the auspices of the National Society, money prizes of the value of 3*l.* each.

The committee added that this was done on the distinct understanding that the National Society would, during the current year and in future, share with this society the expense of giving similar prizes.

Up to 1875 the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge had provided the means for conducting the examination, now the examination and the consequent control of the number placed in the first class had passed into the hands of the National Society.

The standing committee, being confident that the National Society will do their part, recommend that a sum of not more than 200*l.* be set apart for the purpose specified, on condition of the National Society providing a like sum.

The recommendation of the standing committee was adopted.

CENTRAL AFRICAN MISSION.—The Rev. W. Forbes Capel, acting as commissary for Bishop Steere, applied for a grant for a printing press for the mission. Mr. Capel wrote as follows:—

"I see by your report that your society gives help in the way of printing presses. This is at the present time a very pressing want of Bishop Steere's. His press is very insufficient for the work, and translations are more needed now, as we get constant applications from our neighbour, as we may call him, the Rev. Mr. Price, head of the C.M.S. station at Mombaz. Our press is the only one in that part of the world.

"After inquiries, I have ascertained that a press costing 50*l.* would answer Bishop Steere's purpose. We have ourselves no money available for such a purpose, real and pressing as is the want."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for the purchase of a press for Bishop Steere.

BOOK GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

Numerous book grants, special and ordinary, were agreed to.

DIOCESE OF CEYLON.—The Rev. John E. Marks, with the recommendation of the present Bishop of Colombo, Dr. Copleston, dated December 31, 1875, and of the late Bishop of Colombo, now Bishop of Brechin, dated January 18, 1876, applied for a grant of books for his brother, the Rev. Philip Marks, of the S.P.G. mission, Buona Vista, Galle, Ceylon.

Mr. Philip Marks and his wife left England ten years ago to take charge of the Buona Vista Orphanage. Of his work there the Bishop of Brechin wrote as follows:—

"Though I am now bishop of another diocese, I hope I may be allowed to plead on behalf of one of the clergy of Ceylon. The Rev. Philip Marks, of Buona Vista, has applied to the S.P.C.K. for a grant of books for his orphanage and schools. I am quite confident that they could not be better bestowed. Mr. Marks's orphanage and mission schools are admirably worked—exceptionally so—and no man in the diocese is more cramped and troubled by the want of means for his work. I sincerely hope that you will be able to send him what he asks for."

Mr. John E. Marks said that, besides the orphanage, his brother has two other girls' schools, and (he believed) six boys' schools, all for Cinghalese children, who are being carefully trained in the Christian faith.

"He has besides a large mission, with several important stations. The mission is to a great extent his own work, and it has been carried on in spite of very great obstacles, arising chiefly from utter lack of funds. He is now, for his schools and mission work, greatly in want of help, such as the society's publications would afford him."

Mr. John Marks had selected books for his brother to the value of 50*l.*, and hoped that they might be granted, and that he might be able to announce the grant to his brother, whom he hopes to see on his way back to Burma, for which place he leaves England on the 27th instant.

The standing committee recommended that S.P.C.K. books to the value of 50*l.* should be placed at the disposal of Mr. Marks.

The recommendation was adopted.

ST. ANDREW'S WATERSIDE CHURCH MISSION GRAVESEND.—The standing committee laid before the meeting the following letter, which had been addressed to the secretary by the Rev. J. Searth, the honorary secretary of this mission:—

"DEAR SIR,—At the opening of this year I desire to lay before the society a short statement of the work done by this mission in the year, and am bound to say that to your liberality we owe much of the success.

"Irrespective of your grants, we have been receiving from the public gifts of from 1000 to 2000 volumes a month, besides large quantities of hymn-books, magazines, &c., that have been sent, and we have been enabled to supply more than 300 ships with good library-boxes for the crews. Most of these ships have been supplied with books for service, and very many others have also been provided with service books, the promise being given that services would be held.

"We have also supplied reading to the crews of many vessels, not only in the river, but at stations in the docks in connection with the parishes there, which we provide with cumulative special work among the sailors, namely, St. Luke, Millwall, and St. Luke (St. Mark) Victoria Docks.

"The emigrants have also had our special services, and besides holding services, sometimes baptizing children, and arranging for Sunday schools, we have helped to make the ships very churches.

"Also we have been enabled to supply a branch at Demerara, and supply many ports in the Mediterranean. In fact, we have worked on the principle wherever we could get the local clergy, among the sailors, we have done our best, and this is simply bringing the work of the Church to bear on our sailors, never known before.

"I venture to ask for a grant of 60*l.* for prayer books, 60*l.* worth of Bibles and Testaments, 10*l.* worth of foreign tracts, and 10*l.* worth of reading books, for the chief station."

"Our printed report will give the particulars of work done in 1875, and I hope that 1876 will show a still greater increase."

The standing committee recommended the books as asked for should be placed at the disposal of Mr. Searth for the purposes named in his letter.

The grant was made.

MISSIONS TO SEAFARERS.—Commander J. B. R.N., secretary to this institution, had applied by direction of the committee, for 10,000 copies of Tract No. 1178, "Samuel; or, the Story of an Infidel Reclaimed," for circulation in the 38,000 ships which, including repeated voyages, annually pass through the five ports of Bristol Channel.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant these tracts applied for at a cost of 30*l.*

TRAINING SHIPS "GOLIATH" AND "WARRIOR."—The standing committee stated that it had been suggested to them that the society would like to offer grants of books for use on board the ships which would replace the two named above, that had recently been destroyed by fire.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to offer S.P.C.K. books to the value of 20*l.* in each case for the use of the boys formerly on board the two ships specified.

DIOCESE OF CAPETOWN.—The bishop, in a letter dated Bishop's Court, Claremont, December 1875, after thanking the society very heartily for its grant of 750*l.* made in November 1875 for the rebuilding of the native college at Zonnebloem, after destruction by fire, applied for a grant of books for the college.

The bishop wrote as follows:—

"May I venture to apply for a grant of 50*l.* for the library at Zonnebloem, which was destroyed by fire."

the fire. A supply of interesting books, tales, and such books as How's 'Commentary' would be most acceptable. We have had a handsome present of nearly 20l. worth from Messrs. Macmillan, in reply to an appeal addressed to him and other publishers. I do not think that I shall apply in vain to the S.P.C.K."

There are about eighty scholars in all at the school, of whom about thirty are Kafirs, or asutos, the rest being white boys or partly loured.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant S.P.C.K. books to the value of 20l.

ST. PANCRAS WORKHOUSE.—Mrs. Townsend, subscriber to the society, and for twenty years a visitor in the "confinement wards" of this workhouse, asked for a grant of tracts, which she had selected, to the value of 5l., for distribution by herself and other ladies engaged with her in her charitable work.

The grant was made as applied for.

DIOCESE OF RIPON—Diocesan Training School.—The Rev. E. Baynes Badcock, principal of this institution, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 2l. 10s. to meet an equal expenditure in books on the part of the managers of the schools; the whole of the books to be given among the students (ten in number) who gained first class at the archbishop's examination held at the training college in October last.

It was agreed to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF WINCHESTER—Hampshire.—The Rev. J. E. Parsons, diocesan inspector, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books, to the value of 3l., to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of the Hants Church Association, or by way of private subscriptions; the whole of the books to be given as prizes to pupil teachers who have been placed in a first class in an examination in religious knowledge which was held in the course of last year.

The following is a summary of the results of the examination of pupil teachers, candidates, and paid monitors—359.

	Class I.	II.	III.	Failed.
Candidates	19	15	16	1 = 51
Year I.	11	23	18	12 = 64
" II.	17	22	18	3 = 60
" III.	20	19	20	3 = 62
" IV.	20	36	18	5 = 79
" V.	5	10	10	2 = 27
Monitors	5	5	6	0 = 16
	97	130	106	26 = 359

This grant was made on the recommendation of the standing committee as applied for.

DIOCESE OF WINCHESTER—Archdeaconry of Arrey.—The Rev. J. W. Gedge, diocesan inspector, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books, to the value of 15l., to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of the educational board of the archdeaconry, the whole of the books to be given as prizes to children from elementary schools, after a collective examination in religious knowledge, who shall be placed in a first class. The number examined, or to be examined, is about 900.

It was agreed to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF LONDON.—The Rev. G. P. Ottey, diocesan inspector in religious knowledge, had applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books, to the value of 30l., to be met by an equal cash outlay on books on the part of the diocesan board of education; the whole of the books to be given to pupil teachers, &c., placed in a first class in an examination in religious knowledge.

Mr. Ottey reported that the number of pupil teachers, candidates, and ex-pupil teachers in their first year, examined in 1875, was 1358, and that of these 129 have been placed in the first class—viz. 75 seniors and 54 juniors.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant the books as applied for at a charge upon the charitable funds of 30l.

TRACTS FOR ASH-WEDNESDAY, LENT, &c.—The committee reminded the meeting that, for several years, it had been the practice of the society to offer the clergy, by public advertisement, gratuitous supplies of tracts for these and other of the Church's seasons and holy days.

The cost of this work during the last year has been as follows:—

	No. of Tracts, &c. distributed.	Charge upon the Society's Funds.
Ash Wednesday and Lent	103,700	46 6 3
Good Friday and Easter	402,100	163 19 0
Good Friday placards	9,000
Ascension Day and Whit
Sunday	70,000	52 17 6
		£263 2 9

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to offer tracts as specified, in the same manner as in former years.

MOTA GOSPELS.—The standing committee reported that the foreign translation committee had recently printed 500 of the Gospels of St. Matthew, St. Luke, and St. John, and 1st Epistle of St. John, at a cost of 40l. 8s. 6d., and recommended that a grant of the same should be made to the Rev. R. H. Codrington, chief of the Melanesian mission.

This grant was made.

GRANT RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE, OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

FUND FOR AIDING TO TRAIN NATIVE STUDENTS FOR HOLY ORDERS ABROAD.—In accordance with notice given at the last meeting, and for reasons set forth at length in the last monthly report, the standing committee proposed the following resolution, viz.:—

"That the sum of 2500l. be placed at the disposal of the standing committee to enable them to assist in training additional native students for holy orders in the colonies, in India, and elsewhere abroad, in the hope that the aid afforded by way of scholarships to theological students will be met by at least an equal sum in every case in the colonies, and other places which receive assistance."

This resolution was carried.

ELECTION OF VICE-PRESIDENTS AND OF THE MEMBERS OF THE SEVERAL COMMITTEES, &c.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.—The standing committee, in accordance with notice given in December, recommended that the Ven. Dr. Hessey, Archdeacon of Middlesex, and the Rev. Samuel Smith be elected vice-presidents of the society.

These gentlemen were elected.

STANDING COMMITTEE.—The standing committee, in accordance with rule xxvii., submitted the names of the Revs. W. Cooke, H. I. Cummins, Mr. H. S. King, Mr. F. S. Powell (who retired by seniority), for re-election as members of their body. They also submitted the names of the Rev. Brownlow Maitland, Captain Edwin Augustus Porcher, R.N., Rev. J. W. Ayre, and Frederick Calvert, Esq., Q.C., as candidates whom they recommended to fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of Rev. Samuel Smith (now a vice-president), and of Sir Edwin Pearson, who did not wish to be re-elected; and also by the election of Archdeacon Hessey to be a vice-president, and by the retirement of Mr. Medd, who had left the neighbourhood of London.

These eight gentlemen were elected; Mr. Ayre taking the place of Mr. Medd, Mr. Calvert the place of Archdeacon Hessey, the other six gentlemen being placed in alphabetical order at the bottom of the list.

Hence the order of the standing committee for the ensuing year is as follows:—

Rev. J. W. Buckley.	Rev. E. Capel Cure.
Rev. W. Cadman.	J. F. France, Esq.
Rev. E. Garbett.	Frederick Calvert, Esq., Q.C.
Rev. J. W. Ayre.	G. B. Hughes, Esq.

Rev. Walter Abbott.	Rev. C. W. Edmonstone.
Rev. H. W. Burrows.	Rev. J. M. Fuller.
Rev. B. Compton.	Rev. G. H. Hodson.
Rev. Dr. Currey.

These gentlemen are the same as those who were elected last February, with the exception of Mr. Fuller, who was elected in December last in the place of Dr. Francis Hessey, who had retired.

A ballot was demanded in the case of Mr. Burrows and Mr. Compton. For Mr. Burrows 62 votes were recorded, against him 22; for Mr. Compton 52 votes were recorded, against him 31. The chairman declared that all the gentlemen proposed by the standing committee were elected.

COMMITTEE OF GENERAL LITERATURE AND EDUCATION.—Similarly in conformity with rule xxxv. the following members of the society were proposed by the standing committee for election as the committee of general literature and education for the ensuing year:—

T. A. Barker, Esq., M.D.	Rev. A. Johnson.
Thomas Bell, Esq.	Rev. H. Le Bas.
Rev. W. Campbell.	Rev. A. Povah.
Rev. W. Cooke.	Rev. Canon Tilling.

Rev. C. J. D'Oyly.	J. E. White, Esq.

These are the same gentlemen as those who formed the committee last year.

They were all re-elected.

SUPPLEMENTAL RELIGIOUS CATALOGUE COMMITTEE.—In accordance with rule xxxix. the standing committee proposed for election the following five members of the society to form the supplemental religious catalogue committee:—

The Very Rev. Dr. Bickersteth, Dean of Lichfield.	Rev. Lewis Hensley.
The Dean of Rochester.	Rev. W. Walsham How.
	Rev. N. J. Ridley.

These are the same gentlemen as those who formed the committee last year.

They were all re-elected.

CHAIRMEN.—The standing committee, in conformity with rule vi., recommended that Dr. Currey, Archdeacon Hessey, and Major-General Sir Charles Daubeny, should be elected as chairmen, one of whom should preside at the general meetings of the society in the absence of the president, the Archbishop of York, the bishop of the diocese, or any of the bishops of the provinces of Canterbury and York, or in case of their not accepting the chair.

These gentlemen are the same as those elected last year, and were re-elected.

REPORTS AND NOTICES FROM THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

MEMORIAL TO THE FIRST LORD OF THE TREASURY IN REFERENCE TO THE INCREASE OF THE HOME EPISCOPATE.—The standing committee submitted a draft of a memorial addressed to the First Lord of the Treasury, which they recommended to the adoption of the meeting; and they further suggested that, if the memorial were adopted, his grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, as president of the society, should be asked to sign it on behalf of the society.

This memorial was adopted, and it was further agreed that his grace the Archbishop of Canterbury should be asked to sign it as president of the society.

DIOCESE OF ROCHESTER.—All Saints, Hatcham, Deptford.—The committee informed the meeting that in May 1875 they had granted the Rev. Edward Wynne, vicar of this parish, the sum of 21*l.* in aid of the rent for one year of a school board room as a Sunday school, that the total rent was 27*l.* 2*s.*, and that Mr. Wynne hoped to be able to erect a suitable building for the purpose of a Sunday school during the year.

It now appeared that the rent had been paid till March 31 of the current year, and the society's grant exhausted; but that owing to unavoidable obstacles (the cause of which had only just been removed) the new room cannot possibly be ready before the end of June.

Mr. Wynne had applied for a renewal of the society's grant for another quarter, and stated that the number of children on the books was 316, and the average attendance, 209; that there is a staff of twenty-three teachers, who are most regular.

The standing committee reported that they had agreed to allow Mr. Wynne a further sum of 5*l.* for the rent of a fifth quarter.

DIOCESE OF LICHFIELD.—The Rev. E. M. Fitzgerald, incumbent of St. Paul, Walsall, applied for a grant in aid of the rent of a board school in his parish for Sunday school purposes.

Mr. Fitzgerald has been in charge of the district, which is a new one, about one year. The population is 5000, most of whom are very poor. Mr. Fitzgerald has made himself responsible for rent to the amount of 12*l.* per annum, and has now nearly 300 children in average attendance on Sundays. Mr. Fitzgerald is about to open a mission room in which services will be conducted by a student of Lichfield Theological College as lay deacon.

The present application is for a grant in aid of the rent named above.

The committee reported that they had agreed to give 9*l.* out of the money at the disposal of the committee for the purpose, in aid of the first year's rent, but not to encourage any expectation of further help.

DIOCESE OF WINCHESTER.—St. Crispin, Bermondsey.—The Rev. Brook Deedes, minister of this church, had stated to the standing committee that his was a new district, recently taken out of St. James, Bermondsey, and endowed with 300*l.* a year by the liberality of a single layman, Sir F. Fitz-Wygram; that it contained about 8000 souls, about half of whom are artisans earning fair wages; a very small sprinkling of small tradesmen; the remainder riverside and seagoing folk, including many of the very poorest classes.

"We have," Mr. Deedes wrote, "a temporary iron church, seated for 375 persons, our sole building for Sunday schools—indeed for all purposes. Sir F. Fitz-Wygram will give large aid towards the erection of the permanent church, for which a site is now being sought; but the most urgent need is that of a mission establishment in the poorest part of the district near the river. A site has been secured for 800*l.*, 75 feet square, and plans prepared for the erection, at an estimated cost of 3000*l.*, of a block of buildings, consisting of mission-hall, 55 feet by 30 feet, available for services, evening and Sunday schools and classes, mothers' meetings, &c.; and a house for a deaconess, lodgings for parish nurse and mission-woman, and a good sick kitchen—thus affording a centre for all operations for the spiritual and temporal benefit of the sick and poor."

It is towards this building that the society is asked to make a grant.

A board school is in process of erection in the other part of the district, part of which Mr. Deedes hoped to be able to hire for Sunday school purposes; but this will not do away the necessity of such a building as that for which help is asked.

The secretary informed the committee that he had sent Mr. Deedes a copy of the monthly report for July, in which are stated the general conditions upon which the society grants help for building rooms for Sunday schools and mission purposes. Mr. Deedes, in reply, had written as follows:—"I can fully undertake to conform to the regulations laid down on pp. 15 and 16 of the July report."

The Bishop of Guildford, as archdeacon, recommended the case in the strongest terms, saying, "I trust the S.P.C.K. will be able and willing to make a liberal grant."

The standing committee reported that they had granted 100*l.* out of the money at their disposal for the purpose of aiding to build Sunday schools and mission rooms, subject to compliance with the general conditions reported to the general meeting in July 1875.

CENTRAL AFRICAN MISSION.—The Rev. W. Forbes Capel, acting commissary for Bishop Steere, applied for two grants from Canning's Fund in aid of the passage of himself and the Rev. C. Maples, curate of St. Mary Magdalene, Oxford, to Zanzibar.

Mr. Maples, with some lay helpers, is to go by British India Company's steamer on March 18, and his fare will be 56*l.* Mr. Forbes hopes to go, for the sake of expedition—as there is, during the bishop's absence on the mainland, only one clergyman at Zanzibar—on March 2, by the Peninsular and Oriental steamer as far as Aden. The cost of his passage will be 64*l.* 12*s.*

The standing committee reported that they had agreed to pay the passage of these two clergymen out of Canning's Fund, at a total cost of 120*l.* 12*s.*

NATIVE STUDENTS FOR HOLY ORDERS ABROAD.

The standing committee stated that they had, on the previous day, in anticipation of a further sum being put at their disposal for the purpose, agreed to reserve for the Bishop of Fredericton a sum of 75*l.*, being at the rate of 25*l.* a year for three years, in aid of the training of Mr. Wiggins, a native of Prince Edward Island, at Fredericton.

The total annual cost is between 50*l.* and 60*l.* a year.

DIOCESE OF MELBOURNE.—The standing committee laid before the meeting the following letter, dated December 6, 1875, which had been addressed to them by the Bishop of Melbourne, who is in this country:—

"32 Avenue Road, Regent's Park, N.W.

"December 6, 1875.

"At the end of this month the annual payment which the Church of England in Victoria has received during the last twenty years from the Colonial Treasury will altogether cease. The amount of that payment since the last census has been upwards of 18,000*l.* Of this the Church in that part of the colony which is now comprised in the diocese of Ballarat has received perhaps (I do not know the exact proportion) about one-third, or 6000*l.* The loss to the Church in the reduced diocese of Melbourne will therefore be about 12,000*l.* a year.

"The whole income of the Church available for stipends of clergymen and church buildings from endowments of every kind (exclusive of the endowment of the bishopric) certainly does not exceed, so far as I can compute it from the accompanying statistics,* 3750*l.*, together with some ground-rents, the amount of which I do not know, for a portion of the land given as the site of the present cathedral church in Melbourne.

"You may therefore imagine how greatly this disendowment of the Church by the Victorian parliament will increase the difficulty, by no means small heretofore, of maintaining the present staff of clergymen, and still more of procuring and supporting others for the numerous small villages which have sprung up during the last few years, and are now every year springing up, at distances varying from eight or ten to twenty or thirty miles, over a diocese equal in extent, notwithstanding its reduction, to two-thirds of Great Britain. The present number of clergymen in the diocese is, I believe, between eighty and ninety; and of these all who are located in small towns in the interior, or have charge of agricultural or pastoral districts, require to have their incomes more or less largely supplemented by extraneous aid. This help is more especially needed when a new parochial district is formed, and the requisite church buildings have to be erected. Even with the aid afforded by the state, the Church has been wholly unable to supply the wants of a population rapidly settling itself over such an extent of country. Unless, therefore, means can be adopted for supplying in some degree the deficiency caused by this disendowment, a large number of the members of our Church will, I fear, be dependent upon the charity of Wesleyans, Congregationalists, and Presbyterians for the ministrations of the Word and Sacraments.

"Under these circumstances I am very anxious before I resign my office, which I expect to be able to do before the expiration of the year, to lay on foot among old colonists now resident in England, and others interested in the colony, together with my private friends, a subscription for a Clergy Stipend Endowment Fund, the proceeds of which shall be placed at the disposal of the General Assembly, the legally constituted legislature of the diocese.

"Although, since the discovery of gold in 1851, the colony has increased in a marvellous manner in population and wealth, and the people are for the most part prosperous, yet it is not in it, as is generally but mistakenly supposed by persons in this country, many members of the Church of England who, if living in Victoria, would be accounted rich. The large proportion of our people are labourers or artisans, or small tradesmen, or farmers who have taken up a quantity of land allowed by law. These are not getting on in the world, but they have little or no money at their command, and are persons from whom much help in Church matters is to be expected. Others are merchants or professional men, whose incomes are dependent upon their success in their business or their liberal professions. A few have sheep and cattle stations, but of these only a small minority have any large amount of realised capital. I scarcely know of any who are living at their ease, whether by manual or mental labour, upon the rents or proceeds of their property. Hence there is no money in Victoria, as there is in England, a number of persons from whom large donations may be expected.

"Moreover, the great majority of Churches in Victoria have brought with them from England no such attachment to the Church as to induce them to give ought to its maintenance and extension; and they are the less inclined to do so because of having had in the old country churches and clergymen provided for them without any cost to themselves.

"Nevertheless the churches, parsonages, and schools which have been built in the colony during the past twenty years, and the number of clergymen now occupying parochial curacies, prove that no small earnestness and liberality have been shown by many in procuring for the land of their adoption the spiritual privileges which they enjoyed in their former homes. As here I would mention a result of the annual payment from the public revenue which has greatly enhanced its value; viz. that it has stimulated and encouraged, in very many cases, private exertions which otherwise never would have been made. I do not doubt that it has caused to be brought into the treasury of the Church at least twice its own amount. If its loss will be very injurious; but, on the other hand, the dread of such a consequence which at the present time incline many, if some immediate encouragement were afforded them, to endeavour to form the nucleus of an endowment by voluntary contributions, which would in part at least avert the evil.

"For that encouragement I look, in the first place, to our two great Church societies, the S.P.C.K. and the S.P.G. If they will aid me in my project by conditional grants, I shall then hope to be able, with God's blessing, to obtain further help from private donations in this country, and thus to stir up the Churchmen in the diocese to make a strenuous effort to complete the amount which may be required.

"The S.P.G. has promised, if it have available funds next year, to make a grant of 1000*l.*, payable by instalments, upon four times the amount of each instalment being raised by private contributions; and what I now ask of the S.P.C.K. is that they will make a grant of 3000*l.* upon similar conditions, six years being allowed for claiming payment of the whole. Thus, if my project succeed, an endowment of 20,000*l.* will be provided; the benefit of which, small as the sum is in comparison with those spent upon some single churches in England, will be incalculable.

"I am encouraged to expect that the society will comply with my application, both from the precedent afforded by the case of the diocese of Jamaica, and also from the results of the society's previous benefactions to the Church in Victoria. The erection of a portion of Trinity College, Melbourne, is owing to the society having made for this object in 1847 a grant of 2000*l.*; and years might have elapsed before a bishopric of Ballarat was constituted if the society had not made a conditional grant of 2000*l.* towards its endowment. Other smaller works are due to the encouragement afforded by grants from the society, which have induced the colonists to undertake them. If my present request be complied with, I have a good confidence that, through God's blessing, the society will have equal cause to be satisfied of the wisdom of its expenditure."

The standing committee gave notice that, in consideration of the circumstances set forth in this letter and of other circumstances stated by the bishop orally, they would at the next monthly general meeting to be held on March 7 propose that the sum of 2000*l.* be voted in aid of the Clergy Stipend Endowment Fund of the diocese of Melbourne, to meet four times the amount, or 8000*l.* from other sources—this sum of 8000*l.* to be exclusive of the expected grant of 1000*l.* from S.P.G., and exclusive also of the 4000*l.* to be raised to meet it; so that if the bishop succeeds as he hopes, he will raise in all a capital sum of 15,000*l.* by aid of the help of the S.P.C.K. and the S.P.G.

The society's grant to be paid in two instalments of 1000*l.*, each to meet 4000*l.*, subject to the whole being claimed within five years, and subject also to the investment of the whole amount being satisfactory to the standing committee.

DIOCESE OF CALCUTTA.—The committee informed the meeting that the Bishop of Calcutta had, in writing from his diocese on December 17, 1875, reported that he was now in a position to draw for the last instalment of 1000*l.* of the grant of 5000*l.* placed at his disposal for school-building in his diocese in the year 1869. Of this instalment 500*l.* would be applied to the school at Nynee Tal, and 500*l.* to a school named St. James, in Calcutta itself.

In these two cases, as well as in every other assisted out of the 5000*l.*, the society's money has been met by an equal sum raised from private sources, and the united sum has been doubled by the Indian government. Thus the 5000*l.* granted by the society has resulted in an expenditure in providing religious and Church teaching in the diocese of Calcutta of 20,000*l.*

The bishop having made a report to this effect, applied for a new grant of 500*l.*, on similar conditions as the last, for a school at Dargeling, the hill station for Bengal. There is a school already at this place, but it requires renewal and development. A railway which is in course of formation will open up this school for the general use of Bengal. The bishop is anxious to be able to promise 500*l.* for this school, subject to 500*l.* being raised from private sources, and on the expectation that the united sum will be doubled by the government.

He added:—

"A grant will elicit the usual triple increase. I cannot describe of what service the sum granted by S.P.C.K. has been. It has elicited three or four-fold in every case, and has in a great degree secured a religious character for the numerous and important schools assisted, and so for the diocese throughout."

The standing committee gave notice that at the next monthly general meeting, on Tuesday, March 7, they would propose a grant of 500*l.*, to meet 1500*l.* from other sources, for the purpose of renewing and developing the school at Dargeling in the manner proposed.

MOTION OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

Certain Publications of the Tract Committee and the Episcopal Referees.

In accordance with notice given at the last meeting, Mr. Harris rose to propose the following resolution, viz.:—

"That the objections to certain publications of the tract committee mentioned or referred to in the report for the month of May 1875 be now read; and also that the decision of the episcopal referees referred to in the report for July 1875 be read also."

After a good deal of discussion, the chairman ruled that Mr. Harris' motion could not be put, and that the meeting should proceed to the next business.

Upon this the Rev. Brymer Belcher moved the adjournment of the meeting.

The motion was seconded by P. Vernon Smith, Esq., and after some discussion these gentlemen, with the consent of the meeting (which was declared by a show of hands), were allowed to withdraw the motion.

OBJECTION TO A CERTAIN PUBLICATION OF THE TRACT COMMITTEE.—The Rev. Canon Miller, acting on behalf of Francis Close, D.D., Dean of Carlisle; H. B. Tristram, F.R.S., Canon of Durham; S. P. Boutflower, Archdeacon and Canon of Carlisle, who had signed the document, handed in, in conformity with rule xxxiv., a written statement of objections to a certain tract, No. 1763, which had been issued by the tract committee.

The statement was, by permission of the chairman, read to the meeting and again handed to the chairman with a view to its being submitted to the episcopal referees.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS FOR MARCH GENERAL MEETING.

The Rev. Canon Girdlestone gave notice that, at the next monthly general meeting, to be held on Tuesday, March 7, he should propose:—

"That it be an instruction to the tract committee not to sanction the publication of any tract in which expressions borrowed from the Church of Rome are used, or practices not authorised by the Book of Common Prayer recommended."

Mr. P. V. Smith gave notice that, at the next monthly general meeting, he should propose the following motion, viz.:—

"That whereas by rule x. a general meeting can give its permission to a copy being taken of any minute of the proceedings of the society, or of any letter or paper sent to the society:

"Resolved:—

"(1) That a general meeting has power, in the course of its business, to call for any minute of the proceedings of the society, and any letter or paper sent to the society to be read at the meeting.

"(2) That the decision of the episcopal referees on a written statement of objections to books or tracts referred to them, together with such written statement, is a paper sent to the society within the meaning of the preceding resolution."

Mr. Wm. Harris gave notice that, at the next monthly general meeting, he should propose:—

"That the statement of objections to the publications of the tract committee mentioned or referred to in the report for the month of May 1875 be printed in the monthly report for the month of March 1876."

LETTERS OF THANKS, &c.

DIOCESE OF RIPON.—The following extract from a letter by the Rev. C. A. Hulbert, in reference to a grant of tracts, made to him in connection with a mission recently held at Huddersfield, will be read with satisfaction:—

"The mission in this parish, for which the committee were good enough to give a grant of tracts in the autumn, was much blessed, and the result has been nearly to double the number of our communicants. We have a goodly number of young men whom I am desirous of keeping together. They are principally factory operatives, but intelligent. The offer of the society (i.e. the offer now being made to members to purchase books for parochial libraries at half-price, to the amount of not less than 5*l.*) has come opportunely."

DIOCESE OF BRITISH GUIANA.

"Demerara, December 23, 1875.

"REVEREND AND DEAR SIR,—The Chinese church in Charlestown was opened on the 25th of last month, and the bishop requested me, as chairman of the building committee, to report the circumstance to you in acknowledgment of the very handsome grant made by your venerable society in aid of the work. This I should have done by the mail of the 6th instant, but that I was engaged at that time in visiting the Indian missions on the Essequibo and Mazaruni rivers. I now comply with his lordship's request.

"The church was opened by the bishop in person, his lordship having returned a day or two previously from a long visitation tour through the eastern districts of the diocese. The building was crowded at each of the services, his excellency the governor, the immigration agent-general, and many of the leading colonists showing an interest in the work by being present at some service during the day. Upwards of 350 Chinese from different parts of the colony—some from Essequibo and some from Berbice, and a few from the Courantyn estates, 120 miles off— assembled to take part in the inauguration of their own place of worship. At an early service the bishop administered the Holy Communion to exactly sixty of these; but a large proportion of the Chinese, who presented themselves at the services later in the day, were, I regret to say, not baptised Christians. The truth is that, as they came to the colony under indenture, the Chinese immigrants, as others, were located on the different plantations. The work of evangelisation was consequently not commenced in the city, but on the sugar estates. It is only now that these industrious people are flocking toward the town, and the very fact of so many of them being attracted to the metropolis of the colony was the cause of the church being erected here instead of in the country. The greater number, however, of those present at the opening services were intelligent Christians, and their reverence and marked devotion was one of the most encouraging features of the day's ceremonies.

"We have, unfortunately, no clergyman that can read and speak their language; but by means of interpreters, the bishop's addresses were made intelligible to all present. The hymns and canticles were sung in their own language by a Chinese choir, and everything was done to make the whole service as intelligible as possible to the people for whom the building was erected.

"The services for the present must be conducted in Chinese by native catechists, the clergy of the town simply undertaking, in turn, to administer the Sacraments of the Church with the assistance of interpreters; but there are several most intelligent teachers—men with a considerable knowledge of Holy Scripture—and it is proposed to put these under a course of instruction, in the hope that before long one, at any rate, may be found worthy of admission into the ministry. Unfortunately the best educated Chinese speak English so imperfectly that their instruction will have to be conducted through the medium of interpreters. This necessarily will delay the work as well as render it more difficult, but I still look forward to being able to present the first candidate for deacons' orders to the bishop before his lordship goes to England in the autumn of next year.

"The building itself is a substantial one, although very plain, no attempt having been made at ornamentation beyond a handsome east window, and for this we are indebted to a lady in England, who, being in possession of the window, very kindly placed it at the disposal of her son, a clergyman in Georgetown, and by him it was presented to the Chinese.

"The church stands on the site of old St. Philip, which was taken down some years ago. The ground has been neatly railed in again, and the building itself painted inside and outside. The furniture is good and substantial and complete, with the exception of a font and communion-plate, which we must import from England.

"The total cost has been a little over 700*l.*, of which the Chinese themselves have subscribed over 225*l.*, besides collecting nearly 60*l.* more in the church. The rest of the money, with the exception of the noble grant from your society, was raised in the colony. I only know of three Chinese in Georgetown above the rank of labourers. These are shop-keepers, and one brought me yesterday $100 (20*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*) as a private offering for the purchase of a bell. A second one has made himself responsible for the cost of placing gas-pipes in the church, and the third, I understand, is to provide a harmonium. All this, in addition to the sums mentioned above, is certainly a proof of earnestness and liberality.

"Should Chinese immigration to this colony be resumed—and there is every prospect of its being so—it will be hard to estimate the importance of this work, or to say to what extent it may grow. The Chinese are an enterprising race, and those who have embraced Christianity will hardly rest until all around are brought within the same fold as themselves. The great want is a native ministry.

"Believe me, &c.

"FRANCIS J. WYATT.

"The Rev. Henry Swabey, Secretary, S.P.C.K."

"Bishop's Court, Claremont, December 24, 1875.

"MY DEAR MR. SWABEY,—I shall be much obliged to you if you will convey to the venerable society my most hearty and sincere thanks for the liberal response that has been made to my appeal in behalf of Zonnebloem, of which your last letter (November 4) has certified me. I was led to hope for it from an earlier letter, as it had been recommended by the standing committee; but now that it has been sanctioned by the board, I am pushing on the work with renewed vigour with this assurance of help. I can assure you that this grant has thrown new life into us, and I hope before long to be able to certify you that the sum still needed to make up the 300*l.* (the deficiency is now about 270*l.*) has been made up. I am exerting myself now to raise further donations and to secure some ten years' subscriptions, in order to relieve us, in part at least, of the heavy charge on the funds of the college caused by the necessity of repaying the government loan of 1000*l.* during the next ten years. I had a promise of 25*l.* from a Cape merchant only a few days since, and I am hoping to get a few similar sums before long. I can give a most excellent report of the boys in the college and of the work which is being done there. A few days since I had all the boys over here for a day's holiday. There are about 80 in all, of whom about 30 are Kaffirs or Basutos, the rest being white boys or partly coloured. Their behaviour was excellent; and there is, especially among the Basutos boys, who are nearly all of the ruling families, a quiet, tranquil dignity of manner and a refinement and courtesy which are very striking. Several friends came over to Bishop's Court on the occasion, and were much struck with this. Among them the governor and Lady Barkly paid us a visit, the former going to talk to the Basuto boys under an oak-tree in the field, and shaking hands with the principal of them. Many of them enter with great zest into the cricket and other games, but what is most noticeable is their great docility in their studies and their evident desire for improvement. The black and white boys at Zonnebloem mix thoroughly well together, and several people noticed in the middle of the group, as the boys sat eating their dinner in the field, a singularly fair boy, with almost white hair, and a very dark-coloured Basuto sitting side by side, evidently great friends. It is certainly a most interesting work which is going on at Zonnebloem, and one of very great promise.

"I must beg you also to convey my very cordial thanks to the society for the grants to Abbotsdale and to Simon's Town, though, by the way, I think I have already sent my acknowledgments for these. In any case there can be no harm in repeating them.

"With regard to the depot I hope you will have an early letter from the dean, who is the chairman of the local committee. I am sorry for the mistake, which I imagine arose from some misunderstanding between Mr. Juts, the bookseller here, and I suppose the superintendent of the depot in London.

"Believe me, &c.

"W. W. CAPETOWN."

SOCIETY FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE GOSPEL IN FOREIGN PARTS.

The monthly meeting of the society was held on Friday, January 21, at 19 Delahay Street, the Bishop of London in the chair.

1. Read minutes of last meeting.

2. The secretary, on behalf of the standing committee, proposed for election at the meeting in February the following gentlemen as members of the standing committee:—Rev. W. Cadman, Major-Gen. Turner, Hon. Henry Walpole, Colonel Dalton, C.S.I., Colonel Makins, M.P., and Walter F. Phillimore, Esq.; also the Master of the Charterhouse, for the office of vice-president.

3. The secretary read the following letter from the Archbishop of Canterbury on the subject of the increase of the episcopate in India:—

"The Bishop of Madras has expressed his wish that Drs. Sargeant and Caldwell should be consecrated as bishops to act under him in the diocese of Madras.

"The Principal Secretary of State for India has intimated to me the willingness of her Majesty's government to sanction the consecration of such bishops, and the Bishop of Calcutta, metropolitan of India, has signified his concurrence with the request of the Bishop of Madras, in a letter dated November 25, 1875, which I received two days ago.

"I am therefore desirous of knowing whether an income sufficient for the support of such bishops is forthcoming, and I should be glad to hear from you what financial arrangements the society for the Propagation of the Gospel is ready to make with the view of promoting this object. As soon as I am satisfied that sufficient salaries can be secured, I propose to make final application to her Majesty the Queen requesting that a royal licence may be issued to me for the consecration of the two missionaries named above. And in the event of her Majesty complying with this request, it is my intention to issue a commission to the Bishop of Calcutta, empowering his lordship, with the aid of two of his suffragans, to proceed forthwith in the matter of the consecration.

"I feel confident that your society will rejoice with me at the prospect of speedily completing his addition to the efficiency of our Church in India, and will join in a hearty prayer to Almighty God that our missionary efforts may be strengthened and extended by the attainment of an object which attached members of our Church have so long ardently desired."

The standing committee proposed to the meeting the following resolutions:—

(1) "That the society, with the view of maintaining the Rev. Dr. Caldwell in the position of chief missionary at Edeyengoody, continue to pay him his salary (336*l.* per annum) and allowance as heretofore, and that, in addition to such income, a sum of 264*l.* per annum (so as to raise his whole income to 600*l.* per annum) be paid annually to him out of the society's general fund during his tenure of office as a bishop in the diocese of Madras."

The Rev. E. T. West moved the following amendment:—

"That in consequence of the proposed elevation of Dr. Caldwell to the episcopate his stipend be augmented to 600*l.* per annum. Such increase to commence from the day of his consecration."

On divisions the amendment was lost, and the resolution was carried nem. con.

The second proposal of the standing committee was carried in the following terms:—

(2) "That in case any well devised plan be promoted for the endowment of an independent missionary bishopric in Tinnevely, the society will gladly co-operate with other societies in making such an endowment."

On the third proposal of the standing committee being submitted to the board, it was resolved:—

(3) "That the society submit to the archbishop and also to the bishops in India their earnest desire that steps be taken to secure the attainment of their object, viz.: that the bishop should be consecrated with a special view to the episcopal superintendence within certain territorial limits of the missionary clergy and native races."

4. Resolved that the sum of 10*l.* be presented to Rev. J. E. Marks; that 99*l.*, the amount of various gifts appropriated to Burma by the donors, be expended on school material for use in Burma; and that 150*l.* be voted for the purchase of a chapel at Chefoo, in North China.

5. Resolved to sanction the purchase of a property at Roorkee, called The Park, to be used for the purposes of an orphanage, and that the seal be affixed to a power of attorney to the Calcutta diocesan secretary to negotiate the purchase.

6. The seal of the society was ordered to be affixed to two notices to the tenants of a portion of the society's landed estate.

7. Resolved that the standing committee be authorized to co-operate with the Additional Curates Society and other Church societies in memorialising the Prime Minister in favour of an increase of the home episcopate.

8. The Rev. — Bice was placed on the society's list in Melanesia; Mr. S. J. C. Grime, of St. Augustine's College, was accepted for work in Burma; Mr. Dunfield, for Newfoundland; Mr. Hobbs was approved for missionary work; Mr. A. Smith, of Burford, was accepted for Madagascar; and Rev. H. J. Foss, M.A., for Japan.

9. The Rev. S. Arnott moved, and it was resolved:—

"That, adverting to the small amounts contributed to the funds of the society by several of the colonial dioceses, it be referred to the committee to consider whether it should not be a condition affixed to all grants of money that a sermon be preached, or a public meeting be held, or an offertory be given (in connection with each grant), in aid of the society, or in aid of missionary work; and, further, to consider in what way such condition should be put forward, and of what exceptions it may admit."

10. Mr. Pulman gave notice of his intention to move at the next meeting:—

(a) "That a correct copy of the charter of incorporation of the society, of the bylaws and of the standing orders of the society be annexed as an appendix to the annual report for the year 1876."

(b) "That the resolution No. 5 on the agenda paper of the monthly meeting in November last in relation to the leasing of the estate of the society in Barbados be not acted upon," &c.

11. All the persons proposed in November were elected into the corporation.

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

GENERAL COMMITTEE, DECEMBER 13.—The Rev. Dr. Copleston, Bishop Designate of Colombo, was introduced to the committee, and the secretaries having briefly reviewed the present condition of the Ceylon mission, Dr. Copleston expressed to the committee his sense of the great importance of the society's work in Ceylon, and of the blessing that had been vouchsafed to it; and that he had looked with great interest on the growth and independence of the native Church, and on the extension of evangelistic labours in the island, especially among the coolies on the coffee estates. The bishop designate also remarked on the subject of union among the missionaries of different societies. Lord Lawrence, in the name of the committee, addressed the bishop designate, congratulated him on the compactness of the diocese over which he was called on to preside, and dwelt on the importance of co-operation and of the sinking of comparatively minor differences among the missionaries of the various Protestant societies. Dr. Copleston, on taking leave of the committee, asked for their prayers in view of the important duties on which he was about to enter.

SPECIAL GENERAL COMMITTEE, DECEMBER 21.

—The report of the sub-committee appointed to consider and report to the committee on the best mode of carrying out the resolutions of the committee of November 23, in regard to the commencement of a mission on the Victoria Nyanza, was considered by the committee; and the secretaries having stated that 11,000*l.* had been offered for the mission, the following resolution was passed:—

"That, considering how freely some friends of the society have come forward with pecuniary means to commence a mission in Equatorial Africa, and trusting that it may please God to raise up suitable men to carry on this important but difficult work, the report be adopted, and steps be at once taken to carry its recommendations into effect, and the sub-committee be requested to continue their services."

A communication was read from the Archbishop of Canterbury, forwarding a letter to his address from Miss Whately, dated Cairo, November 13, 1875, giving an account of her work in Egypt, and applying for the help of the Church Missionary Society to sustain her efforts, as otherwise she would have to give up several of her agencies. Two letters were also read from Miss Whately to the secretary, giving interesting details of the work carried on by her among Moslem adults and children, both at Damietta and Cairo, and urging the importance of sending a European missionary to engage in this work. The committee, as an earnest of their appreciation of the work Miss Whately is carrying on in Egypt among the Mohammedan adults and children, and in view of its possible bearing on the future work of the society among Mohammedans and others, sanctioned an immediate grant to her of 100*l.*, on the understanding that she would thus be enabled to maintain all existing agencies.

A letter was read from the Rev. W. B. Chancellor, dated Mahé, October 13, 1875, stating that he had applied for and obtained a grant from the governor of Mauritius of fifty acres of land in the Forêt Noire, for the purposes of the Liberated African Institution in the Seychelles, subject to certain conditions. The committee thankfully accepted the grant of land made by the governor of Mauritius, on the conditions agreed upon with Mr. Chancellor.

The committee received with much regret an intimation from their Calcutta secretary, the Rev. E. C. Stuart, then at Sydney, that he was not in a fit state of health to think of resuming work in India, and recorded the following resolution:—"That the committee cannot receive the medical opinions as to the state of Mr. Stuart's health, and his inability to resume work in India, without recording their sense of the great assistance which Mr. Stuart has been able, during his connection with the society in North India, to give to the North India missions, and of the heavy loss which his withdrawal must be to these missions." They also requested the secretaries to convey to Mr. Stuart the assurance of their continued affectionate sympathy; and adverting to the importance of still retaining Mr. Stuart's services for the work of the society in a climate which might suit his health, the secretaries were asked to consider and report whether some suitable sphere might not be offered to Mr. Stuart's acceptance in connection with the New Zealand mission.

The committee also directed that their thanks should be given to the Rev. J. Welland, for the zeal and ability with which he had discharged the duties of officiating secretary of the Calcutta corresponding committee since Mr. Stuart's removal from the mission, and that he be requested to accept the post of secretary of the Calcutta corresponding committee, and be also appointed to the incumbency of the old church in Calcutta.

The committee, on the request of Bishop of Moosonee, agreed to request the British and Foreign Bible Society to print an edition of the Now Testament in Moose Cree, for the use of the Indians in that district.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, JANUARY 4.
—A letter was read from the Archbishop of Canterbury, dated Addington Park, December 21, stating that the Bishop of Madras had expressed his wish that Drs. Sargent and Caldwell should be consecrated as bishops, to act under him in the diocese of Madras; that the Principal Secretary of State for India had intimated the willingness of her Majesty's government to sanction the consecration of such bishops, the Bishop of Calcutta having signified his concurrence, and stating his own readiness to proceed in the matter as soon as he was satisfied that an income sufficient for the support of such bishops was forthcoming, and requesting to know what financial arrangement the society were ready to make with the view of promoting this object. The draft of proposed letter in reply to the archbishop's, stating that the committee were prepared to guarantee an adequate stipend to Dr. Sargent as long as he remained a missionary of the society, was read and approved; and the secretaries were directed to take an early opportunity of bringing before the consideration of the committee the question whether any, and if so what, steps should be taken (1) in reference to the future introduction of a native episcopate into the native Christian churches of India, and the further development of self-government and self-support in those churches; and (2) in reference to the proposal for establishing missionary bishoprics in India, in addition to the suffragan bishoprics of Dr. Sargent and Dr. Caldwell.

The committee sanctioned the return to England of the Rev. E. Sell, via Constantinople, in order that he might have the opportunity of intercourse with missionaries who have had experience in the Mohammedan controversy.

On the application of the Rev. T. Sathianathan, the native missionary at Madras, the committee made a grant of books to the value of 20*l*. for the use of the library of the lecture hall at Madras.

On the recommendation of the Che-kiang conference held at Ningpo, November 5 and 6, 1875, the committee sanctioned the ordination of three native catechists, Wong Yiu Kwong, O Kwong-yiao, and Dying Ts-sing.

Extract of Letter from the Rev. W. S. Price, dated Frere Town, Mombasa, December 6, 1875.

"Our work here is steadily progressing, and the colony assuming a more settled condition; but it is uphill work. A freed-slave colony is not a popular institution in this part of the world, and there is a clique of miserable Suahelis, who seem to wish for nothing less than that the earth would open and swallow us up. Just now the town is in a state of feverish excitement, owing to rumours of an invasion by Ibrahim Pasha. This, however, would scarcely affect Frere Town, further than by crowding it with timid refugees from Mombasa.

"You will be interested in hearing that Jacob has come from Rabbai, and this week entered upon his duties here as schoolmaster, with nearly a hundred little boys and girls, who don't know their right hand from their left."

INCORPORATED SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING THE ENLARGEMENT, BUILDING, AND REPAIRING OF CHURCHES AND CHAPELS.

This society held its usual monthly meeting on Monday, January 17, at 7 Whitehall, the Rev. John Evans in the chair. There were also present the Revs. E. L. Cutts, A. J. Ingram, and C. F. Norman; Messrs. John Boodle, R. Foster, J. F. France, Wm. Rivington, W. E. M. Tomlinson, and Rev. R. Milburn Blakiston, M.A., secretary. Grants of money were made in aid of the following objects, viz. :—

Rebuilding the church at Gilton, near Newark, Notts; enlarging or otherwise improving the accommodation in churches at Flore, near Weedon, Northants; and Westham, near Eastbourne. Under urgent circumstances, the grants formerly made towards restoring the churches at Navenby, near Grantham, and Stanley, near Derby, were each increased. Grants were also made from the Special School-Church and Mission House Fund towards building school or mission churches at Blackburn (St. Paul); Chadsmoor near Cannock, Staffordshire; Hammersmith (St. John), Middlesex; and Temperance Town, in the parish of St. Mary, Cardiff.

The good work that is thus being done by this special fund is manifest, and if the committee were enabled, by receiving a larger share of public support, to increase the amounts of these grants, this department of our home mission work might be developed to a much further extent.

THE BURIALS BILL.

The following letter, which has been addressed by the Bishop of Salisbury to his rural deans, has been sent to us by his lordship for insertion :—

Palace, Salisbury, January 27, 1876.

DEAR MR. RURAL DEAN,—I have now received replies from all the deaneries of the diocese to the questions which I asked them respecting the subject of burials in our churchyards.

About 600 clergy and representative communicant laity met in the early winter, and sent answers to the questions proposed. It is somewhat difficult to give in complete summary a report of these answers in their exact particulars of variety; but I think it right to inform you of the general character of these answers for the information of the members of your rural-decanal chapter.

1. To the first question, whether the present law of burial should be uncompromisingly maintained, the answer is uniformly in the affirmative; ten deaneries adding "as regards services."

2. To the second question, whether, if any change were to be made, the proposals of Mr. Osborne Morgan's Bill should be accepted, the answer is absolutely in the negative. I do not perceive that more than three individuals in all the deaneries voted in the affirmative.

3. To the third question, whether "silent burials" should be adopted according to Mr. Talbot's plan, three deaneries only answer in the affirmative, the divisions in them being 12 to 8, 9 to 7, and 12 to 3.

4. To the fourth question, whether cemeteries should be formed for one or more parishes according to the recommendation of the Lower House of Convocation, two deaneries answered decisively in the negative. The rest answered in the affirmative; but with great variety of opinion as to the funds from which the cemeteries should be provided, several objecting to the charge falling on the rates, three proposing that it should be borne by the Dissenters, one that half should be defrayed by subscriptions and half by a government grant, and the remainder not specifying the fund from which it should come, and therefore, I presume, allowing that it should fall upon the rates.

5. To the fifth question, whether any other scheme should be suggested, I have only received one answer, which recommends an alternative service, consisting of prayers from the Bible. This was carried by 10 to 1, in a meeting of 17.

Believe me, &c.

GEORGE SARUM.

CHURCH CONGRESS, 1876.

A meeting was held at Plymouth on Jan. 31, for the purpose of making arrangements holding the Church Congress in the autumn. 1 Bishop of Exeter, the president, was in the chair and the meeting was numerously attended. Vice-presidents were appointed and a guarantee fund commenced. An executive committee was elected, among whom were the Earl of Devon, the Earl of Mount-Edgcumbe, Lord Nelson, Canon Ryle, Mr. Beresford Hope, Lord Blackford, Sir John Kennaway, and Lord Eliot.

There will be an election at this college in the present term to at least three Open Scholarships of the value of 80*l.* a year; one of which will be awarded for proficiency in Mathematics; but candidates for that Scholarship will be expected to show such an amount of classical knowledge as will warrant the examiners in supposing that they will be able to pass Responsions in due course. These Scholarships are tenable for five years, during residence and good conduct, unless a scholar shall, after his election, have accepted any appointment interfering with the full course of academical studies. Candidates must be under 20 years of age. They are to present themselves to the Principal, with testimonials of good character, and with satisfactory evidence of age, on Monday, February 28, between 8 and 9 P.M., or on Tuesday, February 29, between 9 and 10 A.M. The examination will begin at the last-named hour. It has been arranged that candidates for Classical Scholarships at Oriel and Brasenose Colleges shall this year be examined at the same time and in the same papers. Due notice of the day of examination will be given.

THE PUBLIC WORSHIP REGULATION ACT.

[From the "Times"]

ARCHES COURT, LAMBETH PALACE.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 3.

CLIFTON AND OTHERS v. RIDSDALE.

LORD PENZANCE, the Dean of the Court of Arches, delivered judgment in the case of Clifton and others v. Ridsdale, in the Public Library of Lambeth Palace.

As will be remembered, it was a proceeding taken under the Public Worship Regulation Act, at the instance of three parishioners of the parish of St. Peter's, Folkestone, who had transmitted to the Archbishop of Canterbury a representation under that statute, complaining of certain proceedings and matters which they alleged to be unlawful in the conduct of the respondent on the 4th and 11th days of July last.

After a concise and clear description of the functions, powers, and duties of the court over which the Dean presided, as to which, he said, he feared some misconception existed, he tried to set in their true light some matters which, he said, had been by some unwittingly but grievously distorted, and came at once to the matter in hand. He said the representation complained of many things done by the respondent which he did not deny, nor did he deny that these things were unlawful in the present state of the law, as enunciated by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, reserving to himself the right to question that state of the law, so far as he may be allowed to do so by that tribunal, should he appeal to it in the present case. His lordship shortly enumerated these offences :—1. The use of lighted candles on the Communion-table, or on a ledge immediately over it, at the time of the celebration of the Holy Communion, when those candles were not required for giving light. 2. The mixing of water with wine for the service of the Holy Communion. 3. The use of wafer-bread, instead of bread such as is usually eaten, in the administration of the Holy Communion. 4. Standing at the middle of the west side of the Communion table with his back to the people, so that the people could not see him break the bread during the Prayer of Consecration. 5. Kneeling during the Prayer of Consecration—a practice, however, which he says he has since discontinued. 6. Causing the hymn or prayer commonly known as the "Agnus Dei" to be sung during the Communion Service, immediately after the Prayer of Consecration. 7. Forming and accompanying a procession, consisting of a choir and two acolytes in short surplices and red cassocks, four banners, a brass instrument, and a processional cross being carried in it, the choir singing a hymn, and the respondent walking in it with a cap, called a biretta, on his head, such procession taking place after the Service of Morning Prayer, and immediately before the Communion. 8. Forming and accompanying a like procession on another occasion, when at one period of it all those who took part in it fell on their knees and remained kneeling for some time. The facts of these eight charges having been admitted by or on behalf of the respondent, and the unlawfulness of his conduct on these occasions being unquestioned before the court, and in the dean's opinion unquestionable, his duty on the present occasion would be confined to admonishing him not to offend again in the same way. There was one other charge upon which in like manner no defence had been offered, which required some further notice. He alluded to the charge of celebrating the Holy Communion in the vestments known by the names of "chasuble" and "alb." This question of vestments was one which stood in a peculiar position in respect of the judicial decisions of which it had been the subject. Dr. Lushington, Sir John Dodson, and Sir R. Phillimore have all held what are called the Edwardian vestments to be lawful. By the Court of Appeal in Liddell v. Westerton, consisting of some of the ablest judges of our time, Lord Cranworth, Lord Wensleydale, Lord Kingsdown, Sir John Patteson, and Mr. Justice Maule, with the late and present Archbishops of Canterbury, it was affirmed, in the following words, that "the same dresses and the same utensils or articles which were used under the first Prayer Book of Edward VI. may still be used. In the case of Martin v. Mackonochie, it was declared generally that the court "entirely concurred" in the construction of the ornaments rubric in the previous case, and particularly that "the term 'ornaments' in the rubric means those articles the use of which in the services and ministrations of the Church is prescribed by the first Prayer Book of Edward VI." In Liddell v. Westerton the court, in the remarks above quoted, was commenting upon this rubric for the particular purpose, and the particular purpose only, of showing that it applied to articles and things which were "used" in the service as distinguished from ornaments which were not "used," but "set up in churches as ornaments in the sense of decorations." The terms, therefore, in which their construction of the ornaments rubric was declared constituted a judicial dictum (very valuable, no doubt, considering the high authority of the judges from whom it emanated), but still a judicial dictum only. But in the later case of Martin v. Mackonochie, the question arose directly whether the lighting of a candle could be justified as the "use" of an ornament permitted by this same "ornaments rubric," upon which the question of vestments turns. It thus became necessary to construe the language of that rubric, and the court having, as above stated, declared their adherence to the construction given to the rubric in the former case, went on to say that this construction "went far to decide the case in hand," and concluded thus :—

"But the rubric—speaking in 1662, more than 100 years subsequently—has, for reasons which it is not the province of a judicial tribunal to criticise, defined the class of ornaments to be retained, by a reference, not to what was in use de facto, or to what was lawful in 1549, but to what was in the church, by authority of parliament, in that year, and in the parliamentary authority which this committee has held, and which their lordships hold to be indicated by these words, the ornaments in question are not included."

The argument of the court, therefore, ran thus :—The ornaments which may be lawfully used are defined by the rubric of the present Prayer Book. The meaning of that rubric is that such "ornaments" may be used as are prescribed by the first Prayer Book of Edward VI. The use of a lighted candle is not found to be prescribed by the first book of Edward VI.; therefore it is not lawful. He (the dean) could only regard this case, then, as a decision directly based upon the proposition that the rubric of the present Prayer Book defined the "ornaments" which should be lawful in future as those which had been prescribed by the first Prayer Book of Edward VI. No doubt, the category of lawful ornaments to be found in the first book of Edward VI. was appealed to in that case to prohibit a lighted candle as not being within it; it must be invoked by those who uphold the Edwardian vestments as a justification for the use of all vestments which are within it; but it is difficult to conceive that this distinction warrants a different conclusion as to the rubric's meaning. If the directions of the book of Edward VI. are to be taken as the test of what may be lawfully used under the present Prayer Book for the purpose of excluding matters and things which are not within them, it may be well urged that they are also the test of legality for the purpose of justifying the use of the things which are within them and expressly enjoined by them. When fully considered, therefore, this case affords, not a mere judicial dictum, but a direct authority as to the true meaning of the rubric judicially announced as the ratio decidendi of the court, and acted upon as the basis of its ultimate decision. With this decision, the subsequent one of Hibbert v. Purchas, condemning the vestments, which are among the "ornaments" prescribed by the first book of Edward VI., appears to be directly in conflict; but then it must be borne in mind that the case of Martin v. Mackonochie dealt with things used in the Church services (such as a candle), while the case of Hibbert v. Purchas dealt with the dresses of the ministers, as to which dresses the canons of A.D. 1603 had given certain directions; and it was to these canons, as he (the dean) understood the latter case, that the court ascribed the authority to qualify the subsequent statute and rubric in respect of dresses or vestments. It might be, therefore, that this conflict of authorities was rather apparent than real; but whether it was the one or the other, his course in that court was clear. He could not doubt that of two judgments delivered in the Appellate Court which were in any degree inconsistent, he was bound in pronouncing the decision of the inferior court to obey and carry out that which was addressed directly to the matter in issue here, and which also was the last pronounced. He must, therefore, hold that Mr. Ridsdale had offended against the law in celebrating the Communion in a chasuble and in an alb, and admonish him to refrain from doing so in future. If that decision was wrong it must be corrected by the Appellate Court. Dealing next with the remaining charges, the dean took first the charge relating to the celebration, on July 4, 1875, at the service commencing at 10.30, of the Holy Communion when only one person besides the respondent received it. The fact, he said, was not denied. The only answer given was that the great bulk of the congregation remained in the church, that there were 200 to 250 people present, and that the respondent had reason to believe, and did believe, that a sufficient number of them would communicate with him. It was desirable to turn to the rubric itself, which was said to have been contravened. It is in these words :—"And there shall be no celebration of the Lord's Supper except there be a convenient number to communicate with the priest, according to his discretion.

And if there be not above twenty persons in the parish of discretion to receive the Communion, yet there shall be no Communion except four (or three at the least) communicate with the priest." It could not be said that the words of this rubric admitted of any but one interpretation—there was to be no Communion unless as many as three persons were present and communicated with the priest. It was not even in argument contended that the rubric meant anything else. It did not say there shall be no Communion "unless the priest believes" or "unless he has reasonable ground to believe" that there will be as many as three communicants, but expressly that there shall be no Communion "except three at the least" do in fact "communicate with the priest." The question remained whether there was on this occasion, or would be on others, any real impossibility of conforming to the rubric, a proposition which it devolved upon the respondent to establish. But neither by any evidence that he had given, nor by any conclusions to be extracted from the rubrics of the Communion Service, did it seem to be established that a priest really desirous of conforming to the rubric was practically unable to discover whether the celebration he was about to enter upon would be a lawful one or not. On a perusal of the several rubrics as they occurred in the Communion Service, it certainly seemed to be assumed throughout that the number of those who were about to communicate would be known (or, at least, approximately so) to the priest, and, if others were present (the propriety of which was, he believed, a controverted point, but one with which that court had nothing now to do), discriminated in some manner from them. But no precise direction, he said, appeared to be given as to the details of the manner in which any separation, discrimination, or distinction between those who did and those who did not communicate was to be brought about. Upon a review of the history of these rubrical directions, the conclusions at which the dean arrived were that the legislature, in both Prayer Books of Edward VI. as well as the book of 1662, contemplated that there would be some method of discriminating between those who attended to partake of the Holy Communion and those who did not; that under the first book of Edward VI. the means of doing so were specifically prescribed; that under the second book of Edward VI., and the present book, no such specific means are prescribed (except they be found in the direction that the communicants should be "conveniently placed"); and that the custom, however general, of the non-communicants retiring from the church was not specifically enjoined by any positive direction of the existing rubrics. Nor was he aware that the minister had any means at his command to enforce compliance with this custom, supposing it to be desirable to do so, upon which matter it was not the dean's duty here to express an opinion. Turning to the question whether the respondent had reasonable ground to believe, or did even in fact believe, that there would be a sufficient number of communicants on the 4th of July, the dean said it was impossible, he thought, to read his own evidence on this head and not perceive that he entered upon the celebration of the Holy Sacrament on that day without, as he stated it himself on re-examination, "any positive expectation one way or the other." It was true there were many present as to whom he did not know that they might not communicate, and as to some, he said he thought they might, but he had no belief that they would. Whatever might be said as to whether reasonable grounds for believing that the proper number would communicate existed or not, it was clear the respondent must establish that he did, in fact, believe that they would do so, before he could possibly be in a position to set up any exculpation based on the imperfect state of his own knowledge. That he had failed to do so. The rubric had, in the dean's opinion, been violated, and without excuse. It would, therefore, be his duty to admonish the respondent to obey the rubric in future. The next questions for the decision of the court concerned the lawfulness of the crucifix, and of the paintings called the Stations of the Cross, which had been set up in St. Peter's Church. The solution of these questions, he said, depended not on any single contested passage of a statute or a rubric to be construed by the court, but on the general result of the various Acts of the sovereign and the legislature, which went to make up that momentous change in the state religion, and the ecclesiastical laws of the realm, which was known as the Reformation. The field, therefore, over which such an inquiry was capable of being pursued was an almost unbounded one; but it did not, he thought, devolve upon that court so to pursue it. For the ground had been already travelled by the appellate tribunal in the two cases of Westerton v. Liddell, and Philpotts v. Boyd, in which all that historical research and able argument could do to elucidate the legal propositions deducible from an inquiry of the kind was fully and effectually done. He would state, in a few sentences, the points decided in these cases so far as they affected the present inquiry. In the case of Westerton v. Liddell, the court had to pronounce upon the legality of a cross set up in Mr. Liddell's church; and it was decided that although before the Reformation the symbol of the cross had no doubt been put to superstitious uses, "yet that crosses, when used as mere emblems of the Christian faith, and not as objects of superstitious reverence, may still lawfully be erected as architectural decorations," and that the wooden cross erected in that particular case "was to be considered a mere architectural ornament." The court on that occasion determined nothing directly as to the legality of a crucifix, but was at great pains throughout the judgment to point out that crosses were to be distinguished from crucifixes, saying that "there was a wide difference between the cross and images of saints, and even, though in a less degree, between a cross and a crucifix," the former of which, they said, had been "used as a symbol of Christianity two or three centuries before either crucifixes or images were introduced." He must infer, therefore, that in the opinion of the court, as declared in this case of Westerton v. Liddell, the use of the cross was only to be justified when it played the part of a mere architectural ornament, and that the views and arguments upon which that justification was based did not afford the same justification to crucifixes. In Philpotts v. Boyd, the court, in justifying the erection of the Exeter reredos, adhered entirely and very distinctly to the position taken up in the previous case, and pronounced that erection lawful, though it included many sculptured images, on the express ground "that it had been set up for the purpose of decoration only," declaring that it was "not in danger of being abused," and that "it was not suggested that any superstitious reverence has been or is likely to be paid to any of the figures upon it." These two cases, considered together, afforded to the Court of Arches a sufficient guide for the principles which it was now bound to apply. All that remained was to apply them. In doing so it was necessary first to have a clear idea of what was meant by "superstitious reverence being paid," and then to ascertain whether such "reverence" was likely to be, or was in danger of being "paid" to the particular objects here complained of, or whether, on the contrary, it was established that those objects were for architectural ornament only. The contrast set up by the court in these cases was between superstitious reverence on the one hand, and architectural decoration on the other; and he could not but think that the court considered that all figures in sculpture or painting must needs fall within one category or the other, so that if the objects and figures here in question were intended to be, or were likely to become, anything more or other than mere architectural decorations, they would be illegal as objects of "superstitious reverence." This view would at once simplify the definition of "superstitious reverence," and reduce the inquiry to the question whether the limits of mere architectural decoration had been exceeded or not. But, passing that by, and considering the matter in a more general light, he conceived that the words "superstitious reverence" or "idolatrous practices," together with the more general term "abuse," all which expressions were used indifferently by the court in Philpotts v. Boyd, were intended by the court to mean the same thing as "worship" and "adoration," which were found in the 22nd Article of Religion. This appeared from the following passage in that judgment:—"As the Reformation proceeded, and the Articles of Religion came to receive statutory authority, the doctrine of the Church on this subject was plainly set forth. The 22nd Article of Religion declares that 'The Romish doctrine concerning purgatory, pardons, worshipping, and adoration, as well of images as of relics, and also invocation of saints, is a fond thing, vainly invented and grounded upon no warranty of Scripture, but rather repugnant to the Word of God;' in other words, it condemns only the 'abuse' of 'images.' What then was this Romish doctrine? The actual worship of the graven image in place of the Deity it represents had never, so far as he (the dean) was aware, been inculcated by the Romish Church. It certainly formed no part of the teachings of that Church, if he might rely on the testimony produced in this case from the lips of the witness Dominicus Crescitelli. The 'Romish doctrine' 'concerning worshipping and adoration of images,' spoken of in the 22nd Article of Religion as 'a fond thing vainly invented,' must, therefore, be intended in that article to mean the devotion and prayer which the Roman Church to this day enjoined its adherents to offer, not to images themselves, but to God, before crucifixes, images, or paintings, and the like. And it was this doctrine, together with the practices which had been found to result from it, which it was a main object of the Reformation to denounce and utterly put away from the Reformed Church. That he might in no wise mistake or misapprehend the doctrine of the Romish Church on this matter, he referred to the following passage from the Decrees of the Council of Trent.

"Imagines porro Christi, deiparæ Virginis, et aliorum sanctorum in templis præsentim habendas et retinendas, easque debitum honorem et venerationem impertiendam, non quod credatur inesse aliqua in iis divinitas vel virtus propter quam sint colendæ, vel quod ab eis sit aliquid petendum, vel quod fiducia in imaginibus si figenda veluti olim fiebat a gentilibus, quæ idolis spem suam collocabant, sed quoniam hæc qui eis exhibetur refertur ad prototypa quæ illas representant, ita ut per imagines quas oculamus et coram quibus caput aperimus et procumbimus Christum adoremus et sanctos quorum illæ similitudinem gerunt, veneremur—Session XXX.—'De Invocatione, veneratione et reliquiis sanctorum et sacris imaginibus.'"—Corpus Juris Civ. vol. ii. p. 84. It was not, therefore, intended in the above decision of the Court of Appeal by the use of the words "superstitious reverence," "adoration," or "worship," to convey only the limited idea of a figure or object itself worshipped like a Pagan idol. On the contrary, he understood these expressions as intended to embrace the far more extended conception of worship, adoration, or reverence paid to the Deity in presence of or before those subjects or figures. It might not be easy to push definition further than this, and define what it was that in any or every case constituted adoration or worship in presence of an image or figure; nor was it necessary to do so; it was enough for the purpose in hand to say that it must be taken to include all and every form or degree in which the object in question was made to take a place, or play a part, in the devotions which were paid to the Deity before it. He next inquired whether it could fairly and reasonably be said that the figures complained of in this case, and which he minutely described, were likely to be, or were in danger of being, objects of "worship" or "superstitious reverence." He might at once dispose of the charge which, though not distinctly made in the representation, was urged in argument, that the position of the candles in relation to the crucifix and the manner in which they were used together constituted a ceremonial observance, and as such were not warranted by law. He held that this charge was not made out, and he passed to the more serious consideration whether a crucifix so placed and lighted as in St. Peter's Church, Folkestone, was in danger of being an object of "superstitious reverence." The best forecast of the future in 'most cases,' but especially in those wherein the weaknesses and failings of mankind were concerned, was to be obtained from the experience of the past. And it was to the past that the court in Philpotts v. Boyd emphatically appealed in justification of the Exeter reversos. In speaking of "painted representations of portions of sacred history, to be found in many of our churches," the court relied upon the circumstances that these paintings had been proved by long experience to be capable of remaining there without giving occasion to any idolatrous or superstitious practices. Would an appeal to the experience of the past, in the case of crucifixes, bring out the same result? or rather, it should perhaps be asked, would not the result be the very opposite? It was precisely here that to his mind the great difficulty presented itself in the proposal now made of sanction the restoration of so well known an object as the crucifix to that place in our churches which for 300 years it had been a stranger. The crucifix, as set up in our churches, had a special history of its own. Before the Reformation the "rood" was ordinarily to be found in parish churches in this country. It presented the carved, sculptured, moulded, or painted figure of Jesus Christ on the Cross, and was, in fact, "a crucifix, with images at the base." This figure was erected on a structure called the "rood loft," which appeared to have traversed the church at the entrance to the chancel; in fact, it occupied nearly as might be the position which the iron screen in the present case does. There was in existence the most precise and unquestionable evidence on this matter, and it was to be found in the records of the Lincolnshire parishes, printed in Mr. Peacock's book on 'Church Furniture,' and dated A.D. 1565-6. So universal did the existence of the "rood" in some form, either sculptured or painted, seem to have been that in the returns of the churchwardens of upwards of 50 parishes there was mention of the rood having been defaced or pulled down in at least 140. It would also be found that in Tanner's articles put forth during the reign of Queen Mary, in the year A.D. 1554, inquiry was made "whether there be a crucifix rood loft, as in times past has been accustomed; and, if not, where the crucifix or rood is to become, and by whose negligence the thing want." Again, in Cardinal Pole's 'Articles,' A.D. 1557, "whether they have a rood in their church of a decent stature with Mary and John." After this period the historical evidences found that in the reign of Elizabeth these roods and rood lofts were destroyed, far and deep, as monuments of idolatry and superstition; that he was not at present concerned with that circumstance, save so far as it served to show that they had existed, and were of general, if not universal, occurrence. Not only so, but in the year 1560 a discussion appears to have arisen as to the propriety of setting the roods or crucifixes up again in parish churches. From this it was plain that the crucifix formed an ordinary feature in the parish church before the Reformation; and it could not be doubted that it did so, not as a mere architectural ornament, but as an object of reverence and adoration. It was, most briefly, the part played by the "rood" or crucifix in English churches in the past. If set up again in them now, what part is it likely to play in the future? It was no doubt easy to say, what proof is there of danger of idolatry now? What facts are there to point to a probability of "abuse?" But when the court was dealing with a well-known sacred object—an object enjoined and put up by authority in all the churches of England before the Reformation, in a particular part of the church, and for the particular purpose of "adoration;" when the court found that the same object, both in the Church and out of it, was still worshipped by those who adhered to the unreformed Romish faith, and when it was told that now, after a lapse of 300 years, it was suddenly proposed to set up again this same object in the same part of the church as an architectural ornament only, it was hard not to distrust the uses to which it might come to be put, or escape the apprehension that what begins in "decoration" may end in "idolatry." If this apprehension was a just and reasonable one, then there existed that likelihood and danger of "superstitious reverence" which the Privy Council, in Philpotts v. Boyd, pronounced to be fatal to the lawfulness of all images and figures set up in a church. Reviewing the arguments urged in favour of the opposite side of the question, he placed first among them the consideration, forcibly pressed on the court, that the times we live in are not as the times before or at the period of the Reformation; that images and figures which gave occasion then "for unhealthy minds" to abuse, "we, in our extended knowledge, may be permitted to use with safety." That there was a wide difference in the state of knowledge, and still more in the degree of its general diffusion between the 19th and the 16th centuries, would not be denied; but was it equally certain that superstition had waned in proportion as the light of intellectual culture had advanced, and that the ground gained by the one had been lost by the other? Was it really so absurd, as it was argued to be, to imagine that, in the present day the worship of lifeless images and figures, not as idols, perhaps, but as aids to devotion, should again prevail as in old times? The fear that it should be so might be unfounded, but he questioned whether intellectual culture could be relied upon as a safeguard against it; for, if so, what was to be said of the Romish Church and of those able and distinguished men who, in our own day, had not hesitated to join it and accept its doctrines? What he was there discussing, he must again repeat, was not the belief in an idol of wood or stone, but the practice of involving in devotional exercises outward and visible forms, as inculcated in the devotional books of the Roman Catholic creed. This was the "fond thing vainly invented" of the 22nd Article of Religion; and the mere fact of the existence of such a doctrine in that Church, among whose members high intellectual power and acquirement was rife, was, to his mind, a conclusive answer to the suggestion that the intellect or knowledge of the present day might be relied upon to take the place of those safeguards which it was the work of the Reformation to establish. But another consideration must not be lost sight of. If the intelligent and the cultivated no longer need the protection of old days, could the same be said of the weak and ignorant? The parish church was for all, not for a class, and if the crucifix, placed as it was in this instance, was lawful for St. Peter's Church, it was lawful for every parish church in the country, and might be provided for every congregation—strong-minded or weak, instructed or ignorant. Let it be considered to what such a state of things as that would be likely to lead. If devotion to our Lord came to be habitually paid immediately before a sculptured figure of His body on the cross, which arrested the eye and occupies the imagination while the mind was in attitude of prayer, it might be easy to some, and possible to many, but hardly possible to all, to wholly dissociate the outward object from the inward prayer, and exclude it from playing any part in that devotion. The immediate presence before the eye of an outward form or object proffered an assistance, though of a spurious kind, towards fixing wavering thoughts and exalting religious fervour, which could hardly be rejected by those who most felt the want of it, and to whom all abstract thought was a difficult exercise. When there ceased to be any such, the peril might cease also, but until then it was impossible, he thought, to accept the alleged robust temper of the present times as a safeguard against so obvious a temptation. Another argument urged for the respondent was this, that crosses had been as much abused and worshipped before the Reformation as crucifixes, and were, therefore, as much in danger of abuse now, and yet crosses were by the court, in Westerton v. Liddell, held not to be unlawful as ornaments. He would only say on that head of argument that the court in that case were of a contrary opinion; that, for reasons which they considered sufficient, they distinguished crucifixes from crosses in this respect, and that if they had been unable to do so there was nothing to show that, in their judgment, either crosses or crucifixes would have been lawful ornaments. A further objection was then taken that if the delineation of the crucifixion in sculpture may not be lawfully set up in a church, the same thing must be equally true of a picture in a painted window exhibiting a similar figure. It was not to be doubted that in many churches (and in the notable instance of St. Margaret's Church, at Westminster, where the window was of great age) representations of the crucifixion in painted glass or paintings were to be found, and he was not prepared to offer any definition which should draw a sharp line of distinction between such decorations and a crucifix. Indeed, he doubted whether any narrower or more exact definition of what was lawful and what unlawful could, for practical purposes, be framed than that which is set forth in the case of Philpotts v. Boyd. But, adhering to that decision, and each case standing on its own circumstances, it was, he thought, to be presumed that the Court of Appeal would not hesitate to adjudge even painted windows, or paintings portraying the same subject, to be unlawful if it was satisfied from the mode in which the subject was treated, the place which they occupied, or other the incidents and surrounding circumstances, that they were in real danger of adoration, worship, or superstitious reverence. So long as they were free from this charge, and fulfilled no other function but that of fitly decorating the church, they were free from objection; the moment that, from any cause, whether residing in the objects themselves, or arising among those who worshipped in the church, the danger of their adoration is made manifest, he conceived that they ceased to be innocent, and fell under the charge of illegality. Up to this point he had considered only the reasons which lead to a conclusion that this crucifix was likely to invite superstitious reverence. He would now say a few words on the alternative proposition, that it was intended only, and was likely to serve only, as an architectural decoration. Viewing the matter in this light, the remark naturally arose that this particular figure of the crucifix, while it might be justly said to stand highest among the representatives of gospel history in its fitness for the purposes of adoration or worship, must surely be admitted to occupy a very inferior place among the subjects adapted for the display of mere architectural beauty. In association with other figures, and as embodying the scene of the crucifixion, it had no doubt been the subject of artistic treatment; but by itself, as it appeared here in this church, standing alone without incidents or adjuncts, it was a subject which, however artistically treated, might be so well spared in the mere decoration of churches that it is not easy to conceive that it should be selected solely for that purpose. Upon the whole, then, he must declare that the crucifix surmounting the screen in this case had not been shown to his satisfaction to have been set up as an architectural decoration only, and that there does exist a danger and a likelihood that it may be the object of "adoration" and "superstitious reverence." This conclusion made it unnecessary to consider whether its erection was originally covered by the faculty which was obtained for the iron screen, and the court must now order it to be removed, but a removal of the figure leaving the cross standing, would be a compliance with this order. It remained to deal with the Stations of the Cross. They were described in the representation as "Figures in coloured relief of a plastic material, attached to the walls of the church, purporting to represent scenes of Our Lord's Passion, and such as were commonly used in Roman Catholic Churches." It was needless to enter into their history. Whatever origin they or some of them had, it was clear that the three falls of Christ under the Cross, and the legend of Ste. Véronique, had no warrant in Gospel history. It was also clearly established by the two devotional books put in evidence, 'The Crown of Jesus,' published under the authority of Cardinal Wiseman and four Roman Catholic Archbishops in Ireland, and 'The Key of Heaven,' by St. Alphonsus Liguori, that these fourteen representations were to the present day authorized objects of adoration in that church. The entire set, viewed as a whole, and in their relation to their well-known history, must be regarded as likely (if not intended) to be used for the purposes for which they always had been used, and not for the mere purpose of decorating the church. He should, therefore, order their removal, leaving it open to the respondent, if he should desire it, to apply for a faculty to authorize the introduction into his church of such of them as might turn out to be free from objection. It would be observed that in dealing with the question of lawfulness, both as regarded those Stations of the Cross and the crucifix, he (the dean) had excluded from view all conclusions to be drawn from the manner in which the respondent had been in the habit of conducting the services of his church. At the same time, it is obvious enough that the probability of both the crucifix and the Stations of the Cross being turned to superstitious uses was largely augmented by the fact that they had been set up by a clergyman who celebrated the Holy Communion with a mixed chalice and wafer-bread, and, with a "biretta" on his head, accompanied a procession round his church with banners, crosses, and acolytes in red cassocks, in apparent imitation of the Church of Rome. But the structure or ornament of a church was more or less a thing of permanence, while the ministrations of a particular clergyman were more or less temporary, and if sound objections existed, as he thought they did in this case, to the objects complained of, in themselves, those objections constituted the best, because the most permanent, basis, for their condemnation and removal. He would only add that he had endeavoured in the above conclusions rightly to interpret and apply the decisions of the Appellate Court on this grave subject, in their spirit as well as their letter. He said grave subject, for no one could doubt that the slightest return to the use of graven images or pictures as an aid to prayer or a spur to devotion would be justly regarded as a surrender of principles vindicated at high cost in the Reformation, and dear to the people of this country. On the other hand, it would be a matter of no small concern if any needless restriction or prudery of apprehension should serve to check the generous piety of those who had laboured to restore what the hand of time had defaced; to undo the work of Puritan excess; to repair the ravages of neglect, and enhance the outward beauty of the house of God. It was between these alternative evils that the decisions of the Appellate Court appeared to him to be designed to occupy a safe position. It might be that in some cases the line of severance between the "mere decoration," which was free from harm, and the "superstitious reverence," which was full of peril, might be difficult to draw or uncertain to maintain. He did not think it was so in this case; but if he deceived himself in that belief there remained the obvious reflection that a false step in one direction was likely to be fraught with evils far greater than any that could ensue from an error committed in the other. If sculptured figures or pictures were once set up in our churches and sustained by the law, to which (whether from the natural tendencies and weaknesses of the human mind on this subject, or from the teachings of books, or the promptings of individuals) adoration or superstitious reverence should, contrary to expectation, come to be paid, an irreparable step towards idolatry might prove to have been taken; for the outward object once sanctioned, the inward devotion was beyond the reach of laws. In the opposite direction he could discern no evil comparable to that. The range of decoration and artistic design was practically without a limit, and, in the profusion of choice, the loss by prohibition of any special figures or objects could at no time be more than faintly felt, and could at all times be easily repaired. As the judgment of the court was, on all the charges, in favour of the complainants, the respondent must pay the cost of these proceedings.

ORDINATIONS.

THE Bishop of Bath and Wells purposes to hold an ordination on Trinity Sunday next. His lordship requires from all candidates for priests' or deacons' orders at least three months' notice of their intention to offer themselves for ordination, and also a personal interview with himself or one of his examining chaplains. It is not necessary that candidates should be provided with a title at the time of giving notice. Graduates of Trinity College, Dublin, are required to produce the Divinity Testimonium; Associates of King's College, London, the Theological Certificate; and those who have passed the Preliminary Examination of Candidates for Holy Orders, the certificate of success. Full instructions may be obtained from his lordship's secretary, C. W. Garrod, Esq., Wells, Somerset, to whom all papers must be forwarded at least one month before the day of ordination.

The Bishop of Chester holds an ordination at each of the four Ember seasons in every year. Candidates for ordination should communicate with the bishop or his senior examining chaplain, the Rev. Chancellor Espin, Wallasey Rectory, Birkenhead.

The Bishop of Durham purposes holding his next ordination on Sunday, July 2. His lordship requires from all candidates for holy orders sufficient notice of their intention to present themselves for ordination. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge must produce the certificate of their having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors; those from Dublin, the Divinity Testimonium; and those from Durham, not being graduates, the Licence in Theology. All the necessary papers must be sent six weeks before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, John B. Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

The Bishop of Ely purposes holding his next ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11. His lordship requires from all candidates for deacons' orders three months' notice of their intention to offer themselves for ordination, and also a personal interview. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge must produce the certificate of their having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors. (Such certificate is not required if a candidate shows he has passed the Oxford Theological School or gone out in the Cambridge Theological Tripos.) Candidates for priests' orders are expected to give two months' notice of their intention to the bishop, and the necessary papers from all the candidates must be sent at least one month before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, Harry Wilmot Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

The Bishop of Lichfield purposes to hold his next ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Candidates for deacons' orders should apply before Easter to the Rev. F. Thatcher, The Palace, Lichfield.

The Bishop of Lincoln purposes holding ordinations on Trinity Sunday, and on the Third Sunday in Advent, 1876. Persons who wish to be admitted as candidates for deacons' orders are desired to make a written application to the bishop, three months before the time of ordination; stating their age, college, academical degree, and the usual place of their residence; together with the names of three or more clergymen, or other persons of respectability, to whom they are well known, and to whom the bishop may apply for further information concerning them; and he desires that shortly after the above application candidates should have a personal interview with himself or one of his examining chaplains. All candidates must produce a certificate of baptism. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge must produce certificates of having attended two courses of Public Divinity Lectures. Candidates from Dublin must have the Divinity Testimonium. It being desirable that the literary and intellectual proficiency and qualifications of the several candidates should be duly tested, and also that the solemn season immediately before the ordination should be devoted to special spiritual exercises, the following arrangements are adopted:—An examination of candidates will be held about Easter, and the middle of October before each ordination. Candidates presenting themselves for this examination need not attend for the personal interview mentioned above. Those candidates who have passed "the preliminary examination of candidates for holy orders" within nine months will be excused this examination. On the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, immediately preceding the ordination, all those who have been admitted will be received by the bishop for united devotion, meditation, and communion. At the same time there will be a short examination upon pastoral care, and in scriptural and doctrinal knowledge, and each candidate will deliver a sermon or short thesis of his own composition. Due notice of examinations will be sent by the bishop's secretary. Persons may be admitted candidates, after satisfactory residence and probation at Lincoln, as theological students in attendance upon the Divinity School (Cancellarii Scholæ) and such parochial work under a clergyman as may be assigned to them. To such students the bishop is willing to give admission to his ordination examinations, or to grant them recommendations enabling them to present themselves for the preliminary examination of candidates for holy orders. Lincoln is one of the local centres at which this examination is held.—Persons who have been ordained deacons in this diocese are expected to present themselves as candidates for priests' orders on the same titles, but not before the expiration of a year, and to remain in their curacies another full year from their admission to priests' orders. Persons who have been ordained deacons in other dioceses will not be received as candidates for priests' orders in the diocese of Lincoln, nor will priests be admitted to serve as curates in the diocese till after the expiration of two years from their ordination as deacons; unless the bishop shall be satisfied, upon inquiry, as to the reasons of their leaving the diocese in which they have been so recently ordained.—For further information relative to the subjects of examination, application is to be made to the bishop's examining chaplains, the Rev. Chancellor Benson, D.D., The Chancery, Lincoln; the Rev. Canon Meyrick, Bickling Rectory, Aylsham, Norfolk; or the Rev. Canon Wordsworth, Brasenose College, Oxford. For information with regard to the papers, such as the "Si quis," and testimonials, and other certificates, which are necessary, before admission to examination, and similar matters, application is to be made to the bishop's secretary, Wm. Moss, Esq., Old Palace, Lincoln. For information relative to the facilities afforded for theological study at Lincoln, apply to the Rev. the Chancellor, The Chancery, Lincoln; or the Rev. Canon Crowfoot, Lincoln.

The Bishop of London's next ordination will be held on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Candidates, when accepted by the bishop, are to send their papers, with their addresses, one month before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, John B. The Bishop of Norwich purposes to hold his next general ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11.

The Bishop of Oxford intends to hold ordinations in the parish church of Cuddesdon on Trinity Sunday, June 11, and on Sunday, September 24; also in Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, on St. Thomas's Day, Thursday, December 21. Davenport, Esq., Oxford, to whom the requisite documents must be transmitted one month before the day of ordination. Every candidate for deacons' or priests' orders in the diocese should write to the bishop (at least three months previous to the ordination) for permission to present himself for examination, stating his age, academic degree, and his then present residence. In the case of a candidate for deacons' orders, this application must be accompanied by a reference to three clergymen, to whom the bishop may apply for information respecting him. The bishop will appoint a personal interview, which is absolutely necessary. Candidates, when accepted by his lordship, may obtain full instructions as to the necessary papers on application to the diocesan secretary, H. P. Gates, Esq., Peterborough, to whom they should be sent at least one month previous to the ordination.

The several candidates are requested to send their names to the bishop not later than April 20, as a preliminary examination will be held in May, and the accepted candidates must forward the usual papers to his lordship's secretary, T. Brodric, Esq., Diocesan Registry, Salisbury, not later than May 25.

The Bishop of Winchester purposes holding an ordination on Trinity Sunday, 1876. His lordship requires from all candidates for deacons' orders three months' notice of their intention to offer themselves for ordination, and also a personal interview. Candidates from the University of Oxford or Cambridge must produce the certificate of their having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors. Candidates for priests' orders are expected to give two months' notice of their intention to the bishop, and the necessary papers from all the candidates must be sent at least one month before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, John B. Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.

67 Lincoln's Inn Fields.

TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1876.

The Rev. Dr. CURREY in the chair.

There was a very numerous attendance of members, including the Lord Bishop of Melbourne, Rev. W. G. Humphry, Rev. Canon Harvey, Rev. Canon Miller, D.D., Lieut.-Gen. Sir E. Wilbraham, K.C.B., Rev. H. W. Burney, Rev. B. Belcher, Rev. B. T. West, Rev. Canon Girdlestone, G. J. P. Smith, Esq., and Rev. Bertram Compton. After prayers, the minutes of the last meeting were read.

MONEY GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

KINGSTON, JAMAICA.—The standing committee reminded the meeting that, in February 1874, the society had granted 20*l.* for the enlargement of the church of St. Alban, Santa Cruz Mountains, Jamaica, of which Mr. Woodrow is incumbent. At that time it was stated that increased accommodation would be provided, by the addition of two side wings, at a cost of about 200*l.* for 200 people. A chancel was also to be built by a family in memory of parents.

Previously there was accommodation in 30*l.* The addition was to make up the accommodation to 500*l.* The population of the district is 4000.

The bishop wrote, on January 24, 1876, to say that the building had been rather more than doubled in size; and he offered, on condition of the society increasing its grant from 20*l.* to 35*l.* himself to provide 15*l.*, so as to make up 50*l.* in all.

Another church in Mr. Woodrow's charge has been enlarged by means of local contributions only.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to increase the grant in this case from 20*l.* to 35*l.* as requested.

This grant was made, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions, viz. :—

That previously to the payment of the grant the bishop should have certified that the money of it will lead to the immediate completion of the building, and further that the building is free from all liability for debt, duly insured as Church property for ever, and adequately insured.

The bishop also applied for a grant in aid of the completion of a new church at Annotto Bay.

The government, before disestablishment in 1870, voted 1300*l.* for this church.

The chief landed proprietor, the Hon. Mr. Westmoreland, attempted the erection of a building to which the funds were inadequate. He gave freely the services of his own builder, mules, and horses, his own ship to convey the bricks from England, and in cash 100*l.* All has been well and economically done, so that the outlay has been judged by an experienced builder to be worth 3000*l.*

The church is 90 feet long, without the chancel, by 35 feet wide (inside measure), lofty, and without pillars.

There is needed the sum of 350*l.* to complete it. This sum, or most of it, Mr. Westmoreland would have provided had it not been for severe losses, estimated at 3500*l.*, which he has suffered through a recent hurricane and floods, which buried canes under water so long that they were killed or spoiled. The bishop asked for 100*l.*, promising to make himself responsible for 25*l.*, and hoped that the rest might be begged elsewhere.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 100*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF HURON.—The bishop forwarded, and very strongly recommended, two applications for grants in aid of church-building in his diocese.

1. St. Matthew's Church, in the Mission of Teeswater.—The Rev. John Barrett, the missionary, stated that the church would cost in all $600; that $400 had been raised on the spot, and that a little more might yet be raised.

The church, which is a frame building, will accommodate 150 persons. There are about twenty families in the neighbourhood, and about eighty persons attend divine worship.

The site is invested in the bishop and properly secured.

The people commenced in the bush, and are generally poor. The farmers are still engaged in clearing their land.

The mission is the most extensive in the diocese, having several stations; but no station is more deserving of help than the one for which the present application is made.

The people have made, and are making, every effort to build their church. They also contribute liberally to their clergyman's stipend.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 10*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

2. Parish of Auburn.—In this case the people, who are farmers, only few of whom have completed the purchase of their farms, about two years ago built a brick church, capable of containing 200 persons, for themselves without any assistance. When the roof was on and the church ready for plastering, a violent gale blew in the west gable and carried away the roof; and, if the repairs now contemplated be not carried out at once, the whole will go to ruin.

The population is only 150.

Eleven hundred dollars have been expended. Seven hundred dollars are now wanted to restore and complete the building. The people are quite unable to supply all that is required, though Mr. Bland, the clergyman of the parish, feels sure that they will contribute one-half.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF TORONTO.—The bishop forwarded on one of the society's forms, duly countersigned by himself, an application from the Rev. Wm. Clarke, missionary of Alliston and the adjacent parts, for a grant, in aid of building a new church, St. Andrew's, in his mission.

The estimated cost, with fittings, is $1340, or about 268*l.* A little more than 200*l.* have been omitted in payments, which are to be spread over two years. The church, which is to be of wood, cased with brick, will accommodate 170 persons.

The property will be vested in the synod of the diocese.

The population consists of a few struggling farmers, close to the village, and in the village of few poor Church people, about eighty in number, but rapidly increasing; they have done, and are doing, their utmost to raise a church. The church is to be the centre of a new mission, established by the mission board.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 20*l.* in this case, subject to the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF GUYANA.—The Rev. W. T. Veness, spiritual chaplain and officiating minister at St. Sidwell's, "The Lodge," applied, with the strong recommendation of the bishop, for a grant in aid of erecting a school at "The Lodge," which is a village in the vicinity of Georgetown, Amerasia, containing at the last census (1871) 38 inhabitants.

The whole of these, with the exception of two or three Portuguese shopkeepers, with a few free coolies, and Negro mechanics and labourers.

The only school, except one held in an Independent chapel, is one belonging to the Church of England, which most of the children attend, held in the basement of a house—29 feet by 24 feet and 8 feet high—and wretchedly out of repair.

It is proposed to purchase a central site, and to build a school-house, and it is hoped that the government will give half the cost of erecting it; but the people are quite unable without help to furnish the rest of what will be required, or $1200.

The only alternative will be the using the church as a school; besides other objections to this plan the church is not well situated for the purposes of a school.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for the completion of the proposed school, subject to the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.—The bishop forwarded, and very strongly recommended, an application from the Rev. J. Xavier Willemar, missionary clergyman at Comox, for a grant in aid of building a wooden church to accommodate about 100 persons.

The proposed church, when finished, will cost about 240*l.*; but it is proposed at first to build only a part, at an outlay of 150*l.* Towards this amount 70*l.* have been either paid or promised on the spot, and about 20*l.* more are expected; and it is hoped that about 30*l.* may be given in Victoria, the capital of the province.

The population of the Comox district is about 300, and, owing to the recent opening of coal mines, is rapidly increasing; so that, by the end of next year, it is thought there will be 500.

The site is vested in the bishop.

The people are small farmers, in early stages of settlement, who are still paying off debts incurred upon opening up farming operations. About one-half are Church people, the rest Presbyterians, but all are anxious to have a church built, and are doing their utmost to get one. The building now in use for divine service is built of logs, the bottom ones being quite rotten, so that the whole building is continually settling down and is by no means proof against weather, and is past repair.

There is no other church in the Comox district, and no clergyman besides Mr. Willemar; neither is there either clergyman or place of worship within forty miles.

The bishop wrote as follows:—

"The application of the Rev. Xavier Willemar for a grant for the erection of a church at Comox has my very hearty recommendation.

"The settlement is increasing in population, and promises to be important as an agricultural and mining district. It is situated on Vancouver, about 120 miles north of Victoria. The people are poor, and very little can be obtained for this object elsewhere in the province."

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 25*l.* for the completion of the first portion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF MAURITIUS.—The bishop forwarded, and strongly recommended, an application for a grant in aid of the completion of a mission chapel—"Holy Trinity"—in the parish of St. Thomas, of which the Rev. H. D. Buswell is the incumbent.

The building is nearly finished, and is in use, but it has yet to be painted and fitted up.

The total estimated cost is 265*l.*; 242*l.* have been expended, but of this sum 100*l.* have been advanced by the bishop in order that the work might go on during the limited time in which, owing to climate, &c., building operations can go on in Mauritius.

Thus there is a deficiency of 125*l.*; the rest has been raised on the spot; the site having been given by government. The building will accommodate from 80 to 100 persons; it is partly of iron, partly of wood—the latter being a necessary addition for protection against hurricanes.

The church is meant to serve both police and railway employes, and for the Indians for an area of many miles round.

The site and building are vested in the board of church commissioners, of whom the bishop is one.

The people are generally poor and of the classes described above: "mingled among the heathen," married to Roman Catholic Creole wives, and specially needing the pastoral care of the Church. They are doing what they can for this undertaking, which, when once commenced by the incumbent (the Rev. H. D. Buswell, at present in England), had to be speedily completed, on account of the seasons.

The colonial resources have been very sadly curtailed by a year of unprecedented commercial depression following prolonged drought, the sequence of the hurricane of 1874.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee to grant 35*l.* for the completion of the church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF NOVA SCOTIA.—The following application was made by the Rev. D. Smith, assistant curate, and supported by Dr. Uniacke, the rector of St. George's parish, Cape Breton.

The application is for a new district church, to replace an old one, on the north-west arm of Sydney Harbour, Cape Breton.

This is a third church in the parish of St. George. The old church was built sixty years ago, was quite past repair, and about fifteen months ago it was unanimously resolved by the people of the district that it would be mistaken policy to attempt to patch up the old building, and that efforts should be at once made to build a new church, estimated to seat 180 persons.

The people are all poor, but can most of them turn their hands to many occupations, and during the winter months they have given their labour and have erected the frame, which would, it is estimated, have cost about 260*l.*, though not quite 50*l.* in money has been raised.

The further outlay required is estimated at 150*l.*; but much of this, e.g. the plastering of the walls, will be given in free labour; aid is asked towards the purchase of windows and the finishing of the interior, which will call for more skilful labourers than are to be found among the resident Church people.

The people, with very few exceptions, have exerted themselves in a most praiseworthy manner; and Mr. Smith says that the progress made has surpassed his most sanguine expectations.

Last year the great depression of the coal trade, upon which the prosperity of the islands depends, greatly crippled the people, though at the same time it left many unoccupied who bestowed their labour on the church.

The bishop wrote as follows:—

"The poverty in Cape Breton Island is deeply and widely extended, owing to the closing of the coal mines in addition to the general depression, and I heartily recommend the application of Mr. Smith, who was a student of St. Augustine's."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, who viewed this as an exceptional case, to grant 30*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF DUNEDIN.—Archdeacon Edwards, writing from St. Paul's Parsonage, Dunedin, on January 12, 1876, in the absence of the bishop, forwarded and recommended a petition for a grant towards a new church at Winton, Otago, New Zealand.

The petition was signed by eighteen of the inhabitants of Winton, and stated that the bishop had recently licensed Mr. T. J. White as lay reader among them; that at present divine service is held in a hired building which is not by any means suitable for permanent occupation.

The petitioners, who are small tradesmen, have collected 150*l.* towards building a church, and in addition they have a capital site of half an acre, which was given some years ago to trustees for Church purposes.

It is proposed to build a church which will accommodate about 120 persons, at a cost of about 400*l.* The local resources are quite insufficient to enable the petitioners to raise the whole of the required sum; they therefore beg for a grant.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for this case, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

GRANTS OF BOOKS, &c., RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

Numerous book grants, special and ordinary, were agreed to.

DIOCESE OF WINCHESTER.—Archdeaconry of Surrey.—The Rev. J. W. Gedge, diocesan inspector, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 20*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the educational board of the archdeaconry, the whole of the books to be given to pupil teachers who shall be placed in a first class in an examination in religious knowledge to be held on March 18 at various centres. About 550 pupil teachers will be examined.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as requested.

DIOCESE OF WORCESTER.—The Rev. E. J. Houghton applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 20*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the diocesan boards of Worcester and Coventry, the whole of the books to be given to pupil teachers placed in a first class after a simultaneous examination in religious knowledge. The number of pupil teachers examined was 532, the number of those placed in the first class was 84.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant S.P.C.K. books, at a charge upon the society of 20*l.*, to meet an equal cash outlay in books on the part of the diocesan boards.

DIOCESE OF ELY.—Archdeaconry of Bedford.—The Rev. J. W. Haddock applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 4*l.* 4*s.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the educational board of the archdeaconry, the whole of the books to be given as prizes for religious knowledge to those pupil teachers who were placed in a first class in an examination recently held. The number examined was 247, of whom 34 were placed in the first class.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as requested.

DIOCESE OF LICHFIELD.—Canon Lonsdale applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 5*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the educational board of the archdeaconry of Stafford, the whole of the books to be given as prizes to children from elementary schools who shall be placed in a first class after a central examination in religious knowledge. The number to be examined is estimated at from 700 to 800.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as requested.

DIOCESE OF GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL.—Cheltenham Training College.—The Rev. R. M. Chamney, principal, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 10*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the committee of the college, the whole of the books to be given as prizes to those of the students who shall gain a first class in an examination in religious knowledge in October next.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as requested.

DIOCESE OF MANCHESTER.—Mission Tracts.—The standing committee reported that a mission was about to be held in Manchester, and that the secretaries of the mission, the Rev. J. A. Atkinson and T. M. Macdonald, had applied for a grant of tracts and other mission literature for use before and during the mission.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to offer 100*l.* of tracts, &c., at half members' prices. The members' prices of the tracts would be 75*l.* Of this sum 37*l.* 10*s.* would be paid as purchase money, and 37*l.* 10*s.* would be charged as a grant.

MISSION HOME AND CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION FOR YOUNG ENGLISH WOMEN IN PARIS.—Miss Leigh, hon. secretary of this association, applied for a grant of 100 prayer books, and 100 copies of church hymns, and two copies of church hymns with tunes, together 8*l.* 14*s.* 8*d.* Miss Leigh would also be much obliged for a grant of books for a library for the home.

This home was opened at 77 Avenue Wagram, in December 1872, with twelve beds, with a view to furnish an asylum to young English women. Each bed was occupied in five days. The home was gradually enlarged to accommodate thirty-six persons, and was still insufficient. Now the premises, hitherto rented, have been purchased at a cost of 10,000*l.*; the home is completely paid for and furnished for eighty-four inmates, besides a crèche and soup kitchen; and in connection with the home there is a Young Women's Christian Association at 88 Faubourg St. Honoré, which is rented. The formal opening of the home was to have taken place on March 4, but has been postponed owing to the death of Miss Leigh's father. The Rev. Dr. Forbes is one of the visiting clergymen, and the Rev. C. D. Marston, of 25 Onslow Gardens, S.W., is a treasurer.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant the prayer books and hymn books as asked for, and to grant in addition 10*l.* worth of miscellaneous books.

DIOCESE OF ALGOMA.—The Rev. Edwin Cooper, now in this country, incumbent of Mary's Lake Mission, district of Muskoka, in this diocese, applied for a grant of books for mission work at Port Sydney. The mission is composed of three townships, each sixty-eight square miles in extent, and with but one clergyman. Five stations where services are held have been opened.

Mr. Cooper is in want of books for library purposes, also of Bibles, tracts, &c., for distribution; he has indicated, on one of the society's catalogues, books to the value of 25*l.*, which he would be most thankful to receive.

Mr. Cooper had been introduced by the Rev. Dr. Huntingford, of Grafton House, Wimbledon, a member of the society, to whom Mr. Cooper had been commended by the Bishop of Algoma, who is a personal friend of Dr. Huntingford.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant books to the value of 25*l.*

THE SPANISH AND PORTUGUESE CHURCH MISSIONS.—The Rev. L. S. Tugwell, secretary of this society, applied for a grant of 500 Spanish prayer books, at a cost of 18*l.* 15*s.*; he also applied for a grant of maps for use in schools. The society has fifty-three missionary agents, and upwards of twelve schools in Spain and Portugal, and there appear to be great openings for giving scriptural instruction and for spreading a knowledge of the doctrines of the Church of England.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant the prayer books as applied for, and in addition maps to the value of 10*l.*, to be selected by Mr. Tugwell.

DIOCESE OF MAURITIUS.—The bishop applied for a grant of service books for "Holy Trinity" Mission Chapel, a new place of worship in his diocese.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant a set of 8vo books.

DIOCESE OF DUNEDIN.—Archdeacon Edwards recommended an application from the residents at Winton, Otago, for a grant of service books for their new church, now in course of erection, and for a grant of Bibles and prayer books and general Sunday school books. The attendance expected is about forty.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 5*l.* worth of Bibles, prayer books, &c., for the Sunday school, and in addition a set of 8vo service books.

GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE, OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

DIOCESE OF MELBOURNE.—In accordance with notice given at the last meeting, and for reasons set forth at length in the last monthly report, the standing committee proposed that the sum of 2000*l.* be voted in aid of the Clergy Stipend Endowment Fund of the diocese of Melbourne, to meet four times the amount, or 8000*l.* from other sources,—this sum of 8000*l.* to be exclusive of the expected grant of 1000*l.* from S.P.C.K. exclusive also of the 4000*l.* to be raised to meet it; so that if the bishop succeeds, as he hopes, he will raise in all a capital sum of 12,000*l.* by the help of S.P.C.K. and S.P.G.

The society's grant to be paid in two instalments of 1000*l.* each, to meet 4000*l.*, subject to the whole being claimed within five years, and subject also to the investment of the whole amount being satisfactory to the standing committee.

This resolution was carried.

DIOCESE OF CALCUTTA.—Also in accordance with notice given at the last meeting, and for reasons set forth at length in the last monthly report, the standing committee proposed a grant of 500*l.*, to meet 1500*l.* from other sources, for the purpose of renewing and developing the school at Darjeeling in the manner proposed.

This grant was made.

REPORTS AND NOTICES FROM THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.—The standing committee reported that, in accordance with rule xiv. they had, at their first meeting after the February monthly general meeting, appointed five members of their body to form, with the treasurer, the finance committee for the ensuing year; and in accordance with the same rule, they reported that Mr. E. Capel Cure, Mr. Cummins, Mr. Evans, Canon Miller, and Mr. Wade were the gentlemen whom they had appointed, being the same as those who had served during the previous twelve months.

APPOINTMENT OF AUDITORS.—The standing committee reminded the meeting that by rule xlv., auditors should be appointed at this meeting, who should examine the society's accounts, with a view to reporting thereon at the general meeting in June.

The committee added that the auditors appointed last year were Mr. Cameron, Mr. Hillhouse, Mr. Jeffreys, Mr. Francis Russell, and Mr. Philip Vernon Smith; that of these, Mr. Cameron, who had left the neighbourhood of London, had been unable to serve last year.

It was agreed to request Mr. Hillhouse, Mr. Jeffreys, Mr. F. Russell, and Mr. P. V. Smith to act as auditors again, and further to ask Mr. H. Norris, of 43 Lincoln's Inn Fields, to act also.

INCREASE OF THE HOME EPISCOPATE.—The standing committee reported that the memorial to the First Lord of the Treasury on this subject.

which had been adopted at the last meeting, had been sent to the Prime Minister; but that it had not been signed by the archbishop, as president of the society, because his grace was, at the time the memorial had to be presented, just about to take part in a conference on the subject (which conference was held at the National Society's House on February 10).

The committee added that, with the consent of the archbishop, since it was important that the memorial should be presented without delay, the secretary had signed the memorial, and had forwarded it to Mr. Dismeli, who had caused the receipt of it to be acknowledged.

DIOCESE OF CHRIST CHURCH, NEW ZEALAND.—The standing committee report that B. A. Heywood, Esq., who, with his family, is interesting himself to provide and support a clergyman at a new station in this diocese, and who was acting in compliance with a request from the bishop, had applied for a grant from Canning's Fund for the passage to New Zealand of the Rev. Robert Pargiter, formerly a C.M.S. missionary in Ceylon, and now about to undertake mission work amongst the scattered settlers in the district of Fernside, near Rangoria, Canterbury.

The committee added that they had agreed to pay the passage of Mr. Pargiter at a cost of 45*l*.

DIOCESE OF NEWCASTLE.—The standing committee reported that the Rev. Dr. Currey, as commissary in England for the bishop of this diocese, had applied for a grant from Canning's Fund in aid of the passage of the Rev. W. Gordon Crieves to Newcastle, Australia.

The cost of the passage is 50*l*.

The committee added that they had agreed to grant 50*l*. in this case from Canning's Fund.

DIOCESE OF LONDON.—St. Stephen's, Poplar.—The standing committee reported that the Rev. Robert J. Elliott, the incumbent of this parish, had applied to them for a grant to enable him to build a mission room and Sunday school in his parish at an estimated outlay of about 750*l*.; that Bishop Claughton, as Archdeacon of London, had recommended the case, and that Mr. Elliott had expressed his willingness to conform to the general conditions as stated in the monthly report for July 1875.

The committee added that they had reserved 100*l*. for this case out of the money placed at their disposal for Sunday school purposes.

FREE DISTRIBUTION OF TRACTS.—The standing committee reported that during the last two years, viz. 1874 and 1875, a copy of every new tract had been sent gratuitously to every clerical member of the society. That the cost of doing this in the former of the two years had been 374*l*. 10*s*.; and in the latter of the two 452*l*.

The committee added that, after having consulted the tract committee, they had agreed to continue the plan on trial for the current year.

PRIZES FOR STUDENTS ENTERING TRAINING COLLEGES.

In reference to the grant of 200*l*. made by the society at their last monthly meeting for this purpose, in the expectation that the National Society would set apart an equal sum, the standing committee submitted the following letter from the secretary of that society:—

"National Society's Office, Sanctuary, Westminster,
February 3, 1876.

"DEAR SIR,—I am happy to inform you that the committee of the National Society allow a sum not exceeding 200*l*. to be appropriated towards their share of the cost of pupil teachers' prizes next year.

"The last number of the School Guardian, which I send along with this letter, contains a list of the pupil teachers examined at Christmas, arranged in classes.

"You will see exactly how many are in the first class. Not all, however, who are in the first class will actually enter the colleges, so that, I fear, some communication with the respective principals would be necessary.

"Very truly yours,

"J. DUNCAN, Secretary.

"The Rev. Henry Swabey."

BRISTOL CATHEDRAL COLLEGE.—The standing committee reported that Canon Norris had made application for payment of the first instalment of the society's grant at the rate of 20*l*. a year for two years for each of eight students preparing to act as masters of middle class schools;—that Canon Norris had given the names and ages of the exhibitors as follows:—

1. Buncombe, William Pengelly, age 19. . Boarder.
2. Dumble, James John, age 17. . . . .
3. Pemberton, William Aubrey, age 18. . . . .
4. Sleeman, Walter Shuttleworth, age 16. 11 m. . . . .
5. Macleis, Ellis Charles, age 16. 10 months. . . . .
6. Boulden, Frederick, age 22. . . . .
7. Manns, Frederick William, age 19. . . Day Student.
8. Fraeger, Alfred Campbell, age 17. . . . .

The committee had pointed out to Canon Norris, referring him to the correspondence of November last, that they were sure the society had no intention of aiding non-resident students.

Canon Norris admitted that he had hoped that all the students would be resident, but that the two non-resident students had done so well in examination, and were unable to afford the cost of residing, that he had felt justified (in the absence of a distinct stipulation to the contrary) to admit them as exhibitors.

The committee stated that they felt that the utmost the society could do would be to offer to pay at the rate of one-half in the case of the two non-resident students, reserving the full payment for the six who reside.

Canon Norris had agreed to this offer, which was approved.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING OF PUPIL TEACHERS IN LONDON.—The standing committee reported that, having in view the great importance of the religious training of those who were to become the future masters and mistresses of our public elementary schools, they had recently appointed a sub-committee of their body—

"To consider, in consultation with the inspectors of the London Diocesan Board of Education, what steps can be taken to promote the religious training of pupil teachers in London."

The standing committee further stated that they had received a report from their sub-committee, and that on February 28, when the bishop of London was present and gave his approval, they had adopted the report, which is as follows:—

"Our sub-committee report that they have ascertained that there were, on September 29 last, upwards of 1700 pupil teachers and candidates in board schools in London.

"That 1423 pupil teachers, or candidates from Church schools in the diocese of London, presented themselves on the last occasion for the annual diocesan examination.

"That as regards the former set of pupil teachers, &c., many of whom are no doubt children of Church people and looking forward to enter Church training colleges, there is no sufficient provision for their satisfactory instruction in Biblical knowledge, and none whatever for their instruction in definite Church principles.

"That as regards the latter set, it is probable that, in many cases, the clergy would gladly avail themselves of central classes for the religious instruction of their pupil teachers preparatory to the annual diocesan examination, and the examination on admission to Church training colleges.

"That it is very desirable to attempt to form classes at different centres for the instruction of pupil teachers in Scriptural and Church teaching.

"That the teaching should be so systematised as to assist pupil teachers in preparing for the annual diocesan examination, and for the examination in religious knowledge previous to admission to Church training colleges.

"That the society should set apart a sum of money, say, 500*l*. for one year, for the purpose of remunerating, when necessary, the teachers of the proposed classes, providing prizes, and of meeting other necessary expenses, and that it should be understood that further sums will be required should the plan prove a success.

"That before any scheme on this subject be finally adopted, the bishop of the diocese should be consulted and his approval sought."

The standing committee gave notice that at the next monthly general meeting, to be held on Tuesday, 4th of April, they would propose that 500*l*. be placed at their disposal, to enable them to carry out the recommendations of this report.

DECISION OF THE EPISCOPAL REFEREES ON TRACT 1763.—The standing committee reported that the written statement of objections to tract 1763, handed in at the last monthly general meeting, had been duly submitted, in accordance with rule xxxiv., to the episcopal referees, who, having altered certain portions of the tract which they considered likely to be misunderstood, agreed to the publication of the tract in the form in which it is now submitted to the board.

Further, that the tract, thus altered, had since been submitted to the author and the tract committee, who had accepted the changes made therein.

MOTIONS OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

Instruction to the Tract Committee.

In accordance with notice given at the last meeting, Canon Girdlestone proposed—

Mr. G. J. Philip Smith seconded this resolution.

Mr. Humphry moved the previous question in the following terms:—

"That Canon Girdlestone's motion, the question, be now put."

This motion was upon division, the numbers being 16 to 53, lost. Canon Girdlestone's motion was therefore not put.

Rule X. Letters and Papers, and Decision of Episcopal Referees.

In accordance with notice given at the previous meeting, Mr. P. V. Smith moved the two following resolutions, to which he had prefixed the accompanying preamble—

"That whereas by rule x. a general meeting can give its permission to a copy being taken of any minute of the proceedings of the society, or of any letter or paper sent to the society:

"Resolved:

"(1). That a general meeting has power, in the course of its business, to call for any minute of the proceedings of the society, and any letter or paper sent to the society to be read at the meeting.

"(2). That the decision of the Episcopal Referees on a written statement of objections to books or tracts referred to them, together with such written statement, is a paper sent to the society within the meaning of the preceding resolution."

Seconded by Mr. G. J. Philip Smith.

Dr. Miller proposed an amendment:

"(1). That a general meeting has power, in the course of its business, to call for any minute of the proceedings of the society, and any letter or paper sent to the society not of a confidential nature to be read at the meeting.

"(2). That the substance of a decision of the Episcopal Referees on a written statement of objections to books or tracts referred to them, together with such written statement, is a paper sent to the society within the meaning of the preceding resolution; but that any correspondence in reference thereto is of a confidential nature."

The amendment was seconded by Mr. Humphry, and lost.

The Bishop of Melbourne then proposed the previous question in the following terms:—

"That Mr. Smith's motion be now put."

This motion was lost; Mr. Smith's motion was therefore not put.

Objections made to certain Publications of the Tract Committee in May 1875.

In accordance with notice given at the last meeting, Mr. Wm. Harris proposed:—

"That the statement of objections to the publications of the tract committee mentioned or referred to in the report for the month of May 1875 be printed in the monthly report for the month of March 1876."

Seconded by Mr. G. J. Philip Smith.

The motion was lost.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR APRIL MEETING.

The Rev. Charles Miller, vicar of Harlow, gave notice that at the next monthly general meeting he should move:—

"That the society be requested to consider the best means of promoting in action the principles of Her Majesty's proclamations against vice."

LETTERS OF THANKS, &c.

"St. Andrew's Waterside Church Mission, Gravesend, February 22, 1876.

"DEAR SIR,—I refrained from sending thanks for the very valuable grant made to this mission until I could lay the subject before the committee, that they might have the satisfaction of doing so, and I have now pleasure in sending extract from the minutes. I also send memo of the books we desire. You will observe that I divide the apportionment into three:

"One for Gravesend, to supply this and foreign stations;

"One for Millwall Docks;

"One for Victoria Docks.

"The selection of books from the catalogue C for this station I enclose. The amount from catalogue C for Victoria and Millwall Docks respectively will be forwarded by the clergy there. I may state that Millwall Docks station includes South West India Docks, and East and West India Docks. And it is now difficult to say where the limits of Gravesend station end, for we are supplying so many foreign ports. Instead of the list, I have sent marked catalogue, and a condensed memo, to Mr. Burt. Again thanking you for this great help to our work,

"I am, &c.

"JOHN SCARTH.

"Extract from Minutes.

"That the honorary secretary be requested to communicate to the committee of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge the sincere thanks of this committee for the continued support given to the St. Andrew's Waterside Church Mission, and especially for the grant of 150*l.*, value of books, for the mission stations.

"JOHN SCARTH.

"Hon. Secretary.

"To the Sec. S.P.C.K."

MISSION TO SEAMEN SOCIETY.—The following letter of thanks had been received since the last meeting:—

"11 Buckingham Street, Strand, W.C., February 9, 1876.

"MY DEAR SIR,—I am directed by the committee of the Missions to Seamen Society to convey their hearty thanks to the committee of the S.P.C.K. for the very liberal grant of 10,000 copies of tract No. 1178, made to our clerical superintendent for the use of seamen on ship-board.

"With reference to previous liberal grants, and especially to the large gifts of prayer books and hymn books, and to the suggestions so kindly made as to appealing for disused copies to the general public, I cannot sufficiently express our deep debt of gratitude for the great assistance thus rendered in our determined endeavours to promote the practice of holding divine services on shipboard when at sea. By these means, our 46 chaplains and readers have been enabled to second their persuasions by gifts of upwards 30,000 prayer and hymn books, during last year, to officers and crews. Lithographed letters and printed appeals on public worship at sea were given to the captains and officers, so that it is hoped that a fair proportion of this circulation has been brought into active use; whilst a conviction has been promoted that divine worship is the right thing, and desecration of the Lord's day the wrong thing on shipboard. I hope that the good start which you have thus given us in the right direction may be maintained, and that, at no distant day, we may be able to substitute sales of prayer books for gifts. Meanwhile, accept our heartfelt thanks for this and all your valuable and valued aid.

"Yours, &c.

"WILLIAM DAWSON,

"Commander, R.N., and Secretary.

"The Rev. H. Swabey, M.A., S.P.C.K."

DIocese of BRITISH COLUMBIA.—The following letter had been received from the bishop:—

"Bishopsclose, Victoria, British Columbia, January 4, 1876.

"MY DEAR SIR,—I have much pleasure in forwarding to you the following resolution adopted at a meeting of the first synod of this diocese, held last month:—

"That a vote of thanks from the synod of the diocese of British Columbia be forwarded by the bishop of the diocese in the name of this synod to the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge for the liberal and long continued help which the society has afforded to the Church missions of this diocese."

"Moved by Dean Gilson, seconded by W. C. Ward, Esq., treasurer of the diocese, and carried unanimously.

"I need not say how warmly and how gratefully I join in the sentiment of that resolution.

"I am, &c.

"G. COLUMBIA.

"Rev. H. Swabey, Sec. to S.P.C.K."

DIocese of CALCUTTA.—The following letter had been received from the Rev. Robert Clarke, in reference to the grant of coloured pictures, &c., to the value of 292*l.*, made by the society in December 1875, on the application of the Bishop of Durham and the Rev. F. H. Baring:—

"Umritar, Punjab,

"February 3, 1876.

"MY DEAR SIR,—I have much pleasure in writing on behalf of the Rev. F. H. Baring, to thank your society most truly for the very valuable grant of pictures from Bible pictures and stories which your committee have made to us. Mr. Baring, I regret to say, has been very ill, and has already left us for England, and it is on this account that he is not able to write to you himself. I leave, also, for England in three days' time, and hope to overtake Mr. Baring before he arrives at Bombay; and we both of us much desire to wait on you some time during the summer, both to thank you for this great help; and, also, if you will allow us, to refer to the present great wants of North India, as far as vernacular literature is concerned. I have much pleasure in sending you by this mail two copies of the Punjab Religious Book Society's report, which will show you what is being done and attempted in this province. Your grant of the 2000 pictures (with one cover for every set of four pictures) will be a most valuable addition to our present stock, when our translations, which already are in hand, are made, and are bound up together with the pictures. One thousand copies of the translations will be printed in Urdu and 1000 in Punjabi. Our bishop, who is also coming to England this spring, has kindly promised to confer with you respecting our work in the Punjab.

"I hope to send you by next month's mail a copy of a Commentary on St. Matthew which has been just printed in Urdu, which will serve as a specimen of the kind of books which we are trying to obtain for North India.

"Believe me, &c.

"ROBERT CLARKE, Sec.

"Rev. H. Swabey, Sec. S.P.C.K."

7. The secretary read a letter from the House of Bishops of the American Church, proposing a change in the day fixed for observance as a day of intercession for foreign missions, and it was resolved:—

“That, while the society desires that the proposal to change the day of intercession be discussed and finally settled by some general conference of bishops of the whole Anglican Communion, it approves generally of the suggestion of the House of Bishops in America, and would also express a hope that some one day in the Ember Week in Lent, not Monday or Saturday, be fixed on; and that the society respectfully asks the Archbishop to communicate the letter of the American bishops, together with the foregoing resolution, to the Houses of Convocation, by whom the day of intercession was chosen.”

8. The Rev. E. Baksh, and Rev. F. B. Plummer were accepted for missionary work, and Mr. Harrook, of Jesus College, Cambridge, and Mr. Bamford, of Trinity College, Cambridge, were auctioned as missionary exhibitors.

10. The secretary, on the behalf of the standing committee, presented the following report on the resolution of Rev. S. Arnott, and it was resolved:—

“That the bishops whose dioceses receive a grant from the society be requested to urge upon the clergy of their dioceses, and especially those assisted by the society's funds, to preach upon the society's work on one Sunday in each year, and, when practicable, to have an offertory in aid of the society's funds.”

11. Mr. Pulman moved in accordance with notice given at the last meeting:—

“That a correct copy of the charter of incorporation of the society, of the bylaws, and of the standing orders of the society, be annexed as an appendix to the annual report for the year 1876.” But the motion was not seconded.

12. The standing orders having been suspended on the proposal of Rev. Dr. Currey, it was resolved that all matters still on the agenda paper be taken into consideration before the next proposition of Mr. Pulman.

13. Resolved, in accordance with the advice of the Bishop of Capetown, that the sum of 600*l.* in the hands of the society's treasurers, and at the disposal of the society as a memorial to the late Bishop Gray, be added to moneys raised in the province, and amounting to about 1000*l.*, and be vested as the “Bishop Gray Memorial Clergy Sustentation Fund.”

14. Resolved, in accordance with a request from Bishop Kestell-Cornish, that a sum not exceeding 1*l.* out of the society's grant for Madagascar be allowed to Mr. Crotty, Schoolmaster, at Antananarivo.

The motion was not seconded.

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

GENERAL COMMITTEE, JANUARY 10.—The secretaries having referred to the death of Lord Fitzwalter, a vice-president of the society, and for more than thirty years the president of the East Kent Church Missionary Association, in which office he succeeded to his father before him, and having also referred to his firm attachment to the Scriptural and Protestant principles of the society, and to the interest manifested by him in its work, the committee desired to place on record their high esteem for the character of the late Lord Fitzwalter, and their sense of the loss sustained both by the society and by the Church of England at large by his removal.

A letter having been read from the secretary of the Manchester Association, reporting that at the last meeting of their committee it was resolved “that it be suggested to the committee of the Church Missionary Society to supply their reports and other publications to the free libraries throughout the kingdom, or to recommend the local committees to do so if they cannot undertake it themselves,” the committee accepted the suggestion, and requested the secretaries to make arrangements for the supply of the society's publications to those free libraries willing to receive them, as an experiment for one year.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, JANUARY 25.

—Lieutenant G. S. Smith, R.N., Mr. A. M. Mackay, civil engineer, and Mr. G. J. Clarke, contractors' engineer, who had offered themselves for the Victoria Nyanza Mission, were nominated to the committee as missionaries of the society—the question of their exact location being deferred until the sub-committee had further reported on the steps to be taken in carrying out the undertaking.

The secretaries having presented a copy of a work by the lay secretary, entitled “The Victoria Nyanza, a Field for Missionary Enterprise,” and having stated that it contained a valuable résumé of the results of exploration in that region, and was calculated to awaken intelligent interest in the new mission, the committee directed that 250 copies be purchased, and a copy sent to each of the association secretaries and other friends of the society.

Letters were read from the Rev. W. S. Price, dated Mombasa, December 2, reporting that the state of his health was such that the committee must not reckon on his remaining at Mombasa longer than September next, and urging that an experienced missionary should be sent at the earliest opportunity, who might become initiated into the work and be able to take his place when he would be obliged to leave. The secretaries stated that the Rev. J. A. Lamb, who went out to West Africa in 1861, and who, during a visit home in 1872, had accepted the living of Nether Hoyland, Yorkshire, on the understanding that in the event of the society having any special post vacant for which he was thought qualified, he would be prepared to respond to the call; and stated further that they believed Mr. and Mrs. Lamb would be prepared to go forth to Mombasa on the request of the committee, and that their past experience and Christian devotedness would enable them to do good service at Mombasa, especially in connection with the settlement at Frere Town. The committee resolved that the Rev. J. A. Lamb be invited to proceed to Mombasa, with the view of undertaking the office of corresponding secretary, and, as far as might be found expedient, to superintend the work of the society there whenever it should be found necessary for Mr. Price to return home.

The secretaries laid on the table a statement by Sir William Muir in reference to his recent visit to the Santhal mission, stating that what he saw and heard on his visit was quite enough to convince him that a wide door was opened, that the favourable disposition towards Christianity was quite general, and that the work was a real and extending work; urging upon the Church Missionary Society the immediate call upon it to increase the stations and agency all over the Santhal pergunnahs; and stating further that, so strongly did he himself feel the obligation resting on the mission to extend its operations, he would be glad to contribute 1000 rupees for every new station opened. The committee could not receive this testimony from Sir William Muir with regard to the blessing which seemed to be resting on the Santhal mission without fervently thanking God for the encouragement it afforded the friends of the society in this work of making known the Gospel of Christ; and they also thanked Sir William Muir for the valuable statement and his generous offer, and assured him and the Calcutta corresponding committee that they felt the obligation resting upon them to extend operations in so promising a field, and were prepared to do all in their power to fulfil it.

SPECIAL GENERAL COMMITTEE, FEBRUARY 1.—

The report of the Victoria Nyanza sub-committee was read, recommending the establishment of a mission station in the Usagara country, and the exploration of the river Wami, with a view of ascertaining whether Usagara was accessible by water; recommending further, for the purpose of carrying out these objects, that Lieutenant G. S. Smith and Mr. Clarke should proceed to Mombasa at the earliest opportunity, and also that a third member of the mission party should proceed to Zanzibar to make, in conjunction with Mr. Price, the necessary purchases and other arrangements with a view to the mission party leaving Zanzibar for the interior as soon as circumstances might permit. The recommendations of the sub-committee were adopted by the committee, and the committee of correspondence were authorised to consider and act upon the report of the sub-committee so far as their recommendations might fall within the province of that committee.

A letter was read from the Rev. E. Garbett, Hon. Canon of Winchester Cathedral, and Incumbent of Christ Church, Surbiton, consenting to preach the anniversary sermon of the society.

A letter having been read from Mr. Henry Richmond, calling attention to an article in the Sunday Magazine, entitled “Christianity in Morocco,” by Captain Barrington, R.A., recommending that missionary operations should be commenced among the Jews in Morocco in view of eventually reaching the Moslems, the committee, considering that in Morocco the door to the Mohammedans was almost closed, felt that the Lord had not called them at present to undertake missionary work there.

Letters having been read from Dr. Koelle and from the Rev. J. Zeller, referring to the uneasy feeling of the Christian population in Turkey, lest there should be an outbreak of Mohammedan fanaticism, the committee, on the recommendation of Lord Chichester, the president, resolved that a representation on the subject should be made to the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, FEBRUARY 1.—

A letter was read from the Rev. J. D. Simons, dated Chundicully, Ceylon, stating that the leading native Christians of Chundicully having undertaken voluntarily to discharge the duties hitherto performed by catechists, and having pledged themselves that the native Christian contributions should be largely increased, the grant to the native church might now be diminished; and asking that the money thus saved to the society, together with an additional sum (if necessary) of 100 rupees per annum, might be devoted to evangelistic work. The committee heard with satisfaction of the increased zeal and liberality of the native Christians of Chundicully, and cheerfully consented to the proposed arrangement.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, FEBRUARY 8.—A letter was read from the Rev. T. Spratt, stating that family circumstances made it necessary that he should give up the thought of going abroad at present, though possibly the way might be clearer by and by; that the charge of a small church had been offered to him which he had accepted, and that he hoped to help the great missionary cause at home while not wholly abandoning the thought that he might see the way clear to going out again. Reference having been made to the valuable services which Mr. Spratt had rendered to the society's work in Tinnevely for many years past, the committee resolved that, while accepting Mr. Spratt's resignation and closing their connection with him for the present, they could not but express their appreciation of the valuable services which, for over twenty years, he had rendered to the society's cause, and at the same time their hope that it might yet please God to make his way clear for a return to some part of the mission field.

A letter was read from the Rev. A. Burns, stating that he had in his possession copies of the Epistles to Corinthians, Galatians, and Ephesians, in Sindhi, prepared by the Rev. G. Shirt from the rough translations of the Rev. C. W. Isenberg, which he and Mr. Sheldon both considered good translations, and asking the committee to recommend the printing of them to the Bible Society. The committee agreed to recommend the printing of these translations to the Bible Society.

NOTES OF THE MONTH.

ORDINATIONS.

North India.—At an ordination held by the Bishop of Calcutta at Amritsar, on November 28, 1875, the Rev. F. H. Baring and Rev. Imam Shah were admitted to priests' orders; and Messrs. Bhola Nath Ghose and Sadiq Masih were admitted to deacons' orders.

RETURN HOME OF MISSIONARIES.

West Africa.—Mr. J. H. M. and Mrs. Frazer left Sierra Leone on January 15, and arrived at Liverpool on January 30.

INCORPORATED SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING THE ENLARGEMENT, BUILDING, AND REPAIRING OF CHURCHES AND CHAPELS.

This society held its usual monthly meeting on Monday, February 21, at 7 Whitehall, S.W.; the Rev. John Evans in the chair. There were also present Lord Colchester, the Hon. and Rev. A. Legge, the Revs. A. J. Ingram and George Miller, Messrs. John Boodle, J. F. France, A. J. C. Lawrie, E. Pepys, W. Rivington, and Rev. R. Milburn Blakiston, M.A., secretary. Grants of money were made in aid of the following objects, viz.:—Building new churches at Marley Hill, near Gateshead, and Pont-à-bargoed, in the parish of Gelligaer, near Cardiff; rebuilding the church at Woodmansterne, near Epsom, Surrey; enlarging or otherwise improving the accommodation in the churches at Ebbsbourne-Wake, near Salisbury; Great Houghton, near Northampton; Inworth, near Kelvedon, Essex; Oxhill, near Kineton, Warwick; Pockley, near York; East Wittering, near Chichester; and Horton, near Slough. Under urgent circumstances the grants formerly made towards building the church at Wolviston, near Stockton-on-Tees, and reseating and restoring the churches at Colsterworth, near Grantham, and Hambledon, near Horndean, were each increased. Grants were also made from the Special School Church and Mission House Fund towards building school of mission churches at Bowlee, in the parish of Rhodes, near Manchester; Lonesome Ford, in the parish of Rowington, near Warwick; and Sticker, in the parish of St. Mewan, near St. Austell, Cornwall. The society likewise accepted the trust of a sum of money as a repair fund for All Hallows' Church, in the new parish of Allerton, Lancashire. According to the report of the committee of the Lower House of Convocation on "Deficiencies of Spiritual Ministration," which has just been presented, it appears that in the present century, up to the end of 1875, the total number of churches consecrated was 4414. As the Incorporated Church Building Society has been largely instrumental in aiding very many of these cases, it is hoped that it will receive such encouragement and support from the public as may enable its assistance to be granted in those many other similar cases which still call for help.

THE LONDON FREE AND OPEN CHURCH ASSOCIATION.

The ordinary monthly meeting of the executive council was held on Wednesday evening, February 2, at the rooms of the association, 25 Norfolk Street, Strand; Alfred Buckley, Esq., in the chair.

The following new vice-presidents were announced and approved, viz. Colonel R. W. Lowry, C.B., Major J. Armitage Nutt, and Charles G. Arbuthnot, Esq.

In the absence of the treasurer, the secretary reported a balance in favour of the association of 211l. 13s. 8d. Bills amounting to 84l. 4s. 7d. were ordered to be paid.

The council having had under consideration at their previous meeting the list of honorary local secretaries of the association with the view of largely increasing their number, a form of letter intended to be sent to members of the association in various parts of the country, requesting them to act as local secretaries, and suggesting certain duties which the council hoped they would undertake, was submitted and approved. The letter was ordered to be printed and transmitted accordingly.

UPPER HOUSE.

His grace the Archbishop presided.

THE BONN CONFERENCE.

THE BISHOP of WINCHESTER, at the request of the Anglo-Continental Society, brought this subject before the house, and gave various interesting particulars respecting the Old Catholics and the conferences held at Bonn. He concluded by moving the following resolution:—

"That the resolutions lately adopted at Bonn by representatives of the Old Catholics, certain members of the Eastern Churches, the English Church, and other Christian communities, concerning the ETERNAL PROCESSION of the Holy Ghost, be referred to the committee of the Lower House of Convocation on intercommunion with the Eastern Churches."

THE BISHOP of LINCOLN seconded the resolution, and it was agreed to.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16.

INTERCOMMUNION WITH EASTERN CHURCHES.

The adjourned debate on this subject was resumed by the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, and was continued by the Bishop of London.

After an explanation by the Bishop of Winchester,

The PRESIDENT said he thought their lordships would agree that their time had been very well spent in this discussion.

PROVISION FOR RETIRING CLERGYMEN.

The BISHOP of PETERBOROUGH then moved:—"That his grace the president be requested to appoint a joint committee of both Houses of Convocation of the province of Canterbury to consider what steps can be taken towards making provision for clergymen who, from age and infirmity, are desirous of resigning their benefices, and retiring from the active duties of the ministry."

The BISHOP of LICHFIELD seconded the motion, which, having been supported by the BISHOP of GLOUCESTER and BRISTOL and the PRESIDENT, was put and agreed to.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17.

The PROLOCUTOR (accompanied by his assessors) attended, and presented a resolution, agreed to by the Lower House, on the subject of the representation of the clergy in Convocation; the alterations agreed upon in the rubrics for the burial of the dead; an articulus cleri on the subject of the Final Court of Appeal; and a request from the Lower House requesting his grace the president to sanction the appointment of a committee to examine and report upon the spiritual provision made for English sailors at home and in foreign parts, and whether any better provision can be made for their benefit.

The PROLOCUTOR and his assessors having retired,

The PRESIDENT said—I think your lordships will not object to the appointment of a committee of bishops on the subject of the spiritual provision made for English sailors.

The appointment of a committee was then agreed to.

The PRESIDENT.—The other matters brought up from the Lower House will receive due consideration.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18.

THE COURT OF FINAL APPEAL.

The BISHOP of WINCHESTER, for the Bishop of Oxford, presented a petition from members of the University of Oxford on the subject of the Court of Appeal.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The PRESIDENT communicated certain official documents describing the practice in regard to burials in churchyards which prevailed in the principal countries of Europe, and a long discussion followed on the subject of the Burial Office.

It was decided to send to the Lower House an amended form of the rubric agreed to in 1875.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The PROLOCUTOR, who was accompanied by his assessors, attended, and said—I have to communicate to your grace the following message from the Lower House—"That, having regard to the important character of the message sent down to the Lower House from his grace the president yesterday afternoon, this house respectfully requests that the consideration of it be deferred till the next succeeding future sessions." I have also to communicate to your grace that the Lower House have approved of the names of the members appointed to serve on the joint committee for making better provision for aged and infirm clergymen who are desirous of resigning their benefices; and also, that the Lower House approve of the names of the clergy and laity from different dioceses, relative to the Board of Missions.

The Prolocutor and his assessors then retired. The President made a few concluding remarks, and the house adjourned until Tuesday, May 9.

LOWER HOUSE.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15.

After prayers and the preconcisions of members by Mr. F. Cobb, the actuary, Canon GREGORY gave notice, on behalf of the Bishop of Dover, of a motion for a committee to consider what could be done for the spiritual benefit of seafaring men. For the first time since the revival of Convocation, there were no gravamina, and Mr. GIBBS, as chairman of the committee on delapidations, said that the report, which he knew many were expecting, was not ready, owing to the large amount of valuable information which had been received at a late hour. If any member of the house, or any other person, had information which he could send to the committee, and would do so, he would confer a great benefit on the Church at large.

Reports of committees were presented on the Ecclesiastical Fees' Distribution Act, the law of burial, the third service, and the deficiency of spiritual ministrations in this country, the last an extremely interesting and important document.

THE RUBRICS.

Treasurer GIBBS presented the fourth and last report of the committee on rubrics, which it was understood would come on for discussion in the present group of sessions, and Sir GEORGE PREVOST gave notice of the following resolution upon it:—

"That this house, having, in obedience to her Majesty's letters of business, and to the directions of his grace the president, carefully examined and revised the rubrics of the Book of Common Prayer, respectfully submit the results of their deliberations to their lordships of the Upper House; but they desire, at the same time, to represent to them that, although they consider some of the alterations to be very desirable, yet they do not believe them to be necessary. And, having regard to the difficulties and dangers attendant upon legislation on these matters at the present time, and to the fact that no changes are likely to be made that will in any material degree promote the peace and unity of the Church, they are of opinion that it would be wise to postpone for the present any attempt at legislative change."

The PROLOCUTOR presented to the library the revised statutes of the cathedral church of Lichfield, for which he received the thanks of the house.

THE BONN CONFERENCE.

The PROLOCUTOR communicated to the house, at the request of the Anglo-Continental Society, the resolutions of the Bonn Conference.

Dr. FRASER moved that the resolutions should be referred to the committee on intercommunion with the Orthodox Eastern Churches, with an instruction that they should report upon them to the house.

Archdeacon GRANT seconded the motion, and it was agreed to.

REFORM OF CONVOCATION.

The debate on this subject, which had been postponed at the last session, was resumed.

After some discussion the following resolution, proposed by Lord ALWYNE COMPTON, and seconded by Archdeacon ADY, was carried:—

"That the house humbly pray his grace the president to take the necessary steps to provide for the fuller representation of the clergy."

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The PROLOCUTOR stated that the business before the house was the discussion of the fourth report of the committee on rubrics.

The house accordingly proceeded to the amendments proposed to be made in the rubrics relating to the Order for the Burial of the Dead. The rubrics as finally settled stood as follows:—

"On the request, or with the consent, of the kindred or friends, it shall be lawful for the minister to use only the following service at burial:—The three sentences of the Scriptures to be said or sung on meeting the corpse at entrance of the churchyard; and, after they come into the church, one or both of the Psalms following:—Psalm xxxix. and Psalm lxxviii. the Lesson, 1 Cor. xv. 20.

"When they come to the grave, while the corpse is made ready to be laid into the earth the priest shall say, or the priest and clerks shall sing, the four paragraphs beginning, 'Man is born of,' &c. Then shall follow the words, 'Lord have mercy,' &c., the Lord's Prayer, 'The grace of our Lord.'"

"Further, it shall be lawful for the minister at the request, or with the consent, of the kindred or friends of the deceased, to omit this service and to permit the corpse to be silently committed to the grave in the church or chapel yard of the parish; and, in registering such burials, the minister shall enter the words, 'no ceremony before his signature.'"

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17.

Canon GREGORY, on behalf of the Bishop of Dover, moved for the appointment of a committee to examine into and report on the spiritual provision for sailors at home and in foreign parts, and whether any better provision can be made for their benefit.

This was agreed to, and the following were appointed:—The Dean of Lincoln; Archdeacons Earle, Blakelock, M'Dougal, Allen, Trollope, Randall, jun., Holbeck; Canons Puckle, Sumner, Gregory, Howell, Walpole, How; Prebendaries Campion and Kempe; and the Rev. F. Hokin and the Rev. R. Sutton.

Archdeacon DENISON presented a graves on the case of Jenkins v. Cook.

THE FINAL COURT OF APPEAL.

Lord ALWYNE COMPTON presented a graves on this subject, which concluded as follows:—

"The Lower House therefore prays his grace the president and their lordships of the Upper House that they will in their places in parliament avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by the bill for the reconstitution of the courts of final appeal to remove the final appeal in cases ecclesiastical from the Queen in council to the Queen in parliament—i.e. to the House of Lords a court to which the objections above stated do not apply."

This motion was carried.

THE LAW OF BURIAL.

The house, after discussion, agreed on resolution in the following terms:—

"That this house declines to recommend any change in the law of burial in churchyards, except as follows:—1. Those changes which were approved by this house in the session of 16th February, 1876; but that in all such cases no service be performed in the churchyard at the time of such interment. 2. That facilities be granted to any parish, or any two or more parishes, to procure at the charge of the poor-rate a burial-ground for such parish or parishes which shall be wholly unconsecrated, but with a portion (if so desired) reserved for consecration, without also or previously procuring a new consecrated ground."

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18.

FINAL COURT OF APPEAL.

Canon RAWLINSON presented a petition from sixty-three clergymen and lay communicants resident in the University of Oxford on this subject.

COMMITTEES.

The PROLOCUTOR nominated the committee on the subject of making provision for aged and infirm clergymen.

THE LAW OF BURIAL.

On the motion of Treasurer GIBBS, seconded by Canon CLEMENTS, it was resolved that the resolution carried yesterday be taken to the Upper House, and be considered at a future session.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

Canon How proposed the following gravamen: "That there arise from time to time cases in which the use of the burial office of the Church is not only inappropriate, but also a heavy burden to the conscience; and a source of public scandal. That there are very obvious difficulties in devising a satisfactory mode of relief to the clergy in such cases. That, nevertheless, the desirableness of some relief is felt very widely among the clergy, the alternative in such serious cases being at present either a dishonour to the Church and a scandal to religion, or a direct breach of the law, involving liability to serious penalties. Reformandum.—The undersigned therefore earnestly prays his grace, &c. that they will use their best endeavours to provide relief to the clergy in such manner as shall seem to them most expedient, at the least in cases of the extreme and scandalous character."

This motion was agreed to.

BOARD OF MISSIONS.

The PROLOCUTOR submitted a list of names of persons nominated by the bishops of several dioceses for the board of missions.

THE RUBRICS.

The house then proceeded to consider the alterations in the rubrics suggested by the committee.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The PROLOCUTOR communicated an addition proposed by the Upper House as follows:—

"Here it is to be noted that the office ensuing is not to be used for any that die unbaptised, or excommunicate, or have laid violent hands upon themselves."

Their lordships propose to add:—

"Nevertheless, it shall not be unlawful in the case of any that die unbaptised, or whensoever the kindred or friends of the deceased desire it, for the minister to read a service to be approved of by the ordinary, taken from the Holy Scriptures and the Book of Common Prayer."

After considerable discussion, it was decided to defer the consideration of the subject to the next group of sessions.

The house afterwards adjourned till Tuesday, May 9.

CONVOCAION, YORK.

The Northern Convocations met on Tuesday, Feb. 15, in Archbishop Zouch's Chapel, at York Minster, Archbishop Thomson presiding. There were also present the Bishops of Ripon and Carlisle, and a considerable number of the Lower House. After præconisation, the PRESIDENT took the opportunity of explaining that the bill which was introduced by the Archbishop of Canterbury on Thursday night for the reform of certain ecclesiastical offices would reduce fees, including those on marriage, to the extent of 29 to 30 cent. This was done by a consolidation of offices. Fees would be paid by fixed stamps, and the offices by a fixed stipend instead of fees. He had long wished to see institution and induction made into one act.

The Lower House then proceeded to consider the final report of the committee on rubrics drawn up after a conference with the members of the Canterbury committee. A preliminary discussion took place on a resolution affirming that the only constitutional mode of making alterations in the Prayer Book was "By the authority of the Queen's Majesty with the approval of Parliament, upon the recommendation of the convocations of Canterbury and York," Archdeacon HAMILTON (of Lindisfarne) carrying the house generally with him when he insisted on the necessity of putting this great constitutional principle in the forefront of the Prayer Book.

The committee recommended in the rubric as to daily prayer that the word "urgent" should be changed to "reasonable."

The DEAN of CHESTER moved that in the Table of Lessons the words "Our Lady," as applied to the Blessed Virgin, be omitted.

After a long debate, the motion was thrown out by a show of hands by 21 to 18. On a division being called for, it was rejected by 23 to 19.

The consideration of the table of Proper Psalms was postponed.

A debate took place on the proposal to append to the Athanasian Creed the synodical declaration which was agreed upon some time ago by the two convocations.

The DEAN of CHESTER moved that the declaration should not be inserted in the Prayer Book. The motion was negatived.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15.

The Lower House proceeded to consider in committee the report of the joint committee of the two convocations on the rubrics.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The first rubric was altered so as to run, "or having laid violent hands upon themselves, and have not been found to be of unsound mind."

The rubric allowing silent interment was agreed to.

Convocation was prorogued to March 17.

Parliamentary Intelligence.

PARLIAMENT was opened by the Queen in person on Tuesday, February 8.

The royal speech was read by the LORD CHANCELLOR.

In the House of Lords, the address was moved and seconded by the EARL of ABERDEEN and the EARL of ELLESMERE.

In the House of Commons the address was moved and seconded by Mr. RIDLEY and Mr. MULHOLLAND.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10.

ECCLESIASTICAL OFFICES AND FEES BILL.

The ARCHBISHOP of CANTERBURY laid this bill on the table.

The second reading was fixed for Thursday, March 2.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION BILL.

The LORD CHANCELLOR introduced this bill. It was read a first time, and the second reading was fixed for Friday, February 25.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY.

The MARQUIS of SALISBURY introduced the bill on this subject, and it was read a first time.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

The Lord Chancellor's bill was read a second time.

FRIDAY, MARCH 3.

ECCLESIASTICAL OFFICES AND FEES BILL.

The ARCHBISHOP of CANTERBURY moved the second reading of this bill. One of the objects of the bill was to unite a number of offices in one and the same person. Two or three persons in each diocese might perform the whole of the work for which a large staff was now maintained. All fees were to be paid into a common fund out of which salaries would be taken. The bill was read a second time and referred to a select committee.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 8.

The following notices were given of bills to be introduced:—

Mr. BERESFORD-HOPE.—Bill for the increase of the episcopate.

Mr. DIXON.—Bill to amend the Education Act of 1870, by making obligatory in England and Wales the attendance of children at school and the provision of school boards.

Mr. OSBORNE MORGAN.—To move for leave to bring in a bill to amend the burial laws.

Mr. J. TALLEBOT.—Bill to facilitate the establishment of burial-grounds in England and Wales.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 9.

THE INCREASE OF THE EPISCOPATE BILL.

Mr. BERESFORD-HOPE, having asked leave to reintroduce this measure, Mr. DILLWYN said there were several grounds upon which he might resist the motion. Thus it was a bill which ought to be brought forward not by any private member, but by the government. Leave was then given to introduce the bill, and its second reading was fixed for February 16. Mr. Dillwyn gave notice that he would move its rejection.

THE BURIALS QUESTION.

Mr. OSBORNE MORGAN announced that he would not ask leave to introduce his burials bill this session; but would, on Friday, March 3, move the following resolution as an amendment to the motion for going into committee of supply:—

"That the parish churchyards of England and Wales having been by the common law of England appropriated to the use of the entire body of the parishioners, it is just and right, while making proper provision for the maintenance of order and decency, to permit the performance in such churchyards of other burial services than those of the Church of England, and by other persons than the ministers of that Church."

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11.

THE VALUATION OF PROPERTY BILL.

Mr. SOLATER-BOOTH, in asking leave to introduce a bill on this subject, said he had received many representations urging the necessity for reform. There was in every parish a sense of injustice on the part of at least one very important ratepayer, and that was the clergyman in receipt of the tithe rent-charge. Although he was not prepared to give the clergy the relief which many desired, he thought that some step was required to ensure the proper assessment of the other ratepayers in accordance with the value of their property. It was proposed that the assessment of tithe rent-charge should be made once in seven years, instead of being varied from year to year as it now was, and a provision would be made that for the purposes of valuation, where the circumstances of the parish required it, the salary of the curate should be deducted from the income of the rector. Leave was given to introduce the bill.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16.

THE INCREASE OF THE EPISCOPATE BILL.

Mr. BERESFORD-HOPE moved the second reading of this bill. He said:—The necessity of some such measure would be seen when it was remembered that the number of bishoprics in England remained exactly what it was at the time of the Reformation, although the population had increased fivefold. The bill itself was founded upon the recommendations of the Cathedral Commission of 1852, and it was supported by a recommendation of Convocation in 1872. Moreover, a memorial in favour of an increase in the episcopate was presented to parliament in 1862, the clerical signatories numbering over six thousand, and the lay including the present Prime Minister, Lord Chancellor, Chancellor of the Exchequer, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Postmaster-General, and Sir W. Barttelot. Last year, when Lord Lyttelton's bill was before the House of Lords, it received the support of the whole bench of bishops, with two or three exceptions. What he desired was to construct a machinery which would render it easy to utilise in the best way for the benefit of the Church the large funds which resulted from private munificence. He should, therefore, be not only willing, but anxious, to consider any friendly amendments which might be proposed in committee.

Mr. MOWBRAY would deprecate the amount of labour which the bill would throw upon him as an ecclesiastical commissioner; but viewing the question as a Churchman, he felt it his duty to give his cordial support to its second reading. His hon. and gallant friend the member for West Sussex advised the house not to discuss this question or legislate upon it, but to leave it to be dealt with by the government. He regretted to hear such sentiments expressed by a conservative member. This question was not merely fit for discussion, but ripe for legislation. It was a question on which the most thoughtful members of the Church had arrived at a deliberate conclusion. The Roman Catholics did not number two millions, but they had sixteen bishops and an archbishop. The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States had more than twice the number of the bishops in the Church of England, whose members were five times more numerous. Fifty years ago there were, perhaps, half a dozen bishops in the colonies, but now there were upwards of sixty. So much for what voluntary organisation could do to promote the efficiency of the Church and to increase the number of bishops in proportion to the number of the clergy and laity of the Church.

The bill was supported by Mr. J. G. HUBBARD, but was opposed by various members.

Mr. Cross congratulated the house on the calm and temperate manner in which the proposed increase of the episcopate had been discussed, and the evident desire which had been shown in almost all quarters to deal with the subject dispassionately and fairly. Looking at the way in which populations had grown up within the past few years, especially in the manufacturing districts, no one, he thought, could avoid coming to the conclusion that the bishops, in order to do their work fairly, must have assistance. The only difference of opinion was as to the manner in which the operation was to be accomplished, and he hoped his hon. friend who was in charge of the bill would not, by pushing it to a division, make a difference of opinion apparent where no difference really existed. For his own part, he thought it would never do to bestow upon the Ecclesiastical Commissioners—for whom he had the highest respect—a sort of roving commission to make bishoprics at their discretion. However, he would not discuss further the details of the bill, but proceed briefly to state what the government were prepared to do in reference to the episcopate. The diocese of Exeter undoubtedly called for some action being taken. Well, a proposition was made to him some months ago to place at his disposal a sum of 1200*l*. for the formation of a new diocese in Cornwall. That generous gift was made on the condition that the bishopric should be founded in the lifetime of the donor, and the bishop of the diocese proposed also, in the most generous spirit, to give up 800*l*. of his own income towards founding the new bishopric. As soon as sufficient additional funds were provided to furnish a proper income for the new bishop, a scheme for the establishment of a bishopric of Cornwall would, no doubt, be prepared. Up to the present moment, unfortunately, the necessary funds had not been forthcoming, but he hoped they would be, and in that case he would strongly recommend the adoption of a measure for effecting the object in view. It would not be very wise, however, to have separate bills for each diocese, and therefore he was not at all prepared to say, on the part of the government, that he would not consider some well-devised scheme for a limited number of new dioceses. He perfectly agreed with an hon. member that the execution of a scheme of this kind would be much better performed by the government in concert with the bench of bishops than by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. A measure of such gravity, indeed, affecting so closely the interests of the Church and State, ought properly to be brought forward on the responsibility of the government. He might also state that negotiations had been, he would not say entered into, but proposed, for the formation of other dioceses in other parts of the country, but no proposition had yet come before him in such a form as would justify him in laying it before parliament. Instead of dealing with cases individually, he should prefer to lay on the table of the house a scheme for a limited number of bishoprics, so that the work of the bishops might be properly divided, at all events, until the changes in the population of the country rendered some readjustment necessary. In conclusion, he appealed to the hon. member for Cambridge University not to put the house in a false position by forcing it to divide in a matter in which all parties were really at one, but to content himself with the expression of opinion which had been called forth, both from private members and from himself, as representing the government, on the subject of the bill.

Mr. HALL having moved the adjournment of the debate, Mr. BRERESFORD-HOPE said he thought it was a great pity that her Majesty's government did not make up their mind clearly on this subject. He did not think the just expectations of the country would be satisfied with little bills dropping in from time to time, enacting a bishopric here and a bishopric there. However, he took the statement of the right hon. gentleman as a general promise that they would take in hand the extension of the episcopacy, and he most willingly accepted the motion for the adjournment, hoping that in the meantime her Majesty's government would be able to state something more definite than they had heard that day.

The adjournment was then carried by 174 to 90.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18.

RELIGION AND EDUCATION.

In answer to Mr. RICHARD, LORD SANDON said that when the replies were received last year to the return respecting religious instruction in board schools, moved for by the member for Plymouth, it was found that in the case of five board schools instruction was being given in the Church Catechism. None of these schools had been inspected since the date when they came under the control of the board, so that the time-tables had not been seen or approved by her Majesty's inspectors. Four of them had been previously Church schools, and were either temporarily occupied by the board or were in course of being transferred to the board. Only one was a new school provided by a school board. A letter was at once, as a matter of course, addressed to the school boards, pointing out that section 14 (2) of the act was being violated by the provisions made for religious instruction, and stating that it would be the duty of the department to declare the boards to be in default unless the time-tables of their schools were at once brought into conformity with the requirements of the act as to the admission of the Church Catechism. In every case the necessary alteration was at once made.

FRIDAY, MARCH 3.

PARISH CHURCHYARDS.

Mr. OSBORNE MORGAN moved the following resolution:—

"That the parish churchyards of England and Wales having been by the common law of England appropriated to the use of the entire body of the parishioners, it is just and right, while making proper provision for the maintenance, order and decency, to permit interment in such churchyards either without any burial service or with burial services other than those of the Church of England, and performed by persons other than the ministers of that Church."

Mr. WYKHAM MARTIN seconded the resolution.

The house divided, with the following result:—

For the resolution ..... 248

Against ..... 279

The motion was therefore lost.

ORDINATIONS.

THE Bishop of Bath and Wells purposes to hold an ordination on Trinity Sunday next. His lordship requires from all candidates for priests' or deacons' orders at least three months' notice of their intention to offer themselves for ordination, and also a personal interview with himself or one of his examining chaplains. It is not necessary that candidates should be provided with a title at the time of giving notice. Graduates of Trinity College, Dublin, are required to produce the Divinity Testimonium; Associates of King's College, London, the Theological Certificate; and those who have passed the Preliminary Examination of Candidates for Holy Orders, the certificate of success. Full instructions may be obtained from his lordship's secretary, C. W. Garrod, Esq., Wells, Somerset, to whom all papers must be forwarded at least one month before the day of ordination.

The Bishop of Chester holds an ordination at each of the four Ember seasons in every year. Candidates for ordination should communicate with the bishop or his senior examining chaplain, the Rev. Chancellor Espin, Wallasey Rectory, Birkenhead. The papers of accepted candidates for the next ordination on Sunday, June 11, must be received by the bishop's secretaries, Messrs. Parry and Gamon, St. Werburgh Chambers, Chester, on or before May 11.

The Bishop of Durham purposes holding his next ordination on Sunday, July 2. His lordship requires from all candidates for holy orders sufficient notice of their intention to present themselves for ordination. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge must produce the certificate of their having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors; those from Dublin, the Divinity Testimonium; and those from Durham, not being graduates, the Licence in Theology. All the necessary papers must be sent six weeks before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, John B. Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

The Bishop of Ely purposes holding his next ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11. His lordship requires from all candidates for deacons' orders three months' notice of their intention to offer themselves for ordination, and also a personal interview. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge must produce the certificate of their having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors. (Such certificate is not required if a candidate shows he has passed the Oxford Theological School or gone out in the Cambridge Theological Tripos.) Candidates for priests' orders are expected to give two months' notice of their intention to the bishop, and the necessary papers from all the candidates must be sent at least one month before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, Harry Wilmot Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

The Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol purposes holding his next ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Papers to be forwarded to the bishop's secretary, B. Bonner, Esq., Gloucester.

The Bishop of Lichfield purposes to hold his next ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Candidates for deacons' orders must apply to the Rev. F. Thatcher, The Palace, Lichfield, before April 17.

The Bishop of Lincoln purposes holding his next ordination on Trinity Sunday. Persons who wish to be admitted as candidates for deacons' orders are desired to make a written application to the bishop, three months before the time of ordination; stating their age, college, academical degree, and the usual place of their residence; together with the names of three or more clergymen, or other persons of respectability, to whom they are well known, and to whom the bishop may apply for further information concerning them; and he desires that shortly after the above application candidates should have a personal interview with himself or one of his examining chaplains. All candidates must produce a certificate of baptism. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge must produce certificates of having attended two courses of Public Divinity Lectures. Candidates from Dublin must have the Divinity Testimonium. It being desirable that the literary and intellectual proficiency and qualifications of the several candidates should be duly tested, and also that the solemn season immediately before the ordination should be devoted to special spiritual exercises, the following arrangements are adopted:—An examination of candidates will be held about Easter, and the middle of October before each ordination. Candidates presenting themselves for this examination need not attend for the personal interview mentioned above. Those candidates who have passed "the preliminary examination of candidates for holy orders" within nine months will be excused this examination. On the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, immediately preceding the ordination, all those who have been admitted will be received by the bishop for united devotion, meditations and communion. At the same time there will be a short examination upon pastoral care, and in scriptural and doctrinal knowledge, and each candidate will deliver a sermon or short thesis of his own composition. Due notice of examinations will be sent by the bishop's secretary. Persons may be admitted candidates, after satisfactory residence and probation at Lincoln, as theological students in attendance upon the Divinity School (Cancellarii Scholae) and such parochial work under a clergyman as may be assigned to them. To such students the bishop is willing to give admission to his ordination examinations, or to grant them recommendations enabling them to present themselves for the preliminary examination of candidates for holy orders. Lincoln is one of the local centres at which this examination is held.—Persons who have been ordained deacons in this diocese are expected to present themselves as candidates for priests' orders on the same titles, but not before the expiration of a year, and to remain in their curacies another full year from their admission to priests' orders. Persons who have been ordained deacons in other dioceses will not be received as candidates for priests' orders in the diocese of Lincoln, nor will priests be admitted to serve as curates in the diocese till after the expiration of two years from their ordination as deacons; unless the bishop shall be satisfied, upon inquiry, as to the reasons of their leaving the diocese in which they have been so recently ordained.—For further information relative to the subjects of examination, application is to be made to the bishop's examining chaplains, the Rev. Chancellor Benson, D.D., The Chancery, Lincoln; the Rev. Canon Meyrick, Blickling Rectory, Aylsham, Norfolk; or the Rev. Canon Wordsworth, Brasenose College, Oxford. For information with regard to the papers, such as the "Si quis," and testimonials, and other certificates, which are necessary, before admission to examination, and similar matters, application is to be made to the bishop's secretary, Wm. Moss, Esq., Old Palace, Lincoln. For information relative to the facilities afforded for theological study at Lincoln, apply to the Rev. the Chancellor, The Chancery, Lincoln; or the Rev. Canon Crowfoot, Lincoln.

Every candidate for deacons' or priests' orders in the diocese should write to the bishop (at least three months previous to the ordination) for permission to present himself for examination, stating his age, academic degree, and his then present residence. In the case of a candidate for deacons' orders, this application must be accompanied by a reference to three clergymen, to whom the bishop may apply for information respecting him. The bishop will appoint a personal interview, which is absolutely necessary. Candidates, when accepted by his lordship, may obtain full instructions as to the necessary papers on application to the diocesan secretary, H. P. Gates, Esq., Peterborough, to whom they should be sent at least one month previous to the ordination.

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.

67 Lincoln's Inn Fields.

TUESDAY, APRIL 4, 1876.

Major-Gen. Sir H. CHAS. B. DAUBENEY, K.C.B. in the chair.

REPORTS OF DISCUSSIONS AND THE PRESS.—Before the reading of the minutes of last meeting, the chairman, at the request of standing committee, made the following statement:—

It having been brought to the notice of standing committee that more than one report, a speech, or speeches, made at the last general meeting appeared in the public press, they decided to direct the attention of members to rules which is as follows, viz.:—

"No person shall be at liberty to publish, or supply to any newspaper or periodical, reports of discussions which take place at the general meetings."

It is obviously the duty of members to conform to the rules and orders established for the government of the society; and as they have now been reminded of the prohibitory nature of the rule just quoted, the standing committee are persuaded that there will be no occasion to refer to the subject again.

MONEY GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

DIOCESE OF TORONTO.—The Rev. Richard Harrison, now in this country with a letter of commendation from his bishop, applied for a grant to enable the parishioners of St. Matthias, Toronto, to secure their church.

The parish was founded in 1873, chiefly for the purpose of providing the ministrations of the Church among recent immigrants from Great Britain, mechanics, labourers, &c., by whom that part of the city is largely occupied.

The area of the parish is nearly two square miles, and the number of the inhabitants about 4000, one quarter of whom, at least, profess to belong to the Church of England. At first a small room sufficed to hold the score or two of persons who assembled for the services; but within a few months the congregation increased beyond its capacity. The promoters of the enterprise then risked the purchase of a site and the erection of a school-chapel, costing altogether about 1500*l.*, one-third of which has been paid off. The balance is being paid off by quarterly instalments of principal and interest, amounting to 45*l.* each; but this is accomplished only with the greatest difficulty by the poor people who form the congregation, and who have at the same time to bear all the current parochial expenses, including their clergyman's stipend and very extensive relief of the poor, there being no endowment or mission fund in Canada applicable to this class of cases. The past year has been one of great business depression there, and the quarterly payments have fallen so far in arrears as to endanger the security of the church property.

The average congregation numbers 250 and the Sunday school 200. The offertory (which is used to cover all ordinary expenses) has, in prosperous times, risen to 5*l.* or 6*l.* per Sunday, but has now fallen (though the congregation has not fallen off) to 2*l.* or less, owing to the decrease of means.

The seats are free, and the services frequent and hearty. There are 70 or 80 communicants enrolled, who attend the weekly celebrations in fair numbers.

Mr. Harrison urges that this system of paying by instalments was adopted rather than that of ing the building, in order to secure the profor Church purposes; that the present dein commercial matters alone has renit necessary to make an effort to raise at the required 1000*l.*, wherewith to clear the ing of liability.

pleads very earnestly for his people, who living bravely to help themselves.
e bishop corroborated Mr. Harrison's states, and added:—

can certify to the poverty of the parish, its need of all the help from friends without h can be obtained for it."

ie standing committee, viewing this as an ptional case as regards the nature of the ity upon the church, recommended a grant 00*l.*, subject to the fulfilment of the usual itions, viz:—

hat previously to the payment of the grant the bishop should have certified that the receipt of it will lead to the immediate completion of the building, and further that the building is free from all liability for debt, duly secured as Church property for ever, and adequately insured. Unless these conditions are fulfilled within five years, the society's grants are written off as having lapsed.

his grant was made on the conditions sped.

DIocese of ONTARIO.—The bishop forwarded application on one of the society's forms, duly signed by himself, from the Rev. G. G.
Metz, missionary in charge, for a grant towards new church, St. John, Merivale, to be erected the parish of Nepean.

The cost is to be 250*l.*, of which 160*l.* are in nd or promised. About 120*l.* have been raised the district. There is no prospect of raising ore, except it may be in the future, from those ho have already contributed up to their ans.

The building will accommodate 120. The ulation of the district is about 1000. The ie is vested in the incorporated synod of the iocesse.

The population is almost entirely composed of rners, owning or leasing from ten to fifty acres f land. There is a large preponderance of resbyterians with Methodists, members of the hurch not being more than 200 in number.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the tanding committee, to grant 20*l.* for the comletion of this church, subject to the fulfilment f the usual conditions.

DIocese of COLOMBO, CALTURA CHURCH.—The ishop of Colombo, writing from his diocese on March 2, made application for a further grant of 5*l.* for the completion of the church at Caltura.

In February 1874, the society, on the application of Bishop Jermyn, at that time Bishop of Colombo, made a grant of 50*l.* for a new church at this place—the total cost of the proposed church, which was to accommodate 200 persons, as then reckoned at 600*l.*; 400*l.* had been promised and 265*l.* paid.

The population numbers about 100,000; and with the exception of a few Christians, they are Buddhists.

The present bishop, Dr. Copleston, stated that here are special circumstances which lead him
o ask for an increase of the grant.

The cost has been about 700*l.*, or 100*l.* more han was expected; nearly 500*l.* have been xpend, 100*l.* (besides the society's grant of 0*l.*) are in hand, having been given by the ishop and a layman, not of Caltura.

The bishop believes that 230*l.* will complete he building; towards this, including the sums entioned above, 150*l.* are in hand, and the ishop believes that if the society will give an ditional grant of 25*l.*, the remainder of what e shall be able to consecrate the church in out two months.

The bishop wrote:—

"There are but few Church people, but they are energetic and increasing. The congregation is now, I believe, about sixty, there being no schools. . . . The people have given to the utmost, and have meanwhile supported their clergymen."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to increase this grant from 50*l.* to 75*l.* as requested by the bishop, and subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIocese of NEWFOUNDLAND.—The Right Reverend Bishop Kelly, coadjutor bishop in this diocese, forwarded and recommended an application from the Rev. R. Holland Taylor, missionary of S.P.G. at Brigus, for aid towards building one new church and two school-chapels in his extensive mission.
Mr. Taylor also applied for a grant to build a house for a missionary at a fourth station, not knowing that the society never makes grants for missionaries' dwellings.

1st. An application was made on behalf of a new church at a place called "Gullies," three miles from Brigus, to accommodate 100 persons, and to cost 150*l.*

The population here has increased from 40, in 1857, to over 200 persons in 1874.

It has become imperative upon the Church of England to follow up her children, if she is to retain her hold upon them.

Two brothers, poor unlearned fishermen, have conveyed to the diocesan synod a piece of ground 70 feet square, promising more whenever necessary, and the inhabitants have spent two days in the woods, cutting down the framework of the new church. Over 100 pieces of timber have now been hauled a distance of nine miles by the freewill labour of the people, and are now on the site of the proposed church.

Mr. Taylor holds a service and a confirmation class in the house of a poor widow woman, who also kindly allows of a Sunday school being held in her humble cottage. Upwards of 30 children have been in regular attendance since last September.

The standing committee recommended a grant of 40*l.* in this case.

2ndly. An application was made on behalf of a school-chapel to be built at a place called "English Cove," seven miles from Brigus, at a cost of 120*l.*, to accommodate 80 people.

The population consists of 72 Church people, who are scattered and intermarried among 200
Roman Catholics. Here Mr. Taylor holds a Friday service at a private house, but he is very anxious to build a school-chapel and to appoint a teacher.

A piece of ground consisting of several acres has been secured for a future graveyard, site for a school-church, &c., and the people have just hauled out the frame for the proposed school-chapel.

For this the standing committee recommended
a grant of 30*l.*

3rdly. Mr. Taylor applied for a grant for a school-chapel to be built at "Juniper Stump," nearly eight miles from Brigus in the opposite direction.

From eight Church people, in 1857, there were in 1874 seventy.

A valuable piece of ground of over eighteen acres has been secured and conveyed to the diocesan synod.

The cost in this case is to be 120*l.*, and accommodation is to be provided for eighty persons.

The use of a dwelling-house has been offered by Mr. G. Mathinson as a residence for a teacher, as soon as one can be provided.

The people are miserably poor.

A lay assistant holds a week-day service in one of the houses.

For this the standing committee recommended
a grant of 30*l.*

The people of Brigus itself are engaged in building a new church at an estimated cost of 1500*l.*, so that it is impossible for them to do much towards the completion of the various works in the outlying settlements.

The three grants recommended by the standing committee, amounting to 100, were made,
subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIocese of CHICHESTER.—Diocesan Training College for School Mistresses at Brighton.—The standing committee stated that they had received an application from the Rev. H. H. Wyatt, secretary of this college, for a grant in aid of erecting permanent additional accommodation for sixteen students.

The committee reminded the meeting that in the year 1872 this college had received a grant of 240*l.*, being at the rate of 7*l.* 10*s.* per annum for two years for each of sixteen additional students to be trained during the years 1873 and 1874; that similarly for the years 1875 and 1876 this college had received 160*l.*, being at the rate of 5*l.* per head for two years for each of sixteen additional students to be trained during the two years first named.

By means of the society's grants the number of students had been raised from forty-nine to sixty-five during two periods of training consisting of two years each, the additional students being accommodated in a hired house.

Mr. Wyatt wrote to the secretary as follows on March 29, 1876, in answer to a letter addressed by the secretary to the principals of all the Church training colleges:—

"I am now able to say, in reply to your circular of December 30 last, that for our last 26 vacancies there were 150 applications; that we were able most readily to place in suitable schools all the students who finished their course of training at the end of 1875; that we do decidedly judge, from the number of applications that reached us, that the demand for trained teachers is greater than the supply; and we are of opinion that this state of things will continue.

"We therefore consider that an increase of the permanent accommodation is needed, and we are prepared to enlarge our buildings, provided we can get financial help other than what can be obtained in the diocese.

"Plans have been prepared, and the arrangements marked out. The cost will be 700*l.*

"The diocese, having the enlargement and maintenance of the Otter Memorial College at Chichester to provide for, will not be able to contribute largely to the extension of the Brighton Training College as well.

"Our hopes are principally on your society, and for some addition to your late grant, if I am right in thinking it is 10*l.* per additional student.
If you would allow us to hope for 200*l.* from you, we are prepared to begin the work early in May,
and to finish it by September.

"Will you kindly place this soon before your committee and support the appeal, that so this college may be enabled permanently to train for service in Church schools sixteen additional teachers a year, and not be under the necessity of going back to its former complement of forty-nine students."

The standing committee recommended a grant of 200*l.* for the completion of the proposed permanent additional accommodation for sixteen students over and above forty-nine; and desired that Mr. Wyatt should be informed that he must not depend upon receiving any further help towards the maintenance of students.

This grant was made in the manner proposed.

GRANTS OF BOOKS, &c. RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

Numerous book grants, special and ordinary,
were agreed to.

DIocese of CARLISLE.—The Rev. T. C. Durham, hon. secretary of the Carlisle Diocesan Education Society, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 50*l.*, to meet an equal outlay on books on the part of his society, the whole of the books to be given as prizes for religious knowledge to children in elementary schools after a simultaneous examination throughout the diocese.

Mr. Durham wrote as follows:—

"It has been our custom to make the first class very small, so that it may be a real distinction to obtain a place in it, and we give prizes (of less value) to the second class also. Perhaps, as we make four classes of those who pass, your society will not object to consider our first and second classes together as constituting a first class of the ordinary description."

The number of pupil teachers examined in 1875 was 144. Of these, 11 were placed in class i. as having "passed with distinction," and 44 in class ii. as having "passed with credit." Unfortunately the report of the examiners, though it stated that "on the whole the examination may be considered as very satisfactory," contained the following paragraph:—

"Among some of the lower candidates, there had not been as much improvement as might have been expected; some of the pupil teachers appear to have received little religious instruction of any kind."

There were entered for the examination 3102 children from 182 schools. Of these, 3176 presented themselves for examination on March 17, with the following result:—

"Gained a first class . . . . .	73
" . . . a second class . . . . .	468
" . . . a third class . . . . .	1607
Failed to pass . . . . .	1028

In reference to the examination of the children, the report says:—

"The examiners have again to report an improvement in all the subjects, especially the Catechism and Book of Common Prayer. The amount of work done in preparing for the examination must be very considerable, and great interest is evidently taken in the religious teaching throughout the diocese."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant S.P.C.K. books, at a charge upon the society's fund of 50%, on condition of an equal cash outlay in books being made by the diocesan board of education.

DIOCESE OF GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL.—The Rev. T. G. Golightly, hon. secretary of the board of education in this diocese, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 20%, to meet an equal cash outlay in books on the part of the board of education, the whole of the books to be given as prizes to pupil teachers and monitors who shall be placed in a first class in a central examination in religious knowledge.

The number examined last year was 449; the number of those placed in the first class was 48.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF BATH AND WELLS.—The Rev. W. Michell, inspector of schools in this diocese, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 16%, to meet an equal cash outlay on books. The books to be given as prizes for religious knowledge to pupil teachers, paid monitors, and children from elementary schools who shall be placed in a first class in a central examination to be held next May.

Last year the numbers examined, &c. were as follows:—Pupil teachers, 183; monitors, 32; children, 1087; first-class pupil teachers and monitors, 40; children, 118. A larger number are expected this year.

It was agreed, upon the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF HEREFORD.—The Rev. T. Littleton Wheeler, diocesan inspector of schools, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 7.10s., for pupil teachers in the archdeaconry of Salop, and for a similar grant for pupil teachers in the archdeaconry of Hereford; in all, 15l.

The society's grant will be met in each case with an equal cash outlay in books, and the whole of the books will be given as prizes to pupil teachers who reach the first class in an examination in religious knowledge.

There were 164 candidates, of whom 51 were placed in the first class.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF EXETER.—Deanery of Ippliden.—The Rev. Peter Lilly, rural dean, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to a value not exceeding 7l. 10s., to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the rural deanery board of instruction; the whole of the books to be given as prizes to pupil teachers placed in a first class in a simultaneous examination in religious knowledge.

Mr. Lilly has had similar grants in two previous years, and wrote as follows:—

"I may also mention that the schools of this deanery are very favourably reported on by the diocesan inspector. Nine schools were placed by him in the class of 'excellent' for 1875, as against four only in 1874; and sixteen schools in the class of 'good,' as against fourteen before; thirteen are fair, and a few are less efficient. Our board gives small grants (3l. and 2l.) to the principal teachers of the 'excellent' and 'good' schools."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF TORONTO.—St. Matthew, Toronto.—The Rev. Richard Harrison, now in this country, with the recommendation of his bishop, applied for a grant of books for use of immigrants in the immigrant depot in his parish. In reference to this application, Mr. Harrison made the following statement:—

"During the months of May, June, July, and August, I should say there usually are some 500 or 600 arrivals at the depot each week, and probably 200 or 300 of these remain in the depot for a week or ten days, the others passing to their destination either directly or within a few days. Possibly 50 or 60 out of 500 or 600 may be found still in the depot after two weeks. Obviously a great deal depends upon the 'season,' there being a few every month in the year, and the numbers fluctuating from year to year."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant S.P.C.K. books in this case to the value of 10l., for a permanent library for the use of the immigrants whilst at the depot.

DIOCESE OF CALCUTTA.—Banda, N.W. Provinces.—The Rev. John R. Hill, S.P.G. missionary and secretary to the N.W. India Vernacular Committee, wrote on January 30, 1876, making application for another grant of books, &c. from the society, Mr. Hill having had a grant of books to the value of 10l. in November 1873.

1. For new mission school. This numbers more than ninety scholars, in the face of the government school, which is purely secular. For this school Mr. Hill asks for maps, &c.

2. For books for lending to religious inquirers, &c. in Banda and in several other stations and towns of Bundelkund, where there are English speaking and reading natives, who frequently apply for books.

3. For Bibles, prayer-books, and story-books for the use of the English soldiers and their wives and families who are at Kowgong, the chief military station, where there is very seldom a chaplain.

These books will be offered for sale by a book-hawker, and the proceeds of sale returned to the society.

Mr. Hill sent a list of books to the value of 15l. for which he asked.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant the books as applied for.

HERTFORDSHIRE SEASIDE CONVALESCENT HOME.—The Rev. Lewis Hensley, vicar of Hitchin, applied for a grant for the use of the patients in home, which is at St. Leonards. The home has only recently been established; it is designed to receive twelve convalescents, and, when at work, Mr. Hensley thinks it probable that it will be constantly nearly or quite full. The infirmary at Hitchin has taken one bed, appropriated to convalescents from that institution.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant S.P.C.K. books to the value of 4l. for the purpose specified.

DIOCESE OF RYON.—Leeds Clerical Library.—The Rev. Dr. Gott, vicar of Leeds, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books for a clerical library at Leeds.

Dr. Gott wrote as follows:—

"The clergy of Leeds are raising a considerable annual fund for a clerical library—40l. a year—and the Bray's Associates, as I believe, make us a grant. Would the S.P.C.K. help us? Leeds, with its population of near 300,000, and the vast neighbourhood of which is the centre, with its keen, shrewd, and active infidel lecturers, and all sorts of religious is, I venture to suggest, a place where Christian knowledge of the highest and most recent should be within reach of the clergy; yet accurate come to us with an odd shelf of books chiefly their old class books and volumes piled up on stalls, more for their cheapness than their merit, and generally antiquated, and underpaid incumbents can never do more work."

"If you can help us, I believe it will be a great encouragement as well as an aid, and it will be in truest accord with the name of the society."

"I would add that I am preparing to open a clergy school for candidates for holy orders, and the clerical library will also serve for the use of my theological students. Of course, it has the bishop's fullest sanction."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant S.P.C.K. books in this object to the value of 10l.

Leeds Hospital for Women and Children.—Dr. Gott also applied for a small grant of books for this hospital.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, in this case to grant S.P.C.K. books to the value of 5l.

MANNINGHAM, BRADFORD, YORKSHIRE.—The Rev. R. Gardner Smith, of St. Mark, Manningham, Bradford, stated that it had been agreed that a service in French should be held every Sunday afternoon in his church, "for the many French residents in the town," and that Bishop Ryan had kindly promised to be the weekly preacher.

Mr. Smith added that there was also a promise of a fair congregation, and applied for a grant of 100 prayer-books in French.

Mr. Smith, in answer to inquiries made by the secretary, had explained that there are in Manningham the largest works in England connected with the velvet manufacture. The mills contain fourteen acres of flooring. In these mills are several hundreds of Frenchmen. During the late Bradford mission, services have been held in the mills, and now a request has been made to Mr. Smith that he would allow a number of the French operatives to meet together every Sunday afternoon in church for French service. Already forty have promised to attend; many more are expected to follow.

Further, there are in Bradford 10,000 Germans, and they generally know French better than English. Some of these are expected to attend.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant the books asked for.

and other similar cases, you will really be laying the foundations of a Church. It was thought that sending out men was founding a Church. It really begins to be fairly established when the first generation of men ordained to the ranks of its clergy is complete."

The committee reported that they had, out of the money placed at their disposal for the purpose in February last, set apart 105*l.* for this case, being at the rate of 35*l.* a year for three years; the society's grant to be payable in half-yearly instalments, subject to the bishop, at the end of each six months, being able to certify that the young man is going on to his entire satisfaction, and that he still gives promise of being an efficient clergyman at the end of his course.

DIOCESE OF HURON.—The standing committee reported that the bishop of this diocese had heartily thanked the society for the grant of 100*l.* made in February, subject to the bishop's approval, on the application of the Rev. Henry Pahtahquahong Chase, for the completion of a church for the Ojibway Indians. He also applied for a grant to enable him to train for holy orders, at Huron College, an excellent young Indian of the Six Nations Indians, Isaac Barefoot, who is at present acting as an interpreter in the mission under the charge of the Rev. Canon Nelles. He has a good education, and is anxious to study for the ministry. A few years ago he wrote "quite an able" tract against the Plymouth Brethren.

The standing committee stated that they had, out of the money voted for the purpose in February last, reserved 75*l.* with a view of assisting in this case at the rate of 25*l.* a year for three years, subject to Mr. Barefoot being of age to be ordained at the end of the three years.

TROOPS AT NATAL.—The standing committee stated that the Rev. G. M. St. M. Ritchie, army chaplain, had written as follows:—

"I am under orders to take up the duties of chaplain to the forces at Natal, a station which has hitherto been without a chaplain, and where the garrison is about to be very largely augmented. I believe there will not be less than a thousand rank and file under my charge. Can you, under these urgent circumstances, make me a grant of books? I shall require books for hospitals, barrack-rooms, Sunday schools, and private circulation, as to all intents and purposes this will be a new station."

The committee had made a grant from the fund of "Clericus," of books to the value of 20*l.*

The committee were anxious to draw attention to the fact that this fund enabled them to make grants of religious books, other than Bibles, for the use of her Majesty's land forces at home and abroad; and that recently grants of prayer-books, &c. for the use of the militia in several counties had been made with very beneficial results as regards the behaviour of the troops in church.

DIOCESE OF BLOEMFONTEIN.—The standing committee reported that they had received a letter from the Rev. G. C. White, commissary of the Bishop of Bloemfontein, in reference to the grant of 500*l.* made in December 1870, to meet 4500*l.* from other sources for the endowment of this see—"Orange River Mission" it was then styled.

Mr. White was aware that, in accordance with the terms on which the society's grants are usually made, this grant would be written off at this year's audit, unless either the conditions were fulfilled, and the grant paid, or else a renewal of the grant were made.

Mr. White asked for a renewal of the grant, and wrote as follows:—

"We have been doing what we can to increase this fund. We hope to make considerable progress in the course of this year."

Mr. Henry Wagner, the treasurer of the fund, had informed the committee that only about 1000*l.* remained to be collected.

The standing committee gave notice, "That at the next meeting they would recommend an extension of time during which this grant must be claimed till the end of 1877," by which time Mr. Wagner hoped that they should have made up the required capital sum of 4500*l.* to meet the society's grant of 500*l.*

DIOCESE OF PERTH, WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—The standing committee submitted the following important letter, which had been addressed to the secretary by the Ven. James Brown, archdeacon of Perth:—

"Swan, Guildford, W.A.,

"December 23, 1875.

"Rev. and dear Sir,—Bishop Hale has within the last few days resigned the see of Perth. Called to the see of Brisbane by the unanimous voice of his Australian colleagues, and actuated, as we are persuaded he was, by the same simple and disinterested motives that marked all his actions here, we have ground only for sorrow. That sorrow is, however, much embittered by the knowledge that just at this time the Church in this diocese is in a very critical state, and, humanly judging, likely, without external aid, to dwindle down to a condition of great feebleness, if not to die out. To the venerable Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge the diocese is in a great measure indebted for the endowment of its bishopric, as well as for a large educational grant; and, whatever may be deemed the force of the present application, it will, I trust, seem but natural that in our need and anxiety we should once more turn to the society for sympathy and aid.

"The application I am about to present, through you, to the society proceeds from the standing committee of the diocesan synod, who first entrusted it to the bishop shortly before his departure. It was not because his lordship regarded their commission as of little moment, or as requiring little thought, that he did not personally fulfil it. He felt that it required a quiet incompatible with the bustle of preparation for removal, and with the interruptions in time and thought unavoidable upon his departure from a diocese in which so very many wished, by public addresses and privately, to say goodbye. Reluctantly obliged to give up the duty, he desired me to make the application, and to say that I do so at his special request; that he felt most deeply the importance of such an application to the welfare of the Church here, and that he trusted the society would feel it right to grant the desired help.

"To avoid being wearisome, and to convey as succinct and intelligible a description of our condition and need as I am able, I will state—

1. The present circumstances of the diocese;
2. Its prospects;
3. What it is doing towards self-help; and
4. What aid it asks from the society.

"1. Its present circumstances are as follows. The population is between 25,000 and 26,000. Of the adult males, about three-fourths are of the convict class, either ex-convicts or men still under sentence. Transportation to West Australia having ceased for some years, a more steady increase in population is now looked for by the introduction of immigrants. There are very few large or wealthy squatters in the colony. Storekeepers, who are often mere birds of passage, and publicans, who interest themselves little in the religious welfare of the colonists, are among the 'best-to-do' people. This population is scattered over a vast area. Champion Bay is nearly its northern extremity, and Albany its southern, and about 50,000 square miles are comprised within the limits of the inhabited parts. There are, exclusive of a prison chaplain, who has no parochial cure, sixteen chaplains, who minister in twenty-six consecrated churches and eighteen schoolrooms and other buildings. Thirteen of the chaplains are university men. Towards the maintenance of these chaplains, the imperial government contributes 1260*l.* per annum; the local government, 1846*l.*; the parishioners, 690*l.*

the S.P.G., 50*l.*; and the Colonial and Continental Clergy Society, 40*l.* Deducting the come of the colonial chaplain (who is also at 350*l.*, and 50*l.* allowed the bishop for travel expenses, and 50*l.* to the archdeacon, it gives clergy, exclusive of the colonial chaplain, average income of 229*l.* The twenty-six churches referred to have received little aid toward erection from the imperial or colonial government. Some have received aid from the S.P.G. but their erection has been almost wholly due to local efforts. Of the sixteen chaplains, eleven have parsonages (also the fruits of local efforts) two have a 'house allowance' from the people and three from the colonial government.

"Nearly 500 miles further north than the to which my remarks have been confined, there is a rising and important station, Nicol, with a population (rapidly increasing) of Malay divers, and perhaps 300 white people. In pearl-shell fishing and pearl fishing they find a very lucrative employment; but they have no clergyman or religious instruction of any kind, and by many the Sunday is entirely disregarded.

"I hope that I have placed before the society with sufficient minuteness the present condition of the diocese.

"2. The prospects of the Church here are, as regards temporalities, at all cheering. In January 1871, the Church of England, which had enjoyed to some extent the status and privileges of an established Church, was, summarily, and without a day's previous notice, disestablished, with an intimation of coming disendowment. This change had been determined upon, as appears from despatches since published, in a correspondence between Governor Wickham and Lord Kimberley. Under it the Church is placed upon a footing with the other religious bodies who receive State aid, the 'vested interests' of the present Church of England chaplains being, however, alone guaranteed. We were thus taught to look forward to a time when the Church would lose all State aid, and be placed in the same condition as its sister branches in the other colonies.

"Happily we have in the 'vested rights' several of the existing chaplains a respite; and to the wisdom and diligence with which the Church here turns this respite to account she must, humanly speaking, owe her continued existence. The bishopric now vacant is poorly endowed; the chaplains, where they have families, are struggling against poverty; the population, generally, have scanty means; while the convict element has bred a great indifference to religion, which remoteness from the home of God and from schools tends, in a great measure, to increase. The above are all in their ways serious hindrances to the success of an endowment and sustentation fund. Yet we have begun our work hopefully, amid much opposition, and I will now lay before you what—

"3. The diocese is doing in the direction of self-help.

"I enclose a printed copy of a plan adopted for raising an endowment and sustentation fund. This plan passed the synod in 1874, but it was thought advisable, before bringing it into action, to obtain a reply from the government respecting various blocks of land, which it was desirable to obtain as sites for future churches and parsonages, and as glebes for present and future ministers. These sites and glebes have, after a long delay, been fixed upon and granted. The value of the land, in the majority of cases, is scarcely more than nominal. An increase of population and a corresponding increase in the value of land may give more importance to the gift.

"We are now fairly at work. Upwards of 300*l.* have been contributed in annual subscriptions, and more than 100*l.* in donations. We hope to raise 600*l.* annually, and to obtain a few donations in land besides; and should we be able to obtain a continuance of State aid for ten or fifteen years longer, a good beginning, at least, will have been made toward endowment. The subscriptions will placed out by the standing committee, who under a legislative enactment, incorporated the Trustees of Church Property, and as the act at present is, from 8 to 10 per cent. would realised upon the investments. To carry out plan successfully, much exertion will be required upon the part of the standing committee, that this fund may not interfere with the pre-voluntary subsidy toward the Clergy Stipend, nor render them unable to meet the claims of time and enlarged population will superadd. The standing committee respectfully make request for the undermentioned aid, viz. :—

That 200*l.* may be granted to the endowment annually for ten years; such annual grant be paid upon the voucher of the bishop (or in default of a bishop, of the clergyman next in ecclesiastical rank), that the sum of 600*l.* has been raised in the diocese in cash during the year preceding, and placed for the purposes of endowment fund in the hands of the Trustees Church Property. I beg to remain, &c."

The standing committee gave notice that at the next monthly general meeting, to be held Tuesday, May 2, they would propose a grant of 2000*l.* in aid of the Fund for the Endowment of the Church in the Diocese of Perth, Western Australia, to meet three times the amount, or 6000*l.*—the society's grant to be payable in instalments of 200*l.* to meet 600*l.*; the whole to be claimed within ten years; and each instalment, with the sum raised to meet it, to be permanently and securely invested for the purpose named, in a manner satisfactory to the standing committee.

PROPOSAL FOR THE REMOVAL OF THE SOCIETY'S PREMISES.

The standing committee submitted the following statement and notice of motions for the next general meeting.

The finance committee, after lengthened inquiry and anxious deliberation, have laid a report before the standing committee, representing :—

"1. That very serious hindrances to the usefulness of the society and the carrying on of its extensive business arise from the inconvenience and insufficiency of its present premises, in regard of position and arrangement.

"2. That the existing site is such that no practical alteration of the buildings can remove these hindrances, or make the premises adequate to the society's work.

"3. That, on these accounts, it is extremely desirable to take immediate steps to remove the society to a new home, which, by its position and adaptation to the various branches of the society's work, shall enable the society to carry on and extend its operations with fresh vigour, and represent the Church of England more worthily than it does at present.

"4. That it is believed the cost of removal might, under the sanction of the Court of Chancery and the Charity Commissioners, be defrayed out of a capital fund, amounting to about 96,000*l.*, which was bequeathed to the society towards the end of the last century, and has ever since been held in trust for the society by the Accountant-General of the Court of Chancery."

The standing committee having taken this report into consideration, and being deeply impressed with its importance, have given it a general approval, and appointed a sub-committee (consisting of the treasurers, together with the other five members of the finance committee, and five members of the standing committee, with power to add five other members of the society to their number), to ascertain definitely whether the above-named fund is applicable to the purpose in view, and to inquire where and at what cost a suitable site can be acquired.

The standing committee, moreover, consider it due to the general meeting to lay the foregoing statement before them, and to ask for their sanction to the proposed scheme of removal, and further, in order to facilitate negotiation and avoid delay, they think it expedient to apply for authority from the general meeting to conclude the purchase of a site, should a suitable one be found; it being understood that in no case shall the entire cost of the site and the buildings to be erected on it exceed the amount of the above-named fund, and that by the subsequent sale of the existing premises a considerable part of the cost will be returned to the society.

The standing committee therefore gave notice that at the next general meeting they would propose the two following resolutions :—

"1. That this meeting sanction the proposed scheme of removal.

"2. That the standing committee be authorised to select and purchase a suitable site, with a view to the erection on it of a new house for the society, under the sanction of the Court of Chancery and the Charity Commissioners."

GRANT RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE, OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING OF PUPIL TEACHERS IN LONDON.—The standing committee, in accordance with notice given at the last monthly general meeting, and for reasons set forth at length in the last monthly report, proposed that 500*l.* be placed at their disposal, to enable them to carry out the recommendations set forth in the report on this subject, which was submitted to the monthly meeting of March last.

The resolution was carried.

MOTIONS OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

Her Majesty's Proclamation against Vice.

In accordance with notice given at the last meeting, the Rev. Charles Miller, vicar of Harlow, moved—

"That the society be requested to consider the best means of promoting in action the principles of her Majesty's proclamation against vice."

Seconded by Mr. William Harris.

The Rev. J. W. Buckley moved the previous question in the following terms :—

"That the motion be now put."

This was seconded by Mr. Evans.

The amendment was lost, and Mr. Miller's motion was not put.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE NEXT MEETING.

F. J. Candy, Esq., M.A., gave notice that at the next meeting he should move that—

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, FEBRUARY 8.—Resolutions were passed expressive of the importance attached to the bringing forward of native clergymen of superior qualifications to posts of prominence and responsibility in the native church in India, in accordance with which the committee expressed an opinion that the Rev. W. T. Sathianadhan might with advantage be appointed chairman of the Madras Native Church Council, and that competent native clergymen should be appointed as vice-chairmen of the different native church councils in Tinnevely of which Dr. Sargent is the chairman. The committee decided that the proceedings of every meeting of a council be submitted as early as possible to the Madras corresponding committee, and that no resolution of a council to which the chairman, or in his absence the vice-chairman, or one-third of the members present might object, or which should affect funds partly supplied by the society, should be carried into effect until approved of by the Madras corresponding committee; also that it was desirable to keep in view the appointment of a bishop, who might discharge for the native church in Travancore similar duties with those devolving on Dr. Sargent for Tinnevely; and that on this subject the secretaries consult with the Bishop of Madras, the Madras corresponding committee, and with other persons competent to give advice.

GENERAL COMMITTEE, FEBRUARY 14.—Reference having been made to a letter from the Archbishop of Canterbury, asking that, in the event of the society continuing to wish for a change in the day appointed for prayer for foreign missions, a communication be addressed to him to that effect before Easter, the secretaries stated that the subject of the day of prayer had been well considered at the meeting of the association secretaries, and that there was a pretty general concurrence in the advisability of the observance of a day of prayer, as well as in the undesirableness of pressing for a change in the day, although to many St. Andrew's did not seem the most suitable. The committee directed that the archbishop be informed that, while the committee thought that another season of the year might have been more suitable for the observance of the day of prayer for missions, they were not disposed to press further for a change, and that they would be glad to be informed at an early date whether his grace intended to recommend the observance of St. Andrew's Day for the present year. The committee also directed that a memorandum be drawn up for general circulation among the friends of the society, embodying the views of the committee, and making such suggestions as might tend to the hearty and spiritual observance of the day.

A letter having been read from the Rev. R. Bruce, dated Isfahan, giving an account of the action taken by the governor of Isfahan in closing the mission school, and requesting the committee to take prompt and immediate measures for redress of the grievance complained of, and for securing for Protestant clergymen, their congregations, and institutions in Persia the same rights and privileges as are enjoyed by other Christian communities in that land, the committee, adverting to the previous action taken by Lord Lawrence in bringing to the notice of the Foreign Office the question of religious liberty in Persia, directed that he be requested to submit Mr. Bruce's letter for the consideration of Lord Derby in view of obtaining redress of the grievance complained of, and securing religious and civil freedom for Protestant communities in Persia.

The report of the Henry Venn sub-committee having been presented and read, the following grants were adopted by the committee on the recommendation of the sub-committee:—To the Sierra Leone native pastorate, 100*l*.; to the native church on the Niger, 100*l*.; and to the native church at Lucknow, 25*l*. Under the head of native missionary societies, the committee made the following grants, on the recommendation of the sub-committee:—To the Sierra Leone native church, for missionary work at Bullom and Quiah, 25*l*. to the Gorakpur Native Missionary Association, 20*l*.; to the Tinnevely Provincial Council, 50*l*.; to the Madras Provincial Council, 20*l*.; to the Travancore Provincial Council, 40*l*.; to the Cotta Native Church Missionary Association, 60*l*.; and to the Missionary Association of the Tamil Cooly Mission, 25*l*.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, FEBRUARY 22.—The report of the N'yanza sub-committee, recommending the acceptance of Mr. O'Neill as a lay missionary, approving the preparation of detailed instructions for the mission party, and the appointment of Lieutenant G. S. Smith to be the leader of the party on their journey to the lake, were approved and adopted by the committee.

Mr. Robertson was also accepted by the committee as a skilled artisan and industrial teacher for the N'yanza mission.

The secretaries reported that the friends who had presented the Dove steam launch to the society for the East Africa mission had, in consequence of that vessel having failed to reach her destination, purchased a steam yacht (the Highland Lassie) of larger size and better seagoing qualities to take her place, and that Lieutenant Smith, who had been accepted for the N'yanza mission, was prepared to sail her out to Zanzibar. The best thanks of the committee were directed to be given to the who had presented the society with the yacht for use in the East Africa mission the offer of Lieutenant Smith to sail her Zanzibar was accepted.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, FEBRUARY.—The Rev. H. U. Weithrecht (son of the late missionary, the Rev. J. J. Weit having offered himself to the society missionary to India, and letters having read from friends of the society bearing testimony to his spiritual character and ministerial qualifications, and his peculiar fitness for the training a native ministry, the committee fully received the offer of Mr. Weithrecht accepted him as a missionary of the society North India, with a view to devoting him the work of training a native ministry.

The committee sanctioned the printing of 2000 copies of Mr. Rebmann's translation of St. John's Gospel in Kima and directed an application to be made to the British and Foreign Bible Society for a grant the same.

A letter was read from the Rev. Dr. I. Kornthal, Stuttgart, stating that Rebmann had lately seen Dr. Berlin, the celebrated oculist at Stuttgart, and that he had him no hope whatever of the recovery of sight; that, under the circumstances, Mr. Rebmann had felt it his duty to give up the hope of ever returning to Africa, and accordingly requested that such an arrangement might be made by the committee as would enable him to live in Germany. The committee directed that the expression of their deep sympathy be conveyed to Mr. Rebmann in the great trial he had appointed for him in the apparently complete loss of his sight; and sanctioned his being placed on the disabled fund under special arrangement.

The Rev. Sholto D. C. Douglas was introduced to the committee, and gave much valuable and interesting information with regard to the mission work carried on in several parts of the society's wide field of labour, which he had recently had the opportunity of visiting. Mr. Douglas had seen the society's missions in various parts of India and in Hongkong and Japan, and bore testimony to the zeal and which he had seen being carried on. He had especially on the Tinnevely mission, of which he had seen more than of the other missions, suggested to the committee the importance of encouraging some of the younger and earnest of the native pastors to special efforts awakening a spiritual life amongst the Christians themselves, such as those who are known at home as mission servants.

The instructions of the committee were delivered by the hon. clerical secretary, Lieutenant G. S. Smith, proceeding to the N'yanza mission, which having been acknowledged, he was addressed by the chairman, then commended in prayer to the favour and protection of Almighty God by the Rev. Mr. Billing.

The sum of 372,202l. has been granted towards building thirty schools or mission churches. # LONDON FREE AND OPEN CHURCH ASSOCIATION.

The ordinary monthly meeting of the executive council was held on Wednesday evening, March 1st, having been postponed from the previous Wednesday on account of the occurrence of Ash Wednesday, at the rooms of the association, 25, Moik Street, Strand; E. C. Ireland, Esq., in the chair. The following new vice-presidents were announced and approved, viz.:—Rev. Jones moved, and Mr. Vincent seconded, the following resolution, which was carried unanimously:—
“That this council greatly regrets the revival of the project for the destruction of a large number of churches in the City of London, and trusts that in no case should any of such churches be removed until fair trial has first been made of the abandonment of all appropriation therein, the holding of frequent and suitable services, and the opening of the same for private prayer, for the benefit of persons engaged in business, and of those residing in the many populous localities in the immediate neighbourhood which are ill-provided with such means of grace.
“And that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the President and Fellows of St. Paul, and the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul, and the patrons of the several churches.”
On the motion of Mr. Vincent, seconded by Mr. Prosser, C. H. E. Carmichael, Esq., was elected a member of the council.

The society has much pleasure in stating that the secretary has received a letter from the Dean of St. Paul, acceding to Lord Nelson's request for the use of the cathedral on the occasion of the society's anniversary service, which will be held in May next.

JUDICIAL COMMITTEE OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

JENKINS v. COOK.

ON Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, January 19 to 21, this case was heard before the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor, the Archbishop of York, Lord Hatherley, Lord Penance, Sir Fitzroy Kelly, Sir W. M. James, Sir Barnes Peacock, and Sir J. Hannen. It will be remembered that the appellant, Mr. Jenkins, who is a resident parishioner and freeholder in Christ Church, Clifton, presented himself to partake of the Holy Communion, kneeling with other members of the congregation, but the respondent, Mr. Cook, the vicar of Christ Church, intentionally passed him over and refused to deliver to him the bread of the Holy Communion and (by his curate) to deliver him the wine of the Sacrament. Mr. Jenkins then promoted this suit, which was decided against him by Sir Robert Phillimore, Dean of Arches, in July last. From that decision Mr. Jenkins now appealed.

Dr. Deane and Mr. Fitzjames Stephen appeared for the appellant, and Dr. J. A. Stephens for the respondent.

At the conclusion of the argument, the committee consulted for about an hour, and the LORD CHANCELLOR then stated that their lordships would reserve their judgment.

On Wednesday, February 16, the Lord Chancellor delivered judgment in favour of Mr. Jenkins, the appellant, with costs.

THE OWSTON FERRY CASE.—KEET v. SMITH AND OTHERS.

This appeal was heard before the seven lay judges, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York having withdrawn during the interval. The appellant was a Wesleyan minister, residing at Owston Ferry, in the diocese and county of Lincoln; and the respondents were the vicar and churchwardens of Owston Ferry. The appeal was from a decision of Sir R. Phillimore in the Arches Court, confirming the decision of Mr. W. Phillimore, as Chancellor of the Diocese of Lincoln, whereby a faculty was refused for the erection of a tombstone in the churchyard of the parish to the memory of Mr. Keet's daughter. The proposed inscription was in the following words:—

I.H.S. In loving memory of Annie Augusta Keet, the youngest daughter of the Rev. H. Keet, Wesleyan minister, who died at Owston Ferry, May 11, 1874, aged seven years and nine months.

"Safe sheltered from the storms of life."

After the conclusion of the argument, the Lord Chancellor delivered the unanimous judgment of the committee in favour of the appellant.

ROLLS COURT.

DECEMBER 18, 1875.

JONES v. DANGERFIELD.

The benefice of the Rev. James Brothers was under sequestration at the time of his decease in October 1873. Shortly after the avoidance the buildings of the benefice were inspected pursuant to the Ecclesiastical Dilapidations Act by the diocesan surveyor, who estimated the dilapidations at 174*l.* 18*s.*

This was an application by the plaintiff in a suit on behalf of the creditors for whose benefit the sequestration was issued, asking that the sequestrator might be ordered to pay into court the sum of 139*l.* 15*s.* 3*d.* to the credit of the cause, being the amount certified to be due from him on passing his final account as such sequestrator; the question being whether the sequestrator and the fund in his hands, being profits of the benefice, were or not primarily liable for the repair of the buildings.

The MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that prior to the passing of the Ecclesiastical Dilapidations Act, 1871, the sequestrator would have been bound to apply the moneys in his hands towards repairs; but that s. 53 of that act relieved him from the obligation; and ordered him to pay the fund into court to the credit of the cause.

COMMON PLEAS DIVISION.

JANUARY 21.

WRIGHT v. DAVIES.

This was a case which raised a question of some importance under the Ecclesiastical Dilapidations Act of 1871. It came before the court upon demurrer to a plea setting out an agreement between two incumbents to exchange their livings, one of the terms of which was that neither of them should be held liable for dilapidations. It was admitted that before the Act in question, there was a common law duty upon the outgoing incumbent of a benefice to keep it in repair, and that an agreement such as the one relied upon in the plea would have been a good and valid defence to an action for damages, provided it were not simoniacal; but it was contended for the plaintiff that that state of things had been altered by the Act, and that the agreement, by being to the injury and prejudice of the living, was contrary to the spirit of the Act, and therefore void.

The court, however, gave judgment for the defendant, upon the ground that the effect of the Act, by ascertaining the amount of the dilapidations in the first instance, was simply to change the form of remedy from an action for damages to one of debt; (2) that there was nothing in the Act expressly prohibiting such an agreement as that relied upon, and though it was conceivable that there might be an agreement which, without being expressly illegal in its terms, was so repugnant to the tenor and purport of the Act that the court would imply that it was prohibited by the Act, yet that was not the case here; and (3) that as the Act contained clauses by which, in the event of the outgoing incumbent not paying for dilapidations, his successor was to be held liable, and if the successor, through no fault of his, was unable to pay the amount, or to borrow it from the Governor of Queen Anne's Bounty, the living was to be sequestrated, and the debt still to continue against him, it could not be contended that the living was not protected by the Act, and the argument, therefore, that it would suffer if the agreement was allowed must be held to have failed.

Judgment for defendant.

If they fail to do this without reasonable excuse, they will become liable to a penalty of Forty Shillings. In case of their inability or default, one of the other persons must give personal information and sign the Register within the same period.

To meet exceptional cases, the Registrar may, at the end of forty-two days, by a written application, require any one of the above-named persons to come to him at a stated time and place, in order to give personal information, and sign the Register. Any person who fails to comply with his Requisition will become liable to a Penalty of Forty Shillings.

For the registration of a Birth, as above, no payment will be required. But if either of the persons above mentioned sends to the Registrar a written request to come and register at his or her residence, or at the house in which the Birth took place, the Registrar, upon so attending to register, will be entitled to a fee of One Shilling.

If a Birth has not been registered within three months, it can be registered only in the presence of the Superintendent Registrar. A fee of Two Shillings and Sixpence will then be payable to him, and the same sum to the Registrar, unless the delay in registering is proved to have been by the default of the latter. In such a case one of the persons above named must attend (by appointment with the Registrar, or in pursuance of his Requisition) at the District Register Office, and make before the Superintendent Registrar, on one of the authorized Forms, a solemn Declaration in writing of the particulars to be registered. The Registrar will thereupon register according to the Declaration; and the Superintendent Registrar, as well as the Registrar and the person giving information, will sign the Entry. After twelve months a Birth can be registered only on the Registrar-General's express authority, and on payment of fees amounting to Ten Shillings.

DEATHS.

The persons required to give to the Registrar personal information of the particulars to be registered as to a death, and to sign the Register in his presence, are:—

1. The nearest relatives of the Deceased present at the Death, or in attendance during the last illness.

In case of their inability or default.

2. Every other relative of the Deceased in the same (Registrar's) Sub-District.

In default of any relatives.

3. (a) Each person present at the Death; (b) the Occupier of the House in which the Death occurred.

In default of all the above-mentioned.

4. (a) Each Inmate of the House in which the Death occurred; and (b) the Person causing the Body to be Buried.

Relatives present at the Death or in attendance are thus firstly made responsible for securing registration. One of them must, within five days of the Death, give to the Registrar personal information thereof, and sign the Register, as above described, or must, within the same time, send him written Notice of the Death, accompanied by a Medical Certificate of the cause thereof, signed by a Registered Medical Practitioner, if any such attended the Deceased. The written Notice will be useless without a legal Medical Certificate. If Notice is sent, information must nevertheless be given and the Register signed within fourteen days from the Death. If the relatives, present or in attendance, fail, without reasonable excuse, to carry out these provisions, they will become liable to a penalty of Forty Shillings. In case of their inability or default, one of the other persons must secure the registration in like manner within the same period.

To meet exceptional cases, the Registrar may, at the end of fourteen days, by a written application, require any one of the above-named persons to come to him at a stated time and place in order to give personal information, and sign the Register. Any person who fails to comply with his Requisition will become liable to a penalty of Forty Shillings.

In every case where the deceased has been attended by a Registered Medical Practitioner, a certificate of the Cause of Death signed by him must be delivered to the Registrar. Any person receiving such a Certificate from the Practitioner, and not so delivering it, will incur a penalty of Forty Shillings.

The Registration of a Death as above will be statutory; but if on request it is effected at an informant's house, or at the house where the death occurred, a fee of One Shilling will be payable to the Registrar.

After twelve months a death can be registered only on the Registrar-General's express authority, and on payment of fees amounting to Ten Shillings.

BURIALS.

Registrar's Certificate or Coroner's Order for Burial

Section 17 of the Statute provides that on registering a Death, or receiving notice of a Death under certain conditions, a Registrar shall give his Certificate of Registry, or of Notification thereof (as the case may be); and that on holding an Inquest, a Coroner may issue his Order for the burial of the body.

Persons receiving from a Registrar his Certificate of Registry or Certificate of Notification of a Death, or from a Coroner his Order for Burial, are required, under a penalty of 40s. in case of failure, to deliver, or cause to be delivered, the same to the person who buries or performs any funeral or religious service for the Burial of the deceased.

The person Burying or performing a service for the Burial of any dead body is required, if one of the three documents above-mentioned is not delivered to him, to give Notice of the Burial within Seven Days thereafter to the Registrar of the Sub-District in which the Death took place. A Penalty of Ten Pounds will be incurred on failure to comply with the provisions of this Section.

Burial of Still-born Children.

Section 18 provides that a person who has control over, or who ordinarily buries bodies in any Burial Ground, shall not permit the Burial therein of any deceased child as if Still-born; nor that of any Still-born child before receiving (1) a written Certificate that the child was Still-born, signed by a Registered Medical Practitioner who was in attendance at the Birth, or who has examined the body; or (2) a Declaration signed by a person qualified according to the Statute to give information of a Birth,* stating that no Registered Medical Practitioner was present at the Birth, or that his Certificate cannot be obtained, and that the child was not born alive; or (3) if there has been an Inquest, an Order of the Coroner. Any person acting in contravention of these provisions is liable to a penalty of Ten Pounds.

Burial of more than one Body in a Coffin.

Section 19 provides that when more than One Body is brought for Burial in a single Coffin, the Undertaker, or person having charge of the Funeral, shall sign and deliver to the person burying or performing the burial service, a Notice in writing, stating, to the best of his knowledge and belief as to each Body, (1) the name, sex, and place of abode of deceased; or (2) if the Body was found exposed, and the name and place of abode are unknown, the fact that such is the case; or (3) if the Body is that of a deceased child without name, or of a Still-born child, the name and place of abode of the child's Father, or if it is illegitimate, of its Mother. Every person failing to comply with this Section is liable to a penalty of Ten Pounds.

NOTE.—The provisions of Sections 17 and 18 will apply to cases where there are two Bodies in one Coffin, as well as to others. Persons burying will therefore not be exonerated from complying with those provisions, though Notice from the Undertaker or other person, as provided by Section 19, may be delivered to them.

NOTICE OF DEFAULT OF PAYMENT OF TITHE.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—I should be obliged by an answer to the following question:—

Is it legal to serve a notice (in case of default of payment of tithe) on a landholder for each separate holding he may have?

There is a very troublesome tithe-payer in my parish. He occupies six farms. Regularly twice a year I have to serve him with a notice before he will pay his tithe. Hitherto I have only served him with one notice for the whole amount due, which has cost him only 2s. 6d.

But I think were I to serve him with six notices involving a cost of 15s. to him, he would be more likely to be punctual in his payments.

COLLECTING TITHE RENT-CHARGE.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—A gentleman asks you a question as to receiving of the rent-charge. My farmers ask me the same. The owner of this parish collected his own rent and his great tithe. He is dead, and the present agent has given notice to the payers to take the amounts into his office out of the parish. If this be correct, the gentleman who receives my small tithe and glebe-land rents can do the same, and thus compel my neighbours to travel over four miles. I cannot believe he can compel any one to meet him beyond the parish. If at any time you can learn the state, I shall feel grateful.

R. M.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

Brindle Rectory, Chorley, Lancashire.

SIR,—As the directions given by "A Rector," professing to mark out the legal mode of collecting tithe rent-charge may mislead many of the clergy to their serious damage and vexation, suffer me to warn them, through your columns, of the usual danger of following a blind guide. I assert, that the "Rector's" law is his own law, and not that of the Tithe Commutation Act; and this I will undertake to prove, if you will permit me, in your next number, by presenting you and your readers with a copy of a letter on this very subject, received by me many years ago from no less an authority than the solicitor to the Tithe Commissioners.

I am, &c.

THOMAS LUND, B.D.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—Will your correspondent, "A Rector," inform us on what authority he states that an owner of tithe rent-charge must apply for it personally or by an agent? The Commutation Act simply provides that in case the rent-charge be in arrear for twenty-one days, proceedings may be taken for its recovery. The statement of "A Rector" is at variance with the language of the Act and with the custom, I suppose, of nearly every parish.

Yours, &c.

A VICAR.

RENT-CHARGE.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—Labour is not rateable. Let the ecclesiastical rent-charge holder take his stand upon this point. It may be exemplified by the late rating of trade before it was unfairly exempted. The visible stock-in-trade was rated, not the labour. Now what says the Rating Act in its present form?—"All hereditaments shall be rated at what they could let for." Let this rating test be applied equally to rent-charge and land; land is rated at what it will let for to the sleeping landlord. The labour on the land to produce the rent is not rated. Rent-charge in law and equity should be rated likewise. The incumbent's labour, whether performed by himself or curate, ought in justice to be deducted from his rate. Your correspondent "V.'s" argument in your issue of August 10 is taken, very partially, from the Rez v. Jodrel case. He says, "The beneficed clergyman should be rated equally with a landowner of equal gross income, though the estate of the latter will sell for five times as much as the benefice of the former, because the clergyman must discharge certain duties in person." We will leave out of the question the relative values of land and rent-charge, and stick to the point. I give an extract from Rez v. Jodrel, Parish of Yelling:—"The expenses of providing for the duties of incumbency ought not to be deducted, because those duties are personal, and ought to be performed personally by the incumbent; the last objection, therefore, ought to prevail in part. The case must for these reasons be sent back to the sessions, who must amend the rate, acting as nearly in conformity to the principle here laid down as their means of investigation will admit; a precise and accurate rendering of it is, we are aware, impracticable." The ruling of the judge in this case was very indefinite, as may be seen from the passage I left out and inserted above. The last objection, therefore, ought to prevail in part. The clergy will get no redress without trying the case again. I revert to my former advice, and recommend a subscription to be made in every deanery throughout England.

RURAL RECTOR.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—Mine is a hard task—to convince men against both their will and their pockets. But let me try once more, assuring "W. A." that I have not in the least misunderstood the purport of the discussion.

Adjoining my orchard is a grass field rated at some 9*l.* a year. Some years ago it was for sale, and I tried to buy it with some money belonging to the living, but now in the Consecration. I did not bid high enough, and the field was bought by my friend, the family doctor. When there is a sixpenny rate, the doctor (or, to be strictly accurate, his son, also my doctor, who has now succeeded his father) pays the nine sixpences required. But "W. A." is of opinion that, if I had bought it, I ought (if justice were done) to have had to pay only about four sixpences and a threepenny bit, because my living is only 300*l.* a year, and my services, as curate, may be reckoned at 150*l.* For my part, I am vain enough to reckon my services at the full 300*l.*; and if my reckoning could only be adopted by the law, I should, on "W. A.'s" principle, get off paying my rates altogether. Nay, in all cases where the value of the curate's services could be made out to be in excess of the income of the benefice, your correspondent would doubtless advise an application to the parish for a positive share of the rates to be paid to the parson.

I cannot see the justice of the proposed charge at all. If I had bought the field, I should have bought it, just as the doctor did, subject to all contingencies of rates and taxes, and have made my calculations as to the purchase-money accordingly. If the law had been altered, on the principle so strongly insisted upon by your correspondent, I could have afforded to pay a higher price than anybody else, and so the advantage might have gone ultimately to the seller.

Now let us try to unravel the tangle in which the subject is involved. First, it seems to me there is a latent feeling that, because the Church of England is in some sense a "State Church," and that rates and taxes are imposed by "State" authority, therefore the clergy are to the State, for this purpose, in the position of salaried servants, and that it is somewhat mean of Master State to pretend to pay a fair wage and then make large deductions from it. I need hardly do more than "state" this to show its absurdity. If the State, whether represented by the Commander-in-Chief or a board of guardians, wants a chaplain, it hires him and pays him, and there is an end of the business. But I fear that there are some boards of guardians, some highway surveyors, some fighting and watching committees—nay, even some mayors and corporations—who do not want the parish clergy at all, even though they have them for nothing.

Then there is that wonderful argument about the incumbent not being able to get his returns from his glebe or his tithes unless he performs the church duties, any more than the tenant of a copyhold farm can get his returns without providing for farming the land. Will somebody tell me how much better my grass has been this year for the three sermons I have preached every Sunday? I do not find that it has been perceptibly better than that of my clerical neighbours who have only preached twice. The land is there; and there is its produce, part of which is claimed, and justly claimed, by the community for public purposes; and it makes no matter whatever to the community, so far as this question is concerned, whether the rent goes to a parson or a pig-sticker. I hope I have made it plain at last: if not, I shall be ready, if I live as long, to trouble you again in two months' time.

INCOME TAX.—LICENSED CURATES.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—In THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE of November last a letter appeared, signed "D. G.," stating that the stipends of licensed curates are not liable to assessment for income tax. I followed your correspondent's advice and appealed, using his words, "By the original act, licensed curates are classed with, and in the same position as, annuitants," &c. The surveyor of taxes replied, "The effect of Rule 10, No. 4, sect. 60, of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 35, which, I presume, is the act quoted, is not to exempt licensed curates whose incomes amount to 100*l.* per annum and upwards from payment of income tax, but to enable the proprietor of any lands, &c. upon which the stipends to licensed curates are reserved, or charged, to deduct the income tax on payment of such stipends." Doubtless you would allow "D. G." space to state to what act he referred.

F. J.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—Would "D. G." kindly give the ground of appeal against payment of income-tax by licensed curates? If all of us can successfully appeal against the tax, why do the assessors send us their blue forms, and give us the trouble of appealing? Yours, &c.

A CURATE IN CHARGE.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

Ballarat, Victoria, December 25, 1875.

SIR,—I have received several communications from clergymen and others respecting work in my diocese. It will be an advantage if you will allow me to state through your columns that I have no openings for uneducated men, but specially need earnest clergymen (or educated candidates for orders) whom God may have disposed to give themselves to His work, even for a short time only, in this important field. I cannot promise the hardships and honours of a missionary's life in this thoroughly settled country, but I can promise to qualified and active men an experience in the realities of ministry, fraught with interest, freshness, and instruction, in a peculiarly salubrious climate, at only six weeks' distance from London; and not luxuries, indeed, but entire sufficiency for the temporal needs of an unmarried clergyman.

My commissary is the Rev. Canon Wilkinson, D.D., St. Martin's Rectory, Birmingham; and I may also refer any who desire information to the Lord Bishop of Melbourne, 32 Avenue Road, Regent's Park, London, N.W.

I am, &c.

SAMUEL BALLARAT.

QUEEN ANNE'S BOUNTY.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

Fordwich Rectory, Canterbury, February 3.

SIR,—Permit me to make a few observations touching the small livings of the Church, of which there are some thousands (about five) at incomes between 50*l.* and 200*l.* a year.

None of these, even the best, can be held with the many fixed outgoings upon them, and a family to be maintained, without something substantially subsidiary in the way of private means. Then how can those holding livings below 100*l.* a year maintain their position and their credit? Some have no private means, and the private means of others have been so largely drawn upon for rates and taxes (continually increasing in amount), and the exigencies of life as to place them in a condition very much crippled, rendering their position less and less tenable every year.

Very few seem to know to what extent and what way they may get some addition to the incomes from Queen Anne's Bounty. It is that this fund, going under the name of a bounty and was designed to be such, is in too many cases anything but a bounty. Its income, according to the last official report, is very large (some millions (if that report be rightly understood), out of which the holders of small livings ought to get some permanent and substantial help, and might do so if they knew how. The whole fund belongs to them, and by a judicious course of proceeding it might undoubtedly be obtained, but, as it is, very little reaches them.

My transactions with Queen Anne's Bounty Board, extending over some years, have been a kind to make me well acquainted with its constitution, its resources, its members, and its management, and I shall be only too happy to make my knowledge of these matters serviceable to the class of clergy for whose benefit the fund was formed, especially to such as may now be applying for grants, if they will communicate with me with particulars. The want of knowing how to proceed on this point too often results in disappointment.

Yours, &c.

EDW. BRAILSFORD, Esq.

ORDINATIONS.

THE Archbishop of York's next general ordination will be held on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Applicants for holy orders are required to write to the archbishop for permission to be admitted as candidates. Candidates accepted must send all requisite papers one month before the day of ordination to the archbishop's secretary, T. S. Noble, Esq., Lendal, York, who will supply a list of requirements on application.

The Bishop of Bath and Wells purposes to hold an ordination on Trinity Sunday next. His lordship requires from all candidates for priests' or deacons' orders at least three months' notice of their intention to offer themselves for ordination, and also a personal interview with himself or one of his examining chaplains. It is not necessary that candidates should be provided with a title at the time of giving notice. Graduates of Trinity College, Dublin, are required to produce the Divinity Testimonium; Associates of King's College, London, the Theological Certificate; and those who have passed the Preliminary Examination of Candidates for Holy Orders, the certificate of success. Full instructions may be obtained from his lordship's secretary, C. W. Garrod, Esq., Wells, Somerset, to whom all papers must be forwarded at least one month before the day of ordination.

The Bishop of Chester holds an ordination at each of the four Ember seasons in every year.

Candidates for ordination should communicate with the bishop or his senior examining chaplain, the Rev. Chancellor Espin, Wallasey Rectory, Birkenhead. The papers of accepted candidates for the next ordination on Sunday, June 11, must be received by the bishop's secretaries, Messrs. Parry and Gamon, St. Werburgh Chambers, Chester, on or before May 11.

The Bishop of Durham purposes holding his next ordination on Sunday, July 2. His lordship requires from all candidates for holy orders sufficient notice of their intention to present themselves for ordination. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge must produce the certificate of their having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors; those from Dublin, the Divinity Testimonium; and those from Durham, not being graduates, the Licence in Theology. All the necessary papers must be sent six weeks before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, John B. Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

The Bishop of Ely purposes holding his next ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11. His lordship requires from all candidates for deacons' orders three months' notice of their intention to offer themselves for ordination, and also a personal interview. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge must produce the certificate of their having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors. (Such certificate is not required if a candidate shows he has passed the Oxford Theological School or gone out in the Cambridge Theological Tripos.) Candidates for priests' orders are expected to give two months' notice of their intention to the bishop, and the necessary papers from all the candidates must be sent at least one month before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, Harry Wilmot Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

The Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol purposes holding his next ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Papers to be forwarded to the bishop's secretary, B. Bonner, Esq., Gloucester.

The Bishop of Hereford purposes to hold his next general ordination on Sunday, June 11. Persons desirous of becoming candidates are requested to communicate with his lordship at once, and may receive full instructions as to the necessary papers on application to H. C. Beddoe, Esq. (the bishop's secretary), Cathedral Close, Hereford.

The Bishop of Lichfield purposes to hold his next ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11.

The Bishop of Lincoln purposes holding his next ordination on Trinity Sunday. Persons who wish to be admitted as candidates for deacons' orders are desired to make a written application to the bishop, three months before the time of ordination; stating their age, college, academical degree, and the usual place of their residence; together with the names of three or more clergymen, or other persons of respectability, to whom they are well known, and to whom the bishop may apply for further information concerning them; and he desires that shortly after the above application candidates should have a personal interview with himself or one of his examining chaplains. All candidates must produce a certificate of baptism. Candidates from the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge must produce certificates of having attended two courses of Public Divinity Lectures. Candidates from Dublin must have the Divinity Testimonium. It being desirable that the literary and intellectual proficiency and qualifications of the several candidates should be duly tested, and also that the solemn season immediately before the ordination should be devoted to special spiritual exercises, the following arrangements are adopted:—An examination of candidates will be held about Easter, and the middle of October before each ordination. Candidates presenting themselves for this examination need not attend for the personal interview mentioned above. Those candidates who have passed "the preliminary examination of candidates for holy orders" within nine months will be excused this examination. On the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, immediately preceding the ordination, all those who have been admitted will be received by the bishop for united devotion, meditation, and communion. At the same time there will be a short examination upon pastoral care, and in scriptural and doctrinal knowledge, and each candidate will deliver a sermon or short thesis of his own composition. Due notice of examinations will be sent by the bishop's secretary. Persons may be admitted candidates, after satisfactory residence and probation at Lincoln, as theological students in attendance upon the Divinity School (Cancellarii Scholæ) and such parochial work under a clergyman as may be assigned to them. To such students the bishop is willing to give admission to his ordination examinations, or to grant them recommendations enabling them to present themselves for the preliminary examination of candidates for holy orders. Lincoln is one of the local centres at which this examination is held.—Persons who have been ordained deacons in this diocese are expected to present themselves as candidates for priests' orders on the same titles, but not before the expiration of a year, and to remain in their curacies another full year from their admission to priests' orders. Persons who have been ordained deacons in other dioceses will not be received as candidates for priests' orders in the diocese of Lincoln, nor will priests be admitted to serve as curates in the diocese till after the expiration of two years from their ordination as deacons; unless the bishop shall be satisfied, upon inquiry, as to the reasons of their leaving the diocese in which they have been so recently ordained.—For further information relative to the subjects of examination, application is to be made to the bishop's examining chaplains, the Rev. Chancellor Benson, D.D., The Chancery, Lincoln; the Rev. Canon Meyrick, Blickling Rectory, Aylsham, Norfolk; or the Rev. Canon Wordsworth, Brasenose College, Oxford. For information with regard to the papers, such as the "Si quis," and testimonials, and other certificates, which are necessary, before admission to examination, and similar matters, application is to be made to the bishop's secretary, Wm. Moss, Esq., Old Palace, Lincoln. For information relative to the facilities afforded for theological study at Lincoln, apply to the Rev. the Chancellor, The Chancery, Lincoln; or the Rev. Canon Crowfoot, Lincoln.

The Bishop of London's next ordination will be held on Trinity Sunday, June 11. Candidates, when accepted by the bishop, are to send their papers, with their addresses, one month before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, John B. Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W. The bishop requires all candidates for deacons' orders to communicate in the first instance with his lordship, and he will arrange for a personal interview.

The Bishop of Norwich purposes to hold his next general ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11.

The Bishop of Oxford intends to hold ordinations in the parish church of Cuddesdon on Trinity Sunday, June 11, and on Sunday, September 24; also in Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, on St. Thomas's Day, Thursday, December 21. A paper of instructions to candidates may be obtained by letter to the bishop's secretary, John M. Davenport, Esq., Oxford, to whom the requisite documents must be transmitted one month before the day of ordination. Candidates for deacons' orders are required to communicate with the bishop six months before the ordination at which they desire to present themselves, and to obtain his consent.

The Bishop of Peterborough purposes holding his ordinations in 1876 on Trinity Sunday, June 11, and Sunday, December 24. Every candidate for deacons' or priests' orders in the diocese should write to the bishop (at least three months previous to the ordination) for permission to present himself for examination, stating his age, academic degree, and his then present residence. In the case of a candidate for deacons' orders, this application must be accompanied by a reference to three clergymen, to whom the bishop may apply for information respecting him. The bishop will appoint a personal interview, which is absolutely necessary. Candidates, when accepted by his lordship, may obtain full instructions as to the necessary papers on application to the diocesan secretary, H. P. Gates, Esq., Peterborough, to whom they should be sent at least one month previous to the ordination.

The Bishop of Ripon intends to hold an ordination on Sunday, September 24. Candidates for deacons' orders must give three months' notice to the bishop of their desire to offer themselves for ordination, and candidates for priests' orders are expected to give two months' notice. Candidates from Oxford are required to produce a certificate of having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors. Candidates from Cambridge must have attended the lectures of the Regius Professor of Divinity, those from the University of Dublin must have the Divinity Testimonium, and those from Durham not being graduates the Licence in Theology. The necessary papers must be forwarded to the bishop's secretary in London, John B. Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W., at least one month before the day of ordination.

The Bishop of Rochester purposes to hold an ordination at each of the four Ember seasons. Persons desirous of being admitted as candidates may obtain a paper of instructions upon writing to the bishop's secretaries, Messrs. Day and Hassard, 28 Great George Street, Westminster, S.W.

The Bishop of Salisbury purposes to hold an ordination on Trinity Sunday, June 11, 1876. The several candidates are requested to send their names to the bishop not later than April 20, as a preliminary examination will be held in May, and the accepted candidates must forward the usual papers to his lordship's secretary, T. Brodrick, Esq., Diocesan Registry, Salisbury, not later than May 25.

The Bishop of Winchester purposes holding an ordination on Trinity Sunday, 1876. His lordship requires from all candidates for deacons' orders three months' notice of their intention to offer themselves for ordination, and also a personal interview. Candidates from the University of Oxford or Cambridge must produce the certificate of their having attended a course of lectures by one of the Divinity Professors. Candidates for priests' orders are expected to give two months' notice of their intention to the bishop, and the necessary papers from all the candidates must be sent at least one month before the day of ordination to his lordship's secretary, John B. Lee, Esq., 2 Broad Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.

The Bishop of Worcester holds an ordination at each of the four Ember seasons in every year. He wishes to have three months' notice from all candidates for deacons' orders. SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.

67 Lincoln's Inn Fields.

TUESDAY, MAY 2, 1876.

The LORD BISHOP OF LONDON in the chair.

MONEY GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

DIOCESE OF AUCKLAND.—The bishop of the diocese forwarded an application from the Rev. William Calder, minister of Waikato east diocese, on one of the society's forms, and countersigned by himself, for a grant for a new church at Whatawhata, in the district of Waikato.

The estimated cost of a wooden building to accommodate 75 persons is 150*l*. Of this sum 60*l* are in hand, and it is expected that 60*l* more may be raised. The bishop has given 25*l* and the people on the spot have promised 35*l*. One small farmer is giving 5*l*, and proposes to cart all the wood from the bush, which is equivalent to 5*l* more.

There are about 75 adult settlers in the district. The site is vested in the bishop, and the standing committee of the diocese hold the deed.

The inhabitants are men of no capital, but on small holdings, bushmen on day wages, and two storekeepers. The great majority are of the profession Church people.

The site of the proposed church is 10 miles, over a bad road, from Hamilton, and the same distance, over a medium road, to Newcastle. It is a poor place, far from the road and from communication with other settlements. The settlers are all very poor, and the freight is very high to such an out-of-the-way place; but it is a rising place, and the bishop wishes very much for a church.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 25*l* for the erection of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the following conditions, viz.:—

That previously to the payment of a grant for any church or portion of a church, or for any other building, the bishop shall certify that the church or portion thereof, or the other building for which the grant has been made, is completed and ready to be used, and that the society's grant the whole cost of the building, and no liability exist which will attach legally or morally to the congregation or to any person or persons; and further, that the property has been duly secured as for property for ever, and adequately secured for five years, the society's grants are to be as having lapsed.

DIOCESE OF ONTARIO.—Fenagh Hill, Fenagh Hill.—The bishop forwarded an application on one of the society's forms, countersigned by himself, from the Rev. W. J. Muckleston, minister at Vankleek Hill, for a new church at Fenagh Hill, in that district.

The total cost of the proposed church is to be of brick, and to hold about 100 persons, reckoned at nearly 400*l*. Of this sum, 200*l* are promised, and nearly the whole of it on the spot.

The site is invested in the bishop. There are about 30 householders attending the service present, representing about 200 people.

The people are nearly all poor. They are farmers, with fairly good farms, but with no opportunity of obtaining ready money for their produce. With the exception of some few Roman Catholics, nearly all are members of the Church of England.

There is no church within 11 miles of the proposed new building. The people come in large numbers to the service held in the old hall, but can scarcely hope, without assistance, to build a church.

The bishop strongly recommended the case.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for the completion of this church, on the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF KINGSTON, JAMAICA.—The Rev. C. G. McGregor, a member of the society and curate of Hertford, Petersfield, Jamaica, applied for a grant in aid of one of several chapel school-houses which he hopes to be able to erect. Mr. McGregor wrote as follows:—

"There are in this parish nearly 9000 souls, with a church seated for only 500. I have at present more than 400 communicants, and a large class of candidates preparing for confirmation. I am in hopes that by the time these are confirmed and admitted to Holy Communion the number will be 500, equal to the number of sittings in the church. In order to meet this difficulty I am trying to erect chapel school-houses in the most populous districts of the parish. I am beginning with one in the district of Hertford, where the parsonage is situated. Towards this I have already collected nearly 5*l.*, and hope to get another 5*l.* I also expect to get about 10*l.* labour; but where the other 40*l.* is to come from I do not know. Will the venerable society help me in this matter? The committee may think the local contributions small, but these poor people have the whole burden of their church expenses, clergyman's salary, &c., on their own shoulders, the parish having no endowment whatever."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, and subject to the bishop's approval, to grant 25*l.* in this case, subject so to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF ALGOMA.—The bishop of this diocese forwarded, through the Rev. Edwin Cooper, who in this country, applications for building of churches in the parish of Mary's Lake, of which Mr. Cooper is the incumbent.

1. Application was made for completing Christ Church, Port Sydney. This church has been in use for about two years, but has never been fitted up, planks being used for seats.

The sum expended has been 250*l.*, and there is no probability of more being raised.

The church, which is of pine-wood, will accommodate 200 persons.

The number of the population is not known, the country adjacent is well settled by poor persons, who have received free grants of forest land. The property is vested in the bishop.

There is no other church within about 10 miles. Fifty pounds are required to finish the church, a work which Mr. Cooper is most anxious to accomplish without incurring a debt.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 20*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

Application was made for help towards building a new church at Huntsville, also in the parish of Mary's Lake.

The estimated cost for a building of pine-wood, to accommodate 200 persons, is 250*l.*

Towards this amount 50*l.* has been collected already, and about 50*l.* on the spot. There is a prospect of obtaining much beyond these for a considerable time.

The population is large, but the numbers are not known. They consist of poor settlers upon grants of forest lands.

The property will be vested in the bishop. There is no church within 15 miles, and the services have to be conducted in a wretchedly log building under a great disadvantage; a grant of 75*l.* would render possible the construction of a building in which services could be conducted. It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 40*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF BARBADOS.—The bishop forwarded, and very strongly recommended, an application from the Rev. G. M. D. Frederick for a grant towards the completion of a church which he is building in the southern part of his parish, "Charlotte Parish, St. Vincent."

Mr. Frederick wrote on March 10, 1876, as follows:—

"The corner-stone was laid in July 1869. As funds could be raised only slowly and with difficulty, I was able at first to erect only the chancel and, some time after, about two-thirds of the contemplated nave. When, however, the work had progressed thus far, and the congregation (who had for a long time been worshipping with very great discomfort in the old wooden building) were accommodated in the finished portion of the new church, a severe storm visited this island in September last year, and fell with special severity on the valley in which the church is situated.

"In consequence of the side walls of the nave not having been carried to their intended length (through want of funds) the western or end wall was not built, and the waters rushed into the building, carried away all the floor and fittings, and deposited a very large amount of mud, sand, stones, drift-wood, &c. to a great height in the church. I have succeeded in removing all the debris, and we are again using the building as well as we can.

"When the storm occurred, the building had cost, as far as it had progressed, 419*l.* Of this sum, 206*l.* had been raised in the immediate district of the parish in which the church is being built; 82*l.* were contributed from other parts of the island; 37*l.* from Barbadoes, and 94*l.* had been obtained from England. Since the occurrence of the calamity I have obtained some help in the island and from England towards refurnishing the finished part of the church with the necessary flooring and seats; but I am chiefly in need of funds to carry on the walls and roofs to their intended length.

"The distress caused in the district of the parish by the storm, and the calls that are now of necessity being made on the inhabitants of the island to supplement the deficiencies in our ecclesiastical funds, which have been brought about by the partial disendowment of the church, render it difficult, if not impossible, for me to raise the amount, 200*l.*, required for completing the walls and roof the church."

The bishop very cordially recommended Mr. Frederick's application, and spoke most highly of his zeal and devotion in his enormous parish. He wrote as follows:—

"I visited the spot and confirmed in the unfinished and partially ruined church last December, and can strongly recommend it as urgently calling for help towards its completion. Though plain, it is thoroughly stately (Mr. Frederick is his own architect), and is a beautiful feature in the most beautiful valley in St. Vincent. It is but one of many churches, chapels, and school-churches, many very plain and frugally built, but all good, church-like, and conducive to religious reverence, with which Mr. Frederick during his incumbency has studied Charlotte Parish."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 70*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF LABUAN.—The bishop of this diocese applied for a grant to enable him to purchase type and paper for printing at the bishop's press, in the various native languages, the Gospels and some other portions of Holy Scripture and portions of the prayer book.

The secretary added that he had ascertained that 25*l.* would give the bishop what he wanted.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant type and paper, as requested, to the value of 25*l.*

MISSION BUILDING AT SINGAPORE.—The Bishop of Labuan also asked for a grant in aid of erecting accommodation for divinity students and candidates for missionary work in the mission buildings now in course of erection at Singapore, on land granted for the purpose by the colonial government and legally secured for Church purposes for ever.

The whole scheme for building on the mission land includes a church, a school, and a house in which students, candidates for missionary work, can be boarded and taught, and in which the missionary can reside.

Of these buildings only the church has been raised at present, but it is so constructed that previous to consecration it can be used as a school also. It cost about 500*l.*, of which sum 50*l.* was allotted by the bishop out of a block grant put at his disposal in 1870 by S.P.C.K.

The mission house and missionary students' quarters will cost probably between 600*l.* and 700*l.* Toward this there are 130*l.* in hand, and the S.P.G. has given 225*l.*; so that to make up 600*l.*, 245*l.* have to be raised. The bishop has himself contributed 100*l.*, and says that, if the S.P.C.K. will grant 150*l.*, he will guarantee the completion of the buildings.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 100*l.* for the completion of this work, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

VISITATION OF EMIGRANTS, PLYMOUTH.—The Rev. C. E. Turner, secretary of the Plymouth district committee, had forwarded an application from the Rev. F. Barnes for a renewal of his grant, at the rate of 25*l.* per annum, for the visitation of emigrants leaving the port of Plymouth.

Mr. Barnes supplied the following account, dated April 12, 1876, of work done since last Easter.

"Ships supplied with tracts, 39 (a list of their names being sent); services held, 34.

"The work last year has been very interesting and encouraging. Very frequently the emigrants, as a body, return thanks for the services and for the books supplied. Many of these ships' companies do not pass through the depot, but have to be met and spoken to, and have books given them at the lodging-houses, where they stay, or even in the streets. The passengers of the Broderick Castle, which had to put in here from damages sustained at sea, stayed nearly two months, and were regularly visited, the children taken free of cost to my national and Sunday schools. They nearly all, about 300, attended Holy Trinity Church, to return thanks for their merciful preservation, and several became communicants, especially on the Sunday before they sailed.

"During the year 15 children have been baptised. So far for work done. As regards the future, it is most likely to go on quite as much as ever."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to renew this grant for another period of one year.

DIOCESE OF YORK.—The Rev. E. J. Randolph, secretary of the York Diocesan Education Board, had applied for a grant in aid of providing a permanent increase of accommodation at York Training College for schoolmasters.

Mr. Randolph wrote as follows:—

"We find that we can convert two class rooms into fourteen dormitories, and a sitting-room for a master, and thus make provision for fourteen additional students. We shall have to provide one additional class room elsewhere, but the total cost will not exceed 200*l.* We have not at present any promises of donations towards this enlargement, and find it very difficult to keep up the subscriptions to the amount required for the annual maintenance of the training school; but I think that if it were known that a grant towards this object were promised by the S.P.C.K., it would be an inducement to people to come forward, and without such assistance I fear that there is little prospect of the enlargement of accommodation being effected."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant 50*l.* for carrying out this work, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

BOOK GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

Numerous book grants, special and ordinary, were agreed to.

DIOCESE OF LABUAN.—The standing committee reported that the bishop of this diocese had called shortly after the last meeting, when he was on the point of returning to Sarawak, that he was most anxious to have a supply of books, maps, pictures, &c. for schools and general purposes, to take with him; that he had made out a list to the value of 40*l.* for Sarawak, and of 15*l.* for Malacca.

The committee added that the secretary had thought it right to allow the bishop to have these as a grant.

The standing committee hoped that the general meeting would sanction this grant. This was done.

DIOCESE OF BRITISH GUIANA.—The Demerara Sailors' Mission.—The Rev. F. P. I. Josa, secretary of this mission, of which his excellency James Robert Longden, Esq., is patron (the Bishop of Guiana is president), thanked the society very heartily for a grant of books and tracts to the value of 5*l.* made in November.

Mr. Josa wrote to the secretary as follows:—

"Will you be good enough to thank the society in our name, and in the name of all those sailors who receive our books so well? You may rest assured that your books have been, and are, properly distributed. Your French, Dutch, and German tracts were especially welcomed by the sailors who speak those languages.

"Can I hope to have the grant renewed this year? But my greatest need is Bibles, prayer-books (in all languages), and tracts in German, Dutch, French, Swedish, Italian, and, of course, English.

"The 'direct line' of steamers, whose office is opposite the Royal Mail Packet Company, would carry gratis any case of books for our society."

The objects of the society, which was instituted June 1875, are thus stated in the report:—"To promote the spiritual and temporal welfare of sailors whilst in the port of Demerara, by (1) visiting the various vessels as they arrive; (2) visiting their lodging-houses; (3) distributing books amongst them."

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant books, &c. to the value of 5*l.*

DIOCESE OF KINGS, JAMAICA.—The Rev. C. A. McGregor, a member of the society, writing from Hertford parsonage, P.O. Field, Jamaica, applied for a grant of twelve copies of Canon How's 'Commentary on the Four Gospels,' for the use of his Sunday school teachers. Mr. McGregor stated that his school was a large one of black children, the average attendance being about 120.

The teachers need much instruction, and Mr. McGregor holds a weekly preparation class for them, and he says that the books for which he asks will be of great benefit both to the teachers and the school.

Mr. McGregor had a grant of books and tracts in April 1875 to the value of 5*l.* But he says that with his population of nearly 9000, he could profitably use a much larger supply of tracts, and he would thankfully receive some soiled stock.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make a grant of twelve copies of the 'Commentary on the Four Gospels,' as asked for, and of tracts to the value of 2*l.* 10*s.*

YORK DIOCESAN BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The Rev. E. J. Randolph, honorary secretary of this board, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 6*l.* 10*s.*, to meet an equal outlay; the whole of the books to be given to 13 pupil teachers who specially distinguished themselves in the religious examination conducted by the diocesan inspector in December 1875.

The number of pupil teachers and monitors examined was 535. The pupil teachers of each year were divided into three classes, and those on whose behalf a grant for prizes is asked were marked off by the inspector as those who specially distinguished themselves. They are selected from among those who were placed in the first class.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF ST. DAVID'S.—The Rev. Rupert H. Morris, principal of the Carmarthen Training College, and honorary secretary of St. David's Diocesan Board of Education, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 5*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the diocesan board; the whole of the books to be given as prizes to pupil teachers on the result of a simultaneous examination in religious knowledge.

Last year 140 were examined, of whom 19 were placed in the first class.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF OXFORD.—The Rev. Edward Barber, diocesan inspector, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 15*l.*, to meet an equal outlay in books on the part of the diocesan board; the whole of the books to be given as prizes for religious knowledge to children in elementary schools after a central examination to be held through the diocese on May 4, 1876.

Last year about 1100 children were examined. Of this number, 19½ per cent. did not pass, and about 20 per cent. gained a first class.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF BANGOR.—The Rev. John Pryce, honorary secretary of the diocesan board of education, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 11*l.* at members' prices, to meet a cash outlay of 11*l.* on the part of the diocesan board; the whole of the books to be given among the ten pupil teachers who have done best in a simultaneous examination in religious knowledge and among the scholars from elementary schools who have been placed in a first class.

Sixty-one pupil teachers were examined simultaneously at four centres; 325 children received prizes. The whole cost of prizes for religious knowledge in the diocese is about 62*l.*

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to make this grant as applied for.

DIOCESE OF ST. DAVID'S.—Brecon Educational Board.—The Rev. William Williams, honorary secretary of the board, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books to be given as prizes for religious knowledge to the children in Church schools in the archdeaconry, on the report and recommendation of the diocesan inspector. Mr. Williams wrote as follows:—

"The system hitherto adopted, and proposed now to be continued, is to award prize books to one or more children, selected by the diocesan inspector after examination, out of each group into which the school may be divided, provided the school itself is classed in either 'good' or 'fair.' Last year the number of children present at the examination was 2732, and about 150 books, of the average value of 2*s.* 3*d.*, were awarded as prizes. This year it is probable that this number will be exceeded, as new schools have been opened since the date of the last inspection.

"This board will, if necessary, vote a sum to meet a grant, but we should be glad if this condition were waived, as our funds are very limited and are, to a very great extent, absorbed by the necessary expense of inspection."

Mr. Williams had further explained, in answer to inquiries made by the secretary—

"That a central examination is well-nigh impossible, the limits of the archdeaconry extending from the borders of Glamorganshire almost to the extreme point of Radnorshire, a distance of more than 80 miles, very inadequately served by railways. A simultaneous examination would be attended with considerable expense, which our funds would be ill able to bear, even if otherwise desirable."

The standing committee, considering that the circumstances of this archdeaconry were exceptional, recommended that a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 12*l.* should be made on condition of the local board of education spending not less than 6*l.* on books for the same purpose.

The recommendation of the standing committee was adopted.

SAILORS AT NORTH SHIELDS.—Mr. G. Olsen, minister of the Scandinavian church at North Shields, who recently translated into the Norwegian language two tracts and a manual for sailors, applied for a grant of them in order that he might distribute them amongst foreign sailors at North Shields; he said that he could easily employ some thousands of them.

Commander Dawson, secretary of the Flora to Seamen, had been referred to and spoke the highest terms of Mr. Olsen's work among foreign sailors.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant Mr. Olsen 300 copies of each of the works which had been translated by him.

VISITATION OF EMIGRANTS AT PLYMOUTH.—The Rev. F. Barnes applied through Mr. Turner, secretary of the Plymouth district committee, for a further supply of books and tracts (including some French and German tracts), for use among the emigrants.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the standing committee, to grant these as applied for, to the value of 5*l.*

REPORTS AND NOTICES FROM THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

DIOCESE OF CARLISLE.—Flimby.—The standing committee reported that the Rev. S. Stott, minister of this parish, had applied for a grant to assist him in purchasing a building which had hitherto been used as a Wesleyan meeting-house, to be used for a Sunday school for Bible classes and other purposes connected with the Church.

At present the Sunday school, which numbers nearly 70, assembles in the church.

The building can be obtained for 103*l.* It is situated near the church, and is in very good condition (length, 30 feet; breadth, 21 feet).

Mr. Stott has been promised 30*l.* towards the sum required.

In answer to inquiries made by the secretary (who had furnished Mr. Stott with a copy of the monthly report for July 1875, which contains a statement of the general conditions on which grants for this purpose are made), Mr. Stott had written as follows of the room, &c.:—

"It will not be required for the purposes of a school on week days, as a board school has been built capable of holding 330 scholars. The property is freehold, and there is space for enlargement.

"The population at the last census was 1718, the acreage 1651. But from the number of houses built since, the population must now be about 2000. There are seven farmers, five persons of private means or in offices, but several of these belong to the Dissenters. The remainder of the population are miners and labourers em-oyed in iron and brick works, from whom only small amount, if anything, could be obtained." The value of the living is stated in the 'Mergy List' to be 82*l.* per annum, with a residence.

The committee reported that they had agreed to grant 26*l.* 5*s.* in this case out of the money at their disposal for the purpose, subject to the fulfilment of all the society's conditions.

DIOCESE OF CHESTER.—St. Ambrose, Everton.—The Rev. George French, incumbent of this parish, had applied for a renewal of the grant originally made to him in March 1875 in aid of the rent of a room for Sunday school and other church purposes.

At the time named Mr. French feared that a work which had been carried on for two years by "working-men" and a few friends who had left the district would have to be abandoned. The rent was stated to be 20*l.*, and other expenses brought the total cost up to 30*l.* a year. The society granted 15*l.* for one year, and gave Mr. French "to understand that he must not calculate upon a renewal of the grant, which was made for the purpose of enabling him at once to make arrangements for carrying on a work which had been suddenly thrown on his hands."

Mr. French, on April 17, 1876, had written as follows:—

"The grant has enabled us to retain this useful room, otherwise I fear we should have been obliged to give up possession of it at the close of last year. As it is, our debt in connection with this and the other mission school room had increased to 26*l.* at the end of December last.

"We are making an offer now to reduce this amount due to our treasurer (8*l.* 10*s.* has been already collected), but I need hardly say we should esteem it a great favour if the society could assist us to some extent this year also. In addition to our other meetings, we have, within the last few months, commenced in the room a parochial branch of the Church of England Temperance Society, which promises to be most successful."

The standing committee reported that they had agreed to grant 12*l.* in aid of the rent of this room for a second year, and again to inform Mr. French that he must not depend upon receiving any further help.

EDINBURGH.—The standing committee reported that David Home, Esq., secretary and treasurer of the Edinburgh Episcopal Training College for Women, had stated that hitherto the work of the college had been carried on in rented premises, and that they expected to have to leave their present premises in May 1877.

It is now proposed to make an effort to build premises of their own at a total estimated outlay of 8000*l.*, to accommodate 60 students, with rooms for the principal, and a hall for holding meetings for the clergy. At present 50 are being trained, 20 of whom are in addition to what used to be the number, and for these a grant at the rate of 5*l.* per head per annum for two years has been made by S.P.C.K.; this grant will expire at the end of 1876.

The committee of the college have in hand upwards of 2000*l.* for the purpose of building, and they hope to be able to make up the further sum of 6000*l.* required; they have received promises of support from various influential members of the church, and an appeal for subscriptions, approved by the bishops, is about to be circulated to the general body of the Scottish Episcopalians.

The standing committee gave notice that at the next monthly general meeting, to be held on Tuesday, June 13, they would propose:—

"That a grant of 500*l.* should be made for the contemplated New Episcopal Training College for Women, to be erected at Edinburgh at an estimated cost of about 8000*l.*, and to accommodate 60 students."

The committee desired it to be understood that they would propose so large a grant in consideration of the whole building being now.

GRANTS, &c. RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE, OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

DIOCESE OF BLOEMFONTEIN.—In accordance with notice given at the last meeting, and for reasons set forth in the last monthly report, the standing committee proposed, in reference to a grant of 500*l.* made in December 1870, to meet 4500*l.* from other sources for the endowment of this see, that an extension of time be allowed during which this grant may be claimed, and that the grant be not treated as having lapsed, if the conditions shall have been fulfilled by December 31, 1877.

This proposal was agreed to.

DIOCESE OF PERTH, WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—The Rev. Brownlow Maitland, on behalf of the standing committee, and for reasons set forth at length in the last monthly report, proposed the following resolution:—

"That a grant of 2000*l.* be made in aid of the Fund for the Endowment of the Church in the Diocese of Perth, Western Australia, to meet three times the amount, or 6000*l.*—the society's grant to be payable in instalments of 200*l.* to meet 600*l.*; the whole to be claimed within ten years; and each instalment, with the sum raised to meet it, to be permanently and securely invested for the purpose named, in a manner satisfactory to the standing committee."

This resolution was carried.

MOTIONS OF WHICH NOTICE WAS GIVEN AT THE LAST MEETING.

PROPOSAL FOR THE REMOVAL OF THE SOCIETY'S PREMISES.—Mr. Humphry, on behalf of the standing committee, and for reasons set forth in the last monthly report, rose to move the two following resolutions:—

1. "That this meeting sanction the proposed scheme of removal.

2. "That the standing committee be authorised to select and purchase a suitable site, with a view to the erection on it of a new house for the society, under the sanction of the Court of Chancery and the Charity Commissioners."

After considerable discussion, resolution No. 1 was put from the chair, when the numbers in favour of the resolution were 42; against it, 4. The resolution was therefore carried.

Mr. Humphry then proposed the second of the two resolutions of which notice had been given.

To this Mr. Moorhouse moved, as an amendment, that instead of the words, "to select and purchase a suitable site," the words, "to inquire where and at what cost a suitable site can be procured," should be substituted, and that the words, "and to report to the society thereon," should be added at the end of the resolution.

This amendment was seconded by Mr. Darling, and after discussion was put from the chair, when the numbers in favour of the amendment were 9; against it, 26. The amendment was therefore lost.

The original resolution No. 2 was then put and carried.

SIMULTANEOUS REMOVAL OF S.P.C.K. AND S.P.G.—Mr. Candy, who had given notice at the last meeting that he would move the following resolution:—

"That the standing committee be requested to consider whether advantage can be taken of the simultaneous removal of this society and the S.P.G. to build a house for church societies with a large hall suitable for public meetings," asked and obtained the consent of the meeting to postpone this motion till the next general meeting, to be held on Tuesday, June 13.

GRANTS OF BOOKS, &c. RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

Special grants were made to the amount of 35*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*

Ordinary grants for schools, lending libraries, and distribution, to the amount of 93*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*

Donations were announced to the amount of 230*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*

The following legacies were announced:—Miss Mary Page, of Barton, Cambridgeshire, 100*l.*; Miss Augusta Beckett, of Farnham St. Martin, Bury St. Edmunds, duty-free, 500*l.*

Seventy-eight members were elected.

Nine ladies were admitted as annual subscribers.

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, MARCH 7.—A letter was read from the Rev. H. W. Shackell, referring to Sir W. Muir's letter on the subject of the mission amongst the Santhals, and stating that he would be very glad to offer a second 1000 rupees for the next, and, if he should be able at the time, for each new station that the society might be able to take up amongst the Santhals. The committee thankfully accepted Mr. Shackell's kind offer, and regarded it as another call to what they had already pledged themselves, in their minute of January 25, 1876, namely, the vigorous extension of operations amongst the Santhals as God should, in answer to prayer, raise up men for that work.

GENERAL COMMITTEE, MARCH 13.—A letter having been read from the Archbishop of Canterbury, expressing the wish that arrangements might be made by the society for the observance of St. Andrew's Day again this year as a day of intercession for foreign missions, the committee readily complied with the wish of the archbishop, and directed that arrangements be made for promoting the cordial and general observance of the day by the friends of the society at home and abroad.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, MARCH 21.—The secretaries made allusion to the unexpected removal by death from his great sphere of labour of Dr. Milman, Bishop of Calcutta, and one of the vice-presidents of the society, and spoke of the indefatigable labours of the deceased bishop, and the friendly feeling which he had always manifested towards the society's missions; and the committee having adverted to the great importance of the present crisis in North India, especially in reference to the advancing independence of native pastors and churches, engaged in prayer that it might please the Great Head of the Church to raise up a suitable chief pastor for the important post now vacated.

The Rev. C. T. Wilson, curate of Collyhurst, Manchester, B.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford, offered himself for the mission being organised to the Victoria Nyanza, stating that he was well acquainted with the views and principles of the society, and heartily agreed with them. Letters having been read from friends of the society bearing favourable testimony to Mr. Wilson's character and qualifications, and the secretaries having stated that they had had conversation with him, and that they believed him to be well qualified to occupy a place in the proposed mission party, the committee thankfully accepted the offer of Mr. Wilson for the Nyanza mission.

The secretaries stated that about four years ago a son of Kosoko, the former king of Lagos, had come to this country, that he was baptised at Hampstead in the spring of 1874 by the name of Charles King, and confirmed shortly afterwards; that his case had been taken up by friends, by whom he had been placed under the care of the Rev. C. A. Gollmer, with whom he was living at the present time; and a letter having been read from Mr. Gollmer, bearing satisfactory testimony to the Christian character and progress of Charles King Kosoko, the committee accepted him as a missionary student, to remain for the present under the charge of Mr. Gollmer, with a view to his proceeding in the course of a few months to the training institution at Lagos under the Rev. J. B. Wood.

A letter was read from Lord Lawrence, stating that according to the request of the committee, he had brought the case of the Rev. R. Bruce's complaint against the Persian authorities at Julfa before Lord Derby, and enclosing a letter from Lord Tenterden on the subject, which appeared to him to be satisfactory. The committee directed their thanks to be conveyed to Lord Lawrence for his kind offices, and a copy of the communications to be forwarded to the Rev. R. Bruce, with the request that he would explain the statements made in the letter from the Persian minister at Teheran.

The report of the Nyanza sub-committee, dated March 10, was adopted, making arrangements for preparation of letters to be sent to the kings of Uganda and Karagué, approving the construction of a portable marine engine for the Victoria Nyanza, with lists of tools and stores, and accepting the offer of Mr. Kingwell, of Upper St. Martin's Lane, to construct a suitable carriage for King Mtesa free of cost.

The Rev. J. Barton, secretary of the Madras corresponding committee, received a cordial welcome from the committee on his return to England, and interesting conversation was held with him on the subject of the South India mission, Mr. Barton dwelling especially on the attitude of the educated Hindus of Madras towards Christianity, which he considered to be favourable.

The Rev. A. E. Cowley, having returned with the committee's sanction to England for a short time, was introduced to the committee, and gave information with regard to the Anglo-vernacular school at Karachi, of which he had had the sole charge for the last two years.

A letter was read from Bishop Russell, stating that the wants of the mission establishments in Ningpo had altogether outgrown their little chapel, which was crammed every Sunday so as to be almost suffocating, and expressing the hope that friends would be raised up to supply the necessary funds for a new church, which would require for its erection not less than 1000 dollars. The committee directed that Bishop Russell should be informed of the readiness of the committee to supply whatever portion of the required amount he was unable to raise from other sources to the extent of 1000 dollars.

A letter was also read from the Rev. J. E. Wolfe, stating that one of the places opened during the past year was the important city of Kiong-Ning-Foo, to which an experienced catechist had been sent, and that four native students had been sent there by the Native Church Missionary Society's Conference to work under the catechist, and asking permission to purchase a good large native house as soon as the opportunity should offer, of which the price would be about 1500 dollars. The committee made a grant not exceeding 1500 dollars for the purchase of suitable premises at Kiong-Ning-Foo.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, MARCH 28.

The secretaries referred to the death of the Rev. Canon Conway, at Westminster, on March 20, by which the society had lost a long-tried and faithful friend, and the Church of Christ one in whom were eminently combined a well-cultivated mind, a sound and sanctified judgment, and uncompromising firmness in the maintenance of scriptural truth, along with a spirit of never failing courtesy and forbearance towards those who might differ from him, which won for him the affectionate respect of all with whom he was brought in contact. Testimony having been borne by those who had known him from his college days to the undeviating consistency of his Christian course, the committee desired to record their deep sense of the loss sustained by the society and the Church at large by the removal of their friend, the Rev. Canon Conway, and directed that the expression of their sympathy be conveyed to Mrs. Conway and the other members of his family, and requested the hon. clerical secretary to attend on their behalf at the funeral.

The committee took leave of the Rev. J. A. and Mrs. Lamb, Mr. G. J. Clarke (assigned to Usagara), and Mr. W. M. Robertson (assigned to the Nyanza Mission), proceeding to Mombasa. Isaac Nyondo, the faithful friend and attendant of the Rev. J. Rebmann, was also present and introduced to the committee, being about to return with the mission party to Mombasa. The instructions of the committee were read by the hon. clerical secretary, and were acknowledged by each of the brethren. They were then briefly addressed by the Rev. E. Auriol, and commended in prayer to the favour and protection of Almighty God by the Rev. W. H. Barlow.

UNIVERSITY REFORM.

The following memorial has been sent to Mr. Disraeli on a number of Cambridge professors, lecturers, fellows, &c. respecting the proposed reform of that university:—

"To the Right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli.

"April 4, 1876.

"SIR,—Understanding that the University of Oxford Bill will be followed at no distant period by legislation respecting the University of Cambridge, we beg leave most respectfully to call your attention to a memorial addressed to Mr. Gladstone three years ago by a large number of resident members of the university. In this memorial an opinion was expressed that the following reforms would increase the educational efficiency of the university, and at the same time promote the advancement of science and learning:—(1) No fellowship should be tenable for life, except only when the original tenure is extended in consideration of services rendered to education, learning, or science, actively and directly, in connection with the university or the colleges. (2) A permanent professional career should be as far as possible secured to resident educators and students, whether married or no. (3) Provision should be made for the association of the colleges, or of some of them, for educational purposes, so as to secure more efficient teaching, and to allow to the teachers more leisure for private study. (4) The pecuniary and other relations subsisting between the university and the colleges should be revised, and, if necessary, a representative board of university finance should be organised. We, the undersigned, being resident fellows of colleges and other resident members of the University of Cambridge engaged in educational work, or holding offices in the university or the colleges, beg leave to represent to you our conviction that, in the interest of science, learning, and education, the reforms specified are urgently required, and our hope that they will be distinctly recognised in any bill which may be proposed in reference to this university."

NOTICE OF DEFAULT OF PAYMENT OF TITHE.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—In answer to a question contained in a letter which appeared in your last number, signed "A Vicar," headed as above, I beg, through you, to inform your reverend correspondent that notices sent to tithe-payers who occupy under separate landlords may be with one or more notices (2s. 6d.). In the year 1862 I had a very troublesome customer who occupied under two landlords, and who refused to pay his tithe. I sent him a 2s. 6d. notice of distraint for the whole of the amount due in the event of his non-payment. He then acted in such a manner as to carry the matter into the county court, and when there, he pleaded that he had received only one notice, and that he ought to have had two separate notices. But the learned judge, Mr. Ellis (afterwards Ellis Mactaggart), decided that one notice was quite sufficient, though the recusant might have had two separate 2s. 6d. notices, it being only an act of leniency on the part of the tithe-owner to send but one instead of two notices. And the result was, the man had to pay his tithe, together with all costs of the suit, whereby he was mulcted in about double as many pounds as his tithe amounted to. Your correspondent, the "Vicar," may therefore safely issue six separate 2s. 6d. notices for the tithe arising from the six separate farms occupied by his troublesome tithe-payer. You may also inform your correspondent "R. M." that the agent to whom he refers CANNOT compel a tithe-payer to go out of his parish to pay his demand.—I am, &c.

RATING OF TITHE RENT-CHARGE.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

April 17, 1876.

SIR,—Some months ago you inserted a letter from me upon the above-named subject. A reply from "V." has appeared in your issue of April 11.

I should not have interfered in the correspondence upon that subject, had it not been for "V.'s" grievous misrepresentation of the purport of that discussion. He does not now contradict my correction of his misrepresentation, but merely says that he did not misunderstand the matter.

The question was as to the just rating of tithe rent-charge with which a benefice was endowed. He endeavours to answer it by pointing out that a clergyman purchasing land as private property has no right to have it assessed otherwise than as his neighbour's land is assessed. His illustration is wholly beside the mark: land is not tithe; private property is very different from endowment.

In the last paragraph of his letter, "V." deliberates as to whether the productiveness of a clergyman's land does or does not depend upon the number of sermons which he preaches. I believe that "V." is the first to suggest such a thought: at all events, I imagine that no clergyman will be anxious to dispute his claim to the origination of so brilliant an idea.—I remain, &c.

W. A.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—You are very kindly allowing a discussion on tithe rent-charge to be carried on through the medium of your valuable GAZETTE. Have you room for a question, a criticism, and an opinion?

What can I do with a troublesome tithe-payer, who only pays when the broker presents himself? The broker assures me that on the payment of the tithe, together with the half-crown for notice, he has nothing to do but to retire, and his expenses fall on me. As he comes from a town nine miles off, these are considerable.

"V." in his letter in your April issue seems to assume that, however much extra land he takes in the parish, he will only have to pay half-rating because, by an accident, the value of his services is at present just half of his income; but, of course, if he converts consols (on which he pays no rates) into land, he must expect to pay the full rating on that land; otherwise, for instance, in the case he puts, his deductions would amount to 150l. + 4l. 10s. He strikes a false issue when he says that 150l. does not represent the value of his services; the point would be to ascertain the lowest sum for which a competent man could be found to do the work.

The farmer pays rates on his rent, which certainly does not represent the whole produce; the tithe-owner does pay on his whole produce (subject, of course, like the farmer's rent, to deductions on account of the previous year's rates). The tithe-owner ought to have the value of his services deducted, unless it can be shown that the tithe was commuted on the understanding that he should not have them so deducted.

MR. SCLATER-BOOTH'S VALUATION BILL AS IT AFFECTS THE CLEERGY

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

Upton Warren Rectory, Bromsgrove.
March 8, 1876.

SIR,—Permit me through your GAZETTE to draw the attention of the clergy to the urgent need there is for action on their part both to prevent the injury they will sustain from this bill if it passes in its present shape, and also to obtain that real redress for past inequalities which was held out by Mr. Booth, but which is not actually or not fully, given.

The following are the principal points as to which action is needed:—

1. The proposed scale of reductions.—The maximum rate of these (and the clergy must reckon on its being adopted) will greatly increase the allowances on other hereditaments, and decrease those on tithe rent-charge. In particular, the scale in respect of houses is framed as just to bring the clergy generally under the lowest rate.

2. The allowance made for clerical services.—This is limited to those of one or more curates, and as to those only when necessarily employed in addition to the incumbent, no allowance being made for his services.

3. The proposed introduction of septennial periods and returns in respect of the tithe rent-charge, and the complicated method of rectifying inequalities.—These will entail on the clergy great trouble and vexatious appeals, and will practically result (on the whole) in large pecuniary loss. For the clergy generally will submit to loss than be continually having recourse to "a court," though it be one of "summary jurisdiction."

4. The constitution of the valuing body.—In introducing the bill, Mr. Booth is reported to have said that "complaints had been received from all parts concerning the injustice of the dealings of the assessment committees." This injustice may reasonably be expected to be shown more especially in reference to the clergy; because the interest of those who in country unions compose the great majority of the committees—owners or tenants of land—is directly opposed to that of the tithe owners. Much more might be said, if space permitted, to show the urgent need there is for a change in the constitution of the valuing body. The proposed joint action of the surveyor of taxes is more likely to make matters worse than better.

5. The non-allowance for glebe-houses not being lettable.—The law directs that the hereditament be valued at "the net annual value, i.e. the rent at which it may be expected to let." But a glebe-house cannot be let, and the incumbent is obliged to reside in it, however little it may suit him. This bill affords an opportunity of trying to get redress for this inequality.

The rural deans are, I think, those to whom we must look to organise an opposition to the bill, or rather to take steps to get it amended. If they will at once convene meetings to consider the subject, and to make representations in the proper quarters, they will be doing the clergy good service.—Yours, &c.

F. B. HOOPER.

TOLL-GATES.—CLERGYMEN'S EXEMPTION.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

Northumberland.

SIR,—Will one of your correspondents be good enough to give his opinion on this vexata questio, based upon the law.

According to the Turnpike Act, 3 Geo. IV. cap. 136, sect. 32, "a rector, vicar, or curate, is exempt only when going to or returning from parochial duty that lies within his own parish; the gate being in his parish." But there must be some more recent act bearing upon the question. In your issue of December 13, 1864, a correspondent quotes the case of a clergyman who resided in a neighbouring parish, and had been appointed by the churchwardens, with the bishop's consent, to officiate during the vacancy of the living. From this arose the trial of Temple v. Dickenson. Lord Campbell decided, with the concurrence of Justices Wightman and Hill, that, though he had not the bishop's licence under seal, which legally he ought to have had, yet he was de facto curate of the parish, and as such was exempt from toll. In the same case it was also ruled that the exemption extends to toll-bars without the parish to which the clergyman is going on his parochial duty. Is not this law, then, or a precedent in law? Again, in THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE of May 1875, we have the rector of Chalcombe, on March 13, 1875, v. the keeper of the Roundham gate for illegally demanding toll, on the plea that "the rector took up in his trap John Sibley, of Crewkerne, who plays the harmonium at the church." The bench inflicted a fine of 1s. in each case and costs, and also ordered the defendant (the gate-keeper) to pay 1l. 1s., the fee of the advocate who appeared for the reverend plaintiff.

I have to pass through a gate outside of the parish to my parish church, and the old gate-keeper objects; although his objections have been over-ruled by the road trustees. He admits that local preachers and that ilk have free passage through the gate, but ignores the law as applicable to the clergy. Surely there must be some recent legislation on this question, and if you will ventilate the subject through your columns, we may arrive at some conclusion for the better information of the clergy at large. Since writing the above, my attention was arrested by a book, 'Every Man his Own Lawyer,' by a Barrister, 11th edition; London, Lockwood and Co., 1874. Under the head of "Toll-gate," I read, "A clergyman driving out to visit a sick parishioner is exempted by 3 Geo. IV. chap. 126, sect. 32, from paying toll in respect of his carriage and horses, although accompanied by his wife and family." Case quoted is, Layard v. Ovey, 37 L. J. (M.C.) 148.

This last clause—re "wife and family"—was altogether new to me, and I am sure also to many others. There must be some more recent legislation on this subject than that of George IV.

Yours, &c.

TITHE ASSESSMENT.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—Given that tithe is an expression of the entire part of the net produce or profit of land, it follows that it should be assessed equally with the remaining nine-tenths.

Now the net produce or profit of the remaining nine-tenths is represented by the tenant's profit as maintenance, and the landlord's profit in the form of rent.

Farmers themselves tell me a prudent man would not take a farm unless he saw his way to what they express as "four rents," two of the four to be divided equally between landlord and tenant, the other two for labour, seed, rates, and all outgoings other than personal, the latter coming under above head as "maintenance."

Thus on a farm of 200 acres at 2l. per acre, 400l. would go to the landlord, 400l. to the tenant, 800l. trade (not personal) outgoings.

Now the one-tenth of net produce or profit, called tithe, on these 200 acres is assessed in modern practice at its gross value, less about one-fifth allowed for certain outgoings. An assessment, therefore, of the remaining nine-tenths of net produce or value, on the same principle, making it an "equal" assessment (as in theory the law requires it should be, pronouncing every rate not so made legally null and void), would be 800l. less the same one-fifth = 640l. But my experience leads me to doubt if it would not be found assessed rather under than over 300l.

We incumbents want no more than a fair and just and legal "equality" with our neighbours in the apportionment of a common burthen; and are we acting fairly and justly ourselves as trustees and stewards, who must give account of our Church properties, by our "silence giving consent" to less?

One is so unwilling to suppose neighbours and parishioners doing us chronic injustice and wrong—and those in a position to plead for and protect us, by their silence for generations in parliament sanctioning such injustice and wrong—that one can hardly help suspecting some oversight, some fallacy, in the view given above. If it be so, I and others shall be glad to be set right.

One word more. Our parsonage houses are invariably assessed at their utmost value, whereas farmhouses (though in these days of leviathan farming approaching sometimes to a mansion) are excused. True, the farmer must reside, but so must we. Is not this an additional gravamen, showing the spirit imported into our tithe assessments?

Yours, &c.

WILLIAM PALIN, Rector of Stifford,
J.P. for Essex and Kent.

RENT-CHARGE.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

April 26, 1876.

SIR,—In reply to your correspondent "V.," who writes in this month's GAZETTE in such a lively fashion, and who evidently has not a wife and six children to support on his 300l. a year, I would venture to put the case in another light.

Suppose the property from which his income of 300l. a year is derived were offered for sale subject to the condition that the purchaser provide for the clerical duty of his parish, what would it fetch? And what would be the difference between the amount of purchase money and the sum which a man would pay for the property if there were no such condition? Why, in the former case you might buy the living for ten years' purchase or less; whilst in the latter, it would cost you more than double that amount.

Again: "All hereditaments shall be rated at what they would let for." Could "V." let his tithe and glebe which produce 300l. a year to any one with whom he might choose to make an agreement, subject to the condition I have named for 300l.? He knows he could not.

Wherever the fallacy of the argument in favour of assessing tithe or land, the income arising from which is dependent upon exceptional and onerous conditions imposed by the state, on the principle on which property is assessed which is exempt from those conditions, may lie, common sense tells us that there is a fallacy somewhere; and "V.," who may not stand in need of relief from heavy local rates, ought not to throw difficulties in the way of his brethren less favourably circumstanced who are trying to show the injustice of the present mode of assessing them.

I ought to say that tithe and glebe do not stand on the same footing. The value of the former is determined for us. But of the latter we have a chance of making much more than a tenant would pay for it.

The question of taxing our livings is not one in which our neighbours have a voice, as "V." seems to imply: it is purely a state question. Quakers do not want soldiers, but they have to pay for them nevertheless. The principle for which I contend was acted upon by the legislature when it provided for the exemption from land tax of livings of the value of 150l. a year and under.

Yours, &c.

A COUNTRY VICAR.

LIVINGS UNDER £200 A YEAR.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

Fordwich Rectory, Canterbury, May 1.

SIR,—It is something to awaken a large body of men to a sense of the injustice they are suffering without exciting any other feeling than that of a determination to use all lawful means for redress.

I have received a very large number of replies to my letter of February 3 last, appearing in THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE of last month, revealing, in some cases, endurance, through insufficient incomes, of a most painful character, when their own fund is actually running, but, as far it concerns them, running to waste, others getting it who ought not.

It would be impossible to deal beneficially with each of the many letters received simply on its own details, but communications will be made to each having, it is hoped, enough both of breadth and inclusiveness to meet the majority of cases, if not all. It will take some little time to do this, but all letters will be answered in due order.—Yours, &c.

EDW. BRAILSFORD, Rector.

ELECTION OF RURAL DEANS.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—I have no hesitation in saying that the custom of this diocese, that the clergy should elect the rural deans, is exceedingly convenient both to the clergy and to the bishop, and that neither would wish for a change.

The annual election works well, for in most cases the rural deans are continued in office for three years, and in not a few for many years, whilst the fact that the election is annual renders the needed changes that must sometimes be made at short intervals neither difficult nor invidious.

I can give an authority to my rural deans which I should hesitate to do if they were my own nominees. They arrange my confirmations, report on delinquencies, are the channels of communication with the clergy to my entire satisfaction.—Yours, &c.

F. EXON.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

SIR,—In the diocese of Exeter the rural deans are elected by the clergy.

The custom is most satisfactory to the clergy, and much preferred to appointment by the bishop.

By our method the rural deans carry greater weight with the bishop and clergy, and it has these further advantages:—

Election brings to the front the most desirable persons, inasmuch as it is accompanied by no emolument, and therefore is not sought or canvassed for.

The bishop is brought into contact with a greater number of the clergy to their mutual advantage.

The inconveniences that might arise from the exercise of partiality on the part of a bishop, whether as to the holding of particular views, or occupying a peculiar social status, are avoided.

CH. CH. BARTHOLOMEW, Vicar of Cornwood, Rural Dean of Plympton.

Miscellaneous Intelligence.

THE HOME EPISCOPATE.

The following is the Home Episcopate Memorial presented to the Prime Minister by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge:—

"To the Right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli, M.P., First Lord of the Treasury, &c. &c.

"SIR,—The Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, which has been engaged, since the year 1698, in carrying out, in accordance with the principles of the Church of England, both in this country and elsewhere, the work designated by its title, desires, earnestly but most respectfully, to express to you its conviction that the time has arrived when a judicious extension of the episcopate at home will both strengthen the ministrations of the clergy, and greatly tend to the spread of Christian knowledge throughout the land.

"It is now nearly thirty years since the see of Manchester was founded. This was the first additional territorial see established since the Reformation, for the bishopric of Ripon, founded in 1836, upon the consolidation of the bishoprics of Gloucester and Bristol, made no actual addition to the number of sees.

"It is true that an act has been passed, and that plans are now in progress, for a re-arrangement of the dioceses of London, Winchester, and Rochester, and, in connection therewith, for the formation of one new see, to be called that of St. Albans.

"But your memorialists venture to submit that the enormous growth of the population and the increased activity of the Church during the last half-century demand a more comprehensive scheme for the subdivision of existing dioceses.

"Your memorialists have reason to believe, from the readiness shown on the part of Churchmen to provide funds for the establishment of a bishopric in Cornwall, that there will be no serious difficulty in obtaining sufficient means to endow new sees.

"They therefore respectfully suggest to you the desirability of passing a general enabling act, in order to facilitate the grand objects which they have in view, which shall legalise the erection of new sees, and specify the conditions upon which the crown might be advised to consent to their erection.

"Signed, in behalf of the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge,
"HENRY SWABBY, Secretary."

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE.

67 Lincoln's Inn Fields.

TUESDAY, JUNE 13, 1876.

Owing to the first Tuesday in June this year being the Tuesday in Whitsunweek, the monthly meeting of this society took place on the 13th instant, the day on which THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE is published.

Hence it has been impossible to give the report of the decisions of the meeting.

The following is a summary of the principal business submitted by the standing committee and of their recommendations.

MONEY GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

DIOCESE OF AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND.—The bishop of this diocese forwarded, on one of the society's forms duly countersigned by himself, an application from the Rev. R. S. Hassard for a grant towards building a mission school church in his parish of St. Matthew, Auckland.

It is proposed to erect a wooden building to accommodate 250 adults at an estimated cost of 300*l.*, in addition to 75*l.* for the purchase of the site.

Towards making up this sum of 375*l.*, 50*l.* have been collected in the parish, 50*l.* have been granted out of parish funds, and the parish has agreed to go security for borrowing 150*l.*, leaving, as Mr. Hassard reckons, a deficiency of 125*l.*

The population in the immediate neighbourhood of the site is from 1500 to 2000.

The site will be vested in trustees—the incumbent of the parish and two residents, the Hon. Colonel Haubani and Dr. Hooper.

The population of the parish is upwards of 8000, half of whom are professed Church people. There is not a rich person in the district. The parish church seats 750, and is filled. Most of the people are small shop-keepers, labourers, &c. A large proportion of the emigrants settle in the parish, and are for a long time unable to give anything to the support of the church.

The congregation do their utmost to support the church. The offertories amount to upwards of 11*l.* per Sunday; such a thing as a sovereign is scarcely ever seen. In addition to the urgent need of a mission school, there is a very great need of a second clergyman, who is expected shortly from England, and as his stipend must be provided by the parish, it is almost impossible to do more towards the mission church.

The standing committee recommended a grant of 50*l.* for the completion of this school, subject to the fulfilment of the following conditions:—

That previously to the payment of a grant for any church or portion of a church, or for any other building, the bishop shall certify that the church or portion thereof, or the other building for which the grant has been made, is completed and ready to be used, and that with the society's grant the whole cost will be defrayed, and no liability exist which will attach legally or morally to the congregation, or to any person or persons; and further, that the property has been duly secured as Church property for ever, and adequately insured. Unless these conditions are fulfilled within five years, the society's grants are written off as having lapsed.

MARITZBURG.—Bishop Macrorie, who is now in this country, applied for a grant in aid of building a new school-church at a village called York, in the parish of Kerkloof, of which the Rev. Ernest H. Shears is the incumbent.

The estimated cost of a building to hold from 70 to 80 people is from 300*l.* to 400*l.*; 100*l.* have been raised on the spot, 30*l.* are expected from the diocesan finance board. A site has been given sufficient for a church and burialground. The property will be transferred to the diocesan trustees.

There is a scattered population of white people, with a large population of natives, most of whom are heathen.

There is at present a congregation of between 30 and 40 people, who meet at an hotel.

The white people are mostly farmers, who are beginning to get established; there are amongst them a considerable number of Wesleyans.

The standing committee recommended a grant of 50*l.* for the completion of this school-church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF NOVA SCOTIA.—The Rev. H. W. Atwater, missionary in charge of the parish of Louisburg, in this diocese, applied on one of the society's forms, duly countersigned by the bishop, for a grant in aid of building a wooden church, to accommodate 400 persons, at an estimated cost of $3000 = 600*l.* Of this sum, $760, or 152*l.*, have been subscribed almost entirely on the spot.

The site is invested in the bishop of the diocese. The people are poor, and depend mainly on fishing, which is very precarious; they are for the most part members of the Church, though there are a few Romanists and Dissenters. There are 30 families in the place, and the population is likely to increase, and a church, if built, would be the centre of a large scattered population.

Mr. Atwater says that the people have exerted themselves to the utmost; they have hitherto worshipped in a school-room, which has fallen into decay, and should no church be erected, the congregation will be scattered.

The standing committee recommended a grant of 50*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF CHRISTCHURCH, NEW ZEALAND.—The Rev. P. T. Merton, curate of Heathcote, Canterbury, New Zealand, applied for an increase of a grant originally made in October 1873.

At that time it was intended to build a church at Sumner, in this parish, to accommodate not less than 60 persons, at an estimated cost of 350*l.*, and the society granted 15*l.* For reasons given by Mr. Merton, the plan had not been hitherto carried out.

The parish of Heathcote has now been divided, and Mr. Merton is the clergyman of that part of it in which Sumner is situated. The population has within the past year very considerably increased. It has therefore been decided to proceed at once with the erection of the church, the cost of which, including furniture, is to be 400*l.*

The sum of 370*l.* has been raised. Very great efforts have been made by the Churchmen of the place to raise this amount, and great interest is shown in the matter.

Mr. Merton requests an increase of the grant from 15*l.* to 25*l.*

The bishop recommended the application.

The standing committee recommended the increase applied for.

TRAINING SHIP "WELLESLEY," SOUTH SHIELDS.

—The standing committee reminded the meeting that in April 1875 they had made a grant of 75*l.* for one year to enable Captain Pocock, or the officer in command, to make arrangements for more efficient religious ministrations and instruction for the Church of England boys on board this ship.

It was further agreed that of this sum 35*l.* should be paid to the Rev. J. Sunter, curate of Holy Trinity, Tynemouth, in addition to what he received from his vicar, for services to be rendered; that £25 should be paid to the Rev. P. H. Moore, and £15 to Mr. Barker, Scripture reader.

The committee added that Mr. Barker, the Scripture reader, had left after the first quarter, so that 11*l.* 5*s.* out of the 75*l.* had not been claimed; that the rest had been paid on Captain Pocock's application.

Captain Pocock reported very favourably of the work which had been done by Mr. Sunter and by Mr. Moore (the latter gentleman is now leaving), and asked for a renewal of the grant his words were:—

"As a reason for the council of S.P.C.K. renewing their grant, I would represent to them that the results of the year's work have been satisfactory.

"The strong tendency of the Church of England boys to go to the Church of Rome, whose teaching was so much better attended to, has been decidedly checked.

"Some of the boys have written to Mr. Sunter after having gone to sea, which is a good sign. There are decided indications of a more religious feeling among the boys, which is being developed slowly, but, to my mind, more satisfactorily than if attended with excitement. I can only say that I hope the council will renew the grant, and so enable us to carry on the good work."

The standing committee recommended that 63*l.* 15*s.* be set apart with a view of enabling Commander Pocock to make arrangements for the continuance of the work in a similar manner for a second year. The 11*l.* 5*s.* not claimed last year to be added to the new grant.

DIOCESE OF GRAHAMSTOWN.—The bishop forwarded the following appeal from the Rev. A. J. Newton:—

"St. Peter's Mission, Diocese of Grahamstown, South Africa, February 12, 1876.

"Sir,—I write to ask your society for assistance in the matter of printing translations, &c. in the Kaffir language. I am thus circumstanced: there is a printing-press at this mission, which is worked by myself and three native boys, who are partly supported by grant from the Cape Colonial Treasury; but the aid which I so receive is not at all adequate to the work I am anxious to accomplish.

"During the three years that the press has been in my charge, we have printed a large number of catechisms, primers, lesson-books, &c., besides an edition of 2400 copies of a new hymn-book for the use of our missions. At present, several of the missionaries are engaged in translating commentaries for the use of native teachers and catechists, who, at present, have nothing but the plain text of Holy Scripture to learn from. We are very anxious to print these as soon as possible, but my boys are unequal to the task of composing, printing, and binding these and many other books we are so much in need of. So I ask if your society can make me an annual grant of, say, 100*l.*, or a less sum, towards the support of one or two more native men as compositors, &c.

"I will send this to the bishop of the diocese for his approval.—I am, &c.

"A. J. NEWTON.

"To the Rev. the Sec. of S.P.C.K."

The bishop wrote:—"I cordially recommend Mr. Newton's application. His printing-press is nearly 200 miles from Mr. Mullins, and is in Kaffir-land."

The standing committee recommended that the sum of 100*l.* should be put at the disposal of the bishop, to enable him to assist Mr. Newton in the preparation and printing of such works as he, the bishop, might approve of. At the same time the bishop was to be informed that he must not expect any further help of this kind, and the society could not undertake the pay of printers, &c.

WORCESTER, LICHFIELD, AND HERFORD TRAINING COLLEGE.—The committee reminded the meeting that in July 1872 they had made a grant of 240*l.*, being at the rate of 10*l.* per annum, for two years, for each of 12 additional students to be trained at the Saltley College for the years 1873 and 1874; that similarly for the years 1875 and 1876 they had set apart 180*l.*, being at the rate of 7*l.* 10*s.* per annum, for two years, for each of 12 additional students. In each of the four years specified, the total number of students was 100, instead of 88, as previously.

The committee added that they had had before them the following letter from Mr. Burbidge, the principal of the college, asking for a renewal of the grant for a further period of two years, viz. 1877 and 1878:—

“Worcester, Lichfield, and Hereford Training College, “Saltley, Birmingham, May 12, 1876.

“Dear Sir,—I am requested by the committee of this college to apply to your society for a renewal of the grant, which has been made, for the maintenance of 12 additional students in 1877 and 1878.

“I may state these two facts in support of the application:

“1. The outgoing students in December last were very readily suited with masterships. By the end of January they were almost without exception engaged.

“2. Her Majesty's inspector of training colleges for masters expressed the following opinion at a meeting of this committee last week, viz.: ‘that the number of students may in all probability be safely kept at 100 for two or three years, as the demand for teachers, owing to the continual opening of new board and other schools, continues greater than the supply.’

“I shall be pleased to answer any questions.—
I am, &c. “F. W. BURBIDGE, Principal.

“To the Rev. the Sec. of S.P.C.K.”

The standing committee recommended that a further grant should be made for the two years 1877 and 1878, at the rate of 5*l.* per head per annum for each of 12 additional students, 120*l.* in all.

DIOCESE OF CAPE TOWN.—The committee said that the following letter had been forwarded by the Bishop of Cape Town:—

“Clanwilliam, South Africa, March 14, 1876.

“Reverend Sir,—I have written to the Lord Bishop of Cape Town, and informed him that the conditions mentioned in your letter of advice, 19th May 1873, have been complied with, and have requested his lordship to apply to you for the 25*l.*, generously granted by your society to help us in the construction of a nave to our church. The nave has been built, and will soon be ready for use. During the two years and a half that we have been striving to get this building erected, we have had to struggle through a period of unprecedented drought. The Church people have subscribed most liberally, as the bishop can testify, but their means have been sadly crippled in consequence of the drought, and we have now no means of furnishing the building properly. I am ashamed to be for ever begging, but feel constrained to appeal once more through you to the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, for a further grant to enable us to furnish the nave with proper seats, lights, &c.

“I do most earnestly trust you will allow this appeal to be made in the proper place; and, further, that you will do all you can to secure a favourable reply to it. The Church people here are worthy of help, and they need it just now.—I am, &c.

“R. BROOKE,

“Rector of St. John's Church, Clanwilliam.

“To the Rev. the Sec. of S.P.C.K.”

The committee recommended a further grant of 15*l.* in this case.

DIOCESE OF BRITISH GULANA.—The bishop, writing on May 4, 1876, forwarded the following appeal on behalf of two new churches in his diocese:—

“Reverend Sir,—On the Demerara River are two mission churches which began to be erected three years ago by the united efforts of Arawak Indians and Creoles. They are very slowly approaching their completion. These, when consecrated, will be respectively called St. David's, in the Dalgin district; and the Chapel of the Ascension, in the district of Hyde Park.

“The church at Dalgin numbers 80 communicants. The men are chiefly woodcutters, and found no difficulty in procuring and preparing timber for the erection of the substantial framework, which is 67 feet by 38 feet, with aisles and chancel, all of the best materials, and shingled and floored. It contains one of the largest and best stone fonts to be found in the colony.

“There remains now the want for carpenters and painters, to complete the necessary internal fittings, and to keep in preservation the whole building, but for the lack of means the fabric is now suffering.

“The chapel at Hyde Park, numbering 65 communicants, and which, with its aisles, measures 40 feet by 35 feet, is in a similar condition. The Indians here have most praiseworthy contributed, as at Dalgin, a great portion of the necessary timber and shingles, and a little money (a scarce article in the river and the creeks); but the efforts made to complete the building are unequal to its speedy requirement, and, consequently, the building also is suffering.

“The two churches, when completed, will be worthy structures, one costing $5000, and the other $3000. They were planned a little too ambitiously for the means of the districts, but will remain, when completed, as evidences of the zeal of the Creoles and Indians—poor people who are earning their daily bread by the sweat of their brow, and of their appreciation of the buildings worthy of the solemn purpose of divine worship.

“The two churches, St. David's, Dalgin, and the Ascension, Hyde Park, learning of the society's charitable disposition towards poor Christian churches, beg humbly to approach with a request for help.

“On behalf of the Indians and Creoles worshipping at Dalgin and Hyde Park, “GEO. COUCHMAN, Warden.

“GEO. ALLYNE, Warden.

“To the Rev. the Sec. of the S.P.C.K.”

The bishop's letter addressed to the society was as follows:—

“Kingston House, Georgetown, Demerara,
“May 4, 1876.

“The enclosed petition was yesterday placed in my hands, and having only just returned from visiting our Indian and other stations on the Demerara River, covering a distance, as far as the Great Inles, of 150 miles, I can fully endorse everything which is stated by the two very worthy wardens who have signed the document, and which has been commended to my care by the Rev. C. D. Dance, the missionary in charge of this extensive district.

“As stated in the petition, our woodcutters and others have been rather too ambitious, and they only plead for assistance because they have almost done everything that can be done by them for some time to come. The sum of $1200, or 240*l.*, is still needed to finish the work in both of these houses of prayer, and if you could assist to the extent of 50*l.* for each of the two churches, I shall do my best to raise at least an equal sum amongst those to whom an appeal is seldom made in vain in this town, and I shall of course add something to what I have already given.

“I am, &c.

“W. B. GULANA.”

The committee recommended 50*l.* for each of these churches, subject to the usual conditions.

DIOCESE OF ONTARIO.—The bishop forwarded, on one of the society's forms, duly countersigned, an application from the Rev. R. L. M. Houston, missionary, for a grant in aid of a new church, St. Paul's Escott, to be erected in the parish of Lansdowne Front.

The estimated cost of a wooden church on a stone foundation, to accommodate about 120 persons, is $800 or 160*l.* $350 or 75*l.* has been promised.

The site will be vested in the bishop, or in the incorporate synod of the diocese.

The means of the people are very limited indeed, living as they do in rather a rough tract of country; the families belonging to the Church are also very few in number, over two-thirds of the inhabitants being nominal Methodists. All are small farmers.

The few friends of the Church have done nobly, giving the work towards the building where they had no money to give. If a grant were made to enable them to fit up the interior in a respectable manner for the due performance of divine worship, they would be very thankful, and much cheered in their efforts.

The committee recommended a grant of 25*l.* for the completion of this church, subject to the fulfilment of the usual conditions.

BOOK GRANTS RECOMMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

SPECIAL AND ORDINARY.—These, as printed at the end of the report, were recommended.

JAPAN.—The Rev. Henry Wright, hon. secretary to the Church Missionary Society, applied for a grant of S.P.C.K. books and maps, which he had selected to the value of 15*l.* as a lending library for use by Mr. Maundrell, a missionary at Nagasaki, in Japan. Mr. Wright said he would be very thankful if the society would make him a grant of a lending library, including a few for children, as many of the Japanese, he says, can read English, but that there is a great dearth of Christian literature. A lending library would therefore be most acceptable and useful.

He also would be very thankful for a good set of maps, also for 50 English Bibles for school work.

The committee recommended a grant of books, &c. as chosen by Mr. Wright to the value of 15*l.*

DIOCESE OF CAPE TOWN.—The bishop, writing from Capetown on April 3, thanked the society very sincerely for the grant of books to the value of 20*l.* made in February last to the library of Zonnebloem College.

He also applied for a further supply of books, &c., viz. sixty prayer-books for use in the chapel, a supply of the society's ‘Commentaries on the New Testament for the Use of Schoolmasters and Catechists,’ also of the ‘Norwich Cathedral Discourses,’ and, in addition, for a number of tracts for missions, special seasons, &c.

The committee recommended a grant of books to the value of 25*l.* in this case.

DIOCESE OF ALGOMA.—The bishop, dating Saint Ste. Marie, Ontario, on April 22, wrote as follows:—

“At the risk of being thought very importunate, yet emboldened by the liberal manner in which my previous applications have been entertained, I would ask for a grant of tracts for distribution among the settlers, who value them very much; also a few German Bibles and prayer-books, which are much in request; some Indian (Ojibway) prayer-books and hymns; together with some books of short sermons suitable for the use of lay readers, of whom I have at present twelve working in places where our members would otherwise be entirely without the means of grace; seeing that I have neither the funds nor the clergymen to supply them.

"I fear that you will think me very greedy, but the crying wants of my people, as I go amongst them, make me bold to ask from those who are more highly favoured."

The committee recommended a grant of books to the value of 10*l.* in this case.

DIOCESE OF AUCLAND.—The bishop writes from his diocese on March 11, 1876, thanking the society for having undertaken to print Mr. G. Maunsell's Maori version of Canon Norris' 'Key to the Gospels.' "We are very grateful," he said, "for this new proof of its interest in the native church of these islands. I would ask the society to make us a grant of 500 copies of the work for the Maori clergy and lay readers of all the dioceses of New Zealand. After the distribution of 500 copies, there will no doubt be a demand for more, and a small charge might be made in such a case."

The committee recommended a grant of the 500 copies asked for, the estimated cost of them being about 40*l.*

The bishop, writing from his diocese on April 11, 1876, asked for a supply of the old edition of the Maori prayer-books for use until the revised edition, which is in course of preparation, is ready.

He said that he could easily dispose of 500 copies, so great is the demand for these books in his diocese. The bishop undertakes, if a grant be made, to return one shilling for every copy.

The committee recommended the grant applied for at an estimated cost of about 50*l.*

DIOCESE OF SIERRA LEONE.—The Rev. John Rigaud, of Magdalen College, Oxford, wrote as follows on behalf of the English committee of the West Indian mission to West Africa:—

"I promised at our meeting of the English committee of the West Indian mission to West Africa (the Pongas country, &c.) to apply through you to the society for grants of 'Theological Libraries' (if you still give them) for two of the missionaries—Mr. McEwen, stationed at the Isles de Los, and Mr. Clarke, stationed at Domingia.

"The former seems to have also added to his desiderata (in writing to our secretary) 'an Arabic grammar'; a Hebrew grammar; a Latin Vulgate; and Arabic Testaments and Bibles, and English tracts for distribution among the fishermen from Sierra Leone.' I pointed out that I did not know that the society would grant such as those named first, marked *. It is, I presume, within their scope to grant the others.

"Item.—Another of the missionaries (Rev. P. H. Doughlin) asks for 'Arabic tracts, Ten Commandments, and other portions of Scripture in Arabic; the "Mezan al Hagj" ("Balsam of Truth"); Bibles in English, French, and Arabic, to be presented to the chiefs."

"Will you kindly make application for us, as and for what you know to be right and proper?"

"I need hardly tell you that the missionaries are poor, and that the books, both for themselves and for distribution, will be of great value."

The committee recommended a grant of S.P.C.K. books to the value of 5*l.* for each of these gentlemen, and that the selection should be left to Mr. Rigaud.

REPORTS AND NOTICES FROM THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

DIOCESE OF HONOLULU.—The Rev. Walter Scott, vicar of Boughton Monchelsea, and commissary to the Bishop of Honolulu, had applied for a grant from Canning's Fund, in aid of the passage to that diocese, as a missionary, of the Rev. T. Blackburn.

As Mr. Blackburn is a married man, with a family, it is of very great importance that he should receive assistance.

The cost of a single passage from Liverpool to Honolulu is 58*l.*

The committee reported that they had granted 58*l.* out of Canning's Fund in this case.

DIOCESE OF CARLISLE.—Dearham Church Sunday School.—The committee have considered the following letter:—

"120 High Street, Maryport, Cumberland,
"May 2, 1876.

"Dear Sir,—The S.P.C.K. was pleased to make a grant of 6*l.* 6*s.* per annum towards rent of board room, in which to hold Sunday school at Dearham, there being no other suitable room procurable in the township; the second half of this grant, i.e. 3*l.* 3*s.*, is now due.

"The schools have proved a success; we have over 100 children attending already, and a staff of about 25 young people, which will form a nucleus of good church work after some experience has trained them.

"We have a good deal of opposition from the sects, and it is believed that attempts will be made to take the school from our use.

"At a distant part of the parish (another township) we have another Sunday school prospering, and a mission service, and we find that it will be difficult to carry out our plans without extraneous help, and therefore we ask the S.P.C.K. if they will be good enough to help us with half the rent for our schoolroom at Dearham for this coming year; by next May we hope to be strong enough to go by ourselves.—I am, &c.

"W. S. CALVERLEY, Curate of Dearham.

"The Rev. H. Swabey, Sec. S.P.C.K."

The committee reported that they had agreed to give 3*l.* 3*s.* in aid of the rent in this case for a second year.

DIOCESE OF BOMBAY.—Archdeacon Leigh Lye, writing from Poona on April 1, 1876, strongly recommended the following case, which was brought before the society by Miss Prescott, the lady superintendent of the school in question. Miss Prescott is now in England for her health, after having superintended the school for 12 years; she fully hopes to resume her work in Bombay.

The school was originally established in rented premises by the late Rev. W. Fletcher, who was for more than 30 years chaplain in the Bombay Residency.

Mr. Fletcher had collected funds to secure a permanent institution; but owing to his death the funds became the subject of litigation; they have been recovered, and the High Court has established the terms of the trust and nominated the trustees. This arrangement has received the sanction of the government. The trustees are the Venerable the Archdeacon of Bombay; the senior chaplain; the accountant-general; the collector of Bombay; the principal of the Elphinstone College; subject in the case of the last three to their being members of the Church of England. Provision is made in the scheme put forth by the High Court, and sanctioned by the government, for the school being always conducted on Church principles. These gentlemen hold above 75,000 rupees, the estimated cost of the building. Of this amount, 50,000 rupees were given by Preuzchund Roychund, a native gentleman, 10,000 rupees by government, and the remainder was raised by subscription. The building was commenced November 25, 1874, on the original site and foundations, and is fast progressing under the supervision of the government engineer in the Public Works Department; it is hoped that it will be completed by November 1876. It will accommodate 180 day pupils, 25 boarders, and three mistresses.

The original scheme was for a boys' and girls' school, but this has been modified, and the school will be for girls only.

Especially out of regard for Preuzchund Roychund's gift, the High Court ruled that one-third non-Christian children shall be admitted if such a number can be found willing; other schools aided by government are allowed only one-fifth. This peculiarity of Christian and non-Christian together has always existed, and with singular success. Great care is taken to bring up the Christian children to behave towards those who are not Christian with a feeling of love, such as is due to children of the same Heavenly Father. The non-Christian children share the secular instruction with the Christian, and receive much instruction in religious knowledge as their parents will allow.

Miss Prescott's great desire is to attach to the day school scheme an orphanage for European children. This is quite possible, as the building in course of erection will be large enough not only for day pupils, but for a fair proportion of boarders, amongst whom orphans might be included.

It seems to be an imperative duty that the Church of England should provide for her own children in a foreign land, instead of leaving them to the mercy of strangers and Roman Catholics, or allowing them to pick up a chance education or an uneasy home as best they may.

An orphanage conducted aright would, Miss Prescott feels, be the strong abiding Christian element of the whole school, and as pioneers to native female education, the girls brought up in it would be invaluable. Having themselves received the best possible training, knowing the vernacular, and mixing freely with the day pupils, they would understand and sympathise with much of the native mind; owing all, humanly speaking, to the Christian love which had travelled for them, they in their turn would carry it, together with their knowledge, into the respective native families, where they would not only be admitted but appreciated as teachers.

Such an orphanage as Miss Prescott contemplates, and specially in India, where European society and individual interests are continually shifting, requires something of an endowment to keep it afloat. 5000*l.* are wanted to start such an endowment, and the object of the present appeal is to obtain a grant towards such an endowment.

Miss Prescott, before leaving India, had raised 1000 rupees towards the endowment, but she fears that nothing has been done in India to increase this sum since she left; a severe illness after ten consecutive years of work in India has rendered it impossible for her to make much effort towards obtaining subscriptions during her stay in England. She hopes, however, that the Bombay government, which has always been both ready and generous, will supplement any money collected or granted, as it has done on former occasions.

In reference to Miss Prescott's appeal, Archdeacon Leigh Lye wrote as follows:—

"Owing to the large proportion of native and non-Christian children, the school cannot claim the benefits of Lord Canning's minute for the assistance of European and Eurasian schools. For the same reason the school is not in connection with the diocesan board which regulates its admission of natives by that minute. But Miss Prescott has done a noble and self-denying work in Bombay, and if the society can help her as she proposes, I hope the help may be given. The existence of the school must, under God's blessing, very much depend on her raising an endowment, otherwise the school must collapse with her removal; if the society's committee will vote her a grant, I shall be most thankful."

Sir Bartle Frere had written, very strongly recommending this case.

The committee gave notice that in July they would propose a grant of 500*l.* to meet 450*l.* for the endowment of the proposed orphanage.

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

SELECTIONS FROM PROCEEDINGS OF COMMITTEE.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, APRIL 4.—The Rev. J. M. West, the society's association secretary for the Midland district, having offered himself for the work in Palestine, and the secretaries having stated that they had lately brought before him the proposal of residence at Jerusalem with the office of secretary to the mission, the committee thankfully accepted Mr. West's offer, and appointed him to the Palestine mission to act as their secretary.

Letters were read from the Rev. W. Oakley and the Rev. J. I. Jones, dated Colombo, urging the importance of sending out to Ceylon a clergyman qualified to take the English services in the mission church of Colombo. The secretaries were directed to make inquiries whether any suitable clergyman could be found willing to undertake those duties in combination with other missionary work.

GENERAL COMMITTEE, APRIL 10.—Commander W. F. A. H. Russell (a retired officer of the R.N.) having offered himself for the post of lay superintendent of the East Africa mission, and letters having been read from referees bearing high testimony to his professional ability and consistent character, the committee appointed him lay superintendent of the society's East Africa mission.

The secretaries reported that the British and Foreign Bible Society had made a grant of fifty Arabic Bibles for the society's African missions.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE, APRIL 25.—The committee accepted the offer of the Rev. T. R. L. Hall, curate of Holy Trinity, Lee, for work in the Palestine mission, and appointed him to Jaffa.

The committee also accepted the offer of the Rev. J. A. Lloyd, curate of Dartford, for missionary work, his exact location being postponed.

Mr. James Robertson, on the recommendation of the Nyanza sub-committee, was accepted by the committee as a builder and agriculturist for the Nyanza mission.

Dr. John Smith, surgeon of the Cowgate dispensary, in connection with the Edinburgh medical mission, offered himself as medical officer of the Nyanza mission. A letter having been read from Dr. Lowe, of the Edinburgh medical mission, stating the high opinion entertained by himself and the directors of that mission, not only of his professional qualifications, but of his Christian character and devotedness, the committee thankfully accepted Dr. John Smith as the medical officer of the Nyanza mission.

The instructions of the committee were delivered by the hon. clerical secretary to the Rev. C. T. Wilson, Mr. T. O'Neill, Mr. A. M. Mackay, Dr. John Smith, and Mr. James Robertson, proceeding to the Nyanza mission, and Commander Russell, proceeding to Mombasa, which having been acknowledged by them, they were addressed by Mr. A. Beattie, and then commended in prayer to the favour and protection of Almighty God by the Rev. E. Lombe.

A letter was read from the Bishop of Madras, warmly advocating the appointment of a bishop for Travancore; and letters having also been read from the Revs. T. Whitehouse, J. G. Bentler, and H. Baker, all expressing themselves strongly in favour of a bishop for Travancore, the committee were of opinion that the time was come for taking the necessary steps for the appointment of an experienced European missionary as bishop, as a preparatory step to the ultimate appointment of native bishops for the native church in Travancore.

LONDON FREE AND OPEN CHURCH ASSOCIATION.

The ordinary monthly meeting of the executive council was held on Wednesday evening, May 3, at the rooms of the association, 25 Norfolk Street, Strand; Alfred Buckley, Esq., in the chair.

A letter was read from the Lord Bishop of Brechin, consenting to become a patron of the association. J. Hilditch Evans, Esq., of Bryn Issa, Pershore, was announced and approved as a vice-president.

The treasurer reported a balance at the bank in favour of the association of £168 19s. 10d. Bills amounting to £47 12s. 10d. were ordered to be paid.

It was reported that the arrangements for the association's anniversary were in progress, but were not yet definitely settled.

A letter was read from the Rev. Canon Gregory, dated April 12, promising to attend and speak at the annual meeting with reference to the proposed demolition of City churches.

It was decided to forward invitations to the councils or committees of the National Association for Freedom of Worship, Manchester; the Chester Diocesan Open Church Association, Liverpool; the Bradford Free and Open Church Society; and the Halifax Free and Open Church Society, to send representatives to attend the annual meeting.

Letters were read from Mr. F. S. Warren, 43 Kensington Square, W., dated April 5 and 15, and from the secretary of the National Association for Freedom of Worship, Manchester, dated April 27, enclosing copy of a resolution in reply to the council's resolution passed at the last meeting with reference to Mr. Warren.

The treasurer moved, and Dr. Langston seconded, the following resolution, which was carried unanimously:—

"That this council have had before them the resolution of the National Association for Freedom of Worship, Manchester, dated April 26, and, without admitting the accuracy of the statements therein contained, are of opinion that it would not be conducive to the interests of the cause to prolong the discussion."

The minutes of the general committee of April 28, recording several instances of successful Easter vestry meetings in various parts of the country, and other important matters showing the progress of the movement, were read and approved.

The ordinary monthly meeting for June of the executive council was held on Wednesday, 7th inst., at the rooms of the association, 25 Norfolk Street, Strand; Alfred Buckley, Esq. in the chair.

After the transaction of the usual routine business, Lord Edward S. Churchill was announced and approved as a new vice-president.

Mr. Alfred Buckley was re-elected chairman of the council for the ensuing year, and the several standing committees were appointed.

The following gentlemen were appointed local secretaries of the association for their respective neighbourhoods: Bromley, Kent, W. R. Mallett, Esq.; Lee, Kent, H. G. Millar, Esq.; Lewisham, Kent, H. C. Williams, Esq.; Sutton, Surrey, Rev. G. Crowther Smith; Withey, Oxon, Benjamin Hobbs, Esq.

A letter was read from the Lord Bishop of Chichester, consenting to preach the sermon at the anniversary service of the association, to be held at St. Paul's Cathedral, on Friday evening, the 23rd inst. The arrangements for the service were referred to the meetings committee.

It was reported that arrangements were in progress for a public meeting to be held at the Institute, Lower Norwood, on Wednesday evening, the 21st inst., when Earl Nelson would, if possible, preside.

A letter was read from the Rev. G. W. Hodge, corresponding secretary of the Free Church Society, Philadelphia, U.S.A., which stated that, although the society had only been in existence a few months, it had already secured the patronage of sixteen bishops of the American Episcopal Church. Mr. Hodge also enclosed specimens of the various publications already issued by the society, taken in some measure from the papers of the London association.

The secretary reported that a second and enlarged edition of the pamphlet of 'Statistics of Free Churches' was in the press, and would be shortly ready for publication.

CORPORATION OF THE SONS OF THE CLERGY.

The governors of this corporation meet at their house, 2 Bloomsbury Place, on Saturday, June 3, for the election of clergy widows and single daughters to life pensions. There were present Lord Chelmsford, vice-president, in the chair, Mr. Pownall, Archdeacon Jennings, and Mr. Alderman Finnis (the three treasurers), Earl of Powis, Hon. J. J. Carnegie, Revs. George Currey, D.D. (Master of the Charterhouse), John Evans, W. H. Lyall, and William Tennant, and Messrs. J. D. Allcroft, G. C. Capper, J. F. France, R. A. Gray, Lewis Loyd, Edmund Pepys, and W. Bayne Ranken. The applications of 173 widows and daughters having been carefully considered, 48 ladies, whose comparative merits and necessities presented the strongest claims, were elected to pensions of 20*l.* per annum to fill vacancies which had occurred in the past year in the pension list, and amongst 114 unsuccessful candidates the sum of 1125*l.* was distributed. Eleven ladies were passed without grants, their incomes being higher than the ordinary amount possessed by petitioners, and two ladies were declined for other reasons. Applications were also received in behalf of 27 children, and the sum of 355*l.* was awarded towards the expenses of their education and outfits. To a clergyman going to a foreign chaplaincy, with wife and 7 children, the sum of 40*l.* was given towards the outfit of the party. A statement of the estimated annual receipts and payments having been submitted by Mr. Baker, the registrar, the governors resolved in July next to raise the pensions of 50 ladies from 20*l.* to 30*l.* a year, selecting that number from the more aged necessitous and meritorious of the corporation pensioners, comprising 406 widows and 306 daughters. In June numerous petitions will be laid before the governors from clergymen in various parts of the country for aid in the support of themselves and families, and every month applications are considered for grants to children towards their education and start in life.

No papers will be set in Modern History, Languages, and Literature, as special subjects. No person will be eligible for the demysheps who will have attained the age of twenty years on October 10 next. The stipend of the demysheps is 95*l.* per annum, inclusive of all allowances; and they are tenable for five years, provided that the holder does not accept or retain any appointment which, in the judgment of the electors, will interfere with the completion of his university studies. Testimonials of good conduct will be required, and a certificate of birth, which must be presented to the president on Monday, June 26, between 4 and 6 or 8 and 9 P.M. The examination will commence on the following day. Particulars relating to the examinations in the various subjects may be obtained by applying to the senior tutor.

Any person elected after making such declaration will vacate his fellowship if not ordained within two years from the day of election. The fellow elected will be expected to reside, and, if required, to take part in college work. The examination will be (1) in the subjects recognised in the Classical Schools, (2) in the subjects of the Honour School of Modern History. Those candidates who do the latter papers will only be expected to do the essay out of the rarer set of papers. Candidates are requested to call on the president at 1 P.M. on Saturday, June 17, with three testimonials. The examination will commence on Thursday, June 22, at 9.30 A.M.

These applications should be made to the secretary of the delegacy, the Rev. S. Edwards, Merton College. The delegates, in fixing the day for the commencement of an examination, will consult, as far as possible, the convenience of the school, and, according to the circumstances of each case, will determine the number of days necessary for the completion of the examination. They will also consider any arrangements that may be suggested for the joint examination of neighboring schools. A copy of the report of the examiner will be sent by the delegates to the governing body and principal of the school. The fee for an examination not longer than two days will be 5*l.* for each day for the examiner; if the examination should occupy more than two days, a charge of 3*l.* will be made for each additional day; and if an additional examiner is required, per diem will be charged for his services. #### THE MATHEMATICAL TRIPOS.

The moderators and examiners for the Mathematical Tripos, 1876, have presented a report on the results of the examination to the Board of Mathematical Studies, from which it appears that 101 were examined, 30 were classed as Wranglers, 27 as Senior Optimes, and 31 as Junior Optimes, two obtained Agrotat degrees, and 11 were found to be not worthy of mathematical honours. From a table attached to the report, it appears that the full marks were 18,035, that the average obtained by the first nine Wranglers was 4891, by the last nine Wranglers 2850; by the first nine Senior Optimes 1738, by the first nine Junior Optimes 758. The examiners regret to say that very few of the candidates appear to confine their reading to two or three of the divisions, as was anticipated when the present regulations were drawn up, and, in the words of the additional examiner, Lord Rayleigh, feel strongly that something ought to be done to prevent men getting up a quantity of bookwork without a proper study of the subject.

Durham.

May 18.

At a convocation held this day the following propositions were brought forward:—

i. That persons who have completed the course of study and examination at any of the following theological colleges, viz. St. Aidan's, St. Bees, Lichfield, and Queen's College, Birmingham, be admissible as students in arts; and after residing three terms, and on passing the final examination, be admissible to the degree of B.A.

The warden advocated the measure at some length, as one which would place within the reach of men who were otherwise unable to attain it a sound university education. Canon Tristram and the Ven. Archdeacon Hamilton spoke in favour of the movement. The warden then put the motion, and it was carried unanimously.

ii. That the Fourah Bay College, Sierra Leone, in connection with the Church Missionary Society, be affiliated to the university upon the same conditions as Codrington College, Barbadoes.

In introducing this measure the warden called the attention of the house to the affiliation of the Codrington College, Barbadoes, and showed that they must not therefore hesitate to grant the same advantages to this a similar institution. Canon Tristram wished to express on behalf of the Church Missionary Society the thankfulness they felt towards the university for the proposal now before the house. He remarked that by taking this step the university would impel the generous merchants of the west coast of Africa to substantially endow the college at Fourah Bay; and that the university would thus closely link itself with the introduction of Christianity in Western Africa. The motion was then put by the warden and carried unanimously.

The regulations consequent upon these propositions were then sanctioned by the house, and other business having been transacted, the meeting was brought to a close.

The Barry (Theological) Prize Essay has been awarded to Mr. J. T. Kirby, Hatfield Hall.

Concoration.

THE two Houses of Convocation of the Province of Canterbury re-assembled on Tuesday, May 9, the Bishops in Queen Anne's Bounty Office, and the Lower House in the Jerusalem Chamber.

UPPER HOUSE.

The Archbishop of Canterbury presided, and the bishops present were:—London, Winchester, Lichfield, Gloucester and Bristol, Exeter, Bangor, Hereford, Chichester, Rochester, Oxford, Llandaff, St. Asaph, Bath and Wells, and Lincoln.

The BISHOP of WINCHESTER presented a petition from certain clergymen, praying their lordships to take measures to test the soundness of the agreement or scheme of concord arrived at by the Bonn Conference.

RESERVATION FOR THE SICK AND DYING.

The BISHOP of LONDON presented a memorial from Mr. Robert Bentley, a lay communicant of the Church of England, and a member of the Royal College of Surgeons, as the representative of the Guild of St. Luke the Physician and Evangelist, praying that the Sacrament might be reserved for clinical communion.

DAY OF INTERCESSION FOR MISSIONS.

The PRESIDENT stated that he had received a great many letters from various quarters, and among them one from the Archbishop of York, saying that the day fixed by Convocation as the most suitable for the intercession for missions was not generally acceptable.

The BISHOP of ROCHESTER thought it would be most desirable to have further conference on the subject.

The BISHOP of OXFORD said the committee charged with the subject had carefully considered it, and had come to the conclusion that, of all possible days, the one they had recommended was the least objectionable.

LETTERS OF COMMENDATION TO EMIGRANTS.

The PRESIDENT read a communication which he had received from the Bishop of Pittsburgh, to the following effect:—

That many persons from the mother country go and settle in the United States of America. They are members of the Church of England at home, and are quite anxious to remain members of the Episcopal Church in the United States; but that, as they pass from home without anything to call the attention of the Episcopal minister to them, they naturally drift into the various congregations which happen to be nearest to their places of residence, and their connection with the mother Church is probably lost.

Now, what was suggested by the Bishop of Pittsburgh, and approved by the other American and English bishops who met some years ago, was, that clergymen should be encouraged, when they heard of any of their people emigrating to America, to give them letters of commendation to the bishop or clergyman of the neighbourhood in which they were likely to establish themselves; and he believed that they went so far that occasion as to draw up a form for the purpose, though he feared it had never been issued.

The BISHOP of LICHFIELD could bear testimony from his own personal experience with regard to emigrants to New Zealand of the good effect which such a letter of commendation produced in the case of persons who had gone perhaps a hundred miles from any town into the "bush."

Their lordships adjourned until Wednesday, eleven o'clock.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 10.

The members of the Upper House re-assembled this morning; present his grace the Archbishop, in the chair, and the Bishops of Winchester, Gloucester and Bristol, Llandaff, Hereford, Chichester, Lincoln, Exeter, St. Asaph, Bath and Wells, Oxford, Salisbury, Rochester, Lichfield, Norwich, and Peterborough.

THE "FILIOQUE."

The BISHOP of LINCOLN said he had to present an important petition signed by several peers of parliament, very many distinguished commoners, 220 clergymen, and 600 lay members of the Church of England, praying that their lordships would give careful consideration to the Bonn propositions on the Filioque clause in the Nicene Creed, with a view to the removal of religious differences, and to the promotion of Christian charity and intercommunion with the Eastern Churches and the Old Catholics of Germany. The right rev. prelate expressed an earnest desire that the prayer of the petitioners should receive favourable consideration from their lordships. The concluding clause of the petition was in these words:—

"They pray your lordships to take such measures as to your wisdom may seem fit to test the soundness of the above propositions, and to promote further friendly relations and closer intercommunion with the orthodox churches of the East, that so, by the blessing of Almighty God, unity may be restored to the Church, charity may be enlarged, and truth be made manifest to the world."

THE DIACONATE.

The BISHOP of LINCOLN presented a petition on this important matter, which, he said, was before their lordships. It was from "Thomas Waugh Belcher, priest, Doctor in Divinity, vicar of St. Faith, Stoke Newington, in the diocese and archdeaconry of London." The Bishop of Lincoln added that he did not propose to trouble his grace and their lordships with a resolution to the effect that a committee should be appointed; but he respectfully submitted that the petition might very properly be referred to the committee now sitting under the presidency of the Bishop of London on the diaconate.

The BISHOP of HEREFORD seconded the motion with pleasure, and on being put from the chair it was agreed to.

The BISHOP of LINCOLN then presented a petition from the clergy of the deanery of Graffoe, diocese of Lincoln, in chapter assembled, praying for the reconsideration and amendment of the new code of canons agreed upon by the committee of the Convocations of Canterbury and York.

At this stage of the proceedings a message from the Lower House was announced, and the prolocutor, who was accompanied by a large number of members of the Lower House, placed in the hands of the president a petition from the rehdcaon of Salop, relating to a proposed thanksgiving service for the return of the Prince of Wales from India; also copies of the report of the Committee on the Intercommunion with the orthodox Eastern Churches.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The PRESIDENT read the minutes of the last session of Convocation on this subject.

The BISHOP of GLOUCESTER again proposed to amend the existing rubric by inserting after the words, "who die unbaptised or excommunicate," the words, "or have died in the commission of any grievous crime, or have been open and notorious evil-livers, of whose repentance no man is able to testify."

The BISHOP of LINCOLN submitted to the shop of Gloucester whether he had any objection to the resolution assuming something of this form:—

"That in such cases as he had specified, the officiating minister should not be subjected to any ecclesiastical penalties or censure for using such portions of the Burial Service as he might think fit, the minister being required to give an account of his proceedings to his ordinary within a day or a week of the performance of the service."

The BISHOP of GLOUCESTER and BRISTOL agreed that.

The BISHOP of PETERBOROUGH suggested the deletion of these words in the latter part of the shop of Gloucester's resolution—"or shall he been repelled from the Holy Communion in the approval of the ordinary, and shall not be openly declared himself to have repented and amended his former life."

The BISHOP of LLANDAFF proposed to insert the words, "in which the minister has reason to believe that public scandal would arise from its use," with an appeal to the ordinary.

The PRESIDENT then put the Bishop of Llandaff's amendment as follows:—

Or in case the minister has reason to believe that public scandal would arise from the use of provided always that there shall be an appeal to the ordinary."

It was rejected by 7 to 4.

The PRESIDENT then put the Bishop of Peterborough's amendment, which was rejected by 4.

he words proposed by the Bishop of Gloucester to be inserted, "or have died in the commission of any grievous crime," were then agreed by 9 to 4; but the words, "or have been open notorious evil-livers, to whose repentance no man is able to testify," were rejected by 6 to 5. It was also resolved that the rubric proposed by the Lower House be amended as follows:—

Further, it shall be lawful for the minister, at the request or with the consent of the kindred or friends of the deceased, to permit the corpse to be committed to the grave in the churchyard or chapelyard of the parish without either of the services."

The house was then prorogued till the following day.

THURSDAY, MAY 11.

The members of the Upper House reassembled on Thursday at two o'clock, his grace the archbishop in the chair; present the Bishops of Winchester, London, Gloucester and Bristol, Hereford, Hereford, Rochester, Llandaff, Bangor, Salisbury, Oxford, St. Asaph, Lincoln, Lichfield, Bath and Wells, and Peterborough.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The PROLOCUTOR, accompanied by his assessors of the Lower House, was announced, and stated that he had to communicate to his grace that the Lower House concurred in the addition proposed by their lordships to the first rubric of the Burial Service—namely, after the words, "unbaptised or excommunicate," to insert the words, "or have died in the commission of any grievous crime." It appeared to be only a small verbal alteration when read in connection with the other part of the rubric—"any who die unbaptised or excommunicate." The second resolution of their lordships, as to the order of placing the new rubrics in the Burial Office, the Lower House had not had time to discuss. The third amendment to the rubrics the Lower House agreed to with a slight alteration. As sent down by their lordships, it was as follows:—

"Further, it shall be lawful for the minister, at the request or with the consent of the kindred or friends of the deceased, to permit the corpse to be committed to the grave in the churchyard or chapelyard of the parish without either of these services."

In this the Lower House concurred, subject to this slight alteration: to substitute "any" for "either of these," so that the words would run, "to permit the corpse to be committed to the grave in the churchyard or chapelyard of the parish without any services." The Prolocutor further observed that he had been desired by the Lower House to ask his grace the president how it was proposed that such interments should be entered in the register, the last column of which was for the names of the clergymen by whom the ceremony was performed? What was to be done about that?

The PRESIDENT replied that the question had been already mooted in this house, and that the feeling of their lordships seemed to be this: that, as the registers existed in their present form by act of parliament, if a new system was in any way to be adopted, parliament, which had prescribed the present, would be perfectly able to prescribe the future register. That was the only answer he could give.

The Prolocutor then withdrew.

THE WORKING MEN'S PETITION.

The BISHOP of LONDON presented this petition.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The discussion on this subject was renewed.

After some remarks by the PRESIDENT,

The BISHOP of PETERBOROUGH moved that this house adhere to the form of the rubric which it sent down to the Lower House.

The BISHOP of WINCHESTER seconded the resolution, but deferred speaking on it that day.

The house was then prorogued until the following day.

FRIDAY, MAY 12.

Their lordships met at eleven o'clock. His grace the archbishop presided. There were also present the Bishops of London, Winchester, Gloucester and Bristol, Llandaff, Hereford, Rochester, Lichfield, Peterborough, Chichester, Oxford, Bangor, Salisbury, St. Asaph, Ely, and St. David's.

ADDRESS TO THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The PRESIDENT.—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales having now actually returned to this country, I think it our duty to express our thanks for the event in an appropriate address, and will read one which has been prepared for the purpose. It is couched in the following terms:—

"We the Archbishop and Bishops of the Province of Canterbury, now assembled in Convocation, desire to offer to your Royal Highness our respectful and hearty congratulation upon your safe and happy return. We trust that the visit of your Royal Highness to India may tend to join us in yet closer bonds of union with the great Eastern Empire of the Queen, to advance civilisation, and above all to extend the blessings of Christianity, the great source of the strength and prosperity of nations."

The BISHOP of LONDON moved the address.

The BISHOP of WINCHESTER seconded the proposition of the Bishop of London.

The address was then adopted nem. con., and sent down to the Lower House, requesting their concurrence.

CRIMINOUS OLESGY.

The BISHOP of BANGOR.—Your grace will remember that I presented a petition some time ago, signed by four-fifths of the clergy of the diocese of Bangor, praying that your grace and the bishops will take some steps towards facilitating proceedings in the case of criminal clergy. There were several distinct suggestions in the address, to which I need not allude, for I believe it is the general opinion that they could not be carried out, but I would propose "that in all cases of clerical immorality, or in contentious cases of faculty, the provincial judge shall try within the diocese the issues raised in such cases, with an appeal, if required, to the Privy Council."

The BISHOP of ELY moved that the proposition of the Bishop of Bangor be referred to a committee of this house, with instructions to consider further what, if any, amendments of the Clergy Discipline Act are desirable.

The BISHOP of BANGOR seconded the motion.

The motion was agreed to, and the following six bishops were appointed such committee:—Bishop of Ely, Bishop of Bangor, Bishop of London, Bishop of Oxford, Bishop of Winchester, and Bishop of Peterborough.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.—ADJOURNED DEBATE.

The BISHOP of WINCHESTER resumed the debate on this subject.

After some discussion, the resolution was put in the following form:—

"That this house adheres to the rubric sent down to the Lower House, namely—'Further, it shall be lawful for the minister, at the request or with the consent of the kindred or friends of the deceased, to permit the corpse to be committed to the grave in the churchyard or chapelyard of the parish without either of these services.'"

This was put to the show of hands, and carried by 10 against 5.

The BISHOP of PETERBOROUGH then moved to add the following words:—

"In such cases the incumbent may permit the use at the grave of such hymns as may be approved of by him."

This was also carried by 10 votes to 5. The minority consisted of the Bishops of Llandaff, Hereford, Rochester, Lichfield, and Chichester.

The BISHOP of GLOUCESTER and BRISTOL moved that the words, "when either of the two foregoing services is read," which had been added by the Lower House after the words, "hymns and anthems at the grave," be not accepted by this house.

The BISHOP of PETERBOROUGH seconded the motion, remarking that if those words were accepted, they would make his motion, to which their lordships had just agreed, meaningless.

The motion was put and carried by 7 votes against 2.

It was also resolved, on the motion of the BISHOP of GLOUCESTER and BRISTOL, that the house does not accept the amendment to the rubric made by the Lower House, that the abbreviated service is not to be used over any that are unbaptised.

PROPOSED CONVOCATION HOUSE.

The BISHOP of LICHFIELD moved:—

"That a joint committee of the two houses be appointed to consider the expediency of endeavouring to provide a Church house for the meeting of the two Houses of Convocation of the Province of Canterbury, and to communicate with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel and the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, and other Church societies who may be likely or are willing to combine for that purpose, and to report to Convocation in July."

The motion was agreed to.

The house was then prorogued till July 18.

LOWER HOUSE.

The house assembled in the Jerusalem Chamber. There was an unusually large attendance, and the new Dean of Chichester (Mr. Burgon), on his first appearance, was congratulated by the Prolocutor.

After the præconisation of members by the actuary, Mr. Francis Cobb, Canon MILLER gave the following notice of motion:—

"That his grace the president be respectfully requested to allow the appointment of a committee of this house to consider (provision being made on the one hand against the violation of the consciences of the clergymen, and on the other hand against any undue infringement upon the liberty of the Christian laity) the law of discipline in the Church of England in reference to the power of the clergy to repel from Holy Communion on the ground of false doctrine and immorality, and to report to this house whether any and, if any, what alteration in strict law be desirable for the better avoiding of the profanation of this Holy Sacrament and the scandal consequent thereon."

THE RUBRICAL REVISION.

Canon GREGORY said he proposed, if the forms of the house permitted, to move the following resolution with respect to the recent revision of the rubrics:—

"That their lordships of the Upper House be prayed to reconsider their decision to take no steps with respect to the rubrics until the courts of law have further decided upon them; and to take steps at once to carry out the suggestions of this house on them."

The PROLOCUTOR, however, ruled that such a notice could not be given.

THE WORKING MEN'S PETITION.

Canon GREGORY rose to present what he said was a very remarkable and in some respects peculiar petition. It was signed by 14,000 bona fide working men, 11,000 of whom were communicants.

The petition was received.

IN MEMORIAM.

The PROLOCUTOR: On the last occasion when we met it was my duty to mention to the house the great trial which had befallen the Dean of Westminster, and we expressed our deep sympathy with him. The house is well aware of what has taken place since we last met, and I am sure we shall not now be wanting in an expression of our feelings on this occasion. I have ventured to draw up an address to the Dean of Westminster, and if members approve of it and will sign it, I shall have great pleasure in conveying that expression of our sympathy to the dean.

The following is a copy of the address of condolence, which was signed by all the members present:—

"To the Very Rev. A. P. Stanley, D.D., Dean of Westminster.

"We, the undersigned members of the Lower House of Convocation of Canterbury, desire to assure you how sincerely and deeply we feel for you in your present sorrow.

"We trust that you have already derived some consolation from the expressions on every side which your bereavement has elicited of sympathy with you in your own great loss, and of respect for that dear person who for a time has been taken from you, and who has left behind her so noble an example of Christian excellence.

"May it please God that as time rolls on you may be cheered more and more by the pleasant memories which gather around her name, and by the sacred hope of the glad reunion in the great day."

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The PROLOCUTOR explained the position of the question now to be discussed. They had agreed to a certain alternative form of service at burials at the request of the friends and relatives. They had also agreed to admit burials without any service at all; and they were now met by a resolution from the Upper House as follows:—

"Nevertheless, it shall not be unlawful in the case of any that die unbaptised, or whensoever the kindred or friends of the deceased desire it, for the minister to read a service to be approved of by the ordinary, taken from the Holy Scriptures and the Book of Common Prayer."

The question before the house, therefore, was the message from their lordships; besides which Lord A. Compton, at the last session, gave notice that he should move the following reply to the Upper House:—

"1. That in the judgment of this house it is not advisable to provide for the burial of unbaptised persons by any rubric in the Book of Common Prayer.

"2. That this house ventures to remind his grace the president, and their lordships of the Upper House, that, if in any case the incumbent of the parish and the ordinary think it advisable upon such occasions to provide a service of consolation and instruction for the friends of the deceased, such a service, taken from Holy Scripture and from the Book of Common Prayer, can be used in the church immediately after the interment, under the provisions of the Act of Uniformity Amendment Act (1872), sect. 3.

"3. That this house dissents from the new rubric passed by the Upper House."

Lord A. COMPTON said that he proposed to take his resolutions seriatim, and therefore now only proposed the first, which he thought hardly any one would object to.

Archdeacon GRANT seconded the motion. Prebendary PERRY suggested the following addition to the resolution of Lord Alwyne Compton:—

"Save in the following cases—viz. when baptism is lacking in any through misadventure, but having been desired and sought for, in which case the service now provided for burial may be used."

Canon CLEMENTS moved the following amendment:—

"That the shortened form of burial service already provided by this house be permitted to be used in the case of those dying unbaptised from misadventure when baptism has been desired and sought for."

Bishop PIERS CLAUGHTON seconded this, upon the understanding that it embraced the cases of children of Christian parents who distinctly desired the administration of baptism.

The house divided, and the amendment was put and rejected by 39 to 24. Lord Alwyne Compton's resolution was then put and carried by 40 to 17.

Prebendary Perry's proposed rider was rejected by 34 to 21.

Bishop PIERS CLAUGHTON pronounced the Benediction, and the house adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 10.

The Lower House reassembled this morning in the Jerusalem Chamber.

THE LATE LADY AUGUSTA STANLEY.

The PROLOCUTOR said—It will, I am sure, gratify the house if I read the answer from the Dean of Westminster to the address presented yesterday:—

"Deanery, Westminster, May 9, 1876.

"My dear Prolocutor,—Accept for yourself and for those kind friends in the Lower House of Convocation who have signed the touching address that I have just received my heartfelt thanks.

"You and they know well, and appreciate truly, the grace and the joy which have now this house for ever, but which will, I trust, for ever be associated with it in the memory the last twelve years.

"That such a light may not have shone in it in vain is my humble hope and consolation.

"Once more thanking you, one and all, for generous and kindly feeling which I have experienced at your hands, and of which expression of sympathy is but the crowning example, I remain, yours very faithfully,

"A. P. STANLEY

CHURCH OF ENGLAND PENITENTIARY SOCIETY.

Prebendary MILES having presented a petition from the Church Penitentiary Society, signed Mr. Hubbard, its chairman, and others, now in consideration of its prayer, the following resolution:—

"That his grace the president be requested direct the appointment of a committee to inquire generally into the condition of fallen women with a view to their recovery, and further consider the causes, prevalence, and remedies the sin of prostitution, which is said to be on the increase in the metropolis."

The BISHOP of GUILDFORD seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

PROSECUTION OF CRIMINOUS CLERGS.

Canon GREGORY presented a gravamen, signed by himself and seventy other members:—

"Reformandum.—That his grace the president will be pleased to take immediate steps in making provision for the easier and more effectual prosecution of clerks in holy orders who are guilty of adultery, perjury, or other foul sins, and the scandalous neglect of their spiritual duties."

REPELLING FROM THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Canon MILLER moved, and Canon GREGORY seconded, and it was carried unanimously without discussion, that the following be taken to the Upper House as an articulus cleri:—

"That his grace the president be respectfully requested to allow the appointment of a committee of this house to consider the law of discipline in the Church of England in reference to the power of the clergy to repel from holy communion, on the ground of false doctrine and immorality; and to report to this house whether any and, if any, what alteration in that law be desirable for the better avoiding of the profanation of this Holy Sacrament, and the scandal consequent thereon: provision being made on the one hand against the violation of the conscience of the clergyman, and on the other hand against any undue infringement upon the liberty of the Christian laity."

PROPOSED REMOVAL FROM THE JERUSALEM CHAMBER.

Archdeacon CHAPMAN presented the following gravamen:—

"The Lower House respectfully represents that, although the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury is summoned, together with the Houses of Parliament, by royal writ, and is at this time entrusted by the Queen's letters of business with the discussion of matters of the greatest importance to this Church and realm, there is yet no fitting place of assembly provided for Convocation; that the two parts of Convocation are in their sittings at present divided by a considerable distance, whereby great inconvenience arises in the transaction of business, and the Lower House is moved continually from one room to another. The Lower House humbly requests his grace the president and their lordships the bishops to give this matter their consideration, and to take such steps as may seem fitting to them to secure more suitable accommodation for the House of Convocation."

On the motion that the gravamen be made an articulus cleri,

The PROLOCUTOR said—I should like to say a few words on this subject. Notwithstanding the extreme kindness and courtesy of the Dean of Westminster, and his efforts to make arrangements for the convenience of the house, it is obvious, if you look around this crowded chamber, that we are not accommodated as the Lower House of the Provincial Synod of Canterbury ought to be accommodated. I have felt that for some years past, and I should be glad if something could be done to provide a Convocation house more worthy of the Church of England. It appears to me that at this particular crisis there is a favourable opportunity for entering into communication with some of the great societies connected with the Church. The house is probably aware that the Christian Knowledge Society is contemplating removal from Lincoln's Inn Fields to a more eligible situation; and I understand that the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel is likely to be unshipped, in consequence of the government requiring the space of ground on which their present house stands. So that these two great societies will have to look out for accommodation elsewhere, and it has occurred to myself, and to others, that it would be a very desirable thing if the Church would take up this question, both clergy and laity, and unite together to provide a suitable Convocation house, with rooms and offices for some of our great societies grouped around it. A motion like that of the Archdeacon of Sudbury might contribute greatly to such a result.

The motion was then unanimously carried.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION ACT, 1871.

Canon HOPKINS presented a gravamen which concluded as follows:—

"The undersigned therefore humbly prays that his grace the president and their lordships of the Upper House, either in conjunction with the Lower House or of their own proper motion, will be pleased to take such steps as to their lordships may seem most fitting to procure an humble address to her most gracious Majesty the Queen, saying that, in the interests of sound training and religious education, a royal commission may be issued to inquire fully into all particulars of the working of the Education Acts of 1870 and 1873, and to report thereon to her Majesty as she may be graciously pleased to direct."

The motion was carried unanimously.

THE LAW OF ECCLESIASTICAL DILAPIDATIONS.

Canon DAVID WILLIAMS moved:—

"That the report of the committee on ecclesiastical dilapidations and the resolutions appended to that report be now considered."

A select committee of the House of Commons as now dealing with this subject, and it was proposed to send copies of this report to them. It was necessary, therefore, to see how far the commendations of amendments suggested in that report were accepted by the Lower House in Convocation.

Canon MILLER seconded the motion, which was carried by 18 to 15.

Treasurer GIBBS, chairman of the committee, then proposed the recommendations of amendments, and the discussion proceeded as far as the third clause.

The PROLOCUTOR pronounced the Benediction, and the house adjourned.

THURSDAY, MAY 11.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The PROLOCUTOR said that the house was requested by his grace the president to take into consideration the resolutions come to by their lordships on the Burial Rubrics. The resolutions are as follows:—

1. That the following words be added to the rubric of the Burial Service, after the words, 'unbaptised or excommunicate,' viz. 'or have died in the commission of any grievous crime.'
2. That the rubrics on the Burial Office as now approved by this house be placed in the order in which they have been placed by the Lower House.
3. That the rubric proposed by the Lower

House be amended as follows:—'Further, it shall be lawful for the minister, at the request or with the consent of the kindred or friends of the deceased, to permit the corpse to be committed to the grave in the churchyard or chapelyard of the parish without either of these services.'

Archdeacon MOORE moved, and Archdeacon ALLEN seconded:—"That this house concurs in the first of the resolutions."

After some discussion the motion for concurrence was agreed to.

The PROLOCUTOR then read the following resolution of the Upper House:—

"That the rubric proposed by the Lower House be amended as follows:—'Further, it shall be lawful for the minister, at the request or with the consent of the kindred or friends of the deceased, to permit the corpse to be committed to the grave in the churchyard or chapelyard of the parish without either of these services.'

Upon a show of hands, 21 were in favour of the resolution, and 25 against. The house then divided, and the resolution was lost by 31 to 20.

Bishop PIERS CLAUGHTON pronounced the Benediction, and the house arose.

FRIDAY, MAY 12.

ANCIENT BURIAL RIGHTS.

The Rev. C. R. KNIGHT moved:—

"That his grace the president be requested to direct the appointment of a committee of this house to inquire into and report upon the ancient rites and ceremonies appertaining to the Christian burial of the dead, and the discipline attached to the use of them."

Dr. FRASER seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

CLERICAL INSURANCE.

Canon D. WILLIAMS said that the discussion on the report of the committee on dilapidations had already borne fruit. The house, it would be recollected, passed a resolution that the clergy should form themselves into a society, under the management of Queen Anne's Bounty Office, for their own insurances against fire; and he had now received a communication from the governors of Queen Anne's Bounty, stating that they were prepared to take the matter up, and to insure buildings on the glebes or endowments of the clergy, at 1s. per cent., instead of 1s. 6d., the usual charge. They were also prepared to defray all the expenses of finding the value of the property out of the profits of the office. (Cheers.)

RECLAMATION OF FALLEN WOMEN.

The following were appointed the committee to consider and report upon the condition of fallen women:—Prebendary Miles (chairman), the Dean of Chichester, Archdeacons Ady, Bathurst, Fearon, Bishop P. Claughton, Hessey, Ffoulkes, Thicknesse, and Purey-Cust, Canons Hopkins, Gregory, Butler, Sapte, Puckle, Miller, and Yard, Prebendaries Campion, Edwards, Gibbs, and Ainslie.

PUNCTUATION OF THE PRAYER-BOOK.

Canon JEFFREYS presented an interesting and exhaustive report from the committee appointed to revise the punctuation and printing of the Book of Common Prayer.

CONGRATULATORY ADDRESS TO THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The PROLOCUTOR communicated a message from the Upper House, requesting the Lower House to join in a congratulatory address to the Prince of Wales. (See report of Upper House.)

On the motion of the DEAN OF WORCESTER, seconded by the BISHOP of NOTTINGHAM, this was agreed to by acclamation.

THE BURIAL SERVICE.

The debate was resumed by Canon BIRKETT, who moved (for Canon Hopkins) that the first rubric stand as follows:—

"Here it is to be noted that neither the office ensuing nor the shortened office hereinafter provided is to be used for any that die unbaptised, or excommunicate, or in the commission of any grievous crime, or, having laid violent hands upon themselves, have not been found to have been of unsound mind."

Archdeacon FEARON seconded the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

SUMMARY.

The following is the result of the deliberations of the Lower House during this group of sessions with reference to the rubrics of the Burial Office:—

The Case of the Unbaptised.

"That in the judgment of this house it is not advisable to provide for the burial of unbaptised persons by any rubric in the Book of Common Prayer."

The First Rubric.

"That the first rubric of the Office for the Burial of the Dead shall stand as follows:—'Here it is to be noted that neither the office ensuing nor the shortened office hereinafter provided is to be used for any that die unbaptised, or excommunicate, or in the commission of any grievous crime, or, having laid violent hands upon themselves, have not been found to have been of unsound mind.'"

Hymns and Anthems.—Rubric at the End of the Two Offices.

"It shall be lawful for the minister, at his discretion, to allow the use of hymns and anthems in the church or at the grave, whenever the two foregoing services be used."

A Silent Service.

"Further, it shall be lawful for the minister, at the request or with the consent in writing of the kindred or friends of the deceased, to permit the corpse to be committed to the grave in the churchyard or chapelyard of the parish without any service, hymn, anthem, or address of any kind."

Burial at Sea.

"That the rubric at the end of the Form of Prayer to be used at Sea and the words following be inserted at the end of the Order for the Burial of the Dead."

It will be seen by a reference to the proceedings of the Upper House that their lordships have not accepted the above proposals.

ECCLESIASTICAL DILAPIDATIONS.

The house then considered the remaining recommendations of the committee on the Ecclesiastical Dilapidations Act, 1871.

The BISHOP of NOTTINGHAM then pronounced the Benediction, and the house was prorogued to July 18 next.

EXEMPTION OF CURATES' STIPENDS FROM INCOME TAX.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

Tinckleton, Dorchester.

SIR,—In the April number of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE two inquiries were made respecting the exemption of curates' stipends from income tax. As no answer has been made to those inquiries, may I be permitted to supply the information asked for, and at the same time to acknowledge my obligation to your correspondent "D. G.," who, in November last, called the notice of your curate readers to this non-liability. In consequence of that letter I procured the act, and soon afterwards gave notice of appeal against the assessment made on me, finding that my stipend as curate was included in it.

The commissioners, on my appearing before them, at once allowed the exemption, which is grounded on 5 and 6 Vict. cap. 35, sched. D, sect. cii. which I subjoin.

It will be observed that this clause does not establish the absolute non-liability of the curate's stipend to income tax, but only permits the incumbent to deduct the tax from his stipend. Whether the incumbent avails himself or not of this power, the curate is free from the impost upon his stipend as regards the tax collector.

As a matter of fact, every incumbent contracts himself out of the power conferred by this clause, of making the deduction upon the stipend of a licensed curate, since he covenants to pay the sum named in the license, "without any deduction or reservation whatsoever." I may add that on the exemption being established, I applied to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, Somerset House, for repayment of income tax for the last nine years, but I was courteously informed that "by the Act 23 Vict. cap. 14, sect. 10, no claim for repayment of income tax shall be allowed unless it shall be made within three years next after the end of the year of assessment to which the claim shall relate." Repayment for three years has accordingly been made to me.—I am, &c.

O. KLANBOROWSKI.

5 and 6 Vict. Cap. 35, Sched. D, Sect. CII.

"Be it enacted that upon all annuities, yearly interest of money, or other annual payments, either as a charge on any property of the person paying the same by virtue of any deed or will or otherwise, or as a reservation thereof, or as a personal debt or obligation by virtue of any contract, there shall be charged for every twenty shillings of the annual amount thereof the sum of 7d.; provided that in every case where the same shall be payable out of profits or gains brought into charge by virtue of this act no assessment shall be made upon the person entitled to such annuity, interest, or other annual payment, but the whole of such profits or gains shall be charged with duty on the person liable to such annual payment, and the person so liable to make such annual payment shall be authorised to deduct out of such annual payment at the rate of 7d. for every twenty shillings of the amount thereof, and the person to whom such payment liable to deduction is to be made shall allow such deduction upon the receipt of the residue of such money, and the person charged as to the said duties having made such deduction shall be acquitted and discharged of so much money as such deduction shall amount unto, as if the amount thereof had actually been paid unto the person to whom such payment shall have been due and payable."

NEW ECCLESIASTICAL DISTRICTS.

To the Editor of THE ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

May 15, 1876.

SIR,—I should be obliged by answers to the following questions:—

(1) When an ecclesiastical district is formed out of a large parish, do the residents in that district forfeit all legal claim to their pews in the mother church?

(2) Is it legal to publish the banns of those residing in such district in the mother church, and not in the district church?—Yours, &c.
